TO PREVENT THE SPITTING HABIT

Railway Commission Issues Rigid Rules for Cleanliness in Cars and Stations

Ottawa, May 10—An important order having as its primary object the prevention of the spread of tuberculosis by spitting in railway stations and cars was issued today by the Railway Commission. The application was made by the Montreal Board of Trade, and argument on it was heard some time ago. The commission orders every railway company;

1 To keep all its passenger stations, waiting rooms, closets, etc. well ventilated and regularly disinfected, and have monthly reports from employes in charge of such work as to the state of these rooms.

2 To keep all its passenger cars clean, ventilated and in cold weather properly heated and to have at least one employee on every train, whose duty it will be to see that this is done.

3 To adopt a bylaw prohibiting spitting in stations, waiting rooms, closets or other premises of the company or on the platforms of cars, except in receptacles suitable for the purpose and providing a penalty for breach, such notices in Quebec to be in French as well as English.

4 To provide cuspidors in stations and in the smoking compartment of passenger cars, and to have them cleaned at least every 48 hours.

5 To fumigate promptly all cars known or suspected to have carried a passenger suffering from an infectious disease.

6 To fumigate all sleeping cars, regularly in service at least once in every thirty days. A penalty not exceeding $50 is provided for every infraction of the rules by the company, while every employee whose duty it is to carry out the order shall be liable to a penalty of not less than $2 nor more than $50 for every failure to do so.

CONGREGATION HELD A RALLY

Enjoyable Time Spent at St. Andrew's Church — A Three-fold Anniversary

A three-fold anniversary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church was celebrated last night by a very successful entertainment and congregational rally. The event marked the 74th mile post since the organization of the church; the 28th anniversary of the dedication of the present church building and the 20th anniversary of the ordination of Rev J G Potter, the pastor, to the ministry of the Presbyterian church of Canada. There was a large attendance and the evening was most enjoyable.

The feature of the programme was the lecture on "A trip to the East" and the lands of the Bible," by Rev. Mr. McGillivray of Bonar Presbyterian church, Toronto. The talk was illustrated by beautiful views and the lantern was very efficiently managed by Mr. H O Fiske.

During the lecture Mr. Jas Browne sang a solo, "I think when I read the sweet story of old."

The orchestra of the George street Methodist Sunday School rendered several selections. The chair was taken by Dr McKinnon. Mr. Gordon Wright sang, and Mrs McClelland presided at the piano. Rev. Mr Keith conveyed the greetings of Knox church to St Andrew's.

Mr. Wm Campbell very ably moved a vote of thanks to the speaker of the evening and it was carried unanimously.

Rev. J. G Potter also spoke a few words and then the YPSCE served light refreshments.

The evening was brought to a close by singing Auld Lang Syne, God Save the King and the Doxology.

HAD MISSIONARY NIGHT AT KNOX

Interesting Paper on Life William Carey Was Read by Mrs. MacPherson

Knox church Young People's Society had a "Missionary night," last evening. Miss M Menzies occupied the chair. After the devotional exercises Mrs. MacPherson gave an interesting paper on the life of Wm Carey, who was the first English missionary to go to India and encounter the difficulties and opposition that had to be contended against. The paper was enjoyed by all who heard it. Next Monday Mr A McKenzie will address the society.

REV. A. GEGGIE RECEIVES CALL

To St. Andrew's Church, Winnipeg—Lectured in Peterboro' Few Weeks Ago

The Toronto Star says;

Rev A. Logan Geggie, for ten years the popular minister at Parkdale Presbyterian church will shortly receive a call from St Andrew's Presbyterian church, Winnipeg. The intimation that the Winnipeg Presbyterians were about to invite Mr Geggie to come West mentioned in a despatch received at the Star office today

"I have not heard of it officially," said Mr Geggie, when shown the despatch, but he admitted that the matter had been mentioned to him informally.

"And I have not, of course, considered it. Any consideration that would cause me to consider a change would lie in Winnipeg, not in Toronto. I suppose that Winnipeg does present opportunities—" said he, but he hesitated. "However I repeat, the matter has not been considered yet."

Mr. Geggie is a graduate of Edinburgh university. Before coming to Toronto he spent twelve years in the ministry at Truro, NS. He is a lecturer of considerable fame, and has been much in demand with other denominations for pulpit change work. His salary at Parkdale is $3250 without manse.

GAVE TALK AT EPWORTH LEAGUE

Mr. F. R. Hassard of Y. M. C. A. Addressed the Young People at George St. Church Last Night

At the regular meeting of the Epworth League of George street church last evening, Mr F R. Hassard, secretary of the YMCA, gave a talk on the scripture reading for the night which was part of the sermon on the Mount. He first mentioned the great movement which had begun by some recently, that of living as Jesus would were He on the earth today. The life of Dr. Grenfell, he thought was as near in likeness to that of Jesus as was possible and was a living example for everybody.

The speaker spoke about the great amount of pleasure which the young people of today participated in, while they could be spending their time in doing noble things, which is by far a better aim in life. Pleasures and recreation were both necessary to us, but we should not spend all our time in looking after the things of the body. Jesus had said he would supply all necessary things and if everyone was the Christian he or she should be, earthly things would not receive very great consideration as far as pleasures, clothes and wealth were concerned. Then there was another very important thing which was neglected. Do we speak to those with whom we come in contact during the day about their manner of living. If we did not a great opportunity and joy was lost. The speaker concluded by asking his listeners to make a bigger endeavor to take advantage of them in regard to this great question the opportunities which were before them of individual work.

Arrangements Being Made for Sale of Work at "Margaret Cox Home for Girls"

"Ups and Downs," the official organ of Dr. Barnardo's Canadian Homes, has the following in the May issue—

It has been decided to hold a sale of work in the Home Grounds, Peterborough, some time next September, the proceeds of which are to go towards the purchase of a new organ for our school room. We shall be glad to receive any contributions of plain needlework or fancy work, such as cushions, tray cloths, doylies, centrepieces, canes, holders, fancy aprons, children's pinafores or any fancy novelty. Some of the girls have kindly offered to knit so many yards of lace, and the Sewing Club have already given in several beautiful pieces of work. Perhaps some of the boys would also help us, as there are among their number several clever wood-carvers.

All contributions must be sent to "The Margaret Cox Home for Girls" and will be acknowledged in Ups and Downs.

Young Married Man in Police Court This Morning Charged With Being Drunk and Disorderly Yesterday

John McDonald was arrested by P. C. Newhall yesterday and appeared before Magistrate Dumble on a charge of being drunk and disorderly in a public place. He pleaded guilty and was fined $2 and costs to be paid in 15 days and in default of payment 15 days in jail.

P. C. Newhall gave sufficient evidence to justify the accused being placed on the black list and the Magistrate will give the order for this to be done.

A young man was fined $2.00 and costs amounting in all to $4.35 at the police court this morning for being drunk and disorderly yesterday.

'FRISCO MAN HERE ON VISIT

Mr. Frank Kapelle Guest of Mr J. W. Howson, Gilmour St.

Mr. Frank Kapelle, of San Francisco is the guest of Mr J W Howson, Gilmour street. Mr Kapelle arrived in the city last night from Bridgeport Conn, where he has been spending a few weeks after staying most of the winter in New York City.

He left San Francisco shortly before the earthquake and has not returned to that city since although his home is there. He intends to go direct from here to San Francisco however.

REAL ESTATE MARKET HERE REPORTED ACTIVE

All over the city houses are being improved. On every street new balconies and verandas are being constructed, the wood work on houses painted, fences and lawns repaired, and in other ways properties beautified. The new tenants generally want some changes or improvements, and these wishes take concrete form each year early in May. The outlook of the real estate market is good, and the many new buildings help the situation very much. This is an excellent year for building. As a rule building material, including brick, is a little lower than the last few years, and labor in most lines is also a shade less costly than has been the case for some time past.

BIRTHDAY OF MR. G. H. WILLIAMSON

General Secretary of Fort William Y.M.C.A. Was the Guest of Honor

The Fort William Times-Journal says:—Tuesday evening being the fourth of May, which is the birthday of the general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. a little dinner was done justice to in the club room of the Y.M.C.A. building. In this room each week a Bible class is conducted and it was decided to celebrate the birthday of Mr. G. H. Williamson in a fitting manner. With this end in view the members got together and a most elaborate spread was laid out much to the surprise of the guest. A big birthday cake adorned the centre of the table and decorated with small candles it looked quite natty.

Doctor Withrow was the speaker for the evening and delighted his hearers with his remarks, which were not only inspiring but of an educational kind. His subject was a deep one and well handled, being "Divine Healing."

Every user of "Salada" Tea is absolutely guaranteed tea of the finest quality, purity and flavor. The company's well-known lead packets can be purchased at any grocer's.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL DAMAGES

Mr. R L Borden. —Before the orders of the day are called I would like to mention to my hon. friend the acting Minister of Public Works;—

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux — Pardon me. I am not acting Minister of Public Works. I simply answered a question in the absence from the Chamber of the Minister of that department.

Mr. R L Borden— Then, pardon my misapprehension. I would like to ask the government to lay upon the table of the House, before the end of the session a statement of the payments for damages in connection with the Trent Valley Canal from and including the city of Peterborough to the county of Victoria; I am referring only to those within the county of Peterborough. I wish to have the names of the persons, the date, the amounts paid and the purpose for which paid. There ought to be no difficulty about giving me this information before the end of the session.

PERSONAL

SPORTING NEWS

TRIALS FOR Y.M.C.A. RELAY WILL BE HELD AT OVAL

On Thursday, May 20th, the trial race for school boys for the YMCA relay race will be held at Nicholls' Oval at 2.30 in the afternoon. The trial race for Business boys will be held on Monday, May 24th at 9.30 in the morning.

On May 29th the relay race will be held over the Examiner road race course.

There will be ten men taking part in the race which will start from Lakefield at 2.30 in the afternoon. Each men will run a mile when another runner will take up the race. An attempt will be made to lower the course record for the distance.

SIMPSON SAYS THE OPENING CLIP WAS A TERRIFIC ONE

Fred Simpson, who made such a good showing in the last Derby, was in the city today, accompanied by Mrs Simpson. He and his wife left this afternoon for Hiawatha.

Fred has little to say about his race in New York except that he did the best he could against the formidable field.

The Peterborough Indian says the pace at the commencement of Saturday's race was terrific. He set out with the intention of staying with the leader but the going was terrific and Simpson knew it would mean his undoing if he tried to stay with it so he ran his own race at his speed limit and as the result shows, made a satisfactory showing.

BALL TOSSER'S CORNER

WHEN BASERUNNERS ARE OUT.

Rule 56—The baserunner is out:

Sec. 1—If, after three strikes have been declared against him while the batsman, the third strike ball be not legally caught and he plainly attempts to hinder the catcher from fielding the ball.

Sec. 2—If, having made a fair hit while batsman, such fair hit ball be momentarily held by a fielder before touching the ground, or any object other than the fielder. Provided it be not caught in a fielder's cap, protector, pocket or other part of his uniform.

Sec. 3—If when the umpire has declared "three strikes" on him while batsman, the third strike ball be momentarily held by a fielder before touching the ground. Provided it be not caught in a fielder's cap, protector, pocket or other part of his uniform, or touch some object other than the fielder before being caught.

No games were played in the Eastern League yesterday on account of rain. Jersey City comes to Toronto to-day for a series of three games.

There is a report in baseball circles that the East City aggregation is no more. Some of the players have been asked to perform with other teams, and this has been fatal to the team across the pond.

St. Peter's school team are playing the nine from King Edward school at Boswell's field this afternoon.

Rochester leads the Eastern League with a good team. It is eight years since the Bronchos won the penant and they hardly know what to think of the present situation.

Dr. White, for the White Sox, with his team mates helping some, defeated Washington with Johnson twirling in an eleven innings game yesterday by 1—0.

Waddell lost to Philadelphia yesterday 1—5. St. Louis had three errors, and did not give him very good support with the bat.

Brooklyn again batted Covaleski out of the box yesterday, and won from Philadelphia 4—2.

Bugs Raymond won his game against Boston yesterday. Bowerman's men could not connect when hits meant runs.

BOXING

KELLY—DALY

The bout between Tommy Daly and Jimmy Kelly which takes place at the Brock street rink tomorrow night promises to draw a very large audience. The boxing game has taken well with the local fans as was shown by their appreciation of the two fast go's which were held at the roller rink a short time ago.

Kelly and Daly will come together for ten rounds and will undoubtedly furnish a much better mill than the bout between Burns and Kelly as both are clever and scientific men and have science and ability to hit.

Two boxing preliminaries between local men will be pulled off.

TWO MAGISTRATES TEST ZAM-BUK

Cure Effected in Both Cases

Mr. F. Rasmussen, of 211 Marquette street, Montreal who is a Justice of the Peace, and a man not inclined to give praise except where it is well due, says: "For many years I was troubled with a serious eruption of the skin. This was not only unsightly, but very painful. I first tried various household remedies, but as these proved altogether useless I took medical advice. Not one, but several doctors in turn were consulted but I was unable to get any permanent relief. Some time back I determined to give Zam-Buk a trial and after a thorough fair test I can say I am delighted with it. I have the best reasons for this conclusion; because while everything I tried failed absolutely to relieve my pain and rid me of my trouble, three boxes of Zam-Buk have worked a complete cure. In my opinion this balm should be even more widely known than it is."

Mr. C. E. Sanford, JP, of Weston, Kings county, NS, says: "I had a patch of eczema on my ankle, which had been there for over twenty years. Sometimes, also, the disease would break out in my shoulders. I had taken solution of arsenic, had applied various ointments and tried all sorts of things to obtain a cure but in vain. Zam-Buk on the contrary proved highly satisfactory and cured the ailment.

"I have also used Zam-Buk for itching piles, and it has cured them completely. I take comfort in helping my brother men and if the publication of my opinion of the healing value of Zam-Buk will lead other sufferers to try it I should be glad. For the relief of suffering caused by piles or skin diseases, it is without equal."

For eczema, eruptions, ulcers, piles blood poisoning, varicose ulcers, children's sore heads, ringworm, salt rheum, cuts, scratches, burns, bruises and all skin injuries, Zam-Buk is a perfect cure. All druggists and stores sell at 50c a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co. Toronto, for price. Three boxes for $1.25.

CIVIL SERVANTS' LEADER.

John Lambert Payne Has Played Many Parts In His Time.

The man prominent in the recent organization of civil servants at Ottawa and led the fight against the usurers—in fact, the head and shoulders of the whole movement is John Lambert Payne, comptroller of railway statistics—the man who compiles all those interesting tables which fill the supplement to the report of the Railway Department.

In the course of his life—and he is a long way yet from being over the hill — Mr. Payne has played many parts, even more than Shakespeare laid out for man. Beginning life as a druggist in London, Ont., he dropped into journalism, and for a number of years was a member of The Empire's Parliamentary staff. The late Louis Kribbs was editor, and headed by himself it was a strong contingent the brilliant but short-lived Conservative organ used to send down to Ottawa.

Mr. Payne was one of the noted entertainers of the Press Gallery. He could sing either songs or hymns, tell stories, make speeches and help a fellow scribe when in a "hole" with his work.

But his country called him and away from the busy haunts of the newspaper men went Mr. Payne. He was secretary to Sir John Carling; to Sir Mackenzie Bowell, and accompanied him on his trip to Australia; to Sir Charles Tupper during his brief Premiership; to Mr. Blair, and to Mr. Emmerson, when they were Ministers of Railways and Canals; and then, after having served so many masters from both political camps, he was made Comptroller of Railway Statistics. There Mr. Payne is today, with a little leisure, which he is now devoting to the interests of his fellow civil servants not so able as he is in the matter of taking care of their own personal affairs.

Mr. Payne is a man of such varied attainments, possessing such unexpected funds of information, so resourceful and versatile, that one can readily believe that he would have blossomed into a genius had he not joined the civil service; but the role of a genius is sometimes precarious, while a position in the service is always secure. And he is the kind of a man the service needs, and the members of the service will find him a stout champion in their battle with the usurers.

Canada's Bison Herds.

Mr. Howard Douglas, Commissioner of Dominion Parks, who knows as much about buffaloes as any man in Canada, states there are now in the world about 2,000 bison, or buffaloes, as the animals are commonly called. Of this total the Canadian Government own 1,200, which are distributed among the great western parks, where they are living in comfort and increasing at a normal rate.

It will be remembered that last spring 340 buffaloes were bought from the Pablo ranch in Montana and removed to Elk Island Park, near Lamont, about 40 miles east of Edmonton. Not an adult of the herd has died. Sixty of the calves born during the year have lived, so that the Elk Island herd now numbers 400.

There are still 300 buffaloes at the Pablo ranch to be transferred to Canadian park reservations this coming spring. They are to be taken to a park on the Battle River on the line of the Grand Trunk Railway, about 120 miles this side of Edmonton. This park reserve, known as Buffalo Park, contains 110,000 acres, all of which is enclosed with strong iron fences, sufficient to prevent the buffaloes escaping.

The buffaloes to be removed in the spring are to be rounded up, and then taken one by one in wagon-cages to the nearest railway station. Fifty wagon-cages will be used and it is thought the whole herd of 300 can be collected and hauled to the railway and carred within two weeks. Seventy-five of the buffaloes now in the Rocky Mountain Park at Banff are to be removed to Buffalo Park, as the accommodation at Banff is too limited. Mr Douglas now feels sure that the buffalo in Canada will never become extinct, thanks to the efforts of the Canadian Government, and especially of the Department of the Interior, presided over by Hon. Frank Oliver.

Gowganda Wants Recorder.

Gowganda is not a Last West "proposition" exactly, but it is a much-talked of spot in what, after all, may be called newer Canada, with which this department aims to deal. Gowganda will, it may be presumed, soon have a newspaper of its own. In the meantime The Daily Northern Star of Sudbury is acting as one of the spokesmen for the new camp. The Star at present is urging the necessity for a recorder there. A prospector, as yet, in order to record his claim, has to travel thirty-two miles over the worst kind of trail at an expense of at least $10. This, The Star points out, is a hardship which the Department of Mines might make haste to remedy.

Toronto is within one of being the smallest Anglican diocese in Canada, only Ontario and Huron being smaller. Toronto diocese was founded in 1839. It has an area of 1,080 square miles, its greatest length being 84 miles and greatest breadth 120 miles. This holds a population of 584,000 of whom 95,187 are Anglicans. The diocese is subdivided into eight rural deaneries, viz.: West Simcoe, Peel, East Simcoe, West York, East York, Durham, Northumberland and Haliburton.

Orientals Admitted.

A despatch from Lethbridge, Alta., is significant. The recent district convention of the United Mine Workers of America will go on record as being a very important one. The constitution has extended to all miners without regard to nationality, except Chinese and Japanese, to unite with the union. After a hot debate a resolution was passed striking out the words "except Chinese and Japanese." This admits all Asiatics to the union.

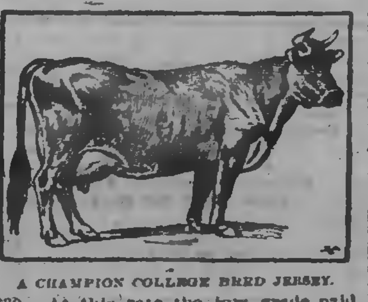
PROFITABLE DAIRYING.

Some of the tests made in the dairy departments of the agricultural colleges have opened the eyes of owners of cows and done an immense amount of good. These college tests not only disclose the pauper cow; they discover some astonishing profit producers. The selection and feeding of these great producers have usually been under college instruction. Dairy students are taught the importance of recognizing the dairy type, so that they may tell by the looks of a heifer calf what kind of dairy cow it will make; of a cow, what kind of producer she will be; of a bull, what kind of dairy progeny may be expected from him. The result has been the building up of many very profitable dairy herds.

Writing on this subject in Collier's Weekly, Milton O. Nelson says: "The first and foundation advice given by the college to the cow owner is: Know your cow. Test her. Is she in good health, so that she can give wholesome milk? Does she give milk in paying quantity? Does she give milk of paying quality? Thanks to college investigation and discoveries, any one can cheaply test his cow for tuberculosis and also for the butter fat and cheese content of her milk, while any good scales will tell the amount of her yield. With these tests any farmer may know how his cow compares with the model cow. By measuring her feed and calculating its farm value he can determine whether she is a profit maker or a pensioner.

The average farmer is too slack to make these investigations, but the colleges are making extensive tests of average dairy herds and advertising the results in order to wake the farmers up. The Illinois college, for example, made an entire year's test of 554 cows in thirty-six herds and found that the lowest one-fourth in the list (139 cows) averaged to yield annually but 133 pounds of butter fat each. The highest one-fourth produced 301 pounds. This product at 23 cents a pound, the average Elgin price for butter fat for the past five years, showed the year's gross receipts for the low class to be but $30.77 and for the high class $69.32. The average annual cost of keeping each of these cows was not less than $30. At this rate the low grade paid a profit of but 77 cents each for the year, or a total for the 139 cows of $107. The high class cows made a profit of $31.32 each, or for the 139 a total of more than $4,000 for the year.



A CHAMPION COLLEGE BRED JERSEY.

There is many a chance for a slip between the possession of a good milk cow and the securing of a profit from her production. And here the colleges have undertaken to guard the cow owner. Dirt is his greatest enemy, and against this the colleges are making their most stubborn fight. Clean stables, clean cows, clean milk receptacles and clean men are essential to the production of clean milk. Stalls in which cows are compelled to keep clean and yet are comfortable are in use in college stables. Feeding of dusty fodder or raising dust in any way at milking time is to be guarded against. The cows are to be sponged or wiped with a damp cloth on flanks and udder just before milking. The milker is to come to his work with clean clothes and clean hands. The pail should be covered, except a four inch opening, and should be readily cleanable.

The secret of clean milk is, of course, to keep dirt out of it. The Michigan College of Agriculture has found that as many as 3,600,600 germs may fall into an open pail in five minutes of milking under ordinary stable conditions. The Connecticut college finds that the covered pail excludes 63 per cent of the dirt. The Maryland college finds that milk pails and other receptacles can be practically sterilized and cleaned with warm water and washing powders. These facts put it within the power of the small dairyman and farmer to keep the milk clean (and so make dairying profitable) without the expense of live steam sterilizing and the other costly laboratory processes of the "certified milk" dairies. These guards against dirt have been shown by these colleges to be the prime essentials in the making of high grade butter and cheese.

To Make Thin Manes Grow.

Where a horse has rubbed out part of its mane a mixture of flowers of sulphur and raw linseed oil applied every three or four days will sometimes cause it to grow again. Keep the places clean by washing with water. The horse may be getting too much grain and too little exercise. A bran mash occasionally will be good.

Preparing For Long Drives.

To prepare a horse for long drives he should have the best of hay and all the sound grain he can eat up clean at each meal. Then each day he should be driven five to eight miles or more at a moderate pace and be taken thorough care of by careful rubbing and blanketing. Use whole old oats in preference to other grain.

WHEN CIVIC CHIEFS DINED.

Old Days In Toronto Saw Real Municipal Orgies.

The unemployed in Toronto have been making some caustic criticisms of late concerning the annual feast of the Toronto City Council after its inaugural meeting. This "spread," as it is known in City Hall corridors, costs just about $100, though there are hardly ever more than fifty guests present. Some of the aldermen do not attend, but nearly every civic departmental chief is generally on hand.

But this bit of so-called extravagance is a mere incident in comparison with the great and famous feasts held in the days of old, away back about '78. In the old St. Lawrence Hall, after the Court of Revision had finished its work for the year, there would be feasting for days and nights. Sometimes it lasted nearly a week. The men in the places of municipal power would invite their friends, and the latter were by no means loath to lunch at the expense of the city. Liquid refreshment was provided in abundance — in fact, the long tables down the hall were loaded with all kinds of meats, fowl, and bottles. A caterer was engaged for the occasion. There were some, too, who dined and drank not wisely but too well. At last things became almost a public scandal, and it was finally abolished.

Old civic officials tell fondly of the days when Angus Morrison was mayor. It was his habit to make a tour of the Hall, drop in at each office, stand erect in his own dignified manner, and announce in his own peculiar and stately style of expression: "Gentlemen, the Mayor of Toronto invites you to dine with him!"

This invitation was meant for one and all—from the civic chief to the clerk at $9 per week. And most of them accepted.—Saturday Night.

Too Much Whisky.

Rochester, N.Y., May 11.—Ignatzio Tabbacco is in a probably dying condition at the hospital from drinking a quart of whisky on a wager. He bet one dollar that he could do it and live.

Lost Two of the Crew.

Halifax, N.S., May 11.—With her flag flying at half mast for the loss of two of her crew, the Mahone Bay schooner Minnie Mosher, in command of Capt. Clarence Mosher, reached Canso yesterday from the fishing banks. The two men, Andrew Munro and Jeffrey Fougere of Dover, Guysboro County, were lost last Wednesday on the western banks.

There was a short silence; then Mr. Renwyck blurted out abruptly: "Well, the horse is yours, of course. You rode him for a full half hour."

Richard took out his watch, glanced at it and closed it with a snap and a sigh.

"Twenty-eight minutes!" he exclaimed in well assumed dismay. "By Jove, I've lost my wager!"

"Hold on there," cried the old gentleman, but laughing in spite of his earnestness, "you can't squirm out of it that way. Why, bless my soul, you could have stuck on him till he dropped dead. No, Lord Croyland, I'm not a welsher, nor do I shy at a margin of two minutes. No, sir, Hawk is yours!"

For answer Richard made a twitch of his thumb and finger, opened the horse's mouth and pointed to a badly swollen gum.

"He has a bad tooth, Mr. Renwyck, which perhaps accounts for his ugly temper. Fill it and you'll find a very different animal."

"What has that to do with the bet?" demanded Mr. Renwyck obstinately.

Richard fastened in his monocle after a desperate struggle and smiled and instantly lost his labor, for whenever he smiled it dropped out again.

"Couldn't think of accepting a different animal, y' know. Really, as Bilis says, it wouldn't hit off with my conscience."

"Croyland," said the old gentleman, thrusting out his hand, "I didn't take to you much at first. But if you'll come with me to the house I'll introduce you to something that I keep strictly for friends."

Mr. Renwyck led the way with his wife, while Miss Harriet and the guest came sauntering after him.

"Lord Croyland," the young lady whispered, "I don't admire you especially because you know how to manage a horse—I've known other men who could do that—but"—

"But what?"

"I do admire you for knowing how to manage father. May I decorate you with this rose?"

CHAPTER VII.

WHILE dressing for dinner after a delightful afternoon with Harriet Renwyck, Richard took his first lesson in modern English history and geography. The well trained Bilis attempted to take full charge of the toilet, but upon this the new master put his foot down firmly.

"Bilis," he said, "just about eighteen years ago, if I remember right, my nurse came to the conclusion that I was then old enough to get into my breeches without her able assistance. The conditions remain unchanged. Sit down and talk to me about London."

Gingerly availing himself of the edge of a chair on account of this condescension of inexperience, the valet detailed an account of his master's movements for the past three years. On the whole, the story was interesting, though distinctly unflattering at times to a member of the nobility. Outwardly Bilis was as expressionless as a sphinx; inwardly he enjoyed his own narrative hugely. It was seldom he had so glorious an opportunity of laying bare his private opinions of his whilom master.

"Umph!" grunted Richard as he tried on one of Lord Croyland's dinner jackets. "So I am responsible for three entanglements and one scandal of which I still wear honorable scars. Drop that part of it. I'm a seeker after general information only."

Bilis looked disappointed, but strove to earn his salary on less tasteful lines. He was a shrewd man, and his knowledge of the requirements of Richard's case led him to give valuable information. He described Hyde park, Piccadilly, the Strand and many other haunts of the fashionable set; also a club or two and various prominent English people likely to be mentioned in general conversation.

Richard was possessed of a retentive memory, which he now stored full of odds and ends which would help him pass muster, provided, of course, he did not run foul of the initiated, in which case he shuddered to think of the possibilities. His alleged sojourn in the United States, especially his winter in Texas, accounted in a measure for occasional slips, but even with this in his favor the position was a trying one.

There was another feature of the enterprise which troubled him sorely. It was comparatively easy not to seem to appreciate a joke and to intersperse small talk with a few stock phrases delivered in a British drawl, but when he looked into the eyes of the woman he loved he longed with all his heart to be for once and all time an American. He sighed for the sweep of the wide free plains, for a gallop with her across the fragrant prairie, to speak to her in his natural native tongue and to tell her he loved her as he loved his land.

"Woolsey," he sighed, and it amused him to notice how the valet resented the use of his Christian name, "I'm afraid, after all, I shall have to ask you to tie this neck thing. The ones I had at home were ready made and could be cinched up properly with a practical buckle at the back."

The valet deftly adjusted the bow, then gave a pull here and a poke there to the dinner suit, to which the master submitted meekly.

"M' lord," observed Bilis, surveying his charge with an expert's eyes, "askin' your lordship's pardon for presumin' to mention it, the—er—the other one never looked quite so convincin', m' lord."

"Thank you, cardinal."

"Thank you, sir, an' I ain't no judge if the lady don't think so too."

Richard wheeled upon him sharply.

"Lady? What lady?"

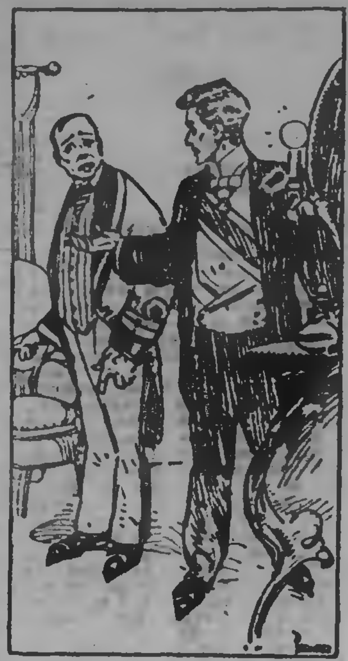
"W'y, Miss Renwyck, sir, the lady wot strikes me as"—

"Stop right there!" commanded Richard sternly. "There are certain subjects which are not discussed between a gentleman and his servant. This is one of them. Please remember it."

"Thank you, Mr.—er—I mean m' lord," said the valet respectfully. "Very good, sir."

In sizing up his man the astute Bilis had made a grave mistake, wherein he found much food for reflection regarding his future line of conduct. He had long since learned to manage his former master by various cunning little artifices, but this wide awake Texan, with his square chin and steely blue eyes, was quite another proposition. Although Bilis had divined the object of this masquerade, it did not seem as if he would profit much by it, and yet there must be some way in which he could turn it to his own advantage eventually, he was sure.

Meanwhile the adventurer descended into the drawing room and was presented to several other members of the small house party who had arrived by the late afternoon train for the week end. First there was Miss Caroline Schermerly, half sister to Mr. Renwyck and belonging to the haute noblesse of old Manhattan. Flatterers described her as a lady of uncertain age, although there was little doubt as to her personal antiquity. She was tall, somewhat angular and incased in a formal coat of blue blooded sleet, which had never thawed sufficiently to admit of a husband being warmed to her side. She approved of earls. They represented caste; therefore she promptly took Richard under her molting wing, to the vast discomfiture of the gentleman thus appropriated.



"Stop right there!" commanded Richard sternly.

Then there was Miss Imogene Chittendon, a bosom friend of Miss Renwyck, newly released from boarding school and radiant in the glamour of her first season out. She was blond, fluffy, giggly, enthusiastic, delivering her sentences in a short, jerky staccato, with a deal of unnecessary emphasis, until her conversation suggested some one playing telegraph operator with a vichy siphon.

"She was so glad to meet a real live English lord! Really, it was de-light-ful! How did it feel to be a nobleman instead of just an ordinary American? But of course he couldn't tell the difference, never having been anything else, you know," and so on ad libitum.

In his heart Richard agreed with her literally, but was not in a position to make explanations.

He was now introduced to the last of the guests, Mr. Cornelius Van der Awe, an overyoung young man, sad eyed, dark and in love with Miss Chittendon to the verge of melancholia. He said he was very much pleased to meet Lord Croyland and asked if they were having much fog at home.

Richard had been posted on London fogs and was enabled to draw a picture sufficiently dismal to meet with the questioner's desires.

"Dinner is served," announced a tall butler, who fortunately chanced to be an Irishman. Otherwise there might have been whisperings over some of the strange earl's characteristics in the servants' hall.

"All right," said Mr. Renwyck; "we won't wait for Michael. He never missed an opportunity of being late in all his life."

Richard, who against his every inclination was forced to take in the stately Miss Schermerly, was wondering vaguely who "Michael" might be when suddenly his heart stood still at the entrance of the gentleman himself, and again in his ears sounded the haunting echo of that doubtful compliment:

"Very good seat for an Englishman, my lord."

Mr. Michael Corrigan was a merry, hearty little man, brother to Mrs. Renwyck, not ashamed of his immediate Irish ancestry and a thorn in his brother-in-law Jacob's side. The two gentlemen had never got on well together, owing to an utter dissimilarity of tastes and a bulldog tendency to argue out their respective sides of every question to the bitter end. If one made a statement the other was sure to combat it, no matter what his private convictions chanced to be, and poor Mrs. Renwyck lived in mortal dread of a tilt a la outrance between the two. Moreover, there had been a recent discussion, which, had Richard known it, would have caused him much distress of mind, for the rock on which the brothers-in-law had split was a business deal with one Bill Williams of San Antonio, Tex.

Before the advent of Mr. Corrigan, Richard had been pluming himself on having carried out his role so successfully. It was comparatively easy to throw sand in the eyes of the Renwycks and their guests, but Mr. Corrigan put a different complexion on the face of things, for the Texan recognized the gentleman as a stanch friend of his father's who had visited their ranch some ten years before. Richard was then a mere boy and would scarcely be remembered, he hoped, especially when masquerading as a foreigner. Still he had his quaking doubts and redoubled his efforts to appear un-American. As the dinner progressed he was rejoiced to detect no sign of recognition, but before the salad was served he found himself in trouble.

For the benefit of his guests Mr. Renwyck recounted the afternoon's feat of horsemanship, and Richard found himself upon the defensive. Fortunately he knew the details of the real Lord Croyland's venture in Texas cattle and told the story with good effect, thus accounting for his ability to ride anything that ran on four legs, yet all the while he felt the steady gaze of Mr. Corrigan's little gimlet eyes, which made him most uncomfortable.

When this ordeal was passed Miss Chittendon forced him into one more complication.

"Oh, Lord Croyland," she gushed from her seat on the opposite side of the table, "won't you please tell us a lot about England? I've never crossed, you know, and I'm just dying to see the places I've read of in so many books."

"My dear young lady," Richard returned, with unnatural languor, "you wouldn't find it half so jolly as your own country. Really, you know, I'm becoming such a good American that I fancy I shall never return to England again."

He was not to get out of that coil so easily, however, for the ladies plied him with difficult questions until he wished with all his heart that three of them at least were confined for life in the Tower of London, while he talked to the fourth of bronchos and love and things he understood. Then Mr. Corrigan took a hand.

"Lord Croyland," he began, leisurely sipping his port, "it has been many years since I was in London, but I have always retained a most delightful recollection of Hyde park. Very few changes there, I suppose?"

Richard brightened visibly. This was a subject on which the astute Bilis had drilled him well. He could speak of it, he thought, with little danger of a slip. Mr. Corrigan went on reflectively:

Quite a park, as I remember it."

"Vast," agreed Richard, wishing his mentor had been a little more explicit as to dimensions.

"I was especially impressed," said Mr. Corrigan, with delusive blandness, "with that splendid statue of Napoleon, which stands at the main entrance. You are familiar with it, of course, Lord Croyland?"

"Oh, quite!" assented Richard boldly, screwing in his monocle and looking Uncle Michael straight in the eye, with never a tremor in his own. "To me it is quite the finest bit of bronze I've ever seen."

Mr. Corrigan seemed puzzled.

"Bronze?" he murmured thoughtfully. "Now, that's strange. I was under the impression that it was done in marble." He looked up with a smile and a sigh. "I dare say I'm getting old, my lord."

Richard began to feel beads of cold perspiration gathering upon his brow, but dared not call attention thereto by mopping.

"It is quite weather stained, you know," he explained, with outward calm, "and perhaps—well, you see, the sculptor's name is Thornton. I've never heard that he worked in marble, though I may be wrong."

"But what I don't understand," exclaimed Mr. Renwyck, "is why you Englishmen ever put up a statue of Napoleon at all. Seems to me that hating him as you did it was rather a curious thing to do."

"Not at all," said Richard desperately; "prisoner, y'know—St. Helena—and all that sort of thing—er—magnanimous."

Uncle Michael did not seem convinced and was about to ask more questions when Mr. Renwyck turned upon him sharply.

"Michael, you are doing this for the sake of argument. I don't believe you know anything about it, and, what is more, I think Lord Croyland is humoring you for the sake of politeness. I'll prove it." He turned to Richard. "My boy, I ought to have warned you in advance. My brother-in-law is a crotchety old lawyer who has never got over his bad habits. Tell me—honestly now—is there a statue of Napoleon Bonaparte in Hyde park at all?"

"No," smiled Richard, greatly relieved at this turn, "there is not."

"Who is it, then?"

"Wellington," said Richard, with triumphant carelessness, although he really did not know whether there was such a statue or not. But then neither did any one else at the table, although all but Miss Chittendon had visited England, some of them many times. The company laughed at Mr. Corrigan's discomfiture, while the victim himself seemed to enjoy it with the keenest zest. That dangerous incident was closed.

The dinner was finished at last, and Mr. Corrigan, pleading an appointment, departed, greatly to Richard's relief. The rest of the evening was spent in company with the ladies, for the young man's efforts to single out one in particular were invariably frustrated by the other three. It was not until nearly 11 that he had a short half hour with her alone, but in this he was repaid for all his tribulations. Miss Harriet was dressed in an exquisite pale blue gown, modestly revealing a neck and shoulders which to Richard were the most beautiful in all the world. They sat on the front veranda overlooking the river, she in a low wicker chair and he on the steps at her feet. Behind him were clusters of wistaria blooms, while beyond in the darkness the first of the fireflies twinkled like stars. To them came the nighttime scents and the murmur of the wind across the mighty Hudson on its journey to the sea.

Miss Harriet told him of her trip to Texas and of the gallant cowboy who had saved her life, while Richard listened with a bounding heart. He longed to claim a hero's place, to confess his deception and tell her the plain, bare truth. And yet he paused. To confess would involve disclosing the reason of his deceit, and he dare not risk the chance of losing her yet. She was young, romantic. The very daring of a lover's bold design might appeal to her; but, on the other hand, it was better to wait till he had won her heart than to ruin all by foolish precipitance.

"And what sort of chap was this cowboy?" he asked her presently.

"Oh, splendid!" she answered, with enthusiasm. "He was tall and straight and strong. Why, he lifted me as though I had been a child and set me down as tenderly as my own mother might have done. It all came so suddenly and I was so bewildered that I scarcely even thanked him. I know he thinks me perfectly horrid, and I would give anything on earth if I could only tell him that I'm—that I'm not."

"And you saw all that in five minutes?" he asked eagerly.

"In five minutes!" she exclaimed, surprised. "How do you know how long it was?"

"Oh—er—a perfectly natural inference," he stammered, hunting for cover desperately.

"Well, it was a short time," she sighed.

"And yet you did not learn his name?"

Miss Harriet shook her head.

"No. We came away at once, and I had no chance. You see, I only saw him for a moment—that is, after he put me down—and—and he was in such a hurry to catch his cows."

Richard smiled into the wistaria vine and was silent for a time.

"I suppose," he began presently, "that the young fellow was of the ordinary type of cowboy we see so frequently on"—

"No," interrupted Miss Harriet, with a decisiveness that pleased him to the quick; "he was nothing of the sort. Of course he was roughly dressed, as they all are, but a gentleman is a gentleman even in a flannel shirt, and 'chaps' don't they call them? Do you know, Lord Croyland, he reminds me in many ways of you. He—no, no," she added hastily, "I don't mean that. He—was quite different. You see, he was an American."

"Lucky beggar!" observed the pseudo earl, with a heavy sigh. "Miss Renwyck, I, too, would love to become an American if—won't you teach me how?"

"I?" she laughed. "Yes, I will, if you promise to follow instructions implicitly."

"Done!" he answered. "I'm ready for my first lesson. How will you begin?"

She thought for a moment, then looked down upon him impishly.

"First I think I should like to destroy your monocle with—with a croquet mallet."

Richard screwed it into his eye with renewed vigor and stared up at her through it with an excellent simulacrum of a wondering English incomprehension, stammering out with delightful vagueness:

"D'ye mean while I am—ah—wearing it, Miss Renwyck?"

CHAPTER VIII.

AFTER Miss Renwyck had retired Richard lighted a cigarette and sat alone on the veranda, turning over in his mind the events of his first crowded day and his plans for the future campaign. Mr. Michael Corrigan troubled him. This little fat man was nobody's fool, and no one could tell what sort of mischief was being hatched behind those piercing eyes, which, if they continued to twinkle about the Renwyck place, would shortly discover many things. Richard sighed and flicked the stump of his cigarette away. He rose and was about to pass into the house when he was met in the doorway by Mr. Renwyck.

"Croyland," said his host impressively, "there is a little matter which I should like to talk over with you, and I have purposely waited until the ladies retired."

Richard fancied there was a certain grimness in Mr. Renwyck's tone and jumped to a swift conclusion. He was found out. He wished to avoid a scene if possible, but from what his father had told him of Mr. Renwyck's temper he could gather little hope.

"Certainly," he answered evenly, rather relieved that the expected break was coming. "Shall we sit here on the porch?"

"No," said the old gentleman; "I don't care to be overheard by any of the servants. If you don't mind walking we'll move away from the house."

Richard was convinced. He was sure that when Jacob Renwyck expressed a candid opinion of any one—especially an impostor—he would find it difficult to speak in whispers. It was just as well, on the whole, and Richard preferred to receive his malediction out of earshot of his ladylove. He rose with alacrity, therefore, and followed his host, who led the way across the lawn toward a little observatory or pleasure house on the crest of a bluff overlooking the moonlit Hudson.

At another time the young man might have enjoyed the view of the great calm river sweeping past the shadowy hills on the farther side, but under the circumstances the scene did not appeal to him. There were other thoughts which occupied his mind. Mr. Renwyck walked with his hands clasped behind him, and Richard watched his every move. Physically the Texan was more than a match for Mr. Renwyck, but the latter had probably armed himself for the occasion, a trifling precaution which would not have escaped the southerner. And Richard then and there resolved never again to put on a pair of trousers that had no pistol pocket in them. What did those eastern tailors know about the requirements of a gentleman anyway? But then it flashed into his mind that Mr. Renwyck was probably no better provided than he in that particular—reassuring thought!

HAMAR GREENWOOD, FISHERMAN

Canadian In British House Is Subject of a Sporting Controversy.

Some Canadians will be surprised to know that a minor controversy has been going on in England as to the size of a fish which Mr. Hamar Greenwood, M.P., caught on the occasion of his last visit to Canada. It appears that when he visited British Columbia in 1906 he caught a salmon which weighed forty-eight pounds, with a rod and line. He decided to have it stuffed and presented to the Liberal Club of the city of York, which he represents. The fate of the fish was recorded in a bulletin issued by the Government of British Columbia, and came by chance to the eyes of the journalist who writes a column of gossip in The London Morning Leader under the title "Sub Rosa." He instituted an enquiry as to whether this was not a fish story, and if so, why had the piscatorial champion not appeared on the walls of the York Liberal Club.

Choosing to vindicate his honor as a fisherman, the politician appealed to Mr. J. P. Babcock, Commissioner of Fisheries at Victoria, B.C., who has written to The Leader to testify that Mr. Greenwood actually did catch the fish and left it in his hands to be stuffed and mounted. Unfortunately the taxidermist in charge of the work either ate or stole the fish and skipped to Seattle. So the Unionists have been deprived of one roorback they might have used against Mr. Greenwood at the next general election in England.

Treed by Wolves.

To be chased by wolves and to be obliged to spend the night in a tree was the experience of Edward Braivier and Joseph Nault, of Baskatong, Quebec. The men were on their way back from a place called Island Farm when they were overtaken by a pack of five wolves, which gave every indication of being in a famished condition.

Not having weapons with which to fight the animals, they fled. Closer and closer upon them came the howling denizens of the forest, and, seeing that their lives were in danger, Braivier and Nault climbed a tree, where they found security.

The men were in for a long vigil, however, for the wolves took up a position beneath the tree, and their hungry howlings were kept up throughout the night.

The night was cold, and if the pursued were now free from attack, they were not free from the danger of being frozen. It was a balsam tree they were seated in.

As soon as day broke the wolves made off, and the two arboreal inhabitants, descending, went home. The experience is one they will not soon forget.

Wolves have been bad in that part of the country for some time and hunters complain frequently that the deer are being killed by them. So bold are they that they go right up to the villages.

All mines in southern Alberta will be idle as a result of the strike.

PORT HOPE YOUNG MAN FINED FOR ASSAULTING HIS MOTHER

Port Hope, May 10.—A Port Hope man was in the police court this morning, charged with assaulting and beating his mother yesterday and pleaded not guilty.

The old lady, who, by the way, is seventy-five years of age, told of her son coming home on Saturday night about eleven o'clock and raising a disturbance because supper was not prepared for him. He was supplied with a large bottle of whisky and next morning before breakfast he began to abuse his mother. According to the plaintiff's story he knocked her down, bumped her head against the floor, kicked her and punished her unmercifully in the face with his closed fists. After much difficulty she managed to get away and ran to a neighbor's house and notified Chief Bond.

When asked by the court if he had anything to say, the defendant replied that the old lady was crazy and should have her head examined by a doctor.

The magistrate thought it might be well to have a physician examine her eyes, which were both blackened and badly swollen, the result, no doubt, of the treatment administered by her son.

In passing sentence His Honor remarked that during his long experience on the bench he had never had as bad a case as this. He had heard assault cases, which were more severe but none so disgraceful. He believed the plaintiff's story, and, as further evidence of the truth of the same, she bore the marks. Here, the magistrate added, is the mother who nursed and cared for you, and now, in her old age, when you should be a comfort to her, fall upon her and beat her brutally. You will pay a fine of $10 and $2.50 costs, or in default one month in jail. Further, you must furnish securities yourself in the sum of $200 and two securities in the sum of $100 each, to keep the peace, or in default be committed to jail until such securities be given.

Two local merchants furnished the securities and paid the fine.

HAS RECEIVED UNIQUE SOUVENIR

Local Police Officer Remembered by an Old Friend Who Recently Passed Away in Hamilton

P. C. McGinty is the possessor of a unique souvenir, which was given to him yesterday by Mr. Robert Beach, who has just returned from attending the funeral of his father, whose death occurred in Hamilton recently. The souvenir is an ordinary bone-handled pocket knife with two blades. A peculiar feature of the knife is that an American cent is stuck in at one end of the knife between the large blade and the side of the handle. Likewise is a small bone button wedged in between the small blade and the other side of the handle. Before his death Mr. Beach expressed a wish that the knife be sent to P. C. McGinty, and his son brought it to this city and presented it to the officer yesterday.

The late Mr. Beach and P. C. McGinty were close friends when the former was employed in Stenson's boot and shoe store, and although it is nearly 28 years ago, it is evident that that friendship existed up to the time until Mr. Beach passed away and naturally the police officer prized the souvenir very highly.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

Prof. Graham

Editor of the Review,

Dear Sir,—Your paper contains a report of an address given by me to the Peterborough Poultry Association. A copy of this report was sent to me recently, and I find in it one or two serious errors, that is to say, the impression taken out of the report may be misleading. Near the end of the report you say that the speaker did not think that a normal chicken could be raised by the use of incubators. This is not exactly correct. The idea is this, that incubators frequently hatch what are apparently normal chickens, but there are times when the chickens hatched artificially appear to be abnormal, both chemically and physically which may possibly be due either to the stock which laid the eggs or the operator or possibly the machine itself. In the next line your reporter also says that white diarrohea is a peculiar disease that many chickens contract by the use of incubators and the results are a big death rate. This should read that in some instances incubator chickens are more subject to diarhoea than hen hatched, and that the scientists believe that white diarrhoea is caused by bacteria which grow in the chickens' lungs, also a protozoa which grows in the bowels of the chickens, and, further, it is believed by some practical poultrymen that certain methods of operating incubators are conducive to the development of these germs, for the reason that these methods lower the vitality of the chicks. Hen hatched chickens in some instances have a similar trouble.

Very truly yours.

M. R. GRAHAM.

INDIAN RIVER NEWS

Special to the Review

Indian River, May 11.—Farmers are busy at the spring work.

The water in the Indian River is the highest it has been for years.

Mr. Jos. Goerts is working on the section for the C.P.R.

Mr. Maurice Meade has finished putting a new cement floor in the Indian River cheese factory. Mr. Meade expects a busy season.

Mr. Frank Devlin has graded a beautiful lawn in front of his residence on Douro street. Mr. Devlin has also planted a fine cedar hedge around his lawn, which makes a great improvement to his property.

The village is again livened up by the pleasant rattle of the milk wagon, and we are pleased to see the old milk-drawers again.

Miss Shannon, teacher, was visiting Miss Garvey in Douro last Sunday.

Mr. Jos. O'Leary and Mr. Wm. J. Condon, were visiting friends on the sixth line on Sunday.

Miss Minnie Sullivan spent Sunday with friends in Douro.

Mr. McGill, representative of the Capewell Horse Nail Co., was in the village on a business trip Wednesday. Mr. McGill reports business very good this year.

DATES OF LOCAL WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

East Peterborough—At Keene town hall, June 29; at Warsaw town hall, June 28; at Clydesdale June 4, and at Mt. Julian or Haultain June 16. At the latter two places Miss Gilholm will speak, and at the others Miss Gilholm or Miss Powell.

THE NEWEST LADY.

A Profession For Girls That Is "Quite English, You Know."

The "lady nurse" is the newest English profession for girls. They already have "lady cooks" over there, and "lady writers" and "lady typists," but the "lady nurse" is a novelty.

The chief advantage of the lady nurse's position, explains one advocate of the new profession, is that the "necessary training is short—one year—and the career long."

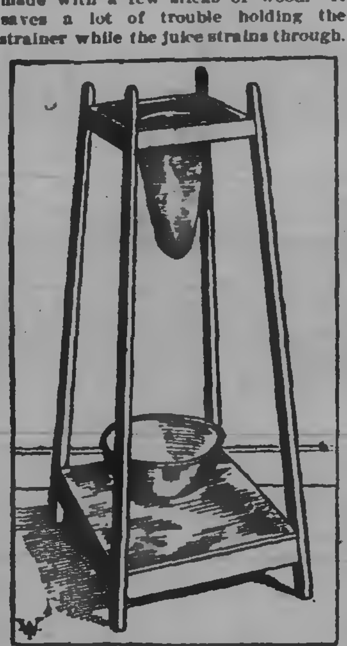
Girls can begin directly upon leaving school and if really suited to the work will find little difficulty in obtaining a position on account of their youthfulness. Thus at least two years' time and expense are saved, perhaps more, for even after prolonged training in some professions girls are still viewed doubtfully as "too young" for the work they have chosen. Then, a nurse may continue at her post longer than most people—indeed, as long as she is able—for the duties are not exhausting, and an elderly nurse can always command assistance, consideration and numerous privileges.

This is all from the point of view of the workers, but there are the employers, too, surely deserving of consideration. Last, but not least, there are the children. It must be obvious that all three classes concerned benefit by the existence and increase of lady nurses, and the day is near when any ignorant girl will no longer be considered a fit companion and guide for childhood, when training and even culture will be recognized to be every bit as important in the nursery as in the schoolroom. The opening for lady nurses is undoubtedly one to which many women will have to fly as other professions grow increasingly difficult. Here is one which no one will dare to wish to wrest from us, even during this heated warfare over women's work—what it is and what it shouldn't be. There has not yet arisen a voice amid the many strange assertions to declare that the care of children falls to come within the sphere of cultivated women—if not the care of our own little ones, then that of other people's.

It doesn't sound like a cheerful career, but from all accounts no professional woman in England from the "lady help" to the downtrodden and much novelized governess enjoys a very cheerful existence.

New Jelly Strainer.

The accompanying photograph shows an improved jelly strainer that may be made with a few sticks of wood. It saves a lot of trouble holding the strainer while the juice strains through.



MADE OF WOOD AND FELT.

This strainer is simply a large piece of felt tacked to a frame. The fruit may be poured into this and left to strain itself into the bowl set to catch the juice. It is unnecessary to describe the strainer. It need not be made in any particular style. Uprights to hold the felt are all that are required. Its usefulness may readily be appreciated.

SOME HOME REMEDIES.

To heal an open cut apply alum water twice a day. Powdered rosin is also good. Pound it well in a clean mortar or wooden bowl and when well pulverized place in a sterilized pepper pot and sift it upon the wound. Put a soft cloth over the cut and occasionally wet it with cold water. This will prevent inflammation and soreness.

For a severe sprain of the ankle immerse as soon as possible in hot water—as hot as it can be borne—and keep it there for twenty to twenty-five minutes, adding more hot water as it cools. After removing from the water bandage tightly in cloth wrung out in hot rum. Repeat this every two hours the first day, then twice a day till the ankle is well.

To cure sleeplessness take a cupful of hot Indian meal gruel just before retiring. Sip it slowly.

An excellent preventive against scarlet fever or diphtheria in their season is to give a child a small pinch of sulphur every night and morning. Also keep a little bagful of gum camphor hung about the neck on a string next the body. A little coffee burned on the stove night and morning is an excellent disinfectant and not an unpleasant odor through the house. To most people it is delicious. Coffee burning on a hot stove cover carried about a sickroom will disinfect and purify the air and kill any unpleasant odor that may exist.

Coal has been discovered in Edmonton penitentiary yard. It will be mined by convict labor.

LATE HAPPENINGS AROUND BETHEL

Farmers are Somewhat Anxious—Cheese Factory Opened for the Season

Special to the Review.

Bethel, May 10—The grass in the vicinity is now looking green, but as it is getting late for seeding, the farmers are getting anxious. But "cheer up" farmers we will certainly have good weather soon.

Mr. William Purdy of East Emily, opened his cheese factory for the season today. Mr. Purdy gave splendid satisfaction to his patrons last year, and without doubt this year will be another successful season in the history of East Emily.

Mr. Albert Ruth is now busily engaged working at his new barn, as the masons and carpenters have commenced their duties at it.

Mr. and Mrs W. Purdy, were visitors to Warsaw last Tuesday.

A goodly number from here attended service at Omemee last night.

TRIBUTE PAID

As must be expected in the spring of the year, especially when every other person one meets either has, or has just had, or is just about to have, an attack of the "grippe," there has been a good deal of illness among our girl family, and Miss Pierce has had her hands and her sick-room often more than full. We do not know what we should do at Peterborough without Dr. Halliday, who for so many years past has been the "beloved physician," as well as the wise and sagacious medical counsellor. The number of our girls that Dr. Halliday has treated for ailments small and great, and the number of cases of health trouble in which his advice has been sought, must run into many hundreds. When we add that his professional fees are charged on the most moderate scale, it will be realized what a good friend Dr. Halliday has been and is, and how deeply we are indebted to him, not only for his professional skill and care, but for his generosity to the work.—Ups and Downs.

An Extensive Sheep Farm

One of the most extensive sheep farms in Canada is situated in Hastings county, about five miles south of Bancroft. It is owned by Dr. A. S. Leavitt, and is 1,200 acres in extent. Being nearly square it entirely encloses three lakes which the doctor has taken pains to stock with trout and black bass, putting in eighty thousand trout fry about three years ago, soon after acquiring the property. The doctor expects to care for about 1,000 ewes on his farm this year.

AMENDMENTS TO INSURANCE ACT HAVE BEEN ANNOUNCED

Companies Are Free to Insure if Tax is Paid—Restrictions on Expenses Are Done Away With—Policy-holders Must Have Two-Fifths of Directors—Railway Crossings Come in for Long Discussion

Ottawa, May 12.—Amendments to the Insurance Act agreed upon by the sub-committee of the banking and commerce committees were announced yesterday. They include giving the Phoenix Assurance Co. power to carry on fire, life and accident business. Any society, benevolent, industrial, or religious, having an assessment insurance system may come within the second part of the act. The clause limiting expenses is struck out. Shareholders must authorize salaries to directors. Sliding scale contracts with agents based on volume of their business are permitted. From the clause respecting assets and investments in Canada by foreign companies there is struck out the words "at least two-thirds in market value of which shall consist of investments in or loans upon Canadian securities."

A number of changes are made in the investment clauses, the general effect being to widen the power. It is provided that no loan shall be made to a company director or officer except on the company's own policy. As to voting by proxy, the provisions apply to every company "other than a life insurance company."

A new sub-section provides that in connection with deferred dividend policies issued after Jan. 1 next, the companies shall, at least, once in five years, ascertain the profits to which such policies are entitled, and pay such to the shareholders. Until distributed, these profits shall be treated as a liability. The circulation in Canada of any estimate of dividends or profits is prohibited.

The participating policyholders will be entitled to at least two-fifths of the directors. The policyholders and shareholders shall name their directors separately. The clause in respect to the distribution of profits is amended so as to provide that profits will include a share of profits arising from the sale of securities. The clause dealing with the impairment of capital is amended to provide that companies may be permitted to calculate till 1915 on the basis of not less than 60 per cent. of unearned premiums.

Amendments providing that a director must hold stock to the value of $2,500, instead of twenty-five shares, as stipulated at present, was accepted, as was an amendment setting forth that a policyholder to vote must have $2,000 insurance.

Hon. Geo. P. Graham's amendment to the Railway Act, introduced yesterday, the most vital part of which is legislation regarding railway crossings, occupied the morning and afternoon sittings of the House, but had to be adjourned, and it is just possible that it may not be enacted this session.

Those proposals that the speed of trains at level crossings where an accident has occurred be limited to 10 miles an hour until safeguards have been provided, are those of Senator Beique's bill and they encountered some severe criticism, notably from Mr. Lancaster, while Mr. Emmerson did not show a very friendly disposition.

There was a lengthy discussion over the priority of the highway or the railway. The clause at first read "existing highway." The word "existing" was struck out. Where the highway existed before the railway, the railway must bear the whole cost, but where the railway was built first, the municipality may have to bear part of the expense.

An important clause provides that railway companies which have filed plans for lands must take possession within two years. Pending cases will not be touched, but where no arbitration has been begun the clause will apply.

TESTIMONY OF CHIEF CAMPEAU

Montreal, May 12.—In the civic enquiry yesterday, Chief of Police Campeau testified that the C.P.R. Stock Yards Hotel was not removed from Capt. Beignet's district because he persisted in reporting it for selling on Sunday, but because the annexation of Rosemount necessitated the division of two districts. Capt. Beignet had retired from the force because he had been advised to do so by the chief on account of scandalous charges made against him. He had retired on a pension instead of going on trial before the police committee.

Milton Hersey, analyst, testified that he would not like to place a good horse in the cells of the new No. 12 station on account of the dampness and lack of ventilation.

Trainmen In Session.

Columbus, Ohio, May 12.—The ninth biennial conference of the National Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen opened in Memorial Hall yesterday. There has been a gain of about 2,000 members during the last two years. The membership is now 101,000. The most important question to come up at the convention is the proposed increase of insurance rates.

Couple Together In Death.

Halifax, May 12.—On Saturday Joseph Anderson, one of Cumberland's oldest citizens, was in Amherst for medicine for his wife, who was critically ill. On Sunday he was taken ill with pneumonia. Sunday evening Mrs. Anderson passed away and Monday evening Mr. Anderson died without realizing that his wife was dead.

Hon. P. Roy on Trial.

Montreal, May 12.—The case of Hon. Philip H. Roy, charged before the Criminal Court at St. Johns with offering to the Government false reports of the Bank of St. Johns, where he was president, opened yesterday. Several motions were made by the defence to have the case dismissed, one being on the allegation that the crown prosecutor had been with the grand jury which was to make a finding in the case. All were overruled.

Evidence will be offered to-day by officers of the Finance Department.

Toronto, May 12.—Contracts were awarded yesterday by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission for the copper wire for the protective system to the Dominion Wire Manufacturing Co., of Montreal, and for the porcelain insulators to the Ohio Brass Manufacturing Co., Mansfield, O.

The prices obtained on this last contract were from 20 to 30 per cent. below the estimate.

Victoria Bye-Election.

Fenelon Falls, May 12.—Dr. Mason of this village, was the unanimous choice of the convention here yesterday to represent East Victoria Conservatives in the coming bye-election to succeed J. H. Carnegie, M.P.P., who recently resigned to accept a Government position at Osgoode Hall.

"Banish the Bar" Campaign.

Winnipeg, May 12.—A "Banish the Bar" campaign will be started in Manitoba on June 23, when a party of temperance workers, in automobiles, will start on a tour of the southern part of the province and will address meetings in 62 towns and villages.

Counterfeiters Arrested.

Latchford, May 12.—Two men from Montreal, giving their names as Adelard Dion and Thomas Gascon, and claiming to be prospectors, are in jail waiting trial on a charge of making counterfeit money. They had a manufacturing plant in their tent.

$58,000 for Two Legs.

New York, May 12.—Fifty-eight thousand dollars for the loss of both legs was the verdict awarded in the Supreme Court yesterday to Miss Addie Hunt, a trained nurse, against the Long Island Railroad Co. Some time ago she obtained a verdict of $25,000, but the court set it aside as inadequate and ordered a new trial. The railroad company will appeal.

Ambushed In Africa.

Lagos, British West Africa, May 12.—Lieut. D. A. VanBrennen, assistant resident administrator of a district in Northern Nigeria, three other Englishmen and 35 native police were ambushed recently by natives at a point fifty miles northwest of Zungeru. The lieutenant and 12 of the policemen were killed. A British force has been despatched.

TWO STEAMERS IN COLLISION

The Liner Scotia Badly Damaged off Halifax --- Fog Was Responsible

Halifax, May 12.—With her stem split and her bow bulwarks smashed, the steamer Scotia, Capt. Reid, arrived in port yesterday from eastern shore ports. The Scotia was feeling her way in through the dense fog, when off Meagher's Beach the Allan Liner Siberian, bound to Philadelphia, loomed up out of the fog. The distance was too short for either steamer to change her course, and the result was a collision, the Scotia coming out second best, having her bow smashed and her forward bulwarks broken. The damage was all above the water-line, and the Scotia had no trouble in reaching her dock. The Siberian got clear away without sustaining any damage, and proceeded on her way to Philadelphia. Capt. Reid of the Scotia said he was coming in very slowly, just picking out his course, when the Siberian appeared out of the fog, bearing straight across his bow. He had no time to change his course before the steamers came together.

NEW DODGE OF SUFFRAGETTES

London, May 12.—Shut out of the House of Commons by the police especially selected to circumvent their wiles and ingenuity, the suffragettes yesterday found a new method of getting literature into hands of the nation's legislators.

Chartering a fine steam launch, which they aggressively labeled "Dreadnought," and putting a band on board, a party of suffragettes steamed up the river yesterday afternoon until they reached a point opposite the House of Parliament.

Here the boat stopped and the women attracted the attention of the members on the terrace by singing the Marseillaise.

Then suddenly there was fired from the launch a broadside of rockets. These burst above the terrace and a regular snowstorm of hand bills fluttered down over the watching members.

RUSSIAN CABINET COULD NOT RESIGN

St. Petersburg, May 12.—After a conference between the Premier and the Emperor, which continued until nine o'clock yesterday morning, M. Stolypin returned to St. Petersburg from Tsarskoe-Selo an hour later, bringing the text of an imperial rescript, expressing the confidence of the monarch in the Ministers and his gratitude for their services and explaining the motives leading to the rejection of the naval staff bill. The rescript will be published in the official gazette yesterday.

The crisis was solved in a manner peculiarly Russian. The Emperor refused to sign the bill providing for a naval staff, because he considered it an invasion of his prerogative, and he declined also to accept the resignation of the Cabinet, ordering the Ministers to remain at their posts.

The latter after reiterating their representations of the impossibility of rendering useful services under these conditions decided that their duty, according to Russian precedents was to continue in their present offices.

New York, May 12.—According to a despatch from Tacoma, Wash., Mrs. Edna Reed, divorced wife of B. T. Reed, a wealthy real estate man of Denver, created interest on Monday when she appeared in the street with her nine-year-old daughter Inez handcuffed to her to prevent kidnapping.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW.

CAPTAIN HAINS FOUND GUILTY

Slayer of Wm. E. Annis is Convicted of Manslaughter—Defence Protests Verdict

Flushing, N.Y., May 12.—Captain Peter C. Hains, jr., U.S.A., to-day faces a prison term of from one to twenty years. Despite all the testimony submitted by the defence as tending to show insanity, he was convicted late yesterday of manslaughter in the first degree for killing Wm. E. Annis at the Bayside Yacht Club last August.

Quickly following the young officer's conviction his counsel announced that they would produce affidavits to show that the jury had not been properly guarded during the trial, and upon this allegation will urge that a new trial be granted. These affidavits will be submitted on Monday, the time set for passing sentence.

CAPTAIN HAINS.

Daniel O'Reilly, of counsel for the defence, said: "There was no evidence in this case to warrant a verdict of manslaughter. It should either have been murder in the first degree or acquittal on the ground of insanity. The jurors were permitted to roam about the country in an automobile and go right to the verge of the scene of the homicide, which is clearly against the law. We will have affidavits to prove that such is the case, and also that the jurors were permitted to leave the jurisdiction of the county and have been on Government property at Fort Totten, all of which is ground for setting aside the verdict."

The jury were out three hours and evidently followed Judge Garretson's ruling in his charge that "One may be guilty of manslaughter in the first degree who kills on the impulse of the moment in the heat of passion, or because of a peculiar set of circumstances which confront him." Speaking of the domestic relations of the defendant, Justice Garretson said the truth of the allegations against Mrs. Hains and Annis did not have to be shown. It was sufficient, in considering the defendant's mental condition, if he had believed them to have existed.

Four ballots were taken. On the first three ballots six voted for murder in the first degree and six for acquittal on the ground of insanity.

LAUNCH WENT TO BOTTOM

With Thirty Men on Board in Obio River --- Ten Escaped--- Was Overweighted

Pittsburg, May 12.—Twenty persons are missing and all of them are believed to have been drowned when a gasoline launch sank in the middle of the Ohio River near Schoenville, four miles below Pittsburg, last night. Of the thirty occupants of the boat only ten are known to have escaped. The missing are: Albert Graham, pilot and part owner of the boat; George Thompson, formerly of Altoona, Pa.; Booth O'Neill, James Conner, Walter Low, Thomas Kennedy, Wm. Guthrie, Henry Vogelet, Dennis Murphy, Tony Bole, —— Ruskey, Louis Goldstein, Wm. Davis, Jos. Lyle, Wm. Burke, two brothers named Botts and three others whose names have not been learned.

All of the men were employes of the Pressed Steel Co. at the McKeesport plant. The men had been working overtime until 8 o'clock, and left the works to cross the river in the launch about fifteen minutes later. The boat is said to have been intended for not over twenty persons, and sank because it was overweighted.

WARBURTONS ARE FOUND

Hamilton Police Think They Have Located the Mysterious Colonel

Hamilton, May 12.—The local police claim to have obtained information through Albert Newport that Col. and Mrs. Warburton, mentioned in the Kinrade case, are located at Alexandria, Ind., a town of 8,000 on the line of the Cleveland, Chicago & St. Louis Railway. T. L. Kinrade, the younger daughter, and the two sons are still in Hamilton. Coroner Anderson has received an anonymous letter stating that one of the neighbors of the Kinrades could tell more about the happenings on the day of the murder than she told in the witness box.

REV. WILKINS IS MODERATOR

Toronto, May 12.—Rev. W. T. Wilkins of Trenton was elected moderator of the Presbyterian Synod of Toronto and Kingston at the meeting in St. James Square Church last night. Dr. J. A. Turnbull of the West Presbyterian Church nominated him and Rev. James Buchanan of Dundalk, seconded.

Dr. J. B. Fraser of Annan was nominated by Rev. Finley Matheson of Chatsworth, but he asked to have his name withdrawn, saying he desired the nominee to be appointed unanimously.

FARMER HAD EXCITING TIME ON GEORGE STREET YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

His Horses Became Frightened at Street Car—Tongue of the Democrat Broke and Animals Became Unmanageable—Narrowly Escaped Serious Injury—Horse From Gibbs Livery Ran Away.

There was plenty of excitement on George street yesterday afternoon about four o'clock caused by a team of horses attached to a democrat and driven by Mr John Hanbidge of Otonabee becoming frightened at a passing street car and a runaway furnished by a horse from the Gibbs livery. In the former case, Mr Hanbidge with his team was waiting outside of P. Connal's grocery store for a supply of groceries. When the articles had all be brought out and placed in the democrat the driver started his horses just as a street car was passing. The horse nearest the car became badly frightened and swerved so hard against the tongue of the vehicle that it was beroken and as Mr. Hanbidge was pulling hard on the well scared animals the rig was pushed up against their hind feet, which naturally was not conducive to quieting them.

On account of the poor control which the driver had over the horses on account of the tongue breaking they dashed around the street from one side of the road to the other and for a while plate windows and citizens were in great danger. Finally the horses got down to the corner of George and Simcoe streets and turned east on Simcoe, then suddenly turning around again, made for the corner, where the Dominion bank is situated. The broken tongue became caught in the sidewalk with the result that the horses and democrat came to a sudden stop and the driver who had all this time been heroically hanging on to the reins was pitched out head first and landed on the hard pavement. Two men who were standing by at the time caught the horses and succeeded to some extent in quieting them and Mr Hanbidge after picking himself up found that he had received no further injuries than a bad shaking up.

It was shortly afterwards that Gibbs' horse, attached to a Victoria, came tearing down George street, the cause of which was due to part of the harness breaking. It was not brought to a stop until Lake street was reached.

Germany Secures Coveted Portrait.

London, May 12.—At last the mystery of the disposition of Holbein's famous Queen Christina, which the Duke of Norfolk sold for $300,000, has been solved.

Dr. Bode, director of the Berlin Museum, has captured the prize.

The duke has notified the municipal authorities of Sheffield that he intends to transfer to them the only park in the city. It covers 60 acres, and is worth $5,000 an acre. This donation just offstands the price the duke received for his Holbein.

In Heterodox Pulpit.

New York, May 12.—A special to The Tribune from New Haven, says: Rev. H. Herbert Henson, Canon of Westminster and rector of St. Margaret's, London, left Yale Monday for Boston, to sail hurriedly to England, to face charges preferred by Bishop Gore of the Church of England, who accuses him of having violated ecclesiastical law by occupying a nonconformist pulpit in a workingman's institute in Birmingham, England.

National Breweries' Officers.

Montreal, May 12.—At a meeting yesterday of the National Breweries, Limited, the following officers were elected: J. Dawes, president; V. Boswell, first vice-president; George R. Hooper, second vice-president; E. C. Pratt, controller; J. H. Hudson, secretary-treasurer.

OVER SIX THOUSAND POSTAL EMPLOYEES GO ON STRIKE

Hot Debate Takes Place in Chamber of Deputies and as no Action is Taken, Men Decide to Quit Work—Cities Think They Can Run Affairs by Aid of Autos, But Serious Trouble is Feared.

Paris, May 12.—The Chamber of Deputies after a stormy session of four hours yesterday adjourned the debate on the interpellation on the postal situation until to-day.

The response of the postal employes was quick and decisive. Within half an hour the federal committee had issued an order for a general strike, and the railway mail clerks walked out in a body.

An hour later, a meeting of 6,000 postal employes at the Hippodrome took up the gage of battle and unanimously voted to strike.

There was no great enthusiasm shown, but determination and resolution to force the hands of the Government were apparent.

"The Government is playing for time; we must not be caught napping," was the spirit of the meeting as expressed by Pauren, a dismissed postman, and one of the most active organizers of the movement.

During the debate in the Chamber, Mm. Sembat and Willm, Socialists, defended the position of the strikers, affirming their right to organize themselves into a syndicate, as the only way of redressing their grievances, and charging the Government with failure to keep its promises at the conclusion of the previous strike, especially with regard to the retirement of M. Simyan, Under Secretary of Posts and Telegraphs.

M. Deschanel considered the crisis very grave. He laid the responsibility for the present situation largely on "parliamentarism," which, he said, was working in a vicious circle, and he considered that the only remedy would be the introduction of real civil service, based on merit, to end favoritism and the spoils system.

The general opinion to-day is that the Government, with the aid of soldiers and the co-operation of the commercial bodies, will be able to maintain crippled services. The main danger is that violence may occur and that passions may be aroused by the appearance on the scene of the general federation of labor.

The Paris Chamber of Commerce last night sent out a letter to all Chambers of Commerce in France with full instructions to a scheme for a business letter service, which is to be carried out, in the event of the railroads failing, by means of automobiles. The prefects of the various departments have already arranged for these.

SEVERAL IMPORTANT MATTERS FOR GRAND ORANGE LODGE

When it Meets Here Two Weeks Hence — Who is to be Sovereign Grand Master of the Order?

To-day's Globe says:—When the Grand Orange Lodge of British North America meet in Peterborough this day fortnight there may be some lively doings affecting the internal economy of the order. The present Sovereign Grand Master, Dr. Sproule, M. P., has for the past two years or more been desirous of resigning, owing to the pressure of work and his inability owing to private and Parliamentary duties to devote all the time necessary to the order. The difficulty of finding a successor acceptable to a majority of the members has, however, barred the way to Dr. Sproule's resignation. Lt.-Col. Scott, K.C., of Walkerton, is in the direct line of succession, being Deputy Sovereign Grand Master.

Mr. Essery, of London, Grandmaster of Ontario West, Orange Lodge, has been mentioned by some as a likely candidate, one of the London papers supporting him, but he has taken office for another year in Ontario West, and that puts him out of the running.

It is, however, now asserted that Col. Sam Hughes, M.P., has decided to accept nomination for the position, and should Dr. Sproule also run a very lively fight may be anticipated.

Beyond the fight for office, the coming session of the Grand Lodge may decide that the Orange Order should take in the future an independent line in politics and nominate candidates of its own in several constituencies for the Dominion Parliament as well as for the local legislatures.

STATE COUNCIL OF KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS AT LINDSAY

Lindsay, May 11.—For the first time in the history of Lindsay the state council of the Knights of Columbus of Ontario are in session in this town. The delegates arrived last evening, and this morning, and are comfortably quartered at the Hotel Benson, where their wants are being well looked after by Mr. H. J. C. Burgess, the genial proprietor.

The delegates are from all corners of the banner province of Canada, as far east as Cornwall west from Chatham and north from Port Arthur, Sault Ste. Marie and the Silver City of Cobalt in New Ontario. There are thirty-three delegates in session, including a number of the clergy.

At 8.15 o'clock this morning Mass was celebrated in the vestry of St. Mary's church by Rev. Dr. Burke, of Toronto, who is a delegate. The session opened this morning at ten o'clock in the Knights of Columbus rooms, in the Parish Hall, when the regular routine of business was transacted. Owing to the unavoidable absence of Deputy State Warden J. A. Chisholm, of Belleville, who is in California owing to ill health, Past Deputy State Warden D. O'Connell, of Peterborough, presided. The session adjourned at one o'clock for luncheon, and continued again at two o'clock. It is expected that the session will be completed this evening and the delegates will return to their respective homes to-morrow morning.

Mr. H. Phelan, of Peterborough, is one of the delegates.

THE NEW SULTAN PLOWS FURROW

Constantinople, May 12.—Mehemed V. ended his "coronation day" by plowing a furrow in the lawn at Dolmabagtche Palace, symbolically at least, by holding the low handles for a fraction of a minute, while two horses dragged it a few yards. In carrying out the ancient test, Mehemed V. showed himself to be sound of body and fit to bear the physical burdens of the empire.

It had been a day both of fulfillment of ancient customs and of the breaking of them. Christians were for the first time admitted to the small mosque attached to Ayoub Mosque and allowed to see the ceremony of girding the sword of Osman upon the Sultan. Among thirty persons present were Bucknam Pasha, a Canadian, and Woods Pasha, an Englishman, both of whom are in the Turkish service.

PREMIER MORRIS IS VICTORIOUS

St. John's, Nfld., May 12.—Practically complete returns from the voting in Saturday's election, show that the party headed by Sir Edward Morris has won an overwhelming victory and that Premier Morris will have 26 members of the Legislature as against ten supporters of Sir Robert Bond, the former head of the Government.

In the voting last November each side elected eighteen members, a situation which resulted in Saturday's balloting.

Premier Morris and his two colleagues carried the west division of St. John's. Bond and two supporters were elected in Twillingate.

Burlington is installing a waterworks system.

FIVE YEARS IN THE PEN

Bancroft Man Given Severe Sentence by Belleville Judge for Stabbing

Special to the Review.

Belleville, May 12— Emmanuel Hannah, of Bancroft, was this morning before Judge Deroche, found guilty of stabbing Louis Saucier, of the same village and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. For assaulting William Baudry who tried to prevent the crime, Hannah received two years, the sentences to run together.

PARIS RESEMBLES BESIEGED CITY

Troops are in Possession of the Central Post and Telegraph Companies

Special to the Review.

Paris, May 12—Paris today resembles a city in a state of siege. Troops are in possession of the central post and telegraph stations and squads of infantrymen are posted around every branch office while the streets are being patrolled by the mounted republican guards. All this is to protect the postal employees who are willing to work in spite of the strike declarations. So far the strike is not very serious few besides the railway mail clerks having gone out. The leaders, however, express themselves as confident that the strike will spread rapidly and eventually tie up the whole government machinery.

AN IMMENSE DECREASE

There has been a falling-off in the export trade of butter of 75 per cent. It fell from $7,000,000 in 1907 to $1,000,000 in 1908. Cheese also has fallen by no less than $2,000,000 in the export trade in the same period. In livestock the falling-off has been even more extensive. Sir Sidney Fisher, the Minister of Agriculture, said that he was of opinion that it was due to the increased demand in the home-market. Anti-protectionists will please take notice of that confession, wrung from a minister by force of circumstances However, that does not account for all statistics of internal population and trade do not warrant Sir Sidney Fisher's statement.

AND FREEDOM SHRIEKED ETC.

In accordance with the wishes of its fair passengers, the Allan Line has introduced a mixed smoking room on the steamship Virginian, which arrived in port on Saturday evening, and on the voyage out the ladies and gentlemen smoked together in huge enjoyment of the novelty.—Montreal Star.

So long as women do not chew or spit it may be doubted—by some—if smoking by them is objectionable. Freedom of manners characterized the Nero's times. It is true the women of that day did not smoke, since there was nothing for them to smoke, tobacco not having been introduced for several centuries afterwards. Now, however, the dear creatures propose to make up for it, and to enjoy a weed with the best of us. There may be no good reason why a woman should not smoke if a man may, but we have not time to discuss that. Women are bound to be on a level with men. We, modest creatures, had hoped that they would continue to be above that level. The time may come when women will do as they wish in everything. They pretty nearly do that now. And when that time comes, men may also have to do as they, the women, wish, in order that the prophecy may be fulfilled which said that they should raise Cain where none grew before. We at last understand what the poet Campbell meant when he alleged that freedom shrieked when Kosciusko fell. He meant freedom of manners.

A NEW DODGE

It is quite a modern and latterday discovery, this plan of having the government guarantee the credit of private enterprise. The so-called beauty of it, too, is that it can only apply to the capitalists since they are the only men who issue bonds or need guaranteed credit for big undertakings. When a government is face to face with having to take over any enterprise or to make good its guarantee it is of course, prepared to give away a great deal rather than do either. Here is where the money-man scores again. In fact he has nothing to lose and everything to gain. It has been so with the Grand Trunk Pacific which got a loan (that will never be paid) out of the government simply because the government had guaranteed the Company's bonds and it will be so with the Georgian Bay Canal. This sort of business is getting to be a huge swindle upon the patient tax-paying public and ought to be stopped, but will it? The next thing will be a transcontinental line of airships with bonds guaranteed. Meanwhile the manufacturer, the direct employer of labor, the farmer, the artisan, etc. get no such favors and may go on indefinitely to "groan and sweat under a weary life." It is this sort of humbug that has produced great revolutions. Look out for it.

THE GEORGIAN BAY NIGHTMARE

"We have the capital necessary to build the first section of the Georgian Bay canal extending eighty-one miles from Georgian Bay to North Bay." This was the statement made this morning by Sir Robert W. Perks, who is on his way to lay the matter before the Canadian Government at Ottawa. "The terms we are asking," continued Sir Robert, "are that the Government should guarantee the bonds at 3 per cent., and in consideration the Government would be represented in the company having control of the canal. This company would be a Canadian one, and the Government would have the right to fix the rates. If the Government thinks fit this section will be followed by another section extending to Ottawa, to be constructed either consecutively or simultaneously. In the meantime we are confining our attention to the first section, and if the Government accept the offer, the work will be commenced by next May. When this section of the canal has been completed, a temporary port corresponding to Buffalo will be made on the east side of Lake Nipissing, so that wheat shipments coming down the lake can be taken through the canal and docked at this port, where the freight can be directly transferred to the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways.

"In this undertaking we would stipulate to retain the Government engineers who have already been over the ground in the employ of the old Georgian Bay Company. The Government has made some improvements in some sections of the plans and these we will adopt.

"It is my belief," said Sir Robert, "that the Canadian Government will not be called upon for any portion of the guarantee, because the through trade will be more than sufficient to cover the Government's guaranteed 3 per cent. bonds and half per cent for a sinking fund, which will extinguish the bonds in sixty or seventy years. The proceeds of the enterprise should be shared between the Dominion Government and the canal stockholders. In this way the canal would be built at the smallest possible risk to the Government, and at the same time would allow it to participate in the profits and have some share in the control."

Sir Robert held a long conference with Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, to-day, and to-morrow will leave for Ottawa, where he will remain for two or three weeks furthering the plans for the canal proposition.—The Montreal Star

Sir Robert Perks has some strange ideas. One of them is that Methodists should live wholly and exclusively to themselves, that they should trade only with each other, and generally that they should show that they are the sole and only elect of God by ignoring everybody else. A few years ago Sir Robert favoured Canada with a visit, and when this peculiar doctrine of his was referred to by interviewers he acknowledged it with pride. So far then he is a man of big ideas. But in order that there may be no doubt as to his energy and capacity, he proposes to build for us, and of course, with our money, a Georgian Bay canal extending from Georgian Bay to Ottawa, at an expense estimated to be 110 millions of dollars. It would be twice that. However, the canal would connect us with the west—for five months of the year! It would cheapen the transportation of western grain and put out own farmers out of business. No doubt Sir Robert sees that the grain trade of the west is about to go by the Pacific, and that the Panama canal will render unnecessary a Georgian Bay canal, so he is hurrying out in person to get Canada committed to the scheme. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, apparently, desires to be known after death as the builder par excellence, in Canadian history. It is true that the people supply the money, but he supplies the brains and reap the glory. The province of Ontario will be completely sidetracked by such an enterprise. Quebec, lying as it does at the end, not the side of such a system, would be considerably more fortunate. Anyhow, Pugsley wishes it, and that ought to be enough. The time to build, even if it were only a hen-house, is when the men, the money and the materials are at hand. The "men" are here. Royal Commissioners and their scathing reports have testified to that many a time And it must be remembered that men with money cannot make money unless money is being spent in great schemes. The capitalists admire Sir Wilfrid intensely, and undoubtedly he is a man of "big ideas," which would not be so serious for us if he were spending his own money. True, in the past Conservative ministers have on occasion been extravagant, but their ideas were child's-play in comparison. Five millions of people plus two millions of immigrants are asked to build, build, build. Meanwhile, like all people in debt to the banks, they are personally poor. Is the county of Peterborough so magnificently developed in every sense for the comfort, convenience and material advantage of its people that they should want to build up another country for somebody else? Scarcely. We are being made hewers of wood, drawers of water, or slaves to the greed of money-makers, who no sooner have skimmed the cream off an enterprise than they come back for more in the shape of a loan. But the Globe will endorse it, and it was just such work that landed the Ross Government where it did land. Let it always be remembered that the money now being sent abroad in payment for foreign goods which pay a "moderate-tariff" duty and furnish us with our "bounding" revenue, is money that was laid by and built up under the N.P. In time it will have disappeared. Our industries will have shrunk and we will have the experience. Then will the ruins of the G. B. canal testify as a monument to the stupidity and enterprise of the Canadian people.

MR. SEXSMITH M. P.

Mr. Sexsmith:—I would like to ask the Minister if he intends to put up an experimental cold storage station for apples, as recommended in a previous discussion in the House?—Hansard.

Throughout this, his first session, Mr. Sexsmith, the member in the House of Commons for East Peterborough, has shown himself to be keenly alive to the interests of the farmer. The agricultural interests of not only his own riding, but of the whole of Canada, cannot help profitting by his watchfulness of those interests, his constant attendance at the House, his capabilities in debating the question under review and his manifest honesty, straightforwardness and sincerity. If there were more representatives like him and fewer representatives of the stock-exchange and other sources of universal harm to the country it would be vastly better. Something real then would be done for the country and for the people. We should not be the victims of graft and rottenness.

MR. HASSARD AND GEORGE ST.

Mr. Hassard, the secretary of the YMCA. has well-founded ideas upon the necessity of a Christian's really being what he or she pretends to be. He does not hesitate to put the case plainly albeit calmly and considerately. He called attention in his address to the young men of George St. Methodist church recently to the absolute necessity of being a Christian in deed as well as in word. This fact has been too long ignored. The great outside sceptical or barbarian world as it may be called looks on at the worldliness of so-called Christians, shrugs its great shoulders in derision and goes on its way more than ever convinced that the secret of eternal life has not yet been found. Such so-called Christians therefore betray Christ. They pin their name to their front and blazon themselves to the world as if indeed this were the "sign" that was to be given them Everywhere in the life and words of Christ and most of all in His death do we find His consistent and persistent desire to do good, to help and to save. Boys and girls will be boys and girls but when they wake to the responsibilities of life and become Christians they should cease to be mere boys and girls. They become the children of God. Ignoring this grave and serious responsibility they find diversion in worldly amusements. What does that show but that they are worldly. If their highest and constant aim were to lose no time in saving souls, both by precept and example they would have less need of reducing their faith to a working basis of fun. The world notes all these shortcomings and seeing no difference in principle and not except in form between the pretensions of Christians who revel in entertainment as it may best suit their tastes and inclinations and the pretensions of themselves who enjoy amusements too it scoffs and why not!

EDITORIAL NOTES

The new American tariff bill makes our British preference a penalty.

Prosperity has returned in the U. S. with a rush. Business is enormous. How will the Globe explain this in view of American protective fallacies.

Come on with your rural mail delivery! No shirking or bluff. The farmers, their wives and daughters demand it and must have it, and the Review will never stop calling for it.

Will someone explain how it is that Canadian capitalists are so fond of investing in United States securities? At the present time some $120,000,000 of our cash is placed that way. Meanwhile we borrow from the outside. No country can stand this. It is being bled at both extremes.

OF INTEREST

Berlin

There is no European nation that has altered within a single generation in so many essential qualities as Germany. That there has been a change and a deep change the very stones of Berlin cry aloud. The great city on the banks of the Spree, a generation ago little more than a placid village is to-day a stirring metropolis whose style of existence marks the vastness of the distance that Germany has travelled in the last forty years.

There may be plenty of high thinking done in the capital—done by men whose salaries, worldliness and activities make the old type of German professor seem an impossible anachronism—but it is certainly no longer a city of conspicuously plain living. The rents are such as to open up even a Londoner's eyes, household expenses are proportionately severe and the clubs, the theatres, and, above all, the hotels and restaurants, point in a direction that does not lead by any means to economy.

There are hotels to-day in Berlin that are little if at all, behind the est of those in New York. True, they are not built for, and possibly are not greatly patronized by the Berliners themselves, to whom the cafe is still the choicest and most popular resort but their mere presence suggests an emphatic change from the old ways. Berlin is as much an affair of our own time as Chicago. Its past is overlaid by the raucous and insistent present. It is a triumph of mechanics little more.

True, the labor of building it has been far more dexterously bidden than is the case with most American cities. It escapes the deadly uniformity, the prosaic rectangular precision, the dreadful air of having been hit off at at a stroke and dumped down by contract that characterize New York. The streets have curves, are spacious, shaded with avenues of trees, faultlessly asphalted and clean with a cleanliness surpassing that of Paris.

The white buildings the crystaline air, the uniforms and the eternal salute, the overwhelming intimations of a planned, ordered, thought-out scheme, combined to produce an effect of which I can say no more and no less than that it is handsome. The architecture, to be sure, is riotously exuberantly florid, but for all that, a drive from the Unter den Linden to Charlottenburg will take one past a succession of finer, or at any rate, more imposing, houses than either London or New York can show in such serried profusion.

Yet it fails to convey the London or the Parisian effect of cosmopolitanism. In Berlin court officialdom only puts a little gilding on a life full of crudeness and materialism, and society is furiously, spitefully sectional.

Niagara and Victoria Compared

Lord Curzon recently visited the Victoria Falls of the Zambesi River, and in the Times he tells with much vividness his impressions of that magnificent spectacle;

The Victoria Falls of the Zambesi River are among the great sights of the world. Where only ten years ago they had been seen by a few hundred Europeans at the most, perhaps only by a few score, now that the railway has been opened and that express and excursion trains are run from the great cities and the coast they are attracting and will continue to attract, a yearly increasing stream of visitors, until it will become as much a mark of cultured travel to have been to the Victoria Falls as to have seen Niagara.

"One of the glories of Niagara is the great sweep of water, deep and swift and irresistible, in the bed of the river above the cataract. The Zambesi presents a very different spectacle. Although at a short distance above the falls it expands into a broad lake where regattas can be held and sailing is a safe and agreeable pastime, as it approaches the hidden chasm it becomes parcelled up into innumerable channels and rapids running through boulders and between grassy tufts and islets and is in many parts fordable in dry weather. A canoe can then take the sightseer with perfect safety to any of the larger islands and will probably run aground on the way.

"The two islands most commonly visited, because they are on the lip of the fall are Cataract Island and Livingstone Island. On the latter the tree upon which the great missionary traveller cut his initials still —although no trace of the inscription now survives —and is not by any means dying, as the guide books say.

"The edge once passed, the Victoria Falls appear to the writer to excel in grandeur any spectacle of the same kind in the world. For they possess two incomparable features. In the first place, the cliff wall down which they are hurled is sheer from top to bottom, 350 ft to 400 ft, of perpendicular descent, uninterrupted save where in some places gigantic masses of basalt, split off or eroded by the same process as has formed the chasm itself, lie at the base and shatter the descending columns into a tempest of foam. Conceive a black wall, as high as Shakespeare's Cliff at Dover, nearly as high as the Cross of St Paul's and over a mile in length and over the top of this tremendous precipice a continuous cataract of water toppling down from the sky, save in the three places where larger islands, carrying their growth of jungle right to the edge of the abyss, have protected a section of the cliff and interposed a gleaming surface of ebon rock between the snowy fleeces of the falls on either side.

"The second feature is more remarkable still. The majority of falls can only be seen at an angle from the banks of the river below, or from a considerable distance, should the river make a bend or from some convenient artificial standpoint, like the Suspension Bridge at Niagara. But here, at the Zambesi, Nature herself has supplied the most wonderful platforms which it is possible to conceive, with belvederes or outlook towers built out at convenient points for the spectator to take his view.

"The formation of the gorge is responsible for this astonishing feature. Although the river discharges itself in an almost straight line—unlike the great curve of the Horseshoe Fall at Niagara—into the chasm below, there is only one outlet from this chasm, and that is about three-quarters of the way across from the left or southern bank where the entire water that has come over the fall forces its way through a single aperture only 100 yards wide into the whirlpool known as the Boiling Pot, and commences its zigzag descent through the forty-five miles of canon towards the sea. The consequence is that, except at this spot, the entire volume of water as it falls is pent up in the chasm, which is seldom more than 150 yards in width and has to flow from left to right in order to make its way out by the solitary gap; and here comes Nature's unique gift.

"From left to right or from right to left we can walk along the near side of the chasm from end to end, save at the point of exit, and gaze at the falls immediately opposite as though we were standing in some showman's panorama and were looking across an intervening hollow, devised to assist the illusion, at the painted canvas beyond. Only here is no artificial picture, but the living masterpiece of a more than human showman; tangible, because the scud of the spray storm lashes us in the face, throbbing with movement, because the heaven above and the earth beneath appear to be equally in travail; audible, because in our ears is the rattle of eternal thunder.

"The main portion of the bank which provides great natural stage or platform—stretching from the southern end of the Falls, where is the Devil's Cataract, to the gap through which the entire river charges into the Boiling Pot—is the well-known Rain Forest. The name is appropriate as well as picturesque, for the spray from the falls, rising in a stupendous column from the chasm below, falls in an incessant rain-shower on this tongue of land—three-parts tree-jungle and one-part grass; a rain so overpowering that it drips in torrents from every branch and leaf, rustles in the coarse grass, lies in pools on the ground, and in a very few minutes soaks the sightseer to the skin.

THE ETERNAL SPRAY-STORM.

"'Along this strip of land, which constitutes the eastern boundary wall of the chasm, and is exactly on a level with the lip of the Falls, a pathway has been made through the sodden grass and the dripping trees; and from this pathway, at the distance of every 50 yards to 100 yards, smaller tracks strike out to the vantage points at the edge of the chasm which I have likened to belvederes. At any one of these bastions a man can walk to the very brink immediately opposite him, and so close that he can almost pitch a stone into it, is the descending wall of foam, and from the pit below there leaps up in volleys like small shot, and with a fury that blinds and stuns, the eternal spray-storm.'"

WHAT A GREAT MAN SAID TO THE GREAT AMERICAN PEOPLE

Parisian Sage is a discovery of a celebrated scientist, who spent the best years of his life in perfecting this great hair tonic.

In giving his recipe to the American people he said, "Parisian Sage is the most delightful hair dressing in the world, but it is more than a hair dressing. It cures dandruff by killing the germs that infest the roots of the hair; it stops falling hair; it gives vigor and strength to the hair roots. W. Madill, druggist, Peterborough, sells Parisian Sage at 50 cents a large bottle and guarantees it to do all that is claimed for it, or your money is refunded. If you do not reside near a druggist who sells Parisian Sage, send 50 cents to Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont., and a bottle will be sent you all charges prepaid.

LAKEFIELD

Special to the Review.

Lakefield, May 11.—The School Board held their regular meeting in the town hall on Monday, 10th inst. Mr. C. S. Tanner occupied the chair, and others present were J. Hull, S. S Burns, J. Creighton, J. W. Ridpath, J. S. Gibson.

After routine business was attended to the board listened to the remarks of a few gentlemen on the question of the advisability of collecting a fee from the High school pupils. The matter was fully discussed from its many phases, but in view of the fact that other towns and villages around us are collecting a large fee, and of the recommendation of the principal and the two county inspectors that a fee be charged, the board declined to rescind the motion which empowers the collection of a fee of five dollars.

Capt. Calcutt, of the steamer "Beaver," was in town on Monday, and reports that this steamer is now ready for traffic. It has been very much improved since last season, so much so that those who knew her last season will hardly recognize her as the same boat.

Geo. Hillard, jr., left on Tuesday for Gowganda. He is going in via Bellwood, and will have to carry a heavy sixteen-foot canoe and provisions some five miles. We hope George will strike it rich. He has armed himself with a first-class Kodak, so that he may give his friends some life pictures of scenes in Gowganda district.

Messrs. H. Choate, Dr. Munro and J. Kidd, of Warsaw, were in the village last week.

J. W. Cornish was called to Orono on Monday, owing to the illness of his father.

The regular monthly meeting of the Municipal Council of the village of Lakefield was held in the town hall, Lakefield, on Monday, May 10. Those present were Reeve Kidd, Councillors Bravender, Moore, Robson and White.

The minutes of the last regular meeting and of the special meeting of April 22nd were read and adopted.

The treasurer's statement of receipts and expenditures from January 1st to date was received and placed on file.

The Financial Committee presented the following report—

To the Reeve and Council of Village of Lakefield—

Gentlemen,—We, your Finance Committee, having examined the accounts mentioned in the following list, and finding the same correct, recommend that they be paid:

Jas. Long, work, $14.25; Wm. Smith work, $12.30; O. Northey, teaming, $12.50; S. Graham, teaming, $12.68; R. White, work, $2.40; J. Kidd, work $9; G. Weaver, work, $4.65; J. Weaver work, $3; A. E. Griffin, repairing saws, 35c.; G. Fitzgerald, repairs, etc. $1.75; J. E. Kelly, teaming, $1.25; F. J. Moore, cement tile bases, $1.50; Lillicrap Lath Co., lumber, $3.65; A. A. Langley, legal, $5; Lakefield Electric Light Co., $57.97; Denniston, Peck and Stevenson, school debentures $35.50.

Moved by Councillor Moore, seconded by Councillor Bravender, that the report of the Finance Committee be received and adopted.—Carried.

Moved by Councillor Bravender, seconded by Councillor Moore, that Constable Webster be authorized to call on liverymen for tenders for watering the street for the season of 1909; tenders to be received up to and including May 29th, 1909.

Moved by Councillor Moore, seconded by Councillor Bravender, that the Court of Revision be held on the 28th day of May.—Carried.

By-law No. 467 entitled a by-law to authorize the cutting and removal of certain trees on Clementi street, in the village of Lakefield, received its several readings, was passed and sealed and signed by Reeve and clerk.

Rule of order No. 50 being in motion suspended for evening Council then adjourned.

The steamer Empress is now plying daily between Lakefield and Stony Lake points.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Davis, of Toronto, are now at their cottage at Stony Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Parks, of Lisle, Ont., who are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul, are mourning the loss of their youngest child, who died suddenly on Monday. The funeral took place on Wednesday.

The rain keeps coming and the farmers are still unable to get the seed in the ground.

Mr. Bedford, of England, is visiting his brother, Rev. J. Bedford.

Lakefield public school baseball team played a friendly game with the Lakefield Preparatory school team on Friday afternoon. The game resulted in a victory for the public school boys.

Chief Webster placed a man behind the bars on Tuesday for being drunk on the street.

Mr. C. L. Bickell has his auto in good repair again and made his first trip to Peterborough on Saturday evening.

Mr. Samuel Spence is having his house on Queen street considerably enlarged and remodelled, and when completed, is going to occupy it himself.

The repair gang of the Bell Telephone Co. arrived in Lakefield on Tuesday and are putting the several pole lines of the company in this vicinity in good repair.

Rev. Father Phelan, of Young's Point, was in the village Tuesday.

Nurse Walsh, who has been attending Mrs. (Dr.) Gibson, returned to her home in Keene Tuesday.

J. S. Knapman, of Peterborough, was in town on Saturday last on business.

Mr. Davis of Warsaw, was in the village Tuesday on business.

AN OPEN LETTER

Results so Surprising That They Seem Marvelous Are Common to Mi-o-na the One Dependable Stomach Remedy.

Mrs. J. A. Pillow, of North Street, Gananoque, Ont., says: "Mi-o-na is worth its weight in gold for quickly and permanently curing dyspepsia. I became so bad that I was a constant burning in my stomach, I would belch up gas every few minutes and could eat but very little, as the food would quickly ferment and make gas that caused a serious depression of the heart. Perspiration would break out all over my body, I would become so weak that I could not stir an would often fall on the floor in a helpless state. The pains in my stomach were terrible. I could find no position in which to sit or lie without suffering, and I was so nervous that the least noise affected me. Headaches were constant, I would become and dizzy and spots would appear before my eyes. I had no ambition to get around and everything seemed to tire me. The first box of Mi-o-na gave me more relief than anything I had previously tried. The box of Mi-o-na cured me. I am well and strong and I have not had an hour's suffering since. I will always feel grateful to Mi-o-na for the cure given me and glad to recommend."

In the face of such evidence it is easy to understand why Wm. Madill, druggist, Peterborough, feels assured in saying to you, money back if Mi-o-na fails to relieve either trivial or serious stomach trouble.

THE HOOK

Lindsay's chief of police has received a "black hand" letter. It is suspected that it came from the sporting editor of the Warder.

Pat Powers is suing Tom Longboat. Like most legal cases, this one will likely go the Marathon distance.

Among the things that are fit for the gods is the theatre gallery.

An automobile called at Lindsay on Monday. Thus is civilization spreading.

Sound In the Air.

A writer in the Strand Magazine describes the astonishment he experienced when riding over London in a balloon at a height of more than half a mile he heard the deafening roar of the great city beneath him as it could not be heard when on the ground. The noise, even at that height, was so harsh and intense as to be painful to the ear. How perfect a sound conductor the air is was shown when the balloon drifted far over the city to a wooded part of the country, where the murmur of the leaves moved by the wind, half a mile below, was distinctly heard.

IN SYDENHAM'S TIME.

Governor-General Was 56 Hours Going From Montreal to Kingston.

The day of railways was just dawning in Canada when Lord Sydenham, Governor-General of Canada, left his description of a trip of 56 hours from Montreal to Kingston. In 1836, three years before his arrival, the road from Laprairie to St. Johns, Que., about seventeen miles in length, and the first in this country, had been opened, and in 1839 a little line at the Albion Coal Mines in Pictou County, Nova Scotia, was put in operation. It was not until 1850 that the first sod was turned on the first railway in Upper Canada—the old Northern, which, in June, 1853, was opened for traffic between Toronto and Bradford. Freight, in Sydenham's time, was transported in summer by water and in winter by means of sleighs. Steamboats were plying on the St. Lawrence and the Great Lakes, and in every harbor of the Maritime Provinces coasting schooners were to be seen discharging and taking on cargoes. In winter, when the snow roads were good and large loads could be hauled by a team of horses, great quantities of produce were taken into the cities. Although the population was much smaller than it is to-day, there was, perhaps, more "teaming" then on the main highways than there is at present, because one railway train to-day moves more freight than all the teams of an entire community could then move in the course of a winter. The freight carriers of seventy years ago usually journeyed in companies, their long strings of sleighs winding over the hills and across the ice-bridges of the rivers towards the city market. Along the southern border of Quebec large quantities of produce came across from Vermont, for the customs duties amounted to very little, and the Montreal market was nearer than any equally large market in their own country.

It was a common sight in those winters to see a string of a dozen or fifteen long sleighs driven by correspondingly tough Vermonters and loaded with the frozen carcasses of sheep, wending their way through the southeastern counties towards Montreal. The country taverns then did a thriving trade putting up these freighters and their teams.

For return loads these teamsters had the supplies for the country stores. Not much flour was hauled for at that time every farmer in Eastern Canada—and in fact there was no Western Canada then—grew wheat which was ground at the local mill and formed the breadstuff of the whole community; but the teamsters' sleighs carried away fro mthe city puncheons of molasses, barrels of brown sugar, boxes of tea, webs of cotton, hardware and crockery. There was no ready-made clothing, and comparatively little woollen cloth sold from the cities, for about every large farmhouse had its spinning-wheel and loom. Flannel, dress goods and suitings were made from the wool grown on the farm. The women made their own dresses, and the traveling tailor made the men's clothes on the spot. The village shoemaker, hatter and wheelwright made the people's head and footwear and their carts and wagons.

Such were some of the conditions of the "good old times" of Lord Sydenham's day, when he found it so difficult to reach Kingston from Montreal—but good only in the sense that it is human to look backward with "melancholy pleasure," and fondly regret the thing that has been and the flight of time.

An Interesting Wedding.

A marriage of more than the usual social interest to people in Ontario will take place shortly in New York. This will be the wedding of Mr. Matthew Astor Wilks, of Galt, and Miss Sylvia Green, only daughter of Mrs. Hetty Green, the famous woman financier of New York.

Both the contracting parties in this prospective event have rather remarkably family connections. Oddly enough very few people in Ontario know much about the Wilks family of Galt. Their home, Cruickston Park, is an imposing one. Its mistress is Miss Katherine Langdon Wilks who, any well-informed horseman will tell you, is one of the best judges and largest owners of thoroughbreds, not only in Canada, but in America. Mr. M. A. Wilks, who is to wed Miss Green, was reared at the Galt home, but for some years he has lived in New York, where he is a well-known horseman and a member of a number of big clubs, such as the Knickerbocker and the Union.

Nearly a Tragedy.

There was much excitement and some well grounded alarm at a fashionable Toronto pension one day recently. A box of quinine tablets had been left within reach of the two-year-old child of the house, and when its abstraction was discovered, the contents, about a dozen pills, had disappeared. The worst was feared, and a telephone message from the doctor assured the anxious parents that if baby had swallowed the pellets he was poisoned. A time-honored, home-brewed medicine was promptly administered, and the boy was stood on his head and urged to be ill.

Like Rudyard Kipling's navvy, who was not poisoned, but merely intoxicated, the little lad wondered what it was all about, but before the stage of violent protest was reached, the whole twelve quinine pills had been located in various corners of the hall, and all the remedial activity subsided.

The Canadian Transcontinentals.

It is authoritatively stated that the two new transcontinental railway systems of Canada—the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern—which utilize the Yellowhead Pass through the Rockies, have asked the British Columbia Government for financial assistance. The Premier, Hon. R. McBride, is, it is reported, contemplating the building of a Government line from the provincial boundary in the pass to Vancouver, and is thinking of giving running rights over it to all the railways. This would obviate the construction of two or three parallel railways from Edmonton to the coast, and would save millions of dollars.

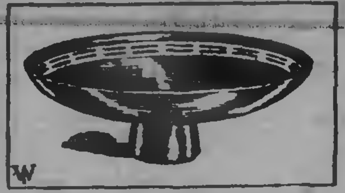
Hon. P. H. Ray was indicted at Quebec on a charge of making false returns to the Government.

Woman's World

MISS LEACH HONORED.

Mikado Presents to Her a Handsome Gold Cup.

Professor Abby Leach of Vassar college has been honored by the mikado of Japan with a distinction which comes to few and which has never before come to an American woman. It is the custom of the Japanese emperors to present cups of gold or silver or lacquer to those whom they wish to honor, and to Miss Leach his imperial majesty has sent a golden cup in recognition of her services to the cause of education. The honor came through Viscount Kaneko, now a member of the emperor's privy council and the special envoy of Japan to America during the Russo-Japanese war.



GOLDEN CUP PRESENTED TO PROFESSOR ABBY LEACH OF VASSAR COLLEGE.

The cup is of solid gold, very heavy and of graceful design. It came wrapped in a double square of Habutai silk, of a kind made only for imperial use, while the box is of chrysanthemum wood, which is also dedicated to imperial use. Inside the bowl is engraved a chrysanthemum, the imperial emblem.

Last May Miss Leach was a guest of honor at a dinner given at the Hotel Astor, New York city, by Consul General Midzuno, one of the guests being also Ambassador Takahira. The other guests were persons who had received decorations from the emperor, and Miss Leach was then informed that the emperor wished to bestow a similar honor upon her.

Miss Leach was born in Brockton, Mass., and is the daughter of Marcus Leach, a pioneer shoe manufacturer. She was the first student at Radcliffe college, then Harvard annex, but took her degrees of bachelor and master of arts at Vassar, and later she studied at the University of Leipzig. In 1889 she became a professor at Vassar. She is now a member of the fellowship committee of the American school at Athens and vice president of the school and college organization of the middle states and Maryland. She has been president of the Philological association and is a frequent contributor to philological journals.

Can You Spell?

If you think you can, ask somebody to dictate the following jumble to you and see how many mistakes you make!

Antinous, a disappointed, desiccated physicist, was peeling potatoes in an embarrassing and harassing way. His idiosyncrasy and privilege was to eat mayonnaise and mussels while staring at the Pleiades and seizing people's tricycles and velocipedes. He was an erring teetotaler and had been on a picayune jamboree. He rode a palfrey stallion and carried a salable papier mache bouquet of asters, phlox, mullein, chrysanthemums, rhododendrons, fuchsias and nasturtiums.

He wore a sibyl's resplendent turquoise paraphernalia, an ormolu yashmak and astrakhan chaparejos. He drank crystallizable and disagreeable curacao juleps through a sieve. He stole some moneys and hid them under a peddler's mahogany bedstead and mattress.

Like a fiend in an ecstasy of gayety, I rushed after him into the maelstrom or melee and held him as in a vise. I could not feaze him, however, and he addressed me, with autocracy, in the following imbecile words, which sounded like a soliloquy or a superseding paean on an oboe:

"You are a ratable inna moth, a salaaming vizier, an equinoctial coryphee and an isosceles daguerreotype."—Bookman.

The Bore, That Awful Nuisance.

Did you ever stop to think how many people you know bore you? They drain your personality. They never know when they have stayed long enough and talked long enough.

Now, the great question is, How far should we let them go? They bore into our personality, and they feed upon our resources, and we feel tired without just knowing why, remarks an exchange.

Of course there are different kinds of bores. For instance, there is the bore with the hobby. He is really the most harmless kind, for he just keeps on hammering on the same old thing, and he says so much that we can be thinking our own thoughts and what he is saying is not important enough to interrupt. About the simplest way to get rid of him is to send him on to some one else.

But the worst kind of a bore is the one who has no particular object. He just likes to bask in the sunshine of your society, to listen to you talk on a variety of subjects and to take up the best hours of your working day.

If any one has a real remedy for this bore, one that is tried and true, for humanity's sake let us have it.

Turkish Paste the Latest.

The college girl's chafing dish is responsible for many startling decoctions. The latest debutante in this line is Turkish paste, greenish in color and very toothsome. The following is the recipe given for this dainty by one college girl:

Dissolve three tablespoonfuls of granulated gelatin in a cupful of cold water. Meanwhile let two cupfuls of granulated sugar dissolve in half a cupful of cold water. When both are ready, beat the sugar and water to the boiling point and add the gelatin; the latter should be thoroughly softened and the water all absorbed. Cook twenty minutes after the boiling begins. Then turn out the blaze of the lamp or remove the dish from the stove and add a couple of tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and four tablespoonfuls of creme de menthe. Stir in enough green coloring to make a delicate tint, like the bonbons of the kind bought at the confectioner's. Turn the mixture into unbuttered pans and when cold enough cut into squares. Loosen the paste with the point of a knife and gently pull it from the pan. Roll the squares in confectioner's sugar.

Domestic In Her Tastes.

Mary Roberts Rinehart, who is in the limelight just now on account of the success of her mystery novel, "The Circular Staircase," is the least sensational and the most domestic of women. She just sits at home and digs. She has tenacity, cheerfulness and a sense of humor, also a devoted husband and three small boys. When she began to write, she used to read her stories aloud to her husband, a young physician and a lawyer, gathered for a weekly bridge game in her Pittsburg home, and they would stand on their chairs and talk at the top of their voices so that she could not possibly be heard. She had her moment of triumph when the first check came and was passed around in dumfounded silence. Mrs. Rinehart was mighty haughty.

Just Keep Busy.

Does your head ache? Sample the laugh cure. Are the children obstreperous? Don't mope over your sorry lot, but charm them with a smile. Does the future seem a coal black wall? See what kind of a wedge a day of cheerfulness can make.

Gladness never comes with time to think about your troubles, so get busy. The full life is rarely the somber life.

Get grateful for your mercies. You may think it takes a magnifying glass to find them, but the eye is sharpened by the looking.

If you have no other cause for gladness, if your friends are not what they should be, if fortune frowns and things generally seem "rank," just be glad you are alive!

To Enlarge Windows.

A very good way to make windows appear larger than they really are is to secure strips of wood about two inches wide and of a length to extend six or eight inches beyond the edges of the sash frames, instead of using the ordinary poles as wide as the window. Lace curtains falling only to the window sill may be hung on small brass rods set inside frames and long curtains of semiopaque goods tacked on a strip in plaits, leaving open a space of one foot in the center. A valance across the top completes the arrangement.

A Bride's Problem.

The most important business a bride has to face is the choice of her new friends and the making of a social circle which is to last herself and her husband through a lifetime. When the newly married couple are settled into their home people begin to call. All sorts and kinds of people flock round the honeymooners. The bride has the responsibility of choosing which are to be friends and which mere acquaintances.

A Quickly Made Centerpiece.

A centerpiece that can be made with little or no trouble is a circle of linen with a border of two or three inch cluny lace gathered round the edge. The thread of the lace is drawn, and it is put on just full enough so that it lies perfectly flat without ruffling.

A little in from the edge is worked a monogram in satin stitch. This is heavily padded and is embroidered in a fine mercerized cotton.

Salad Dressing.

The ideal salad dressing is made with lemon juice and the finest olive oil, the lemon juice being far more wholesome than vinegar, which is extremely bad for many stomachs.

One-fourth lemon juice to three parts of the oil makes a dressing that most people like, while others who care less for oil like it half and half.

Often one sees a woman with dark brown rings below the eyes, also mottled over the face and frequently upon the forehead. This is due to intestinal trouble of a serious nature, and only a reliable physician should prescribe for such when medicinal aid is needed.

"I met a curious trio of sisters coming home on the steamer," said the man just back from London. "Their names were Rose, Blanche and Violet. I wonder why their parents did not call them patriotically Red, White and Blue."

When material is to be cut away under lace, use a piece of pasteboard four inches long, rounded at one end and cut wide enough to slip along between the lace and material. This will make the work easier and safer.

When knitting stockings or socks it will be found that they will last twice as long if a strand of silk or thread be knitted into the toes and heels together with the wool.

The motherly woman who has raised half a dozen children can beat all the divas that ever "dove" at singing lullabies that really lull.

Ottawa union musicians are forbidden to play in Sunday school orchestras unless paid at union rates.

The Duke of Norfolk has presented Sheffield with a park worth $300,000.

PLACING TABLE SILVER.

Where and How Forks and Spoons "Ought to Go."

Many inexperienced hostesses who wish to give a more or less formal luncheon or dinner are not quite sure how forks and spoons should go.

Custom varies somewhat in this respect, and just at present it is not so much in favor to have an array of silver resembling a jeweler's display at each plate. Only enough for one or two courses are laid.

In any case the forks go to the left of the plate. In the order of using they are taken from the outside in. The spoons and knives, in their order, are at the right of the plate.

If most of the forks and spoons are not on the table in the beginning, the order of serving should be as follows:

If a fruit punch or bouillon are used, the glass holding the punch should stand on a doily on a dessert plate, and the spoon for the course is also laid on the plate. The bouillon cup and saucer should be on another plate, and the spoon should be at the right of the plate.

The forks and knives for the main courses are at the sides, also the fork for the salad, but it is better to have the ice cream fork and spoon passed on the plate after the table is clear, as it makes the table cluttery to have them there during a long meal, also makes clearing the table more difficult.

Coffee is served in the drawing room after dinner in coffee cups, and the spoon rests on the saucer.

CURE FOR NERVES.

They May Be Calmed by Silence, Solitude and Sleep, Says One Writer.

In an article on "Nerves" published in Harper's Bazar the story is told of one of our noted scientists who went to Dresden to consult the famous specialist for broken down nerves. On hearing his symptoms the great physician said indifferently:

"Ach so? It is probable that you have—yes, all the gelehrten [learned] have neurasthenia naturally." The remedy suggested was "play golf and go to Egypt. You can get Munich beer in Cairo, though it is disgustingly expensive there."

Silence, solitude and sleep are the sovereign remedies suggested for jagged nerves. Slight daily doses of the three "S's," it is claimed, will prevent a nervous breakdown and may be obtained by even the most busy people. But "all the learned have neurasthenia" is at once a warning and a consolation to the brain worker. To "drive the machine" with skill and care is the problem of the successful American.

The writer of this article urges that we ought to thank God that we belong to the most nervous, restless, all pervading race the world has ever seen since the days of Julius Caesar. It is our "nerves" that make us what we are.

The Actor-Rogue and Vagabond.

London, May 12.—An actor who was summoned yesterday to serve on a jury made the successful plea that under the law he was a "rogue and a vagabond," and therefore ineligible. In support of his contention he produced an old act of Parliament which never has been repealed.

SPLENDID PROGRESS WITH DRIVES IN THE BACK LAKES

Water is High and Conditions Suit the Lumbermen—The Drives of Peterboro' and McDonald Companies—Spring Was Backward One.

All the ice has been out of the back lakes of the Kawartha district for some time and excellent progress is being made with the drives. There is lots of water and the abundance of water and strong currents is greatly facilitating the driving operations.

The Peterborough Lumber Co. has four drives and reports having had no difficulty in getting the logs out of the creeks. Some of the logs are already in Stony Lake.

The McDonald Company have two large drives moving one at Pigeon Lake and the other coming out of Eagle Lake into Gull Lake. The cut has been forty per cent larger than it was last year.

Although operations are progressing satisfactorily now it has been a backward spring for the lumber companies on account of the ice staying in the small lakes until so late in the season.

PENNY BANK SYSTEM WAS DISCUSSED BY CONMITEEE

The penny bank system was discussed at a meeting of the Supervision Committee of the Board of Education last night. Mr. John Crane occupied the chair, and others present were Messrs. L. M. Hayes, K.C.; Dr. Morrison, H. R. H. Kenner, A. Mowat and W. O'Brien. All the members seemed to favor the idea and the workability of the scheme was carefully discussed. Nothing definite, however, was decided, and it will be taken up at another meeting. It is very probable, however, that about September 1st the system will be introduced into the Peterborough schools.

ST. CATHARINES MAY LOSE ONE OF ITS INDUSTRIES

St. Catharines is threatened with the loss of one of her oldest manufacturing industries. The R. H. Smith Company, whose saw works have been located on St. Paul street for many years, have secured an option on a site of eight acres at Ottawa, and are considering the advisability of removing their plant to that city.

There is still, however, a hope of retaining this concern for St. Catharines. Messrs. Shirley and Dietrich, of Galt, members of the Smith Company, were in the city yesterday and held a conference with the civic Finance Committee, a report of which will probably be laid before the City Council for consideration at the meeting on Monday evening next.

It is said that the company made a proposition to the committee, but the details have not been made public. It is understood, however, on apparently very reliable authority, that the company has asked the City Council to make an exchange of properties, giving the company the Ross factory and equipment for the present Saw Works building on St. Paul street. It is said that the company also asked for a fixed assessment of $20,000 for a period of ten years, in lieu of their assessment of $60,000.

The industry employs fifty men and has a pay roll of $2,000 per month.—St. Catharines Journal.

USE OF DIP NETS WILL BE PROHIBITED IN FUTURE

The lunge are running plentifully in the river now, and Inspector Watt issues a warning that on account of this all sucker fishing must cease, and the use of dip nets is prohibited from now on. Anybody seen using one after ten o'clock on Saturday night will be prosecuted.

It is only through the indulgence of the inspector that the use of dip nets has been permitted at all, and he will see that the ruling regarding their discontinuance is strictly enforced, and proceedings will be taken against those disregarding it.

Rev Father Galvin is at present one of the curates at St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterborough, and is a native of Ennismore township. He is a zealous clergyman, and the people of Bobcaygeon and Galway, while regretting Rev. Father O'Leary's departure, will hail with joy his successor.

TOOK DEPARTURE IN LIMELIGHT

New York, May 12.—Opening a window on the eleventh floor of a store at Broadway and Ninth street, a man about 70 years old, stood on the window sill Monday afternoon till the attention of persons in the store and of others on the sidewalks below had been attracted to him, then jumped from the window. He struck in the street ten feet from the curb, and died within a few minutes. More than twenty persons who had witnessed the old man's leap fainted.

SUDDEN DEATH OF FORMER RESIDENT OF THIS CITY

Mr. Hugh Blackstock McHarry Passed Away in Norwood This Morning

Word was received today of the sudden death this morning in Norwood, of a former resident of this city, Mr. Hugh Blackstock Meharry. The deceased, who was 68 years of age had been ailing for some time and death was not entirely unexpected. He was born in Cavan, and was the eldest son of the late Robert Meharry and a grandson of the late Rev. Moses Blackstock, also of that place. The late Mr Meharry came to Peterborough twenty years ago and was in the insurance business on Simcoe street for fifteen years, after which he went to Saskatchewan where he lived for about four years and then came back to Norwood where his daughter is living. Besides his wife two sons and one daughter are left to mourn his loss. The sons are:—Messrs Fletcher of North Dakota, and Robert of Saskatchewan. Mrs John Roxborough of Norwood is a daughter. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Umbrellas Dollar Up

Beautiful Silky Coats

IT matters not at what season of the year it is, (outside of the frosty weather) or where you are the weather is very uncertain and the woman who prepares herself for emergency is wise. ¶ The day is past when the raincoat or umbrella is a secondary consideration—Now the style and appearance is as much thought of in purchasing these articles as they are in purchasing a suit or hat. ¶ Our Raincoat stock is most complete, and the styles are "everything". In Raincoats we take first place with a very comprehensive stock in prices from $1.00 and up.

Silk Striped and Moire Coats

These coats caused quite a sensation when we first showed them a few weeks ago and the sales show that they are increasing in popularity. These are exclusive to ourselves and they range in a good variety of the season's shades.

SILK RUBBERIZED COATS
This is a dainty, rich appearing garment—looks just like silk and is silk, altho it is positively rain proof, being thoroughly rubberized, satin striped silk elegantly trimmed with braid and quilting on collar cuffs and pockets, shades, navy and brown also black. $15 to $25

MOIRE RUBBERIZED COATS
Moire is the new feature in rain-proof coats and is the feature of these garments. Handsome coats for street, auto or driving wear, fancy cuffs, novelette collars, fancy strapping over shoulders; shades navy, grey, brown also black Thoroughly rubberized, appearance of Moir Silk for $18

Strong, Rich Umbrellas

Strong in make, strong material, strong frame—Rich, lustrous, silk and wool and silk and linen gloria tops. Our display of "rain shedders" is large and comprises the best of all grades from $1 up. Beautiful designs in Ebony, Wood, Horn and Celluloid handles, plain and gold and silver tipped, fitted with bulb runners. The tops are in black, blue, green and brown to match the season's new suits.

WENT TO SLEEP ON A DOOR STEP

Young Man Taken to Police Station This Afternoon to Finish Out His Nap

A young man who could not stand the change in the weather without having a little time, took too much of the wet goods this morning, which resulted in his becoming sleepy. He laid down in a doorway on George street this afternoon to have a doze, but somebody didn't like it and called up the police station, and an officer went up and brought him to the cells, where he can finish his sleep without fear of interruption.

DESERONTO POSTMASTER

Mr. A. H. McGauphey is Dead—Was Formerly Connected, With the Rathburn Lumber Co.

Special to the Review.

Deseronto, May 12.—A. H. McGaughey, postmaster of Deseronto since 1903, died last night, after being ill nearly four months, at the age of sixty years. Before being appointed postmaster, Mr. McGaughey was for many years head lumber salesman for the Rathbun Company. He leaves a widow, three daughters and two sons.

Miss Blanche Easton, of Brockville, is now superintendent of the General and Marine Hospital at Port Arthur.

REAL ESTATE MARKET HERE REPORTED ACTIVE

All over the city houses are being improved. On every street new balconies and verandas are being constructed, the wood work on houses painted, fences and lawns repaired, and in other ways properties beautified. The new tenants generally want some changes or improvements, and these wishes take concrete form each year early in May. The outlook of the real estate market is good, and the many new buildings help the situation very much. This is an excellent year for building. As a rule building material, including brick, is a little lower than the last few years, and labor in most lines is also a shade less costly than has been the case for some time past.

PE-RU-NA IN MEXICO.

"I took two bottles of your great remedy, Pe-ru-na, and was surprised at the marvelous results. Not only did my catarrh disappear, but I felt an increase in health and strength in my constitution such as I have never felt before. I cannot praise your remedy too highly and shall have great pleasure in recommending it to all my friends in Spanish America."

Renacimiento Theatre, Virginia Fabregas Co., City of Mexico, Mex.
To The Peruna Drug Mfg. Co., Columbus, Ohio, U. S. A.

Gentlemen:—Your medicine, Perona, having been recommended to me by one of my friends ir this city, I want to let you know the splendid results it has produced for me. As yon will understand, a professional life, such as mine, is a heavy strain upon even the strongest constitution, and, in addition, my health was threatened by symptoms of catarrh. (See above.)

Yours very gratefully, Virginia Fabregas de Cardona.

The Peruna Drug Mfg. Co.,
Columbus, Ohio, U. S. A.

Gentlemen: Having used your justly celebrated remedy, la Peruna, for some time, I have the pleasure of informing you that I consider it the best tonic I have ever used.

It is a wonderful fortifier of the nerves after exhaustion, and it increases the vitality of the whole body, and in my own case has produced the most complete and permanent restoration. It is also pleasant to the taste.

I do not hesitate, therefore, to recommend this remedy to all women as the best and most pleasant tonic that they can possibly take.

Yours very truly,
Senorita Pilar Monterde.

Julia Marlowe Endorses Pe-ru-na.

"I am glad to write my endorsement of the great remedy, Peruna, as a nerve tonic. I do so most heartily."

Julia Marlowe.

Peruna relieves catarrh, not only by its tonic effect upon the whole system, but by eradicating the poison of catarrh. It gives better appetite, better digestion, better sleep.

Peruna is manufactured by The Peruna Drug Mfg. Co., Columbus, Ohio.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN WILSON.

Mrs. John Wilson, who was well known in Pelee Island, for the last thirty years, passed away at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. John known in Pelee Island, for the last suffering from a tumor. Mrs. Wilson was born in Mount Pleasant, near Peterborough, in the year 1834. Her maiden name was Martha Fleming. Deceased was married to John K. Wilson, of North Monaghan, in the year 1861. Later they moved to Pelee Island, Mr. Wilson following his trade of a carpenter. Mr. Wilson died in October, 1892, Mrs. Wilson then resided with her son, W. K. Wilson, till about six weeks before her death, when she took up her residence with her daughter. Deceased leaves two children, fourteen grandchildren, besides her brother, William Fleming, and her sister Mrs. Joseph Cousins, all of Pelee Island. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. J. B. Kennedy, at the grave on the following Sunday, April 4th, at one o'clock. The services at the church were held on Easter Sunday at the South End Methodist church. The pass bearers being six nephews, William Fleming, jr., Everett Shrigley, Lester Cousins, Robert Pierce, Ralph Piper, Samuel Piper. The funeral was largely attended by relatives and neighbors, there being about eighty carriages in the procession.

THE FOX WAS TOO CRAFTY

And the Prize Seeking Posse at the Roller Rink Couldn't Corner Him

The sly fox was too smooth for the herd of ambitious boys that pursued him at the roller rink last night and he was never "it" once in the evening's game of tag in which he effectively played the fugitive part.

The fox was brought onto the floor at 10 o'clock by Prof Genno and given his liberty in his new surroundings. The animal is a beautiful specimen of the silver grey variety.

The boys took after him in relays every minute until the individual strength of the pursuing contingent had been exhausted. They then went into the game en masse but Mr. Fox was still in the lead when the final gong rang and was an easy winner, deep to the big handicap.

THE MIGRATIONS OF THE SONGSTERS

This is the Season of Their Coming and Going — Many Varieties

This week and next week will be the most important ones for the arrival of the birds from their southern winter homes. In fact several varieties have already passed northward and the winter visitors left some time ago for their northern summer homes.

The seed eating birds, sparrows and finches are among the first to arrive. Quiet and unobtrusive little birds they are, and their coming is hardly noticed. The robins and the blackbirds, who come about the same time, quite overshadow them. The warblers, of which some 25 varieties visit Peterborough, have just started to arrive. The myrtle, the pine and the black and white together with the oven bird have already been seen.

MANY DOGS STILL WITHOUT TAGS

Many Dog Owners Have Not Paid Their Annual $2.00 for a License

There have been 632 dog licenses issued up to to-day, but there are still many owners of dogs who have neglected to call at the city clerk's office and pay their $2.00. These persons know what the law is in this respect and as they have refused to take the warning that has been given out during the past couple of weeks, police court cases will now be in order.

NO "TICK" NOW AT OSGOODE HALL

Cannot Buy Law Stamps and Have the Bill Charged

Toronto, May 11.—No more "tick" is to be allowed the purchasers of law stamps at Osgoode Hall who go ge to the stamp office and plead that they are "broke." I.O.U.'s, checks and other memos of indebtedness are hereafter tabooed.

The Ontario Treasury department, it is understood, made the suggestion to Mr. J. H. Carnegie, who recently succeeded the late Dr. MacMahon in charge of the office. Dr. McMahon was accustomed to keeping regular accounts for the various firms and for the individual lawyers who often cashed checks.

He was never known to be out of pocket for these transactions, and the new rule has been made merely in the interests of businesslike principles.

FORTUNATE TO ESCAPE

Runaway Horse in Collision With Bicyclist This Morning

A horse hitched to a butchers' rig ran away on George street this morning and had a lively gallop before it was brought under control by the lad driving it. The hind wheel of a bicycle was struck in the gallop and the wheel and driver were tossed helter skelter, but neither the rider nor the wheel suffered injury to any extent.

The escape was a miraculously lucky one as the horse was travelling at a high rate of speed when the collision occurred.

EXCURSIONS TO BEAVERTON

Under Auspices of C. M. B. A.—Peterborough is Interested

Lindsay, May 11—Rev Father Hayes of Brock, and T. J. Overend of Beaverton were in town Monday evening and attended a special meeting of Lindsay Branch, No 77, CMBA. Rev Father Roach is holding the big picnic and athletic club meet in Beaverton on June 9th and the local CMBA. decided to run their annual excursion to that point on the above date.

Peterborough, Barrie and Orillia branches will also run excursions and it is expected that the occasion will be a memorable one for Beaverton.

LOOKING FORWARD TO GREAT TRIP

The Dufferin Rifles paraded last night 274 strong under command of Colonel Ashton. All the staff officers were present. They paraded the principle streets, while in the hall the two bands practiced march music.

The stretcher bearer section also practiced removing wounded from the field under charge of the Sergt. Major.

When the battalion returned they formed in a hollow square around the hall and Col Ashton presented his handsome challenge shield to A company, Capt. Colquhoun, as the most efficient company in the regiment for 1908. He also addressed the men on the Peterborough trip. The regiment will camp in the centre of the city in front of the new armories and every one looks forward to the best trip in the history of the battalion.

A number of good service badges were presented and Bugler Hetherington was made acting sergeant of the bugle band.

WHEN BASE RUNNERS ARE OUT

Rule 56, Sec 4.—If, after three strikes or a fair hit, he be touched with the ball in the hand of a fielder, before he shall have touched first base.

Sec. 5—If after three strikes or a fair hit, the ball be securely held by a fielder while touching first base with any part of his person before such baserunner touch first base.

Sec 6—If, in running the last half of the distance from home base to first base, while the ball is being fielded to first base, he run outside the three feet lines, as defined in Rule 7, unless he do so to avoid a fielder attempting to field a batted ball.

The Collegiate girls in Hamilton refused to play a game of basketball recently because the school trustees would not stand for the boys witnessing the game. Whether this was meant as a reflection on the playing ability of the girls or not it is hard to say.

NO MEETING.

Only two teams were represented at the Junior Church League meeting last night so it will be necessary to call another meeting and this will be held on Friday night in the YMCA. If there are three teams or more represented the schedule will be drawn up and those teams who want to figure in it, will need to get busy and send a representative.

Jersey City made eleven hits off Rudolph yesterday but Toronto won by 4-2, with 3 hits. Manser for the Skeeters gave six free passes and this mostly was the cause of his downfall.

Kissinger managed to win out in the eleventh from Baltimore yesterday. The score was 4-3.

Rochester by winning yesterday are now 134 points ahead of Jersey City who are second with Toronto a close third.

10,143 fans watched Detroit Americans defeat New York by 16-5 in Detroit yesterday.

Chicago Cubs took the first game of the series from the New York Giants by 4-3. The Cubs out-batted McGraw's men and only had two errors to the Giants' four.

The Collegiate baseball league will open this afternoon at Riverside park when a game will be played at four o'clock.

FRANK E BOWERMAN

Catcher and Manager of the Boston National League Club.

Frank E. Bowerman, the new manager of the Boston National League Club, is a veteran player who has long made his mark in the National League as a catcher. He is a native of Romeo, Mich, where he was born December 5th, 1872. He first came into prominence as a ball player with the Detroit Athletic Club. He became a professional in 1895 by an engagement with the Twin City Club, of the Inter-State League. On June 12, 1895, the Baltimore club purchased his release. He did little work thats his release. He did little work that season but was re-engaged for 1896-97 in both of which seasons he was amply employed as utility catcher. In 1898 he was transferred to the Pittsburg club, with which club he remained until 1900, when he was secured by the New York club, of which team he was a valued member until the spring of 1908, when he was transferred to the Boston club as part of a deal for first baseman Fred Tenney. Bowerman at once became a tower of strength to Boston and kept that team in the hunt until a broken hand put him out of the game for seven weeks, during which period his team lost much valuable ground. Bowerman evinced so much interest in his work and showed such evidence of guiding ability that when the season was over President Dovey released the veteran Joe Kelley and appointed Bowerman as team manager, in which capacity he was a potent factor in the winter deals made by the Boston club. His career, as a manager will be watched with interest and concern by a host of friends who all hope for his success.

ST. PETER'S WON LEAGUE GAME

Defeated King Edward School by Six Runs to Five

In a seven-innings game yesterday afternoon St. Peter's school baseball team defeated the boys from the King Edward school by six runs to five. The batteries were: King Edward, Taylor and Williamson; St. Peter's, Callaghan and O'Hern. Mr. W. O'Brien officiated as umpire with general satisfaction to all. Newey Taylor, the boy who lost both legs in a railway accident, is a great pitcher. He is the manager and captain for his team and besides being a good slab artist he has a good head and is a good general. He also made the longest hit of the game. Newey, however, has to get one of the other boys to run for him. The school boys are playing good ball and are the only baseball league yet doing business.

ELECTRIC SCORE BOARD IS THE LATEST IDEA

Mechanical score boards are now making a hit in the larger American cities.

So far Providence, R.I., is the only city in the Eastern League to have one of the new contrivances, but before many years are over they will no doubt become as "necessary" as the score cards, without which, the boys tell you, you cannot enjoy a game.

In several of the big cities of the United States the electrical score boards are in daily use, not only at the baseball parks but in front of the leading newspaper offices. By means of these a crowd can almost witness a game without paying the price of admission, and often the streets are blocked watching the progress of a game on a score board which is operated from the grand stand at the baseball grounds.

The name "score board" is rather misleading, as the invention does not record the number of runs like one of our common garden variety. They simply show by a system of shutters which player is at bat and whether a ball pitched is a strike or a ball. When a batsman takes a base on a play another number corresponding to the next batter is displayed. There is another section to show whether the man has been put out, and the number out in an innings is also told.

HOW IT WORKS.

For instance, if Goode, of the Torontos, who stands first on the batting list, and who would be number one on the board, takes his place, the crowd could, by comparing the number to the key, find out who was at bat. As balls or strikes were called on him the respective sections would indicate it by the flashing of the shutters by electric magnets. If he were retired the "Batter out" column would show one gone. How he went out could only be guessed by the crowd unless they were watching the game and the score board right on the grounds at the same time.

Mahling would be No. 2, and if he reached first base in safety the "Batter out" line would remain the same, although a new number would appear for Grimshaw.

The board at Providence is situated just behind left field, and stands alongside of the run score board, which is manipulated by small boys as in the ordinary case. The inventor erected the device on the Providence grounds in return for the advertising privileges on the fences, and it is said that the plant cost $2,000 to install. The operator who sits up in the press box has a keyboard before him, and by pressing different buttons releases the springs in the board.

A TELEPHONE ATTACHMENT.

Attached to the box is a telephone, the receiver of which is unique. It is so constructed that a conversation can be carried on with the small boys running the score-by-innings sign, no matter how wild the fans become. The detonating plate in the receiver is so delicate that the human voice at the other end resembles a loud graphophone.

Even with the game in progress before you the contrivance is a great help. The spectators perhaps may at times forget how many are out, or how many strikes there are on a man, but by simply consulting the scorer one can find out for himself without asking his equally excited neighbor.

It is a safe bet, too, that many an umpire has taken a peep at the board to find out if he himself is right.

FINAL GAMES IN POOL TOURNEY

Will be Held at Belmont Club Rooms To-night—Who Will be the Winner?

The final games in the Belmont club pool tournament will take place tonight and a large number of members will no doubt be present to give the glad hand to the lucky winner. The games in the tournament have furnished lots of good sport and excitement the past season and a better means of getting members acquainted with each other and adding increased interest in club matters could not be found.

TENNIS CLUB HELD ANNUAL MEETING

Officers Elected and Other Business Transacted by Nicholls Oval Club

The annual meeting of the Nicholls Oval Tennis Club was held at the YMCA last night. There was a good attendance of the members and officers were elected and other arrangements made for the season. It was decided to enter the club in the Peterborough Lawn Tennis Association.

The following officers were elected:

President—Mr D Easson.

Vice-Pres—Mr Leslie Turner.

Secretary-treasurer — Miss Clarice McClennan.

Executive committee — The officers and Misses Mabel Gillespie and Maud Adams, and Messrs D Downie and D. B MacRae.

The constitution was changed to allow new members to be admitted by the executive committee.

The financial statement of the secretary-treasurer showed the club to be in an excellent condition.

PROGRAMME FOR BOUTS TO-NIGHT

Kelly and Daly at 10 Rounds—Two Three Round Preliminaries

The following is the programme for to-night's bouts at the Brock street rink:—

Fred Miller vs. Bob Howden, 3 rounds.

J. Wilson vs. T. Crowe, 3 rounds.

Jimmy Kelly, Buffalo, vs. Tommy Daly, Toronto, 10 rounds.

SCRAP DIDN'T GIVE SATISFACTION

Tame Affair Was Pulled off Last Night — Four Sparrers Indulged

An amusing scrap took place in front of the Review office last evening in which no less than four principals clashed, to the amusement of the spectators, and with no serious damage to any of the participants. It started in a wrangle between two of the pugilistically inclined, and from the very tame way the men worked the crowd unanimously voted it a frame-up and were very much dissatisfied with the four-cornered exhibition.

It is understood that Seagram was the promoter. The decision was a draw.

BOTH BOXERS APPEAR FIT

Jimmy Kelly and Tommy Daly are here for their 10 round bout at the Brock street rink tonight. Both boys look to be in great shape, and are equally confident concerning the outcome.

LACROSSE

The necessity of getting out to practice regularly is urged upon those who intend to turn out with the lacrosse teams this season. Practices will be held from now on and if the team expects to make any kind of a showing the men will have to be on hand at every workout as the competition will be keen and fast and practice and condition are essential.

RUNNING

The entries for the Marathon at Montreal on May 24th are as follows: Abbie Wood, Will Sherring, Fred Simpson, Hans Holmer, Fred Meadows, Tom Coley, Sam Myers and Pat Dineen, the latter being the well-known six-day performer. Of the lot Abbie Wood is the most dangerous opponent Sherring has, although Fred Meadows and Hans Holmer will both run strong races. Several more entries are expected.

Henri St. Yves, now regarded as the world's greatest runner at the Marathon distance, will run in Canada next Sunday for the first time, when his opponent will be Alfred Shrubb, the world's champion, at 15 miles. They will meet in a 20 mile race on the National grounds in Montreal, the start to be made immediately after the Eastern League game between Providence and Montreal.

What a long tail our cat has! Pat Powers may find that Longboat has friends if he persists in looking for trouble.

Chuck Skene's foot is rounding to, and he will run in the half and mile and walk in the 2-mile race at Bobby Kerr's meet Saturday.

D. E. Broderick, a prominent merchant in St. Thomas, died in London, aged 77.

A MARATHON ON ROLLER SKATES

Will be Held at the Auditorium Rink on Thursday Evening

Next Thursday evening a roller skating Marathon race will be the attraction. The full Marathon distance of 26 miles 385 yards will be skated, and His Worship Mayor Rush has kindly consented to officiate as starter.

A big field of fast roller skaters in the district will take part. There are twenty laps to the mile on the auditorium floor.

The roller skating record for the distance is one hour and thirty-nine minutes.

SPORTING TALK

The Review has learned on good authority that the local undertakers will be actively interested in the promotion of rugby here next fall and have offered to donate a trophy for local competition.

The Peterborough papers on Saturday were the only ones, outside of Toronto in the province, to get out "extras" to tell how the Peterborough Indian lost the New York Derby.—Lindsay Warder.

Considerable interest is being taken in the races of the Peterborough Turf Club to be held here on May 24th and a good list of entries for the events is looked for.

Hawkins who served up the benders for the local Midland League team last season, and who is pitching for Eatons in the Toronto Northern City league, won his game Saturday against the White Sox by 2-1. The game was mainly a pitchers' battle.

Joe McGinnity has not made a hit yet for Newark. He will soon have a rep like Fred Hickey.

Lundgren, who is to report to Toronto never played in the minor leagues. He graduated direct from the University of Chicago to the Cubs.

Baltimore News; "Jack Toft," the former Toronto catcher, who umpired in the Eastern League last year says that he expects to soon get back to work again on Powers' staff. Well, one or two more won't make any difference now. Toft was as bad last year as any of them, so cheer up.

HAVE SECURED AN ATHLETIC FIELD

Park St. Athletic Club Will Have Good Grounds This Summer

The Park Street Athletic Club have secured the large field belonging to Mr. Lundy, which is located not far from the old church, for athletic grounds for this year. The field is well situated for baseball, football, lacrosse, etc.

ANOTHER SCALP FOR EDMUNDS

Won From Jack Knight at Mutual St. Rink, Toronto, Last Night

Artie Edmunds beat a good man when he got two falls from Jack Knight, the little Bristol, Eng., grappler, at the Mutual street rink last night. The local man got two falls, the first with a body scissors and arm lock in 1.10.25, and the second with a head scissors in four minutes.

The bout was wrestled on a small mat, and there was a good deal of perambulating by both men. Both took occasion to complain to the referee, A. McKenzie, a Scottish expert of the questionable tactics adopted by each other. During the actual wrestling there was a good deal of excitement among the spectators, who appeared to enjoy the bout very much. A good deal of credit is given Edmunds for his victory, as he has now disposed of all the available men of his weight, and Knight was regarded as the hardest proposition of them all.

Two sixty-pound youngsters went on in a preliminary, Master Freddie Naylor, son of W. B. Naylor, Yankee Roggers' manager, taking two falls from his opponent.

MARMORA TEAM HAD COLD FEET

Did Not Show Up for Football Match With Havelock—A Baseball Match

Special to the Review.

Havelock, May 12—The Havelock football team journeyed to Marmora on the 10th inst. to play the scheduled Midland League game with that town, but on reaching that sporty burg they were unable to find any team with which to play, the team having apparently lost courage at first sight of the Havelock deputation, and left for parts unknown. Anyway, to satisfy the large number of spectators, consisting of about four youngsters who had dropped in from the country to yell for the home team, they lined up at the appointed hour, and after a few minutes' play among the trees and boulders, which decorated Marmora's football field, scored the only goal of the game. No opposition having appeared, the referee gave the game to Havelock. Apparently the Marmora people do not appreciate the visit of a good football team; or at least the small attendance denoted that.

An interesting game of baseball took place at the park on Friday evening, 7th inst., when the school team went down to defeat before the town team to the tune of 11—3. Although the youngsters from the hill put up a good game the score did not seem to show it. The following was the line-up of the teams—

School (3)—C Bohan, p.; L. Bennet, c.; P. O. Nelson, 1b.; Murphy, 2b.; Jno Spinks, 3b.; C. Herring, ss.; J. Knox cf.; Thos. Falkner, lf.; G. Frost rf.

Town (11)—R. Webb, p.; G. Barlow, c.; R. Joyce, 1b.; R. Frost, 2b.; P. O'Brien, 3b.; Jas. Bohan, ss.; Armstrong, cf.; R. Barlow, lf.; W. Ryan, rf.

The game showed that there is plenty of material in the junior element and great things await Havelock in baseball in a few years. These two teams will meet again on Wednesday, May 12th, when the school team intend to turn the score around a little.

ORIENTAL SERVANTS.

All Around Ability of the Indispensable "Boy" in India.

In these days of loud wailing about the haughty domestic, exorbitant wages and small returns it is soothing to recall the efficiency and submissive service of the oriental servant.

In India the indispensable "boy" does everything—"boy" being a generic name regardless of age or native dignity—receiving in remuneration the equivalent of $12 to $14 a month at the most. He buys your railroad tickets, checks your luggage, settles the clamors of luggage coolies, gives your tips and shoos away the hordes of beggars, telegraphs to hotels for your rooms and takes care of them when you get there, makes the bed, brings the afternoon tea, stands behind your chair at table and serves you, brings your account when you leave and wrangles for you over its inevitable extortions.

At the dak bungalows he forages for your meals and, if necessary, cooks them. He produces washmen, sewing men and all sorts of dealers in everything on demand. He makes up your bed on sleeping cars and replenishes your supply of ice and soda. He runs your errands, cleans your boots and hats, darns your stockings and mends your clothes.

When you walk abroad, he attends you and directs you to the bazaars where you will be robbed least, receiving his commission later from an appreciative proprietor.

For every rupee intrusted to him for general expenditure he renders an account, and though he doubtless robs you gently he does not let others do it (and it is distinctly advantageous to be robbed by one person rather than a score).

He is silent and noiseless, salaams whenever you speak to him and never enters your presence with his shoes on or his turban off.

And finally, his multifarious day ended, he wraps himself in his shawl and sleeps across your threshold.—New York Tribune.

Richard the Brazen

...By...
CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY,
Author of "For the Freedom of the Sea," "The Southerners," Etc.,
AND
EDWARD PEPLE,
Author of "A Broken Rosary," "The Prince Chap," Etc.

Copyright, 1906, by Moffat, Yard & Company.

Suddenly Mr. Renwyck unclasped his hands and transferred one of them to his breast pocket. Richard caught sight of a bulging projection—it was there then!

He was on the point of seizing his host's wrist when the latter brought forth a brown covered case.

"Have a cigar," he said, with crafty cordiality, and Richard accepted, with his gaze still concentrated on Mr. Renwyck's hands.

"Light?"

"Thank you, no," the Texan answered. "I'll smoke it dry for awhile, if you don't mind."

The trick was an old one. He had seen it worked along the Rio Grande. A Mexican had presented a cheroot to a cow puncher, who, after lighting it, found himself looking into the muzzle of on overgrown Colt's—and a Texan learns to profit by observation as well as experience.

Mr. Renwyck now invited his guest to a seat beside him on a smooth flat stone on the edge of the cliff. Richard accepted, but cautiously slid his foot to a point behind Mr. Renwyck's leg, with the aim of overturning his enemy backward at the first sign of treachery.

"Croyland," he began abruptly, "I've taken a fancy to you somehow, and I'm going to prove it by putting you on the inside of a little business deal."

"A business deal?" gasped Richard in unfeigned surprise.

"Yes," nodded the old gentleman, puffing thoughtfully at his cigar. "Of course I don't know how you are fixed financially, nor have I any intention of asking impertinent questions, but if you care to come with me in a transaction in which I myself have invested largely I can put you in the way of making quite a snug little sum."

Richard withdrew his foot from behind Mr. Renwyck's leg and in the darkness strove to kick himself. Conscience had made of him not exactly a coward, but a careful skater on thin ice.

"That's very clever of you, indeed," he answered, lighting his perfecto and gazing out across the Hudson. "Is it what you call—er—a flier?"

"Well, no," said the old financier. "It's more than that. It's a dead certainty, and I'm on the inside. Let me explain. To begin with, it is a deep water harbor enterprise in the state of Texas."

"A local company has been organized and styles itself the Houston, Matagorda City and Gulf Railroad and Improvement company." And Richard recognized the company with a thrill of excitement. "They're going to get an appropriation from the legislature for making a deep water harbor at Matagorda City. They own all the land in the vicinity and the right of way for a branch line to connect with the railroad systems of Texas at Houston. Now, this scheme, all else being equal, would be a sweet, juicy plum for its promoters. But things are not all equal. I have learned its details, and I propose to smash it."

He spoke with a savage emphasis, which revealed his hatred and his determination. If hell has no fury like a woman scorned, a friend turned enemy is almost as venomous.

"How are you going to do it?" asked Richard, with growing anxiety.

"There chances to be a rival company in the field, my boy, backed by money—influence—pull. In fact, I organized it to make a deep water harbor at Longmatt, on San Antonio bay. I rather think the legislative appropriation will go there."

"And is Longmatt better adapted for a deep water harbor than Matagorda City?"

"Much better."

"Why?"

"Because I own all the land at Longmatt, and for various reasons that—er—do credit to its business acumen the committee on railroads in the legislature agrees with me."

"Which means," suggested Richard, "that the legislature is doing business at the same old stand."

Mr. Renwyck laughed.

"That sounds very American for a foreigner, but suppose we put it a little more delicately. The legislature through this committee can be persuaded."

"And the other company does not know this?"

"Not a whisper of it."

"But won't it find out from the legislature?"

"It won't. I am certain of those Texas statesmen. They have been—fixed."

"But I thought"— began Richard, then stopped suddenly, remembering that he was not supposed to be up in American railroading affairs.

"Well?"

—"that such matters required much time—red tape—and all that sort of thing, you know."

"Not a bit of it," answered the old gentleman, rubbing his hands in anticipated pleasure. "Now, listen. I have devised this opposition scheme myself and know what I'm talking about. In just two weeks from now the Houston, Matagorda City and Gulf Railroad and Improvement company's bill for a deep water harbor at Matagorda City will be introduced in the legislature with a great flourish of trumpets and referred to the railroad committee—my committee, that is. At the same time a small and unostentatious little bill substituting Longmatt for Matagorda City will also be quietly slipped in by some of my agents. No one knows me in this connection at all, and of course you will respect my confidence?"

"Certainly."

"Well, this bill will be referred and forgotten by everybody until the last minute, when the original bill will be amended, and the large appropriation will go to Longmatt, too near the end of the session for any change. The stockholders of the opposite company are so certain of success that their first mortgage bonds have been issued, quietly taken up among themselves and are rising in value every day. But wait. When the Longmatt scheme is assured the bonds of the company won't be worth a cent. I shall buy their right of way to Houston for a song, and—well, the state of Texas will be greatly benefited, while the other fellows pay"—

"Pay Texas?" asked Richard innocently.

"Pay for the fiddler, my boy—that is, I," laughed Mr. Renwyck complacently. The old gentleman coolly flicked the ash from his cigar, turned and looked smilingly at his young auditor in assured triumph.

Richard smoked in silence for a time, then presently said, with affected carelessness:

"Mr. Renwyck, what you say is no doubt based on sound judgment and business and—er—legislative experience; yet, on the other hand, it strikes me that you are taking rather a heavy risk for the sake of mere money."

"Ah," cried the old financier, with a snap of his heavy jaw, "now you've struck it! And I don't mind telling you the real reason. It isn't the money. Hang the money! I'm doing this to get even with one man—one man who represents the Houston, Matagorda City and Gulf Railroad and Improvement company, just as I represent the Longmatt Development and Construction company. He isn't a friend of mine—at least no longer—and, by George, I've got him! And, what's more, I'm going to squeeze him till his body is as dry as the state of Texas! I think you told me that you knew his son. The old man's name is Bill Williams."

Richard's brain was in a whirl. The Houston, Matagorda City and Gulf Railroad and Improvement company was his father's pet, the darling of his heart. He had worked over it, slaved over it and owned the controlling interest, in which he had invested an enormous sum. If what Mr. Renwyck said was true the coming crash would overwhelm his father completely. Not only had that gentleman invested his own money in the company, but he had induced his friends to join with him, and well Richard knew that his father would feel responsible for their loss. Again, the young man was not the kind of man who could stand meekly by and see his dear old dad bested by an enemy. With a mental gasp he realized that he stood in possession of information by which he could turn the tables on Jacob Renwyck and watch Bill Williams do the squeezing.

"Jerusalem, how dad will laugh!" he mused, then bit his tongue at a sudden thought which came to him.

He could not tell his father!

To pose as an English nobleman for the sake of a joke or even to win a girl was one thing; to receive a man's confidence in that capacity and by means of it detach him from the major portion of his fortune was quite another. Richard's mind was made up instantly. A confession of his deceit would cause a scene beyond doubt, and, moreover, his hope of winning Miss Harriet would fade in the general wreck, but even with this depressing fact in view he could not for an instant bring himself to be branded as a swindler and a thief.

"Mr. Renwyck," he began, but the daring speculator once more checked the good intention.

"Now, my dear Croyland," he begged, "I don't want you to go into this thing prematurely. Sleep on it. Think it over tomorrow, and we'll talk about it again in the evening. I'm going to town in the morning to attend a quiet meeting of the new company's stockholders. I will then be in a position to show you even more clearly where we stand. Let's go to bed." He linked his arm through Richard's and started across the grass. "By the way, I have a new team of horses coming out tomorrow on trial. I should like to get your opinion of them before I buy."

The light of dawn found Richard still staring at the ceiling and wondering how he could get out of the tangle. No longer was he justified in concealing his identity on any pretext. He must confess to Mr. Renwyck. But how could he do that when everything was progressing so favorably, when he was making so good an impression both on Mr. Renwyck and, as he hoped, his daughter? How could he throw away his opportunity there? On the other hand, how could he see his dad walk blindly into the mouths of a set of New York sharks? Over and over he turned the questions till his brain grew addled and his head was aching viciously. One of two things he must do. But which? What good would a confession do anyway? To tell his father afterward would not make him less culpable. He turned and twisted in his bed, but found no solution of the problem. The questions hit each other like wild express trains on a single track, and the solitary engineer had no earthly chance to jump.

"The old man's name is Bill Williams."

"Now, it's this way," he murmured to his rumpled pillow—"when an irresistible force meets an immovable body—heavens! I wish we'd given those blasted Englishmen a bigger licking than we did in '76!"

CHAPTER IX.

BREAKFAST the next morning did not pass pleasantly for Richard, who began to detest the role he was assuming with all his honest American heart—honest until this mad idea of substitution obsessed him, that is. First of all, he wanted to get away by himself and think the thing out undisturbed by troublesome surroundings. He determined to go for a long ride—alone, if possible—and with a good horse under him perhaps his brain would work and devise some loophole of escape. Fatuous dream! There was no loophole. He would palter with the truth no longer. No! He would speak at once and get the worst part of it over. Then he would be free—free from his own conscience—and she would be hopelessly and forever lost to him. Well, he couldn't help it; his heart would break, but it had to be done, whatever the consequences to himself and the heart aforesaid.

Fully determined—so he thought—on this desperate course, he volunteered to drive Mr. Renwyck to the station in the trap. They would start early and drive slowly. There would be time. He would tell the old shark all and defy him to wreck Bill Williams with any underhand scheme. He would claim to have come to Irvington for the very purpose of unearthing the conspirators. He would join forces with his dad and fight Jacob Renwyck in the open, flinging aside discretion, love.

It was hard to think all this, and it would be harder still to say it. As he considered it the pendulum of his thoughts swung to the other extreme. Could he lay love aside? How sweet she looked in her simple morning gown—over which some artist of dress creation had labored days to produce that effect of artless innocence had he but known it—as she smiled and passed him those delicious rolls, as if it were breakfast food he lacked. He wanted her more than anything else on earth. She was worth a thousand harbor companies. His dad would understand and forgive after seeing her. But would conscience understand and forgive?

I am afraid Lord Croyland did not shine as a table companion that morning, and his muttered excuse about a headache seemed too feminine for credulity. When an irresistible force meets—

The drive to the station was rapid and brief. The undecided Richard did not speak after all. His host persisted in doing all the talking, which was mainly enlarging on that precious scheme of his.

"Au revoir!" said Mr. Renwyck, stepping from the trap. "That's my train. Think over my proposition and let me know this evening. I'll send the veterinary out to look at Hawk today. Goodby, Croyland."

Richard drove slowly back. None of the ladies was about when he arrived, so he wandered into the billiard room. He was knocking the balls around aimlessly when he was suddenly accosted by the one person in the world whose company he least desired.

"Good morning, Lord Croyland," called Mr. Michael Corrigan from the doorway. "I just came over to look you up."

Now, what did he want? Well, whatever it was, he would find the Texan was not to be bluffed. Richard's spirits actually rose. This was something tangible that threatened, and Richard loved to deal with the real. It was the abstract that involved him in difficulties that he hated.

"That's very kind of you, indeed," drawled Richard, with a ring of challenge in his voice which the lawyer did not fail to note with concealed amusement. "Fond of billiards?"

"Oh, in a way, yes. I'm most too short and fat to play without the bridge, but I'll take a cue from you with pleasure if I may."

"Now, I wonder if he means anything by that remark," thought Richard as he handed him the stick.

The game began briskly, but soon languished, as did the conversation, Richard making an occasional brilliant shot and missing the easy ones. Mr. Corrigan by steady, consistent play ran up a good score and between times watched his opponent out of the corners of his eyes.

"I shouldn't say you were up in your usual form, Lord Croyland. Sleep well?"

"No," said Richard, eagerly seizing the opportunity to speak the whole truth and nothing but it, "I didn't."

"Too bad!" murmured the little man, with an exaggerated sympathy that did not impose on his victim, while he gravely chalked his cue. "American beds are hard to get used to, eh?" He received no answer and leaned across the table for a difficult shot, paused and regarded the young man thoughtfully. "Lord Croyland, I am after a certain piece of information and have reason to believe that you can give it to me."

"I shall be pleased, I am sure," said Richard, with admirably simulated indolence, although he was never more keenly alive to the possibilities of a situation in his life.

The little man laid his cue upon the table, dusted his hands and planted himself squarely in front of the pseudo nobleman.

"What—in your opinion—is the most approved method—of branding a heifer?"

It was coming, then? Well, he would admit nothing, deny everything. There was no law of business, honor or love to compel him to confess anything to Mr. Corrigan.

"Branding a heifer?" repeated Richard vacantly while he screwed in his monocle and stared at his companion. "Really—'pon my word—I"—

Michael Corrigan burst into a laugh.

"Come, come, Dick"— How good that monosyllable sounded after this cursed Croyland business! Now he could understand why Bills hated to be called Woolsey. "It won't do," continued Corrigan genially. "I'm too old a bird to be caught with such salt. Out with it, boy! What's the meaning of this tomfoolery?"

It had come at last, then! No confession would be necessary. With a sudden revulsion of feeling Richard experienced a great sense of relief. Fortune had decided for him.

"Mr. Corrigan," said Richard, holding out his hand—he knew when he was beaten—while his features became radiant with smiles, "when you came through that door awhile ago I wished you safely in hades. Let's get out into the sunshine. I want to make a clean breast of it, for, to tell you the truth, I'm in the devil of a pickle."

Mr. Corrigan laughed again and led the way through the front hall. On the veranda they met Miss Harriet coming from the garden with her arms full of fresh cut roses.

"Going for a walk?" she asked. "If you wait a moment I'd like to join you."

"Young person," said her uncle with mock severity, "there is hardly enough of Lord Croyland to go around, it seems. I've got him for half an hour, and I'm going to keep him! Shoo!"

He took Richard's arm and led him along the gravel path.

"Is that the reason?" he whispered, slyly jerking his thumb in the direction of his niece. Richard blushed. "Oh, you young dog! Well, I can't blame you, Dick. Great girl, isn't she?"

They had now reached a shaded bench in a secluded part of the grounds, where they seated themselves and prepared for the confessional.

"You see," began the fat little lawyer, who seemed to exude good humor from every pore, "at first I couldn't exactly make out what you were up to, you scamp, so I drew you out on our friend Napoleon. You are not well up on the history or the statuary of your beloved country, Dicky, boy. Brush up!"

Richard laughed and asked:

"But you were on to me when I took that paddock fence, weren't you? It gave me the creeps when I heard your compliment."

"Of course I was," assented Mr. Corrigan, shaking with amusement. "You don't suppose I lived in Texas two years for nothing but my health! And on your own father's ranch too! I had been told that Renwyck had 'captured a real live nobleman.' I was just strolling over to have a peep at him, when, lo and behold, I find him tearing around a horse lot on one devil as if another were after him!" Mr. Corrigan paused to chuckle. "But, Dick," he said presently, "you made one grave mistake."

"What was that?"

You should have worn a two foot sombrero, scooped up Harriet's handkerchief at a mad gallop, fired off a brace of guns and plugged holes in Renwyck's hat. Then they would have known you were an Englishman. Now, let's have your story."

Richard looked at him, divided between seriousness and amusement.

"But how did you know that it was I?"

"Deduction," smiled the lawyer.

"I don't understand."

"It's simple. Had a letter from your father a few days since in which he told me you were in New York and asked me to look after the tenderfoot. When I saw you ride I guessed. When I heard you talk I knew, for, Dicky, boy, as an Englishman you might pass muster in Rio Janeiro, but as an actor—well, you'd starve!"

"Come, come, Dick. It won't do," continued Corrigan genially.

"But the others—do they suspect?"

"Not a bit, I believe. They're dazzled, blinded by your coronet. Few Americans in New York can see straight in the presence of a lord. You're safe so far."

"Thank heaven!"

"Don't count too much on the blindness of one, however."

"And that one?"

"Harriet. But fire away. I'm listening."

Richard thereupon recounted his adventures, beginning with the cattle stampede at home and his willingness to come north in the hope of finding the girl. He told of his meeting with the real Lord Croyland and how that gentleman had coolly taken the name of Richard Williams. Then he made a clean breast of his own deception and narrated every detail of his experiences, with the exception of his business conversation with Mr. Renwyck last night.

During the recital the lawyer fairly bubbled over with amusement, applauding each experience with a series of delighted chuckles. That Richard was pulling wool over the eyes of Jacob Renwyck was a keen joy to the little man, who vividly pictured the chagrin of his brother-in-law when the comedy came to an end. He loved Harriet dearly, and now as he looked at the handsome, manly boy before him he confessed in his heart that a match between them would please him beyond expression.

"My boy," he laughed, "it's simply glorious! And now that you have a friend at court it ought to work out beautifully. Don't mind if I bullyrag you a little. It will only make Jacob take your side. What is the next feature on the programme?"

Richard frowned thoughtfully, rose and began to pace up and down.

"Mr. Corrigan," he burst forth, "I haven't told you the worst part of it. What makes it the more impossible, I don't see how I can. It would be—well, it would be a sort of breach of confidence."

"Anything serious?"

"Yes, very. That's why I didn't sleep last night. Matters have come to such a pass that I feel I must tell Mr. Renwyck who I am and take my medicine like a burglar caught in the act."

Mr. Corrigan's face fell.

Gathering by Machine.

For ordinary garments and for curtains it is a mistake to spend time in putting in gathers by hand. Do it on the machine and save time. When using a chain stitch machine gathering may be done without an attachment if the thread is wrapped twice around the tension. This is a very good thing to know, and, while it will not make any deep gathering, it will be quite effective for any ordinary ruffling.

With a double threaded machine the under bobbin may be threaded with a cotton ten numbers coarser. Loosen the tension until it is very slack and then place your garment under the needle and proceed. When it is stitched you will find that you may draw up the material to the required fullness with the aid of the under thread. It will not be necessary to alter the stitch if it is ordinarily short, and the result will be amply satisfactory.

With the aid of these two ideas it should be easy to do very good gathering on any machine.

Things Worth Knowing.

Tan boots when mud stained may be cleaned with a cut raw potato. Leave them till dry, then apply boot cream or beeswax and turpentine and polish as usual.

No polish should ever be used for lacquered articles. If once applied the metal polish will spoil the surface of the lacquer. Lacquered goods should be rubbed up with a leather and if dirty washed with a little warm water and soap.

To prevent a gas stove from rusting during the winter, wash and dry it thoroughly, scouring where necessary with pumice; then wipe the stove with a cloth dipped in olive oil or a small piece of suet wrapped in cheesecloth. It is best to do this while the stove is warm.

For a scald or burn apply immediately pulverized charcoal and linseed oil.

Mother Too Slow.

A little six-year-old girl, whose father is a prominent physician, made an unusually bright remark at the breakfast table one morning. The doctor looked across at his wife with an amused twinkle in the corner of his eye, saying:

"Not bad, that, eh?"

The mother caught the instant smirk of gratification that spread over the wee girl's face, and, wishing to discourage any tendency in the youngster to attach undue importance to her mental brilliancy, said quietly:

"Oh, I don't think there was anything very remarkable about it."

The little girl turned instant pitying eyes on her mother, saying:

"Oh, mother, how dull you are!"

NORWOOD YOUNG MAN SAID TO BE HEIR TO FORTUNE

Amount Reported to be $30,000—Resident of Norwood For Many Years—Moving to Peterborough Other Late News

Norwood, May 12.—Miss Nellie Davidson left here on Friday morning for Winnipeg.

It is rumored that one of our popular young men lately of England has fallen heir to a considerable fortune. The amount is said to be about $30,000.

Mr. Elsworth Emery, a lifelong resident of Norwood, who has been lately engaged in the Finlay factory, but who has been laid off for some time, went to Peterborough and purchased a nice home on Romaine street. He will remove to his new home on Monday of next week.

Within the past few years Peterborough has attracted nearly twenty of Norwood's enterprising citizens.

Mr. Chas. McKelvie and bride, of Toronto, are spending their honeymoon here the guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. McKelvie.

The W. M. S. of the Methodist church, will hold a convention in Havelock on Wednesday of this week. Several members of the Norwood branch will attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Blon, of Lindsay, are visiting friends in Norwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Moore, of Peterborough, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Searight, Peterborough street.

Mr. T. E. Finlay, of this place, has erected a nice summer residence at Stony Lake.

Mr. A. S. Harrison and family left on Monday for Lindsay, where Mr. Harrison will engage in the grocery business.

The Board of Education met on Monday evening, May 10th. Those present were Messrs. J. L. Squire, chairman; Wm. Webster, H. Drain, E. P. Cuffe, F. Anderson, T. Loughbridge, J. A. Finlay, C. W. Waters, G. H. Neible, C. E. Pakenham. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

The chairman read a copy of a letter sent to the Education Department re High School Inspector's report.

He also read the reply to the same and a communication from Miss Trout tendering her resignation on the H. S. staff, to take effect at the end of the present term.

It was moved by Mr. Waters and seconded by Mr. Loughbridge, that the resignation of Miss Trout be accepted. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Loughbridge, seconded by Mr. Neible, that the Board acknowledge the work of the committee in its criticism of the inspector's report to the department and that the reply of the education department be received and handed to the principal for perusal and afterwards filed.—Carried.

The following accounts were passed; C. P. R. Telegraph Company, telegraphy, $26, the McMillan Co., Ltd., books, $4.73; Ira Cumming, repairs, $9.75.

Moved by Mr. Cuffe, seconded by Mr. Anderson that the account for telegraphing be paid.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Anderson, seconded by Mr. Loughbridge, that the account of Mr. Cummings be referred to the Property Committee, to be paid upon completion of certain work in connection therewith and that the other account be referred to the Supply Committee and that the express be paid. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Cuffe, seconded by Mr. Drain, that Miss Violet White be paid for nine and one half days teaching at the rate of $4 per day. To be made payable to bearer.

The Board then adjourned.

OUT OF DEPTHS OF FOREST IN TWO YEARS; A NEW TOWN IN NEW ONTARIO

A Third of A Series of Interesting Articles Written Especially for the Review by Walter F. Stewart —Cobalt the Centre of Mineral Wealth.

Continued.

North Cobalt, May 10, 09.

When our sister towns have any important matters that require attention in the way of street improvements, sidewalk extensions, bridge repairs or school questions, it is all left to their town or city council, who meet at certain periods to discuss the questions, pass bylaws, accounts and opinions of one another. We, in North Cobalt, as we are not yet incorporated, leave such matters in the hands of the township council. But if we have anything on our minds, or want to find out what anyone else has on his mind, we just adjourn to the well known rendezvous — Ferguson's store —and sit around on the cracker barrels and counter, to discuss the topics of the week. I wont say day, because it takes a whole week to get together enough topics for one evening's discussion but this interesting council meets every evening, so you can imagine for yourselves how conversation must flag. It was at one of these impromptu meetings that I brought up the subject of school, for I had just been brought hard up against a problem to which I had not previously given a thought. While looking after the different rudiments of town building, selling town lots, and lumber to the incoming populace, I quite overlooked the fact that they were, in many cases, bringing their children with them. Well, why shouldn't they? Of course I had left mine at home in Toronto, attending their school until I found them a home here, and I suppose thought others should do the same. But facts are not deceiving, there they were, eighty-three children that had to be schooled, or kept out of mischief. The fathers came and asked me what was going to be done about it. I said "I don't know, I will have to see about it," but when the mothers came I had to know, and did see about it. That evening I made my call on the aforesaid cracker barrel council and opened the subject of school and a subscription list. We had no money, no building or room suitable for school teaching, and no one in prospect who would undertake the teaching. In a very short time my subscription list closed with $72 to the good.

Our company had donated two lots for school purposes and let us have two more at less than half the going price, with a year or more to pay for them in. Next day we had a trustee board formed, of three and I was appointed secretary-treasurer of the school section. The following day we had 25 husky fellows and a team, cleaning up the grounds, cutting wood, and birch gads for the teacher when she came, squaring and laying the timbers for the foundation and giving cheerfully all the free labor they could spare in starting the new building for our school. While this was being done I was busy ordering the lumber, doors, windows, hinges, nails and locks, which I secured on six months credit. Three carpenters volunteered to put up the building and trusted to getting their wages as soon as convenient.

All the equipment, such as the latest, up to date individual school desks, black boards, maps, etc. were ordered on the six months' credit basis, school books, copy books, and all other books used in schools were ordered on six months' credit, all amounting to over $1,200. And only $72 cash on hand. No one would loan us money, our Township Council had no money, and to make matters worse the three who were appointed trustees had to go away for the winter to lumber or mining camps and they had no money. So I was left to work out the problem alone. I often heard the remark, "Whenever you are in doubt lead a trump." I know clubs would be trump if I didn't get after some some money, but the trump card I did lead was to appeal to the government through the school inspector at North Bay. Then I was told by our Township Clerk that that was no use as the Department didn't give grants until the school was built and running six months. There was the six months racker again. Just think of all that was going to happen in that unhappy six months. But the school was building, the walls were up, the roof on and we were all shingling, I learnt the trade shingling a boat house at Chemong Lake. At last a letter arrived from the school inspector saying he would be up in a few days, it's a wonder he didn't say six months, but he did arrive at the appointed time, looked over our work, and asked to see the plans. "I suppose you submitted them to the department before you commenced to build," he remarked. Well, there wasn't a plan or the scratch of a pen to show. I had only sketched with a pencil on a letter pad, something that might look like a school house. He however, passed it all good humoredly, remarking that we were doing very well, and to go right ahead the way we were doing. That was all very satisfactory as far as it went, but "where is the money coming from?" I asked. Then our good inspector informed me that the better course would be to raise it on debentures, also that he would report our case to the department at Toronto and see if they wouldn't make us a special grant.

I lingered a few days longer, subsisting on these scraps of juicy illusions, when I concluded that a change of air might be conducive to my early recovery, so after dividing up what remained of the $72 among the men, I skinned out taking the train for Toronto. Once more I was in doubt, so lead trumps. I played the trump card by going to the Government myself and from the Department of Education succeeded in getting a special grant which was sufficient to cover about a third of our debt, but I was greatly assisted by the inspector's report, which had arrived one day before. At the same time I was advised by the Deputy Minister that I could demand assistance from our Township Council, and if they hadn't the money they were obliged to find it.

You may be sure, I lost no time in getting back to our Township Council to start them on the hunt. Success once more crowned the efforts for I received a cheque sufficient to cover another third of the debt, as a loan, they said, but wouldn't have to pay it back. During Christmas week we opened the school with a box social and a dance and from the proceeds netted $75. I think I will just here devote a little space to a description of this little evening's amusement. Everyone of course, was invited to come, I only had to make the announcement to the Cracker Barrel Brigade and they did the rest. The appointed evening arrived for the great Box Social and dance. Nothing else had been talked of for weeks. From 7 to 8.30 the guests were arriving in twos and threes, then in dozens, and later on in sleigh loads. The girls' dresses I could not begin to describe, but I know they were made of all kinds of material, in all kinds of shades and colors, decorated with all kinds of ribbon and cheap jewellery, their hair done up in all kinds of styles, held up with a variety of highly colored combs and hat pins. The men in cow hide boots, shoepacks and tanned shoes, wearing leather coats, black coats, corderoys or kakhi. The three fiddlers were placed in a row on the teachers' platform, a small keg with sawdust for it placed in front of them, for they all chewed tobacco. The dancing then commenced, being called off by a professional, who took up his position on the platform in front of the fiddlers. It was the usual country dance, with "honour your partners," "first lady and opposite gent," etc., "right and left," "balance all," and "swing the girl you call your own." All went fast and furious until the caller-off backed up too far and stepped on the corns of the fiddler, then he was kicked off the platform. I kept the door and took the money and kept the drunks out. When they got too many for me I called on big Jack Crawford, the fighter, to help me. One fellow came who was a little the worse of liquor. I asked him for his entrance fee of 50 cents. He said he had no money, but would pay me to-morrow, and gave me a three cent collar button as security. I took his overcoat and he redeemed it next morning, as it was a cold day.

The dancing was kept up till one o'clock then auctioning the boxes took place, for they couldn't get their supper until this was done. Now, in case any of my readers don't understand what a box social is, I will explain. When it was announced two weeks previously, all the girls women and ladies knew just what to do. They went round to all the stores and begged for empty paste board shoe boxes, of all shapes and sizes. These they took home and decorated with colored tissue paper, Japanese paper, rosettes and paper flowers. In them they deposited sandwiches, cakes and pieces of pie, and on the top of all a card, or piece of paper, with her own name written on it. The box is tied securely with ribbon and is then ready for market. Each girl who brings a box gets in free, so they all bring them. The men pay fifty cents to get in and have to buy the boxes. A man gets pretty hungry round midnight after "hoeing it down" all evening, and is glad to pay anything for something to eat.

The auctioneer took his stand on a table and commenced his work. The bidding always opened at 50 cents and went up to $1.50, and sometimes to $2.50 and $3.00 each if the crowd got an inkling that any man had found out his best girl's box, they would make him "bid up" and in many cases were forced to sting to the tune of $5 and in one case $7.50. When he buys his box he opens it, the card inside shows him the girl he has to eat his supper with. He then hunts her up and they sit down together in the cosiest corner of the room and discuss the contents of the prize packages he so bravely fought for. In one case a man got his mother-in-law's box, it had cost her 15c and him $3, but they sat down together and chewed in silence.

The social broke up at 5 in the morning and all went home happy, having thoroughly enjoyed themselves and at the same time feeling they had materially assisted in defraying the expenses in a good cause. The cheery questions asked on all sides, as they departed was "How much did you make," and when I told them "$5, they said, "good, wish it was twice as much, have another soon and we will bring a whole lot of money," and the girls said they would bring six boxes apiece. The boys said "O no, you won't!"

On January 6th. 1909 the school was opened for more serious business, with 63 children at their desks, and a good teacher presiding, sufficient funds on hand to nearly pay off the debt, but we still had five months' credit. When the five months were up we met all our accounts in full and had sufficient in the bank to pay the teacher a full year's salary. The money coming as municipal and government grants. At this date our school is filled to overflowing and we are obliged to add to our building.

In this building I established the first Church of England service and Sunday school, the rector from St. Paul's church, Haileybury, presiding on Sunday afternoons.

My dear readers, more anon, if you can survive the series. I will promise to inflict you with two more letters, then I will confine myself to short news items. In return I shall be pleased to receive correspondence of a private nature from any ladies or gentlemen who would like to get any information about this wonderful northern country.

Yours faithfully,
WALTER F. STEWART

Mr. Stewart's admirable letters have been the theme of general and most favorable comment.—Ed.

TWENTY DEAD AS RESULT OF A PREMATURE EXPLOSION

Vice-President and General Manager Callanan of Road Improvement Co., His Brother, an Assistant Superintendent, Several Officials and Twelve Italian Laborers Lose Their Lives at Albany.

Albany, N.Y., May 13.—At least 20 men were killed by a premature blast of dynamite yesterday afternoon in a stone quarry operated by the Callanan Road Improvement Co., near the village of South Bethlehem, 11 miles southwest of Albany.

The dead included John H. Callanan, vice-president and general manager of the company; Chas. D. Callanan, a brother; Leroy McMillan, assistant superintendent; Henrickson, steam drill foreman; Fred Snyder, master mechanic; Fred Zapport, agent of the National Power Co., New York, with two foremen and 12 Italian workmen.

One thousand pounds of dynamite exploded, scattering the bodies of the victims for hundreds of feet around, and it was with difficulty that the blackened, dismembered remains, mutilated almost beyond recognition, were identified.

Clothing hung in shreds from the bodies, from which the heads of some were missing; others lacked arms or legs or both. Italians with shovels searched here and there for portions of bodies, bringing the gruesome loads in boxes to the engine house, which served as a temporary morgue.

The blast was caused by the premature discharge of a percussion cap. Houses in the vicinity were shaken, windows shattered and consternation reigned in the little village half a mile away.

Soon after the explosion fire was discovered in the woods in which the dynamites storehouse was located, and it was feared for a time that the flames might reach the building in which a carload of explosives were stored, but the fire was extinguished before the danger was reached.

Five of the great charges of dynamite remain unexploded in the quarry. This rendered somewhat difficult the search for the bodies, the workmen fearing further explosions.

DOG POISONING IS CHARGE MADE

Windsor, May 13.—Dr. Merwin, manufacturer of patent medicines, is charged with poisoning a dog belonging to Walter Woods. The latter will produce a witness to testify that he saw Merwin deposit a piece of poisoned cheese in front of the postoffice, and that the dog ate it.

About two years ago Merwin was fined for poisoning another dog. He admitted placing the death dealing food on his lawn, but claimed he intended it for sparrows. Several dogs have been poisoned of late, but Merwin maintains he is not responsible.

He is so annoyed over what he terms persecution, that he announces he will sell his house here and leave the city.

Arranging for New Railway.

Montreal, May 13.—Premier Murray and R. E. Finn, M.P.P. for Halifax, are here to-day together with Mr. Sinclair, M.P. for Guysboro, and it is said that they will conclude arrangements that will ensure the construction of the Halifax and Guysboro Railway.

Clerk Charged With Theft.

Ottawa, May 13.—Albert Dorion, a clerk in the Department of Mines and Fisheries, was charged in the Police Court with the theft of 26 dozen photographic plates, the property of the Government. He was remanded for a week.

NEARLY THROUGH WITH THE SEEDING

Winnipeg, May 13.—Seeding in the west will be practically completed by the end of the week, and most of it will be done by to-day.

This, in brief, is the substance of a splendid crop report issued yesterday by the grain agent of the C.P.R. covering the three prairie provinces. With the heavy rainfall of Tuesday, the crops will receive great benefit, as this was just what was required.

All over the west, great headway was made with operations during the past week, following the cold snap, which delayed farm work somewhat, and farmers in every case have made up for lost time.

SPIRITED AWAY FROM HOSPITAL

Windsor, May 13.—Michael Hook, former proprietor of the Tecumseh House, London, was spirited away from the Red Cross Hospital in Detroit by friends anxious to get him out of that institution.

The police have searched high and low for him, but so far without success. His attorney admits Hook is being held under cover, but says his friends have no need to worry.

To-day Hook will be summoned before Judge Durfee, to have his bond of $2,500 as administrator of his wife's estate raised to double that sum. Hook has been spending his wife's money so freely that it was deemed advisable to have the surety increased. Since his wife's death last October, Hook has chequed out $2,600. Mrs. Hook left real and personal property worth about $12,000.

The estate will be placed in hands of special guardians unless Hook is able to satisfy the court with the increased bond.

LATEST NEWS AS TOLD IN DESPATCHES

Priests Approve Mutiny.

Constantinople, May 13.—Constantinople witnessed another batch of executions yesterday morning when 24 mutineers of the army and navy were hanged in public within the city limits.

Priests prayed with the condemned men shortly before they were taken to the places of execution and commented upon the evil deeds which had resulted in their deaths. One of the condemned men spoke up and said that all the priests he had talked with on the day of the so-called mutiny and the days following had approved of his action.

Presentation to Mr. Borden.

Ottawa, May 13.—Geo. A. Clare, M.P. for South Waterloo, and the Conservative members presented to Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Borden yesterday a landscape painting, the work of Homer Watson. Claude Macdonnel of Toronto made the formal presentation.

Fall on Circular Saw.

Port Hope, May 13.—James Haw, at one time hotelkeeper in Orillia, met with a painful accident yesterday while cutting wood on a circular saw. He became entangled with the saw while it was in motion and fell forward, sustaining a wound about nine inches in length, and an inch deep extending from the lower part of the chest to the stomach. He was able to walk home after the accident.

Charge Farmer With Arson.

Ottawa, May 13.—Upon a charge of arson, John Ryan, aged 66, a well-known resident of Lowe Township, was remanded until Tuesday.

It is alleged that on May 6, Ryan set fire to the outbuildings of David McHughey, farmer, the blaze doing $3,000 damage. On April 5, Ryan's own house was burned out and he got a check for $350 from the insurance company.

A Mother's Heroism.

Sperling, Man., May 13.—While going to milk, Mrs. Harry Courtney discovered her house to be on fire. Winding an apron over her head, the mother pluckily dashed through the flames and saved her four little children, who were huddled in an inner room.

Hits Rocks on First Trip.

Halifax, May 13.—The steamer Amelia on the south shore route between Halifax and St. John, arrived in port yesterday badly damaged by striking a ledge off Gull Rock, near the entrance to Lockport Harbor.

This was her first round trip on the south shore since receiving the subsidy from the Dominion Government to perform the service.

In Danger of German Warship.

Sydney, N.S.W., May 13.—Captain Strachan, master of the Australian ketch Envy, has arrived at Brisbane and has fallen foul of the German authorities, who accuse him of kidnapping natives and carrying away the German flag from Tobie Island.

The German vice-consul informed him that a German man-of-war would seize the vessel if she went outside the three-mile limit. Capt. Strachan claims the ownership of the island, which he says he first visited in 1894.

Cadets Leave for Bisley.

Toronto, May 13.—With 500 cheering cadets lining the platform, and the cadet band playing patriotic airs the 10.15 G.T.R. train pulled out for Montreal last night. On board were Galer Hagarty and Albert J. Flood, the first Toronto cadets to shoot at Bisley. They will sail on the Virginia at 9 a.m. Friday, will arrive in England about the 21st and the shooting will commence on the 24th.

Best for You and Baby.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 13.—Campbell M. Cobb of the firm of C. F. Sayles & Co., real estate dealers, committed suicide at the Denison Hotel by stabbing and shooting himself. A note to his wife reads: "Dear Irene: The disaster is worse than you think. Cannot possible get out of trouble. Think this is best for you and the baby."

Earthquake In Formosa.

Victoria, B.C., May 13.—News of a severe earthquake in Formosa, causing considerable loss of life, chiefly in the northern part was brought by the steamer Admiral Hamelen, which arrived yesterday from Havre via the Orient. The centre of the disturbance appeared to be in the sea at Keelung and Giran.

WHITNEY IS DISSATISFIED

Premier of Ontario Enters Objection to the Waterways Treaty —Telegraphs Laurier

Toronto, May 13.—If the Ottawa Government is somnolent in regard to the rights of the Province of Ontario under the terms of the waterways treaty as mutilated by the United States Senate, Sir James Whitney has not allowed the occasion to pass unnoticed. The following telegram was sent to Sir Wilfrid Laurier yesterday, which indicates the feeling of the local administration:

"Rt. Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Prime Minister, Ottawa, Ont.:

"The Ontario Government is of opinion that if the waterways treaty be ratified by the Parliament of Canada, such ratification should be exclusive of the rider inserted at the end thereof by the United States Senate, and this Government respectfully protests against such rider, as being unfair to the Province of Ontario in view of the other provisions of the treaty as to waters and streams.

"J. P. WHITNEY,
"Prime Minister of Ontario."

In an interview Sir James afterwards said: "It would seem, if the treaty is ratified, that an injustice will be done to the province, as apparently the original situation is resumed at Sault Ste. Marie, while the other changes which affect British boundary waters remain."

The Smith rider, to which exception is taken by the Ontario Government, provides "that nothing in this treaty shall be construed as effecting or changing any existing territorial or riparian rights in the water, or rights of owners of land under water, on either side of the international boundary at the rapids of St. Mary's river at Sault Ste. Marie, in the use of waters flowing over such lands, subject to the requirements of navigation in boundary waters and of navigation of canals, and without prejudice to the existing rights of the United States and Canada, each to use the waters of the St. Mary's river within its own territory."

PARIS IS PEACEFUL

First Day of Strike Passes Without Any Serious Disturbance

Paris, May 13. The first day of the postal strike passed peacefully. No disturbances were reported and the movement appears to have not gained ground.

The services in Paris and throughout the provinces last night, with the exception of the railway mail clerks, are normal, and as a result there has been no need to take advantage of the preparations made by various business organizations and commercial bodies to carry on a private service.

The Cabinet last night summarily dismissed 228 men under the decree issued on March 18, which authorized the discharge of strikers from the state service and made other provisions for dealing with recalcitrants. The Ministers are very confident that the removal of the principal fomenters of the agitation will have the effect of crushing the movement.

The leaders of the strike experienced another discouragement in the failure of the miners' congress at Lens to vote a sympathetic strike, and up to the present none of the trades unions has made a sign of joining the movement.

A large amount of snow is still reported in the Maine lake region.

The New York Central Railroad has shut down on carrying dogs in passenger cars.

BIG MUSICAL PLAY WILL BE PRESENTED IN PETERBORO'

Under Auspices of Children's Aid Society in Near Future —Will be Put on Under Professional Direction.

Arrangements have been made by the officers of the Children's Aid Society to have a big musical play put on here early in June. It will be somewhat after the style of "Queen Zephra," only on a more elaborate scale, over 150 taking part. It will be put on under the direction of Mr. Ford and Miss Adams, who make a business of presenting this play, and who are expected to arrive here to-night. "When Toys Awake" is the name of the opera and it will be presented two or three nights at the opera house.

The preliminary arrangements have already been made, and as soon as Mr. Ford and Miss Adams arrive here a more definite announcement will be made.

The proceeds will go to the Children's Aid Society.

CHANGING A FORMER BANK BUILDING INTO CLUB HOUSE

The Peterborough Club have taken out a permit at the city clerk's office for transferring the old Bank of Montreal building into a club house. Extensive changes are to be made in the interior, the cost of the work being $1,800. Ex-Ald. W. J. Johnston has the contract for the renovating, and the architect is Mr. Belcher.

It is expected that the alterations will be completed and the club house ready for occupancy about August 1st.

ATHLETIC CLUB'S "AT HOME" A SUCCESSFUL FUNCTION

The "At Home" last night at the T.A.S. rooms under the auspices of the Athletic club was a most successful affair. There were one hundred and fifty in attendance and the evening was spent in progressive euchre and dancing. The ladies' euchre prize was a handsome belt pin and the gentleman's a fountain pen. They were won respectively by Miss Sadie O'Brien and Mr Doherty. Splendid music for dancing was supplied by Messrs P. Kane and J Duffus.

Refreshments were served during the evening.

The committee in charge is to be congratulated on the success of the function.

SERGEANTS MET FOR LAST TIME IN THEIR OLD MESS ROOMS

Will Move into New Quarters at Armouries at Once— Committees for Entertainment of Visiting Brother Non-Com. Officers on May 24th Chosen.

The last meeting of the Sergeants of the 57th regiment in their old mess rooms was held last night. There was an excellent attendance about thirty-five being in attendance and matters of importance and interest were dealt with.

The sergeants will move into their new quarters at the armories at once and will have them handsomely fitted up. A billiard table will be placed in the rooms and they will be furnished with mission oak furniture.

At the meeting in the mess rooms last night an entertainment, a furnishing and reception committee were appointed. The entertainment and reception committees were chosen in connection with the arrangements for entertaining and receiving the sergeants of the visiting regiments when they come here for the opening of the armories on May 24th. The entertainment of the visitors was discussed and a grant from the regiment for that purpose is expected.

FIRST SUMMER CONFERENCE OF THE CANADIAN Y.W.C.A.

A Description of Beautiful Place When the Young Women May Spend an Enjoyable and Profitable Ten Days Holiday—Many May go From This City.

Spring is in the air, giving the promise of summer, and reminding the young women of Canada that the "First Canadian Y.W.C.A. Conference is almost here. Where is it to be? What will it be like? Who is going? Is it worth while? are the questions that pop into a girl's mind as she reads the announcement.

Of course, the answer she gets is an enthusiastic description of the "Summerland of Muskoka," described for us by the poetic language of Frank Yeigh. This great nature sanitarium is a paradise of lake and stream, of forest and island, where far from the haunts of men, "We stand in the heart of things; the woods around us are heaped and dim and Mother Nature lies ready to reveal her secrets to those who have ears to hear and eyes to see." The only way in truth to enter into the heart of Muskokaland is to rest a while amid its beauty, to see it under the glow of sunrise and sunset, to see it bathed in the softening, alluring shades of night. Its warm, soft waters give life to the bather and swimmer, its channels invite silent canoe explorations, while the deep-hearted woods have a welcome all their own with the softest of carpets on Mother Earth, and the coolest of avenues under the tall branches. Here the Creator has scattered thirty thousand islands on its clear, deep waters, some small and dainty and exquisitely clothed with balsam and pine, with cedar or white-barked birch, others with forests of oak. There is no better centre from which to explore this Canadian lake-land than the Elgin House, on Lake Joseph, where the first Canadian Y.W.C.A. Summer Conference is to be held June 26th to July 5th. The afternoons are kept free for recreation. A special committee will make arrangements for launch trips through the lakes, bathing, boating, tennis and other sports.

But the purpose of this conference is first of all to lead young women into the knowledge of God and the doing of His will as the one satisfying mission in life, and in the second place, to consider the best methods by which the Association may accomplish this end.

The programme will consist of Bible study, mission study, conferences on the various lines of work carried on in associations, presentation of home and foreign mission work and addresses by strong speakers. Among the speakers and Bible and mission study leaders are President Mackenzie, of Hartford Seminary; Canon Cody, Toronto; Rev. John Timothy Stone, Baltimore; Rev. Jos. MacNeill, Toronto; Prof. Gilmour, of McMaster University; Prof. Reynolds of Guelph; Rev. John Pringle, of the Yukon; Miss Thomas, Toronto; Dr. Jean Dow, of China, and Mrs. McLaurin, from India.

The expense at the Elgin House for ten days' board and room will be $7. There is a programme fee of $3, payable by every person in attendance. The railways offer their usual rate of one and one-third fare for the round trip.

We feel satisfied that our conference, as far as place, accommodation and programme are concerned will be very successful and most profitable, but the ultimate and far-reaching success of it depends largely on the attendance. We would like to have at least twelve go up to Lake Joseph from Peterborough. A number have already signified their intention of going. Are there not others who, after reading this article will decide to join the enthusiastic party?

Miss McCaig would be glad to meet and have a talk with any and every girl who would like to spend these ten happy days at the conference.

CROP REPORT FOR LAST MONTH

Ottawa, May 13.—The census and statistics office has given out a statement of crops and live stock for the month of April.

Vegetation is later than usual this year, and no report on the state of crops can be made for Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. Spring work in Ontario has been carried on for the most part only in the counties along Lake Erie and Lake Huron, and seeding has been delayed by weather conditions throughout the northwest provinces. Winter wheat is grown in all parts of Ontario except in the counties of the Ottawa Valley and north of the lakes. Its condition at the end of April was uniform in all parts of the province, and compared with a standard crop it ranks at 76.5 per cent.

Hindus In Salmon Canneries.

Vancouver, B.C., May 13.—Hindus will this season become salmon cannery hands and in the north scores of them will be employed, according to a statement made yesterday by a northern canner. He said:

"Chinese hands have become so scarce that we simply have to take any labor that offers itself and the Hindus may aid us in solving the problem of how to provide ourselves with 'roustabout' labor. They will not be allowed to come in contact with the fish."

MINISTER COMPROMISES; AMENDS THE RAILWAY BILL

Graham Incorporates Senator Bisque's Amendment In Order to Prevent Level Crossings' Measure From Being Killed in Upper Assembly—Macdonnel's Amendment Regarding Commutatian Tickets Fails.

Ottawa, May 13.—The Beique amendment to the Lancaster level crossings bill was incorporated in the Graham Railway Bill yesterday morning.

"I wanted something that would pass both Houses," said the Minister of Railways. Mr. Graham explained that the existing law would remain.

On the third reading of the bill Mr. Lancaster moved to substitute his own level crossing provision for the Senate amendment. The House divided and the motion was defeated on a vote of 100 to 70, H. H. Miller, Liberal, of South Grey, voting with the Opposition.

An amendment by C. J. Doherty to hold railways liable for loss of life in fires caused by locomotives, was lost on the same division.

Wilfrid Nantel of Terrebonne, got in an amendment requiring railways to print their time tables in French and English on lines in Quebec.

Claude Macdonnel of Toronto sought vainly to have the act amended by requiring railways issuing commutation tickets to not withdraw them without the consent of the Railway Board, also to require railways issuing them to other points from the same centre within the same or a lesser radius. Richard Blain seconded the amendment.

But Mr. Graham had not had time to see just what a general application of such a law would mean, and he would not like to adopt the amendment without study. "I am not unsympathetic," said he; "I will take the matter up in recess."

The public accounts committee yesterday morning adopted the final report of the sub-committee which has been looking over the list of assets figuring in the Dominion's balance sheet, with a view of wiping off any bad debts. The net result is an addition of $473,759 to the debt balance, instead of nearly two millions, as was previously announced. The assets struck off totaled $837,646, while a liability of $363,387 which has been on the books of the Finance Department for many years as owing to the defunct bank of Upper Canada was also eliminated.

There was some discussion over an item of $30 standing in the I.C.R. accounts as a claim against Sir Robert Wetherbee, ex-chief justice of Nova Scotia, in connection with a special train hired by him on the occasion of his son's illness, and for which he declined to pay. It was finally decided to remit the bill.

William Ross of Halifax yesterday offered a resolution to the Senate declaring against divorce by Parliament and favoring divorce courts instead.

Senator Ellis, seconding the motion, said four provinces had divorce courts, and for the others the Senate acted. In his opinion, the Senate should rid themselves of that duty.

Senator Power disputed Senator Ross' argument that the Catholic Bible could be read to permit divorce. He favored the present system because it made divorce difficult to obtain. With a divorce court in Ontario there would be twenty times more divorces.

Senator Ross—"What about the poor?"

Senator Power said that poor people did not seem to qualify for divorce as wealthy people did.

Senator Ross withdrew his motion, saying he only wanted an expression of opinion.

Correspondence laid on the table of the House of Commons by the Minister of Labor shows that there have been complaints of ill-treatment of laborers on the Pacific section of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

E. J. Chamberlain, general manager, says in a letter that Labor Organiser Daly "is trying to make all the trouble he can." Complaints were, first, that the men on Pacific section were ill-fed, and ill-treated and, secondly, that they were mulcted to an unnecessary amount for hospital money.

As to this Mr. Chamberlain says that Foley, Welch and Stewart are giving as good a medical service as does the G.T.P. itself, and that as a matter of fact at the time of his writing they were $17,000 behind, but the best proof of the success of the hospital service on the Prince Rupert section is that the health has been generally good, and that there have been very few cases of typhoid.

The new insurance bill was reported by the banking and commerce committee yesterday.

An amendment providing liberal treatment to persons totally disabled was made. It permits the payment of the whole amount of a policy to certain persons "insurably dead." This would make it possible for a paralytic to receive the full amount of the insurance due to him.

JURORS ANGRY

Kinrade Inquest Foreman Indignant Over Outcome of Case.

Hamilton, May 13.—According to R. B. Spera, the foreman of the Kinrade jury, they were laboring under a misapprehension when they brought in an open verdict, and that they would have decided on an entirely different course had they not believed that the crown had something else in view, and that there would be immediate developments. "People are telling us to our faces that we were bought," At a conference of some of the jurors yesterday morning it was decided to send a letter to the Attorney-General. When the jury met for the last session they were given to understand that there were some 12 more witnesses. Before the taking of testimony was begun, Geo. T. Blackstock, K.C., who represented the crown, asked for a delay until a conference could take place between the crown and the Kinrade lawyers. Then the case came to sudden close. The coroner had a draft of the verdict drawn, in which a name was mentioned, and he says ten of the 15 jurors were in favor of signing it. The sudden termination of the case led them to believe that an understanding had been reached, and that anything but an open verdict would hamper the crown.

FEWER TRAINMEN ARE NOW AT WORK

Columbus, Ohio, May 13.—The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen are in convention here, with an attendance of delegates and visitors totaling over 4,000. Vociferous greetings were extended to both W. G. Lee, grand master, and his predecessor, P. H. Morrisey.

Mr. Lee announces a probable change in the insurance system of the order, whereby the reserve will be greatly increased. Because of the depression in industrials, the railways during the last year and a half laid off many thousand men and the result has been a reduction in the number of accidents because of the reduction in the individual chances taken, and the enlargement of the surplus without an increase in assessment.

A new home for railroad men will likely be erected in Illinois through the efforts of Father Coffin, the temperance worker, and friend of the railroad men.

PREPARING FOR THE CONVENTION

Toronto, May 13.—His Grace the Archbishop of Toronto has expressed his deep interest in the coming congress of the International Council of Women, and his willingness to aid it in every way possible. Word has been received that the Swedish Government will follow the example set by Norway, and will pay the expenses of the Swedish delegates, some ten in number.

Frau Hainisch, the Austrian delegate, will be accompanied by her son, Prof. Hainisch, and her son-in-law, Herr Eduard Figdor. The former, who was the founder of public libraries in that country, will give an address on the subject in the literature section, and the latter, who is a large land owner, will speak on Women as Farmers and Gardeners.

About eight delegates from Australasia sailed for Vancouver on Monday. They will cross the continent and join the other foreign delegates in Montreal about June 13.

Mrs. Sanford of Hamilton, general treasurer for the International Council of Women has just returned from Europe. While abroad she met and conferred with the International president, the Countess of Aberdeen, who expressed her satisfaction with the arrangements as made by the Canadian council for the congress.

REPRIEVE FOR WIFE MURDERER

Ottawa, May 13.—Walter C. E. Blythe, the Englishman who beat his wife to death at Agincourt with a poker, was to hang in Toronto's jail-yard to-day, but a last minute reprieve was sent yesterday by the Minister of Justice, upon the arrival of further evidence as to Blythe's past, submitted by his legal representative.

"We have reprieved Blythe," said Hon. Mr. Aylesworth last evening, "but a reprieve simply means a postponement. This reprieve is not necessarily an indication of our final decision. It is simply a delay of execution, to give us an opportunity of going over thoroughly the representations which have been made to us by the prisoner's counsel."

Woman Murdered In B.C.

Vancouver, B.C., May 13.—Face downwards the body of a well-dressed woman was discovered yesterday under a clump of brush in Burnaby. The corpse has apparently been exposed to the elements about four months.

License Reduction In Windsor.

Windsor, May 13.—A notice of motion is before the Windsor City Council to reduce the number of hotel licenses here from 27 to 17. A bylaw will likely be submitted at the municipal election next January.

PROVINCIAL RIGHTS

Mr. R. L. Borden. Before this motion is carried, I would like to say that a great many objections to the Bill, in the first instance, seem to have been removed. The Prime Minister last evening expressed the opinion that this Parliament has power to expropriate land belonging to a provincial government. I take absolute issue with him on that point. This parliament has no power whatever in that respect, and the exercise of such power would lead to most absurd conclusions.—Hansard.

These words were spoken by Mr. Borden with reference to the Conmee Bill, which it will be remembered sought to incorporate the Ontario and Michigan Power Co., giving it the power of expropriating lands and water-privileges belonging to the Province of Ontario for the benefit and profit of a bunch of speculators. Sir Wilfrid Laurier would have allowed with some slight qualification the passage of this act of robbery, for that is what it amounts to. That the Ottawa House should have the power and privilege of expropriating the property of the provinces so long as it is alleged to be for "the general benefit of Canada," is too absurd to discuss. But such is the attitude maintained throughout the discussion by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and approved by dint of his majority. It opens the gates to provincial spoilation to an astounding extent. The speculators, stock-gamblers, contractors, money men and fly-by-nights have Canada at their mercy. Sir Wilfrid depends upon them for success, and therefore cannot resist them.

IN A NUT-SHELL

The speech of Mr. McCall, MP. for Norfolk, upon the Grand Trunk Pacific, is one of the best and most sensible in the whole course of the review of that great question. It will well repay perusal. We take it from Hansard the parliamentary record:

Mr. Alexander McCall, Norfolk, Mr. Speaker, in rising to make a few remarks on the question before the House, I need scarcely ask that the courtesy always extended to new members will be extended to me. I am glad to observe a spirit of fairness prevailing on both sides. In discussing this question I cannot hope to touch upon more than a few phases of it, for it is too great a question for me to discuss in its entirety. But representing, as I do, one of the first organized counties in this Dominion, a county whose people have for more than a hundred years contributed to its taxes and to the cost of every public work, I wish to give voice to their sentiments on this question. Being a thrifty people, who have suffered hardship for the good of this nation, who in their early days gave of their strength to the nation's defence and to making the country habitable and fit to enjoy life in, they may justly feel some alarm at a proposition that means doubling their liabilities and I would be unfaithful to them, if I failed to say something on the question before the House this afternoon.

The hon. Minister of Railways and Canals spoke of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway as a partnership. That idea is a good one. In reality, there are three parties to the partnership, the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company, the administration of the day, and the people of this country. In business partnership it is a fundamental principle that all parties must be absolutely fair with each other. One must not take advantage of or be untrue to another, or else the partnership fails. Applying this thought to the proposed resolution, I think I can safely say that the people of Canada, the third party in the partnership have not been treated fairly by the second party, the government of the day. Is there a gentleman in this House who will say seriously that if the people of this country had believed that they were facing a $500,000,000 proposition or a $250,000,000 proposition, or even a $200,000,000 proposition, they would have ratified it four years ago? I will not take up the time of this House in discussing the promises made by the ministers as to the cost of the work to the country, whether it was $13,000,000 or $14,000,000, or what it was; but I say that a proposition simply doubles the liabilities of this country, which increases the net debt of the country from $250,000,000 to $500,000,000 which places our liabilities at half a billion dollars is not one that will receive the approval of the people of this country when placed before them in that bald, plain way. Therefore, I say that the third party in this partnership, the people of Canada, have been grossly deceived by the second party, the government, in the interest of the first party, the railway company, who did nothing but drive a very hard bargain with the government, and now not only hold them to that bargain, but come and ask for this loan of $10,000,000, and the Minister of Railways and Canals would not say that this was the last call that he expected them to make. Instead of that, he rather intimated that there would be another call, and perhaps others after that. Clearly that is a breach of faith towards the third party in this transaction. To me and to others on this side of the House the Minister of Railways and Canals seems to have treated this important question in a spirit of levity. He spoke in a jocular way of the increased cost of the undertaking as a matter of course, referring to the Panama canal, the Erie canal and other canals whose cost outran the estimates of the engineers. But it is to be noted that the Panama canal will one day carry the ships of every nation whose flags float the seas, and if it is to cost $400,000,000, the cost is to be borne by eighty million people, twelve times our population; and yet the sum to be expended on that one work is not much larger than the sum we are called upon to expend on this scheme. I am not discussing that proposition by way of comparison with this; but the point I wish to make is that if the cost of the work turns out to be anywhere from 50 per cent. to 200 per cent. more than the estimate of the engineers, then in estimating the cost of a work of this kind, after the engineers have done their worst, so to speak, the government should say to the people of Canada—'While our engineers have estimated this work to cost $100,000,000, we will be frank with you and will say that it will cost $200,000,000;' you are going to pledge our future earnings and those of our children to this stupendous scheme and we should know the liability we are to share. Need I ask this House if that information was given to the people of this country, so that they could vote no to the proposition if they chose? No, the reverse was the case.

Much was said by the Minister of Railways and Canals, about the quality of the railway. Well we ought to get the best railway in the country or on the continent, but I do not believe that the plans and estimates provide for this. Every one who knows anything about railway construction knows that the first consideration is a good tie. If you have a good tie, you can do with an indifferent rail and roadbed. An American standard tie is a tie 8 feet 8 inches long, 7 inches thick, 8 inches wide. The Pennsylvania, one of the great trunk lines in the United States, uses a tie of these denominations, made of southern pitch pine or white oak. Bear in mind that that is the standard tie used by all the eastern trunk lines in the United States. But just consider the ties, which are being laid on the National Transcontinental Railway —8 feet long 3 inches thick and 7 inches wide, and made of the cheapest timber known, namely, jack pine and tamarack. The roadbed and the rail may be sufficient but that tie is not one which can stand any heavy traffic. The Hon. Minister of Railways,—Mr Graham—speaks about the high standard of the road. Well, time will tell whether we get a freight standard road or not. In fact, it is a railway still on paper, and it will require actual observation when completed to see whether the minister's promises are made good or not.

I am not going to discuss the price. The great question is whether we are getting value for it. In dealing with the cost of this road from the standpoint of our national resources, I propose to offer a few words; and I would ask hon. gentlemen to bear with me if I should appear careless and drop a million or two when dealing with the millions of this country. In handling hundreds of millions, one might easily drop an odd million or so, but our liabilities will not fail to turn up in good order. They will all be in their place when the time for payment comes and will have to be met by the tax payers. Before this country began to pay out money on account of the Transcontinental, our public debt was about $258,000,000. This sum represents all the debt of all the provinces at their entry into the confederation and all of the debts of the Dominion to the time of the announcement of the Grand Trunk Pacific. Taking the most moderate estimate—and I have not heard the Minister of Railways attempt this session to say just what sum of money is necessary to complete the work —this entire road, the eastern section, the prairie and the mountain sections and the government guarantee, will require $250,000,000. That is a moderate estimate of our liabilities which must be paid within the next four or five years, making 500,000,000 in all. Admitting that to be the case ought we not all to feel anxious that the country should keep its expenditures within its capacity to bear the burden? But that expenditure is not all we are committed to. There are other schemes which are bound to become national liabilities. For instance, the Hudson Bay Railway and the Georgian Bay canal. In connection with the latter scheme, the right hon. the Prime Minister last year said it was one which was near to his heart; and when the right hon gentleman says that a scheme is near his heart and puts his hand there that is good for a million. I hope we shall not have too many such schemes.

It is true that some people from a county right near the city of Toronto, came over here and asked for a sum of about a million, and it is said that there were a number of Tories in that delegation and that through their influence a sum was granted for the proposed expenditure. Let me say to the Prime Minister that if he knew the Tories of North York as some of us do, he would not give them a quarter of a million. He must not be too credulous on such occasions because when Tories come in company with Liberals, it is a sure sign that they are after the public treasury.

As I have said, other expenditures will be necessary and we ought not to tie ourselves up to one large outlay, but must leave something to meet other requirements. Great questions are coming up and great obligations, which will need money, and in this one matter of the National Transcontinental scheme we have been altogether too generous. This scheme ought not to have been brought up at the time it was. We should have waited until the public demand was more insistent and then, in estimating the cost of the road, we should have figures to submit to the country, based on the full knowledge of the extent of the burden we were assuming.

The question comes right here; What are you going to do about it? That is the question we are facing today. Not only have we to meet the original obligation but we are asked to pay another $10,000,000. Is there any guarantee that we may not be asked for still another $10,000,000 and still another until the entire cost of this transcontinental railway will be on the debt side of the ledger. You will find that the whole cost of the road will be our investment and that in return we will assume 100 per cent of the risk and have none of the profits, whereas the Grand Trunk Railway will get all the profits if there be any, and not have invested a cent in the undertaking. Wouldn't it be possible at this stage to reconsider this scheme? Would it not be possible to ask for an extension of the time of the New Brunswick section? It is patent to every one that the New Brunswick section must compete with our own Intercolonial Railway and thereby render that railway of less value. Why should not the construction of the eastern portion of the road from Winnipeg to Moncton be delayed? The western section and the outlet to Lake Superior could be pushed rapidly so as to give that country an outlet to the lake. The traffic of that country is largely during the season of navigation. This might not only enable them to finance this scheme but it would look better to the country, and the feeling of the people that they have been deceived would gradually disappear. There is no question, this proposed loan will be made; whether it meet with the approval of members on this side or not, it will be voted. I am glad to hear the expressions from hon. members on this side that they assume responsibility for this work and declare that it must eventually be pushed through to completion. I admit that I share in the belief expressed by hon. gentlemen opposite that that western country is a country of great promise, one that will need further outlets than those already provided.

I urge again upon the government due consideration for those who have really made the wealth of this country. We are the sons of the pioneers who came here in the latter part of the eighteenth century, and, not only bore the burden of the defence of this country, but built it up, establishing and maintaining law and order, living thrifty lives and laying the foundations of our national wealth. The savings of our people in the government savings banks and in the chartered banks of our country help to finance these great schemes that we discuss in this parliament. There were periods in the lives of these pioneers when the failure of a harvest or the coming of illness into the home made their lives a tragedy. They faced destitution and want at times. Some regard should be paid to the sentiments of people of this class. If we succeed, it will be upon their thrift and energy. In a question of this kind, involving such a large sum of money, a scheme that means the doubling of our national obligations ought not to be entered upon. The people ought to be treated at all times by the ministers who have charge of the public expenditure in a serious spirit, and in an earnest way, so that their expressions may command respect among the people. I hope that parliament will consider this question, perhaps I should say more seriously, than it has, but in the light of our ability to bear the enormous burden of this Grand Trunk Pacific scheme. Whatever may be the result, even should our worst fears be realized, we can depend upon the Canadian people to meet the responsibility with the high courage characteristic of the nation to which we belong.

TIMBER FAMINE IN SIGHT

It is a disquieting prediction that in ten or fifteen years there will be no timber east of the Rockies. The Ontario Government seems unfortunately lacking in the capacity necessary to the perfecting of a forestry policy.—The Globe.

Why does the Globe not blame Whitney for his mineral policy, too?

EDITORIAL NOTES

The whole Canada Life Bill recently put through Parliament was founded upon an alleged clerical error in 1879, the use of "were" for "are." Another bill corrects the errors of the Railway Subsidies Act.

New York, May 12.—A special to the Tribune from New Haven says;—Rev. Herbert Henson, Canon of Westminster and Rector of St. Margaret's, London, England, left Yale yesterday for Boston, to sail hurriedly to England, to face charges preferred by Bishop Gore, of the Church of England, who accuses him of having violated ecclesiastical law by occupying a Non-Conformist pulpit in a workingmen's institute in Birmingham, England.

Isn't this fierce?

Western Canadians are taking very seriously the assertion that wheat from Alberta may be carried more cheaply to Europe by the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Pacific Ocean, the Mexican Railway, and the Atlantic Ocean than by the usual route across Canada eastward. The experiment should be very carefully tried so that there need be no doubt about the result.—The Globe.

What then will become of the great so-called need of railways to the west, "not one, but three or four?"

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Firm—Hogs Lower at Buffalo and Chicago.

LONDON, May 12.—London cables for cattle are steady, at 12½c to 13½c per lb., for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 10⅛c to 10⅜c per lb.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, May 12.—(Special.)—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market this morning the offerings were 600 cattle, 200 milch cows, 200 sheep and lambs, 400 hogs and 1500 calves. A feature of the market was the demand from exporters for suitable cattle to complete shipments with, but, as the offerings of such were limited, the volume of trade in this direction was small, as only about 80 head were picked up at 5¼c to 5⅝c per lb. There was a fairly good attendance of local buyers, as they all wanted a few cattle to fill their requirements for the balance of the week. The demand was steady for small lots, and a moderately active trade was done. The tone of the market was firm, and prices show no change. Choice steers sold at 6c; good at 5½c to 5¾c; fair at 5c to 5¼c; medium at 4½c to 4¾c, and commoner grades at 3c to 4c per lb.

The supply of milch cows was in excess of the requirements, as the demand for such was only fair; but, in spite of this fact, prices were fairly well maintained, and sales were made at from $40 to $80 each, as to quality. There was a good demand for sheep and lambs, of which the supply was a little larger than it has been of late, and a more active trade was done in consequence. Prices ruled firm, with sales of yearling sheep at 6c to 6½c; old sheep at 5c to 5½c per lb. Spring lambs brought from $3 to $6 each, as to size. Calves were plentiful, and, as some of them were of much better quality, prices ruled higher. Good to choice stock sold at $5 to $8 each, and the lower grades at from $1.50 to $4. The supply of hogs was fair, for which the demand was good from packers and dealers, and the undertone to the market was steady, with sales of selected lots at $8.25 to $8.35 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, May 12.—Cattle—Receipts, 100 head; fairly active and steady; prime steers, $6.40 to $6.75.

Knights of Columbus Wound up State Council in Very Enjoyable Manner

Lindsay, May 12.—The deliberations of the State Council Knights of Columbus, when convened in Lindsay Tuesday, came to a close at 6 o'clock in the evening, Brockville being selected as the next place of meeting.

The visiting Knights were last evening banqueted by the local council, and the function was an enjoyable affair in every particular.

Grand Knight J. Rogers acted as chairman, the vice chair being filled by State Deputy O. K. Fraser, of Brockville.

An excellent toast list was run off and eloquent addresses were interspersed with vocal selections by Knights John Hurley and Seldon Meehan.

NOTES.

State Deputy O. K. Fraser, of Brockville, is a brother of the late Hon. Christopher Fraser, who was Minister of Public Works in the late Sir Oliver Mowat's cabinet.

Rev. Dr. Burke, of Toronto, who attended the session, is one of the foremost workers in the great Catholic extension movement.

Mr. D. O'Connell, K.C., Peterboro', past deputy state warden, is president of the Canadian Club in that city.

Knight J. G. Killingsworth, of St. Thomas, is an energetic newspaper man in the calamity city, and a former resident of Balsover.

Knight Harry Phelan, of Peterborough, is a prominent alderman of the electric city.

Rev. T. J. Crowley, of North Bay, who was a visiting Knight, is a native of Peterborough, and is a brother of Mr. William Crowley, of hockey fame.

Knight John Loughrin, of Mattawa, is an ex-M.P., and was a prominent figure in the Provincial Legislature for some years.

Knight J. W. Mallon, of Toronto, fills the position of provincial inspector of law offices.

PREACHED AT ST. JOSEPH'S

Rev. Father Derling Gave Impressive Sermon Last Sunday Morning

Special to the Review.

Douro, May 11—On Sunday morning at St Joseph's church the ten o'clock mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Derling of Toronto, who had been assisting Rev Father Keilty, parish priest, for a few days. A great many of the parishioners received Holy Communion. After mass, Rev. Father Derling preached a very eloquent and energetic sermon on the necessity of leading a good and religious life in order to expect everlasting salvation. He impressed upon the people that they must be charitable to their neighbors, attentive to their prayers and religious duties and to take the life of St Joseph, the patron Saint of their church as an example of the humble obedience to God which all good Christians require.

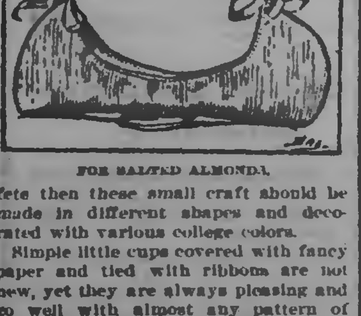
NOVEL ENTREE DISHES

Crape Paper Canoes Are Unique and Decorative.

BRILLIANT RIBBONS USED.

Old Fashioned Crystal and Glass Individual Salt Dishes Much Sought After by Collectors—Another Style Resembles Old Time Fruit Stands.

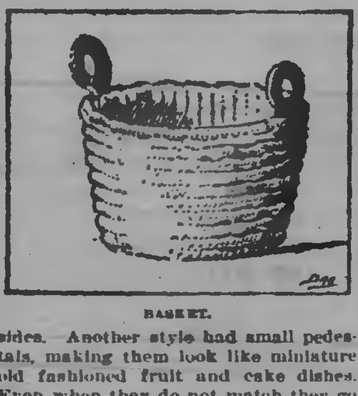
When in doubt as to what kind of dishes to use for serving salted almonds or any of the little luncheon and dinner sweets and appetizers which now have an important place in the menu one can always resort to odd little conceits made of paper. These are easy to fashion, or they can be made to order, and then the chance for displaying original ideas and arrangements gives a certain zest to the hostess who likes to surprise and please her guests. Little crape paper canoes bearing the college pennant are unique and decorative, and if one wants a complete fleet or to suggest a regatta fete then these small craft should be made in different shapes and decorated with various college colors.



FOR SALTED ALMONDS.

Simple little cups covered with fancy paper and tied with ribbons are not new, yet they are always pleasing and go well with almost any pattern of china or style of crystal. This season the ribbons are in brilliant contrast to the paper, and often tied in with the knot is a little souvenir or perhaps a flower. By using the smallest size of paper shell one can place this in the center of a handsome paper flower which lies flat on the table. It is wisest not to choose a flower which has a number of petals, as they make the dish fill too large a space.

Many women are collecting old fashioned crystal and glass individual salt dishes and even small cup plates, which were made in glass as well as china, for almond dishes. They are most attractive and are more economical than the colored paper ones in the end. Just now these dishes are quite inexpensive, but the supply grows smaller daily, so that it is well to begin collecting promptly if one fancies them at all. A quaint old set of rather deep salt dishes had fluted rims and little glass knobs all over their squatty sides. Another style had small pedestals, making them look like miniature old fashioned fruit and cake dishes. Even when they do not match they go together if they are of the same size and either all made with stems or all perfectly flat.



BASKET.

Arranging a Divan.

Every one does not know that a wide divan is made more comfortable by having at its back two huge, hard pillows that will support the softer ones.

It is usual to heap up a great variety of these extra soft ones on a large divan so that any one sitting or reclining may arrange them according to one's comfort.

These are needed, it is true, but they also need a support. The wall is usually too far back from the front edge of the divan to serve. The two large pillows made of the material which covers the divan are not only comfortable, but artistic.

They may be stuffed with excelsior into coarse muslin or ticking, then covered with the chosen fabric. They look better with a heavy cord around the edging.

If the end of the divan is against the wall as well as its side a third pillow may be added to give an added framework to the little pillows.

This is not an expensive trick, but if a housewife ever tries it she will never let the divan go without this part of its equipment.

Washing Brushes.

It is best not to put one's heavy backed silver brush into common use for their hair, at least not in cities where the soot laden atmosphere leaves a coating of itself on the hair each day.

This is caught by the bristles of the brush, which makes it necessary to wash it at least twice a week, if not oftener.

This constant washing ruins a brush that has an expensive back. Therefore a brush should be used that has an ordinary wooden handle and back with good stiff bristles to withstand the softening action of water and borax.

Salad Dressing.

The ideal salad dressing is made with lemon juice and the finest olive oil, the lemon juice being far more wholesome than vinegar, which is extremely bad for many stomachs.

One-fourth lemon juice to three parts of the oil makes a dressing that most people like, while others who care less for oil like it half and half.

THE JIG SAW CRAZE.

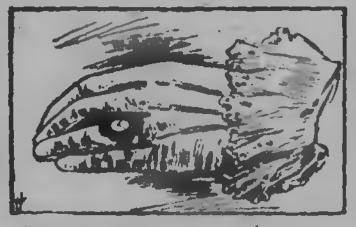
Wearing Her Big Hat, the Smart Girl Pours Tea.

BRIDES CARRY FLOWER MUFFS

What the Gotham Shops Are Showing in Spring and Summer Dress Materials—Milady Now Wears a Watch on Her Gloved Finger.

My Dear Elsa—I'm worn to a frazzle over this jig saw puzzle fad, aren't you? Here in New York we're absolutely going mad about the putting together of these picture puzzles. And not only are our brains turned upside down with wondering whether a certain little jagged piece of wood fits in here, there or somewhere else, but we are hounded on all sides by friends who are making these puzzles for charity "to save all the colored covers of the magazines for them." So high runs the craze that a floor of one of the erstwhile fashionable old houses on Washington square north has become a jig saw factory, boasting a staff of twenty or more workmen, many of whom are art students at Cooper institute and the league.

Yes, my dear, from the maid in the kitchen to the master in the library we've all caught the germ, and it only remained for the man who invented the puzzle picture of different colored woods to drive us all to padded cells.



WATCH WORN OVER MILADY'S GLOVE.

Well, I made up my mind that it was time something was doing to turn the jig saw tide. And I've "done" it sure enough by giving yesterday afternoon a "tangram party." A superabundance of egotism is not one of my glaring faults, I have been told, but at this moment I'm really gloating over my cleverness in reviving the curious and interesting pastime of dallying with tangrams. "Is it a new variety of imported fruit? No, Miss Innocence, but it is the fruit of a Chinaman's brains, one Tan, who lived awhile ago, say some 4,000 years before we became inhabitants of this glorious country. And to this oriental ancestor its descendant, the jig saw, owes much of its fame. Unlike the present puzzle, the tangram consists of only seven pieces, and these parts are all the same size. Artistic values are completely lost sight of in the struggle for entirety.

The tangram that I set before my guests was "The House That Jack Built," and that the cat was as big as the cow and the malt as large as the house that contained it matters nothing to the architects.

After the tangrams we had tea, and Elinor poured for me, looking a Rembrandt study in a stunning big black velvet hat charmingly trimmed with bunches of silver raisins—nothing else—and the chicness of the thing beggars description. You have read of almost every known variety of fruit, flowers and birds which have found their way into the milliners' hands, but I reckon you didn't know that these artists had forsaken the garden and the menagerie for the realm of the cook. You'll pardon me, but it is such a temptation to say that the raison d'etre of this is Paris and that Elinor has just come from the Ville Luminiere.

Why did she wear a hat while pouring tea? Simply and solely because it's the latest accompaniment to the "5 o'clock." It was a funny sight watching the girls dodge that chapeau, for those wishing a cup of the refreshing beverage had to navigate around this cart wheel first to catch the eye of the wearer and then stand at a safe distance when receiving the brew, for to disarrange that millinery creation, which had been poised and pinned at a fascinating angle—an operation we all know takes this season many precious moments—is possible by the lightest touch against the overshadowing brim. Fortunately there were no tempests in our teacups. The "approach" and "tackles" were splendidly done. But one can imagine that at a crush affair such disasters can be averted only by the most careful engineering of one's own hat and elbows. And be it known that apologies afterward are no reparation for the catastrophe.

Elizabeth C., who inquired most solicitously after you, was wearing one of the smartest gowns of the afternoon, an empire confection of taupe chiffon cloth that shone like heavy satin. The embroideries on the skirt were exquisitely worked in taupe tones with silks, wools and chenille. Similar embroideries formed a bolero, and the waist was confined by a folded band of black satin. Her hat was large and flat, and the crown was entirely of sable, with an important looking black osprey standing out at one side. Another girl from Boston, who came with Mrs. Van S., I thought was carrying a hand bound book after the manner of Bostonian highbrows, who appear with literary equipments on all and every occasion, but I suffered from an optical delusion, for the lady from the land of beans was carrying a suede muff, the newest sartorial accessory this side of France.

And this muff reminds me that at one of the prettiest weddings of the winter solemnized at St. Bartholomew's the blushing bride hid her trembling (?) hands in a floral muff of orchids with thousand of sprays of lily of the valley hanging on white satin ribbons like tails on the regulation street muff. The effect was delicate and lovely. The church was packed, but there is one thing to be said in favor of the "machine turned newel post figure" sans chapeau, and that is a lot of them may be squeezed in at a function without the discomfort and the pushing and shoving of former years. As Carolyn Wells says—and, by the way, don't you love her hits at feminine foibles?—speaking of the modern damosel's silhouette, "So slim was she that, looking sideward toward, you scarcely saw anything." And at a bridge the other night these lines of hers kept repeating themselves:

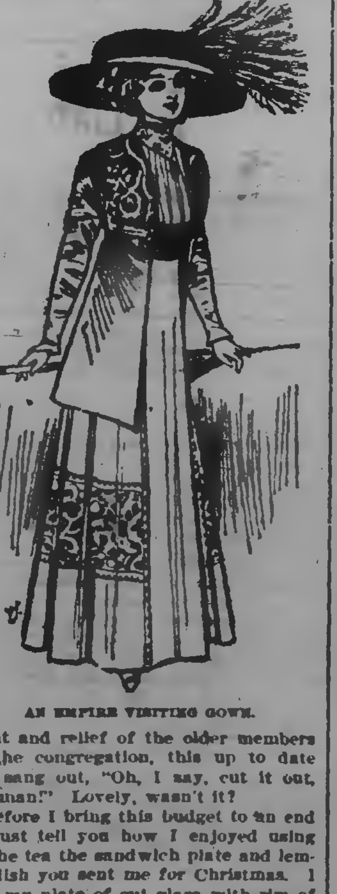
> Her sleeves were such a fit,
> And, though at bridge she took a hand,
> She stood—she couldn't sit.

Which reminds me that a new wrinkle in sleeves is to have chenille fringe meandering from shoulder to elbow, so that when the arm is lifted one gets quite a Mexican cowboy effect. With the cowboy sleeves and the Robinson Crusoe fur turban all that is needed to finish the wild west picture is the Deadwood coach. We don't indulge in coach holdups these days, but on Broadway the other morning an elephant escaped from the Hippodrome and afforded a good imitation of the olden days.

I do wish you were here in town to go through the shops and see the display of advanced spring materials. They are too lovely for words. The silks and cachemire de soie, a fabric we will see a great deal of the coming season, are charming. And French crape that we all have admired from a distance on account of its prohibitive price is now within reach of those of us who have been obliged to economize since the financial slump of last year. The favorite designs in wash goods are in dotted effects both in printed and embroidered dots and disks, and borders are still a smart finish. Piques and linens are both to figure largely in the summer wardrobe, says my dressmaker, and many of the most expensive piques are in solid colors and in printed Persian patterns.

In my journey through one of the most exclusive shops here in town I was delighted to see stunning designs in foulard among the showings. I never could put through a summer comfortably without two or three of these little silk frocks, and it was pleasant to find that we have returned to small figures and scroll patterns in two toned effects. To quote a most courteous clerk, "The colors that promise to lead for spring are wood rose, wistaria, catawba, amethyst, mulberry and dull rose." There, now! Didn't I remember it all beautifully for your sweet sake? But, to gossip some more, I met Mrs. D. at the lace counter, and as she picked over the embroideries in her fussy fashion I noticed that she was wearing one of the new finger watches that are worn outside the glove on the third finger of the left hand. These timepieces are the tiniest things you ever sew and are mounted on plain gold finger bands.

You have vivid recollections of the impishness of her small son John, haven't you? Well, last Sunday he was wriggling around in the family pew, as usual. As you know, our rector is a relic of the long winded school of theology, and John's patience reached the breaking point before the sermon stopped. So, much to the amusement and relief of the older members of the congregation, this up to date kid sang out, "Oh, I say, cut it out, old man!" Lovely, wasn't it?



AN EMPIRE VISITING GOWN.

Before I bring this budget to an end I must tell you how I enjoyed using at the tea the sandwich plate and lemon dish you sent me for Christmas. I like my plate of cut glass with rim of repousse silver so much better than the all silver ones. And the dear little silver legs it is mounted on—they're fascinating! Then how do you imagine I ever got on without a special dish for slices of lemon? Thank you again for these gifts, and believe me yours gratefully, MABEL.

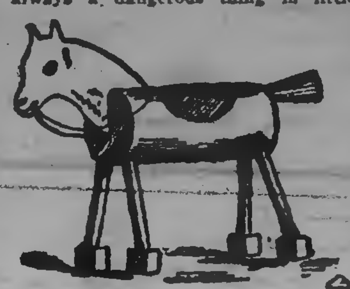
AMUSING THE WEE FOLK.

A Lot of Fun Derived From Old Corks and Matches.

Now that the long dark evenings are with us the following suggestions for amusing the small members of the household may be of assistance to mothers: A great deal of fun and amusement may be derived from some old corks and matches, for preference those that have been used. To begin with, some of the corks must be cut up into little square pieces with a very sharp knife, and as a sharp knife is always a dangerous thing in little hands and as cork is at all times an awkward thing to cut the best plan is to cut the corks up for use, and when a number of little squares have once been cut they can be used over and over again.

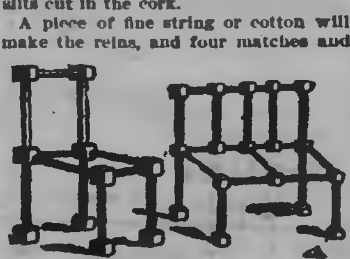


CORK AND MATCH HORSE.

The matches should be cut into points at each end, when with slight pressure they can be inserted into the corks. In this way, with a little ingenuity, miniature chairs, tables, settees and other articles of furniture may be manufactured.

A chair and settee are illustrated made entirely of corks and matches, and it is a good plan to cut out small pieces of cardboard and glue them on to the corks for the seats and backs. In the other cut a cork and match horse is shown. For the body of the horse a whole cork is used, the head and tail then sketched out on cardboard and cut out and inserted into slits cut in the cork.

A piece of fine string or cotton will make the reins, and four matches and four little squares of cork form the legs. An oval piece of colored paper pasted on the top of the cork represents the saddle and completes the horse.



FURNITURE MADE WITH CORKS.

All kinds of animals—pigs, sheep, cows, etc.—can be manufactured in this manner

Fads For Women.

An ingenious invention for the household is an article constructed for lifting hot pots or pans from the stove or for taking utensils out of the oven without the use of a rag or cloth.

The panalift, as it is called, is made from steel wire and is guaranteed not to bend under the heaviest weight.

It adjusts itself to any pan and is a great improvement over the old method of using a rag, which may or may not be germ laden. Then, again, there is no fear of burning the hands or fingers.

The dustless duster is something new as a labor saving invention. You just rub the place to be dusted, and the dust is gone, not to another place in the room, but into the duster. Once absorbed it cannot be shaken out, as in the case of the usual dust rag, for it must be washed out with warm water and soap. This cleansing process, however, does not destroy the chemical properties of the cloth.

The duster costs 25 cents and cleans furniture, metal, glass or wearing apparel when a dusting is needed.

It is very soft and may take the place of a silk handkerchief for cleaning purposes.

Too Greedy.

Robert Herrick, the brilliant realistic novelist, said at a recent luncheon in Chicago:

"There is a type of American wife who in her greed for wealth and display brings unhappiness on herself. She rather reminds me of the fat man and the table d'hote dinner.

"This man entered a restaurant that served a dinner at the fixed price of 75 cents. He knotted a napkin about his neck and fell to heavily, so heavily, in fact, that the waiter, after a whispered conversation with the proprietor, approached him and said:

"'Beg pardon, sir, but I'll have to charge you a quarter extra. You eat so much.'

"The fat man, red and short of breath from his excessive gorging, said earnestly:

"'For goodness sake, don't do that! I'm nearly dead now from eating 75 cents' worth. If you make me eat another quarter I'll bust.'"

A Wrap For a Doll.

If you want to make something new and attractive for the "big, best doll," which every little girl has and carries on important occasions, fashion her one of the new opera cloaks like the girls of this season wear.

They are made of broadcloth, lined with silk or satin. They fall loose from shoulders to hem of the skirt and have a gathered hood at the neck, which is lined to match the cloak.

This will be a new touch to the doll's wardrobe. Do not tie the cloak in front with ribbon, but with two tiny frogs, and then it will look very much like the real thing.

The Agony OF PILES

ONLY those who suffer from piles know the misery it brings! It robs life of its pleasure, steals the brightness from existence, and substitutes days of dull pain and moments of acute agony. Most so-called "remedies" give ease only for a time, and then back comes the trouble and pain and misery! Zam-Buk cures Piles! And cures permanently. Proof of this lies all around you. Women and men in all stations of life have proved it — possibly some of your friends! Let it cure you!

Mrs. Wm. Hughes, of 253, Hochelaga Street, Hochelaga, Montreal, says:—"I was a sufferer for years from blind, itching, and protruding piles. The agony I suffered no one knows. Remedy after remedy proved useless. Day followed day and there was no relief for me, pain, loss of strength, dulness, misery, this was my experience until Zam Buk was introduced. I know now that there is nothing on this earth like it! It cured me of piles, and once cured, I have had no return of the evil. I would like all women who suffer as I did to know that Zam Buk will cure them!"

Besides being a specific for piles Zam-Buk cures eczema, blood-poisoning, abscesses, ulcers, cuts, burns, bruises, scalp sores, ringworm, bad leg, poisoned sores, insect stings, blistering sore feet and all skin injuries and diseases. All Druggists and Stores sell at 50c. a box, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

Zam-Buk

Often one sees a woman with dark brown rings below the eyes, also mottled over the face and frequently upon the forehead. This is due to intestinal trouble of a serious nature, and only a reliable physician should prescribe for such when medicinal aid is needed.

"I met a curious trio of sisters coming home on the steamer," said the man just back from London. "Their names were Rose, Blanche and Violet. I wonder why their parents did not call them patriotically Red, White and Blue."

When material is to be cut away under lace, use a piece of pasteboard four inches long, rounded at one end and cut wide enough to slip along between the lace and material. This will make the work easier and safer.

When knitting stockings or socks it will be found that they will last twice as long if a strand of silk or thread be knitted into the toes and heels together with the wool.

The motherly woman who has raised half a dozen children can beat all the divas that ever "dove" at singing lullabies that really lull.

Monarch Came up

The steamer Monarch of the Otonabee Navigation Co. came up to the city last night having come from Rice Lake. She had in tow the Government's new boat the "Herbert" which made its trial trip down the day before. The "Herbert" made a fast trip but something went wrong with her boilers and she was unable to get back alone. The Monarch also brought up a load of hogs from Harwood for the Geo. Matthews Company. The Herbert was taken to the docks in Ashburnham where the necessary repairs will be made.

WAS HONORED BY THE CHOIR

Mrs. H. Jewett Presented With Gold Crescent by Park St. Choir

Mrs. Harold Jewett who for some time has been a valued member of the Park street Baptist church choir is leaving for the west in a few days to join her husband. On Tuesday evening she was presented with a beautiful gold crescent by the choir at the home of Mrs R S Wright, Albert street, where they had gathered for practice. The presentation was made by Mr Percy Hill and Mr J C. Miller read the following address:

Dear Mrs Jewett—When we first heard of your intention to remove from us to seek a new home in the great western country we thought of what our loss would be, as a church, in the social meetings, the Sunday school and the choir and we held some hope that the change would not be made. But as the time has come when you are to be with us no more, at least for some considerable time, we want to express to you our wishes for your future prosperity and spiritual good as well as that of your highly respected husband, and we trust that "He who doeth all things well" will be with you both in every good work and may your influence in your new home be helpful in the building of the good kingdom.

We now ask you to accept this pearl crescent, that you may have something to remind you of the friends you have left in the old home.

Signed by the members of the choir, J C Miller, leader; Robt S. Wright, E Gillespie, E Eagleson, A Hicks, M Smith, L Smith, G Duntin, Ethel Hill, N Smith, M Kennedy and Percy Hill, W. J. Tranter, Gavin Kennedy, Chas Green, Jacob Dawson, Robert S Wright and George Hayward.

Mrs. Jewet was completely surprised but made a neat reply, thanking the choir for the gift and the sentiments expressed in the address.

PRESENTED WITH A LOCKET

Mr. C. J. Snyder, who has severed his connection with the Canadian Cordage Company, was presented last evening by the employees of the machine shop with a beautiful gold locket suitably engraved, and the following address:

Peterborough, May 10, '09

To Mr. C. J. Snyder—

Dear Jim—Having severed your connection with the Canadian Cordage Company, Limited, we feel it our duty as well as a pleasure, to show to you in this weak way our appreciation for your many acts of kindness in times gone by. While we are sorry to lose you, we are pleased to know that what is our loss will be your gain. We, therefore, ask you to accept this locket as a slight token of the respect in which you are held.

Wishing you every success in your new field of labor.

Signed,

BERLIN AFTER TWO INDUSTRIES

Berlin, May 11.—The Industrial Committee of the Town Council and the Board of Trade held a conference in Mayor Hahn's office on Monday evening, relative to two new industrial propositions.

One is for the establishment here of a furniture factory to employ quite a large number of hands, starting at twenty-five. Owen Sound, Hamilton and Stratford are also endeavoring to secure this concern. What is asked from Berlin is a loan of of $15,000, repayable, with interest, in yearly instalments, the town to be amply secured in the loan.

The other was from a company now located in another centre, and making metal goods of various sorts. The company proposes to build elsewhere and the Industrial Committee has been in communication with them for some time. The company proposes to establish a $20,000 plant, and desires a loan of $10,000 repayable, with interest, in ten annual payments.

Both propositions are favorably viewed by the committee which will continue its negotiations relative to submitting them to Council.

Steamer Water Lily will make special trip to Stony Lake on Friday, 14th inst., leaving at 9 a.m. Passengers and freight.

ANNIVERSARY OF BATOCHE

Yesterday was the twenty-fourth anniversary of the taking of Batoche the outstanding battle in the North-West rebellion in 1885. The battle was fought on the 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th of May, ending with the capture of Batoche.

St. John's Notes

St. John's choir will meet for practice this evening in the church at 8 p.m. prompt. The following music will be rehearsed. Hymns for next Sunday:—

Mozart's "Ave Verum."

Barnby's "Lift up Your Heads."

Stainer's work, "Daughter of Jairus."

Handel's "Hallelujah" Chorus.

Choristers are asked to be on hand promptly at 8 o'clock, there being only one more rehearsal before the choral festival next Wednesday, May 19th.

SMALL BOYS THREW STONES AT A DOOR

Police Court Case This Morning—Children Cause Much Annoyance to Elderly Gentleman

The season of the year has now arrived when parents of small children who are allowed to roam around the streets during their hours of play should take the trouble to find out where their children go to and what they are doing. This would stop a lot of trouble and annoyance to others as well as themselves.

This face was demonstrated this morning when two young boys and one girl were in the police court, charged with throwing stones at the door of a house occupied by an old gentleman who is in the neighborhood of 90 years of age. One young lad, who was a witness, stated that he saw the accused boys deliberately throw the stones at the door, but the girl had not taken any part in the throwing.

The complainant was in bed at the time, and it appears this is not the first time he has been annoyed by children. However, the magistrate allowed the boys to go with a warning on their promise not to throw any more stones.

PROF. GILMOUR IS ADVANCED

Toronto, May 12.—Prof. J. L. Gilmour, of McMaster University, was this morning transferred from the professorship in practical theology to the professorship in church history, in succession to Prof. Cross, whose resignation was accepted by the Senate and Board of Governors.

Prof. Gilmour has been at McMaster for only two years, but in that time has upheld the reputation earned in his pastorates of being one of the most scholarly and cultured members of the Baptist denomination in Canada. Professor Gilmour came to McMaster from Olivet street church in Montreal, and previous to that was in Hamilton. Previous to his pastorates he took post-graduate work in Scotland and Germany.

Prof. Cross' work at first had been mainly in secular history, but gradually he has been transferred to the theological faculty. He is leaving to take a position in the Theological Institute at Newton, Mass.

Two new departments were established in the University. One was a lectureship in mineralogy and geology, and the other was a readership in English. No appointments were made in either case.

The resignation of Dr. Oliver, lecturer in history, was accepted. It is understood he has accepted a professorship in Saskatchewan University.

Mr. G. H. Campbell was promoted from a lectureship to a professorship in Latin.

A committee was appointed to make nominations for the vacant professorships. A new lecturer is required in history, and a professor in practical theology.

INTENDS GOING TO LINDSAY

Young Man in Police Court This Morning on Drunk Charge—Knock for the Farmers

The young man who was found sleeping on a doorstep yesterday and was arrested, appeared in Police Court this morning to face a drunk charge. He pleaded guilty but was not fined as he only had a small amount of money and said that he would get out of town.

Accused stated to the Magistrate that he had been working for a farmer in Kinmount for fifteen days and did not receive any money. He intended going to Lindsay if he was allowed to go free and as the young man appeared to have good intentions he was given his liberty.

WAS ALSO CHARGED.

Another man who was picked up on Chambers street last night in an intoxicated condition was given a chance to go to work and keep sober. His face was covered with blood, which was caused through having received injuries in falling. He asked for another chance and this was granted to him by his Worship.

STOP MARRIAGES TO INDIAN GIRLS

Athabasca Bishop Deplores Tendency of Englishmen in the West

Ottawa, May 21.—"The greatest disgrace to the western provinces is the marrying of well educated, cultured and handsome young Englishmen to Indian women," said Bishop Holmes, of Athabasca, in St. George's parish hall last night.

The Englishmen as well as others who settled in these backward parts of the west, spent a lonely time during the long winter, and many sooner or later bound themselves by marriage to Indian women. To overcome this Bishop Holmes advocated that white girls go west where they might become helpmates.

MARRIAGE PROSPECTS.

"I can promise good homes to carloads of young women between the ages of 25 and 30, or even 45 and 50. We have no trouble of getting rid of them; the trouble is to keep them," said the bishop.

"We have a great opportunity in Athabasca Diocese in the next five years, but if we do not embrace it we will only be a second to some other denomination," continued Bishop Holmes. "We need a Native Training school where the Indians and Eskimos can be instructed and made missionaries. This would decrease expenses."

Speaking of his work among the Eskimos tribes, the Bishop of Athabasca said that the Anglican church was having great success. In one congregation of 350 150 were communicants. If the sale of whiskey to these people could be stopped they would very soon be a Christian race.

Rev. Canon Scott, whose poetry is well known in Ottawa, as well as all Canada, spoke of the war of the Anglican Church against Buddhism. He related an incident where a child mother put out her son's eyes with a stick because he tore her dress. The marriage of young girls, practically children, to elderly men, which is a common practice in India, could be greatly lessened by the increased efforts of the Anglican Church missionaries.

ABOUT THE OLDEST HUMAN REMAINS

Human Jaw Unearthed in Germany Said to be of Great Age

A human jaw unearthed something over a year ago in a sand pit near Heidelberg, Germany is described in La Nature, Paris, March 6th, by J. Deniker, who finds reason to declare it the earliest known relic of man. The writer recalls the well known fact that all fossil human bones found up to the present time, either in Europe or in other parts of the world, do not date back beyond the middle of the so-called quaternary period of geological time, which immediately preceded the present era of the earths history. No authentic human bone is known to have been found in the earlier quaternary whence there have been recovered only certain utensils. As for tertiary man, we have yet no certain proof of his existence either from implements or from bones. It is true that, according to Eugene Dubois, the Pithecanthropus came from the strata of the pliocene, that is, the layer just above the tertiary strata; but it is doubtful whether we have to do here with a real human being. Besides the Dutch scientist fixes this date with a certain reserve and admits that the stratum might have been between the upper pliocene and the lower quaternary or even entirely in the quaternary. Moreover;

"The so-called 'Neanderthal' skulls and skeletons found in the basin of the Dordogne, of which so much has been said in recent times, date only from the middle quaternary. Now, in October 1907, Mr Schoetensack, a German scientist who for twenty years had been watching the working of a sand pit near Heidelberg in the hope of finding there the remains of a fossil man, exhumed from a stratum belonging clearly to the lower quaternary, if not to a layer between this and the pliocene a remarkable jaw bone which he regards as that of the oldest man, perhaps even of a precursor of man.

"This precious find was made in the Mauer sand pit six miles southeast of Heidelberg, at a depth of 24 meters, —80 feet. The jaw bone is admirably preserved, and has all its teeth. It differs in many respects from known human jaws, actual or fossil. At first sight it recalls the lower jaw of the gorilla. The general thickness of the bone is almost double that of modern jaws. On the other hand the teeth are not so large as those of modern man and their form is absolutely human; all are pressed closely together and no one is longer than the others. The chin is very retreating with prints of the insertions of the lingual muscles very pronounced. If the jaw be placed on a horizontal plane its anterior part does not touch the surface.

"Is this the bone of a man? Mr. Schoetensack apparently thinks that it is, since he attributes it to a new species of the genus Homo, which he calls Homo Heidelbergensis; at the same time he thinks this 'Homo' was rather a precursor of modern man or even the common ancestor of man and the anthropoids. In fact the general aspect of the jaw is that of an anthropoid, while the dentition is very human. This fact it seems to us, makes it impossible to attribute it to the Pithecanthropus, since the two teeth of the latter are much larger and more massive than the corresponding teeth of man.

"However this may be, the importance of this discovery will be clear to all and the comparative study of this 'pre-Neanderthalian' creature —of which it is to be hopped that other remains will soon be found —with the Neanderthal man promises to be very fertile indeed."—Translation made for The Literary Digest.

FORM 2 B. EASILY DEFEATED FORM 1 A

First Game in Collegiate Institute Baseball League Yesterday Afternoon at Riverside Park Score Was 18-2

The Collegiate Institute Baseball League got off to a good start yesterday afternoon at Riverside Park when the team from Form 1 A were defeated by the Form 2 B nine by 17—2. The winners had the game well in hand throughout, and were always prominent with the bat and on the field. The losers were away off in fielding, and although they batted well, were unable to cross the plate more than twice on account of the good work in the field of the B team.

The diamond was in good shape, but the garden was soft and slippy, which told heavily against all the players.

There are many classy performers in this league and some good playing should be dished up as soon as the players are unable to practice together. Many supporters of both teams were present and Mr. H. R. H. Kenner officiated as umpire in a capable manner.

MILLBROOK HAS BALL LEAGUE

Millbrook, May 12—The Anglicans, Methodists and Presbyterians of this place have formed a strong baseball league and arranged a schedule of games lasting from May 18th over June 22nd. F. W Barnham is secretary. The Executive committee is Rev W. F. Rogers, F. W Burnham, L. G Russell, J. Steele, W. R. Wood and H. A Sims.

LACROSSE TEAM WILL PRACTICE THIS EVENING

The lacrosse team will practice tonight at Riverside Park at seven o'clock. The grounds are in good shape and a big turnout of the players is looked for. The locals will have a hard game by May 24th and will need every bit of practice that can be had.

BASEBALL

WESTERN CANADA OPENING.

Winnipeg, May 12. — The Western Canada League was opened to-day under very unfavorable conditions, the weather being very cool and showery in a number of places. The games at Moose Jaw and Lethbridge had to be postponed on account of rain, and in Winnipeg a crowd of fifteen hundred thirty-third degree fans sat and shivered while the local team walloped Brandon to the tune of 9—2. It was not an inspiring quality of ball, but there was lots of free hitting and excitement.

SPORTING TALK

If some of the Review ball players do not show more class they will be farmed out to the Examiner team for seasoning.

At the roller rink last night Edgar and Butler skated ten miles in fifty minutes, Edgar winning by a few yards.

WALKING

Hoagland in writing to the Sporting Editor states the showing of Corey, on the opening night of the walk, was a big surprise to him. Corey is the Frenchman who ran Dorando recently in Chicago.

Marathon Race

A Marathon race will be held at the roller rink this evening. The race will start at 9 o'clock and the full Marathon distance will be skated.

PERSONAL

Building Situation In Edmonton.

Edmonton, Alta., May 13.—A strike is threatened in the building trade and it is feared may do irreparable harm to the growth of Edmonton, coming in the biggest building season of the city's history. The builders' exchange have decided not to consider the new agreement put forward by the journeymen, and have declared for an open shop, going into effect this morning. The builders decline to recognize the carpenters' union.

Favor Perks' Scheme.

Ottawa, May 13.—Sir Robert W. Perks, the British capitalist and Parliamentarian, who is here to confer with the Government regarding the building of the Georgian Bay Canal by a company of which he is the head, but which might at any time be expropriated by the Government, has been interviewing several Cabinet Ministers and members.

A number of members have signed a memorial to the Government favoring construction of the canal on the terms suggested.

Washington's Spring

The first thing that greets the eyes of a stranger alighting from the train at Cold Spring, a village resting snugly in the highlands of the Hudson, is Washington's spring, inclosed by three bowlders in the rough, which, as one approaches, are seen to contain a tiny pool of spouting water. An inscription in relief upon the bronze plate announces that "General George Washington, in frequent visits to the American troops encamped near by during the war of the Revolution, drank of this spring and gave it its name, Cold spring."

The encampments referred to were principally upon the famous Constitution island, just below, to which was attached one end of the great chain which was stretched across the river to West Point and checked navigation by the British warships during the Revolution.

Nietzsche and the Invalid.

An invalid lady who often met Nietzsche found him the gentlest, kindest and most sympathetic of men. He "implored her with tears in his eyes not to read his books." Such was his knowledge of women that he was thunderstruck to find shortly afterward that the lady at once proceeded to read them all. He was further stupefied by the discovery that, having read them, she was utterly unmoved by the philosopher's unanswerable demonstrations that feeble persons like herself had no right to live and that women were distinguished by this, that and the other objectionable attribute. It must have been a blow to him.—London News.

Her Awful Sin.

A little girl of six once went in great distress to her mother, saying that she had committed a sin which could never be forgiven and which was too bad to be repeated. By dint of a little coaxing she was induced to make a full confession, which was in this wise:

"I felt so sorry for poor Satan and wanted to give him a little comfort. So I got a glass of cold water and poured it down a little hole in the kitchen floor."

Discourteous.

At a game of "definitions" a discourteous wag gave just offense once by defining woman as "a creature that was made after man and has been after him ever since!"

Her Exact Age.

"How old is Belle?"

"Twenty-four her last six birthdays."

KELLY IN THE EIGHTH ROUND; TOMMY DALY DEFEATED

The Best Bout Pulled Off in Peterborough—The Winner Proves a Clever and Hard Hitting Boxer—One Preliminary Cut Short by Heavy Swing.

Jimmy Kelly, of Buffalo, showed his class as a fighter last night when he outpointed, outclassed and outgeneraled Tommy Daly, of Toronto, in what was to have been a ten round bout at Brock street rink. The go was a remarkably fast and pretty one from the first curtain and the boys showed great form. For the first five rounds the issue looked doubtful, but from the sixth to the finish, which was in the eighth, Kelly cut loose with his lightning punches and everything came his way. The pace he set was a revelation to the ringside and he showed himself to be a quick and effective hitter with both hands and his punches had truly bewildered and confused to such an extent that the clever Toronto boxer was unable to respond in anything like a telling manner.

The first man to make his appearance was Kelly and he was given a cordial reception in view of the fine work he did in his recent bout with Corney Burns at the roller rink. Mr. C. G. Graham, who acted as announcer and timer introduced him to the audience. Kelly was followed almost immediately by Daly and he was also introduced and greeted with applause.

After a short wait the men were stripped and ready for action. Both seemed to be in pretty good trim. Daly who is one of the nicest proportioned boxers who ever performed before a Peterborough crowd, rounded up especially well. He fights very neatly and with a Jimmy Britt crouch and makes an excellent impression the moment he gets into action.

Kelly's style of fighting is exactly the reverse of Daly's and must be a riddle to any opponent. His methods are very deceptive and its hard to figure out just where he stands and just what he intends to deliver. However, he immediately strikes one as a star mitt artist and is accurate and heady and besides he has that requisite qualification of every money getting boxer—the punch.

SPAR WARILY.

In the opening round both men were careful and were trying to feel each other out. Little damage was done by either although they worked nicely and got the crowd by their goodperforming. The second round was livelier and both landed some stiff jolts. Daly looked to have a chance until the opening of the sixth, and while Kelly was doing damage by the stiff blows to the body with which he met Tommy's leads, the milling was very even.

EYE NEARLY CLOSED.

Daly got in one flush to his opponent's eye that dimmed the left optic considerably, and it could easily be seen that a couple more punches would close the eye altogether, but Kelly guarded the injured member too warily to allow that to be accomplished.

In the latter part of round five the results of Kelly's punishment of his man seemed to be accomplishing the desired effect. In the sixth Kelly cut loose in earnest and landed on Daly at will. The latter was steady, however and came back gamely, but had no steam in his punches. Three or four times Kelly let up for a clinch when the average boxer would have hit his antagonist, and the crowd showed its appreciation of his clean methods by generously applauding him. Throughout the contest Kelly won approval by his clean work.

KELLY COMES STRONG.

The seventh round was the most sensational one of the bout and the spectators were on their feet intent on getting a view of all the fighting there was going. Kelly jabbed heavily to Daly's face and jaw and the end of the round saw Daly in a practically helpless condition. He was on his knees with the referee tolling off the seconds when the ball rang. It is only fair to him, however, to say that he would have been able to resume for he was just about to rise when the gong sounded.

THE FINISH.

In the eighth Kelly went right in to finish matters up and hit Daly repeatedly and hard. His straight arm drives to the jaw were terrific and he beat such a tatoo on his opponent that Daly sank to the canvas for the count of nine. He struggled to his feet ready to hang on as long as possible and Kelly was about to proceed for the knockout, when the referee intervened and saved the Brantford lightweight from unnecessary punishment and awarded the bout to Kelly.

The first preliminary was between Fred Miller and Bob Howden, and proved unexpectedly strenuous. Miller had it on his man from the first tap of the gong. In the second Miller scored a clean knockout with a smashing left to the jaw. The bout was scheduled to go three rounds.

A couple of other local lads came together in the main preliminary and gave a three round exhibition that interested the crowd. It resulted in a draw.

Mr. G. N. Graham refereed all three engagements and did his work in a thoroughly satisfactory way.

HARRISON SAYS THE PACE IN MILWAUKEE IS A HOT ONE

Jim Harrison, the Peterborough, walker, writes from Milwaukee as follows:

"Just finished first night of the race, and am feeling well. I am in the eighth position up to now, but I guess I shall be a bit farther up before the week is out.

"I can tell you the pace was hot from the start, and I stayed with the leaders the first hour, but I eased up as they were killing one another, and I want to keep good until some of them are down and out, and then I may work my way into a better position. There are fourteen starters and good ones.

"Corry, the Frenchman, gave Hoagland a hard race and Corry was in bad shape at the end of the first three hours."

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL SHOULD BE SUPPORTED

Association football is a game that should receive more encouragement in this city than it does. It is certainly an interesting game from the spectator's standpoint and the teams in this district furnish interesting exhibitions.

The Midland League season is now on and the league matches are deserving of liberal patronage. In Toronto association football is considered one of the principal summer games and the league there is most successfully conducted in the matter of finances.

HOAGLAND AND BROWN IN THE LEAD AT MILWAUKEE

At End of First Night of the Walk—Harrison is in the Eighth Position—The Standing of the Men.

The Milwaukee Sentinel of Tuesday referring to the opening of the walk there on Monday says:

W. A. Hoagland of Auburn, NY, and G. N. Brown of the same city are tied for first honors in the seven night walking match which opened Monday night at Schlitz park. Both men have covered twenty miles and three laps for the first three hours.

Albert Corey, of Chicago and former champion of France is a close second, having covered twenty miles and two laps and at the finish was gaining rapidly on the leaders.

J. E. Blake the Syracuse negro, was the next in line, having reeled off nineteen miles and eleven laps at the call of time. Quite a bit of interest was shown by the spectators in the negro hiker.

West, Slater and Van Tassel were the only other competitors to cover over nineteen miles.

All of the walkers got off at an even start and for the first hour and a half they were pretty well bunched. The pace began to tell on some of them however, and gradually the gradually the weaker began to drop back and things began to appear more uneven. A large crowd witnessed the work on the opening night. The walking will be resumed tonight at eight o'clock. Following is the way they finished last night:

	Miles	Laps
Hoagland	20	3
Brown	20	3
Corey	20	2
West	19	14
Blake	19	11
Slater	19	9
Van Tassel	19	5

NEW RECORD FOR SINGLE GAME HUNG UP BY HERB. MARTIN AT P.B.C. ALLEYS

A new record for a single game was established yesterday at the P. B. C. alleys. Herb Martin was the record breaker and the new mark hung up was 279. The former record was 264 and was put on by George Cairns. Martin made the big score yesterday afternoon while rolling against a traveller. It was done on No. 6 alley and the score was a perfect one with the exception of the first frame. Herb started with a split, one pin remaining upon either corner. He picked off one of them, giving him nine for the first frame. After that it was strikes all the way. A "hook" ball was used and Martin had it under perfect control.

The spectators present became greatly excited as Martin put on strike after strike and when he had hung up the new record he was warmly congratulated.

BALL TOSSER'S CORNER

WHEN BASE RUNNERS ARE OUT.

Rule 56, sec 7—If in running from first to second base, from second to third base, or from third to home base, he run more than three feet, from a direct line between a base and the next, or in regular or reverse order to avoid being touched by a ball in the hands of a fielder. But in case a fielder be occupying a baserunner's proper path in attempting to field a batted ball, then the baserunner shall run out of direct line to the next base and behind said fielder and shall not be declared out for so doing.

Sec. 8—If he fail to avoid a fielder attempting to field a batted ball in the manner described in sections 6 and 7 of this rule, or in any way obstruct a fielder in attempting to field a batted ball, or intentionally interfere with a thrown ball. Provided that if two or more fielders attempt to field a batted ball, and the baserunner comes in contact with one or more of them, the umpire shall determine which fielder is entitled to the benefit of this rule, and shall not decide the base-runner out for coming in contact with a fielder, other than the one the umpire determines to be entitled to field such batted ball.

Here's the chorus of the baseball song which is making a bit hit in the larger cities where baseball reigns supreme. The name of the song is "Let's get the Umpire's Goat."

Let's get the Umpire's goat, goat, goat, let's make him go up in the air!
We'll yell Oh. you robber, go somewhere and die—
Back to the bush—you've got mud in your eye.
Oh, what an awful decision, Why don't you put spectacles on!
Let's holler like sin and our side will win, when the umpire's nanny is gone.

That the absence of one ball player makes a lot of difference in a team is shown in the case of the New York Giants who without Mike Donlin, seem unable to beat even their weak rivals in Brooklyn and Boston.

The Giant's showing to date is one of the marvelous surprises that baseball shows every now and then. If there was one team in the National league which was picked to cut a decided figure in the present race it was the Giants. Their work in the south was of such high order that even experts picked them to beat out the Cubs this year and yet with the season a month old, McGraw's team finds itself far down in the race. Of course, there is still time for it to advance, but this team was picked to get a flying start because of its great condition. It only goes to show that dope, for the Giants looked stronger this year than ever, counts for little or nothing in base ball.

The committee appointed to draw up the Intermediate Baseball League schedule got together last night and arranged the games for the season. It is now up to the league to have another meeting and adopt the schedule if satisfactory, and then bring on the excitement. The teams have all been practising as hard as the weather would permit during the past few weeks, but now that the real thing is here more enthusiasm will prevail among the players.

All the Eastern League games were won yesterday by the same score 2—1. Toronto beat Jersey City, Newark, with McGinity pitching, put it over Rochester, and Dr. Adkins, twirling for Baltimore, won from Buffalo. Montreal and Providence did not play.

Ty Cobb made most of the noise yesterday when Detroit beat New York by 11—4.

Twenty bases on balls were given by three pitchers in the contest between Cincinnati and Boston yesterday.

The mighty Wagner lost the game for Pittsburg yesterday by his errors, Philadelphia winning 3—1.

Indian Myers won the game for the Giants yesterday by his hitting, Chicago Cubs were beaten 3—2.

Toronto is now in second place and look good to be on top in a few days.

SPORTING TALK

This is from the Toronto World;

There is a difference of opinion about the latest wrestling stunt pulled off in this inoffensive burg. Some of the authorities say it was great, while others equally reliable, declare the same old game. True, you cannot always tell.

One of the midnight specials that to the tenderfoot looked the goods, was the incident between Mahmout and Yankee Rogers. This was the Turk who had the match on with Gotch, which he lost; and to stay the hour with an alleged coming champion was a fine performance for the Yankee, who was boosted as most popular and likely to become a resident of this city.

The story goes that Rogers went on for the bout in question only when it was put in writing with the necessary guarantee that this Turk would let him stay the limit without two falls and that was the result. If this is so, the police should take a hand in the wrestling game and whoever is responsible for the frauds that have been pulled off on the public be made to suffer.

Information concerning the bout above mentioned and evidences to the documents used, are easily available, and can be had by the authorities for the asking. These things may be pulled off with impunity in Montreal, but it is not likely they will be toleratted here.

THE RESULT OF WALK BY HOURS

The Score for First Evening of the Milwaukee Heel and Toe Contest

The Milwaukee Free Press has the following about the first night of the walk being held there;

W A Hoagland of Auburn, NY, claimant of the world's championship at heel and toe walking led by one lap at the end of the first night's race in the seven night contest at Schlitz park pavilion Hoagland covered 20 miles and four laps after three hours of steady grinding a remarkable achievement for an opening night's contest. George Brown was second with 20 miles and 3 laps.

Of the Milwaukee representatives, B Van Tassell covered 19 miles, 5 laps. Thomas Reagan 18 miles and 9 laps, and Wm Booth 17 miles.

The pace was hot from the start and at the end of the first hour Albert Corey of Chicago led with 7 miles Hoagland being a few paces behind and Brown closely trailing.

The race tonight will start promptly . . . o'clock and will finish at 11 o'clock. Following are the scores by hours in last night's match:

FIRST HOUR

Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Mr F. McAuliffe's Lumbago.

Lachute Man, After Fourteen Years Suffering Finds Health and Streng in an Old Reliable Kidney Remedy

Lachute, Que., May 12—(Special).—After fourteen years of suffering, which started from pleurisy, followed by dropsical swellings, and culminated in Lumbago, and confined him to his bed, Malachi F. McAuliffe, a well-known resident of this place, has entirely recovered his health, and he says without hesitation, "I am sure I owe it entirely to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

"I was laid up with Pleurisy, which affected my kidneys," Mr. McAuliffe continues. "I suffered a great deal of pain, especially in my back. I was also terribly troubled with dropsical swellings, and, finally, after many attempts to get rid of my trouble, I found myself compelled to give up and was confined to my bed with Lumbago. I tried many medicines, but they failed to do me any good. Then I turned to Dodd's Kidney Pills, and after taking one box I felt greatly relieved. I took several more boxes and found myself completely cured."

Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure any and all forms of Kidney Disease.

SALE OF LANDS IN GILLIES LIMIT

Under authority of an Order-in-Council dated 22nd April, 1909, the northerly portion of that tract of land generally known as the Gillies Limit, situated in the District of Nipissing, and Province of Ontario, containing about 800 acres, is offered for sale by tender in parcels containing 20 acres or thereabouts, such tenders to be addressed to the undersigned, at the Department of Lands, Forests and Mines, Toronto, marked on the envelope "Tender, Gillies Limit," and to be receivable at the said Department up to one o'clock p.m. on Tuesday, the 15th day of June, 1909.

Tenders are to be for each parcel separately, and to name a lump sum or bonus therefore. An accepted cheque for ten per cent. of this amount to accompany the tender, and the remainder to be paid in full within twenty days of acceptance of the same.

A royalty of ten per cent. on the gross proceeds (less freight and smelting charges) of all ores, minerals or concentrates taken from the land will be payable to the Crown, and purchasers will be required to enter into a satisfactory agreement with regard to the same.

Working conditions will be attached to the sale, and certain lands and rights will be reserved, full particulars of which, together with a map or plan showing the said tract, and the subdivisions thereof, may be obtained on application to the Department.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

F. COCHRANE,
Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.

"I am exceedingly sorry to hear that." He thought for a moment, then looked up with a confidential and contagious smile. "See here! I wouldn't have you betray a confidence for anything in the world, my boy, but there are two ways of looking at every question. Why not engage me as your lawyer? Every scalawag—forgive me—has a right to counsel, and you need not hesitate to bare your aching heart. Come, Dick, I'll accept one of Lord Croyland's excellent cigars as a retainer, and we'll get right down to business."

Richard brightened visibly. He handed a cigar, held a light and said:

"It's whipping the devil around the stump, I suppose, but I see no other way out of it. I do need advice, and need it bad. I'll tell you all about it on one condition."

The lawyer nodded, puffed at his cigar and gazed up into the thick leaved tree above his head, while Richard continued:

"The condition is that what I am about to tell you must be kept an absolute secret, no matter what your judgment happens to be. Promise that and I'll talk; otherwise I'm a clam."

"Dick," said the old gentleman, "I have followed the legal profession for thirty-two years, and few of my clients have found cause to complain of my discretion. This is a first rate cigar, and I'm going to earn it. What is troubling you?"

The moment Mr. Corrigan understood the proposition which Mr. Renwyck had made to Richard on the previous evening he choked with laughter until his latest client was forced to thump him vigorously on the back, while the balance of the narrative was so punctuated with his chuckles and gasps that it was concluded with some difficulty.

Richard was handicapped in his full appreciation of the joke, which appeared to him to be a very serious matter indeed. When his story was finished he observed solemnly:

"You see, Mr. Corrigan, it's this way. If I keep my mouth shut Mr. Renwyck will make it hot for dad. If I telegraph dad and give him the tip, why, just as sure as a gun, he'll turn around and wipe up the earth with Mr. Renwyck. I'm in a redhot saddle, Mr. Corrigan, with my feet tied underneath. I've just got to sit and blister. I can't see dad done up, but I'd rather do that than play a low down trick on a man who trusts me. And in any event I stand to lose the young lady. In my place what would you do?"

"Do!"—shouted the little man, while huge tears trickled down his face and filled the creases of his double chin. "Do! Why, I'd do Jacob Renwyck; that's what I'd do. Go for him, Dicky bird! All's fair in love and Wall street. He isn't a lamb, I tell you. He's a ram, and a butter at that! Shear him, my boy, shear him to the skin!"

"I can't," said Richard quietly.

"Can't! The devil you can't! Why not?"

"Mr. Corrigan," said the Texan earnestly, "in business it may be a common thing to take advantage of another man when you can, and it may be foolish on my part to decline, but I tell you, sir, if I did a thing like that I could never look Miss Harriet in the face. To me it means more than money or dad or anything else. I may be a poor Englishman and a mighty bad actor, but I can't forget that I'm still a gentleman."

Richard looked his companion squarely in the eye and turned on his heel. He was about to stride angrily away when he felt two short plump arms clasped tightly around his waist and heard a laughing voice murmer in his ear:

"Oh, Dicky, Dicky, what a bully little minister you have spoiled! Sit down, young man, and let me tell you one thing soberly." He half dragged, half pushed Richard to a seat upon the bench and stood above him, resting two plump hands upon his shoulders. The laughter now was gone, and in its place came a wondrous tenderness. "My boy," he said, "I'd rather have seen you as you stood just now than as the owner of all deep water harbors that were ever dredged. You came here to win Harriet, and you're going to get her if I have to sit on Jacob Renwyck while you run off with the girl on Hawk—a la Lochinvar! God bless you, boy! I—I love you for what you said, and now I'm going to tell you something else."

Once more the merriment twinkled in the little gimlet eyes whose owner held his sides and shook from shoe to collar button. Richard waited patiently for Uncle Michael to speak, but that gentleman sat puffing his cigar and apparently studying the momentous question in all its lights and bearings.

"Dick," he said abruptly, "you have got yourself into a nice mess, haven't you? It's up to you to do something original. Any ideas on the subject?"

"Yes," said Richard; "I'm going to Mr. Renwyck this evening and make a clean breast of it. It's the only thing I can do."

Mr. Corrigan whistled softly.

"After which brilliant move I dare say you will apply for board in the state insane asylum."

"Any place will do for me after that," admitted the unfortunate adventurer.

"You would find its inmates congenial after you followed that course, I am sure, but if I were in your place I'd do nothing of the kind."

"Why not?"

"For various reasons. In the first place, what good will it do? Would you then be in a position to tell your father? No; you see that clearly for yourself. You will be invited to leave Irvington and will accept the invitation promptly. Thus endeth the first lesson, Miss Harriet Renwyck being the principal subject matter. Mr. Jacob Renwyck will then institute proceedings against one Bill Williams for obtaining information by fraud in the person of his son."

"But, my dear sir," cried Dick, with some asperity, "I had no such intention, I assure you. The information was—well, it was forced on me."

"Aha!" exclaimed the old lawyer knowingly. "That's just the delicate point. I'm speaking legally. Of course you're innocent. You know it, and I believe it, but how about a jury of your peers? To put it bluntly, you have taken the name of a wounded and helpless man without his knowledge or consent. You have bribed his servant. Bad point, Dick—very bad. Then you creep into a confiding old gentleman's house and worm away the secrets of his inmost heart. The alleged pursuit of the girl is merely a blind to cover your deep laid, crafty, nefarious designs, which"—

"Hold on, for God's sake!" vehemently protested Richard, appalled at the revelation of his perfidy by the lawyer's merciless logic, which was about as hard to bear as if it had been a truthful indictment. "Don't put it that way! You make me feel like an actual criminal. Next I'll be stealing their cut glass and silver hairbrushes."

"I am merely looking at it from a legal point of view," said the little man solemnly. "To confess to Jacob now is the very worst policy imaginable."

"Then what am I to do?" demanded the young man savagely.

"Brazen it out," advised his counsel, striving to suppress the dancing humor in his eyes. "But, for the Lord's sake, Dicky, boy, do brush up on English history."

"And what of dad?"

Mr. Corrigan began to chuckle and to rub his hands violently.

"I'm afraid," he said, with great conviction, "that Bill will have to play his hand alone. You can't help him, young man, and you've got to trust to luck. If your father finds out about the deal he may pull down Jacob's ladder; if not—well, I'm almost as sorry for Bill as I am for his son."

Richard drew his brows together in a troubled frown.

"And is that all the advice you can give me?" he asked, hoping against hope.

"No," said the little man; "there is one more suggestion, and a sound one, too, by George! My vision is a shade imperfect owing to creeping age, but I think I see Harriet over yonder under the trees. I, as your counsel, direct you to go and talk to her."

This last piece of advice was too good to be neglected, and Richard, dismissing his cares, followed it forthwith.

CHAPTER X.

When the young Texan had got out of earshot Mr. Corrigan leaned back and laughed till his plump sides could stand the strain no more. Rarely had he passed so amusing and delightful a half hour. He lived the lonely life of a wealthy old bachelor, and the comedy had come to him in the shape of a godsend. He liked what he had seen of the young man immensely, and he was prepared to like him more for his father's sake, but he determined to make him suffer as much as possible in payment for his reckless assurance. Besides, he had another end in view, the success of which depended largely upon the son of his old friend Bill Williams. Every feature of the game was a joy to his merry heart, and in order to watch its progress he determined to be a frequent visitor at Restmore, which promised to belie its name and become a troubled spot, after all. Rising from the bench at last, he cut across lots toward his own home, half a mile away, measuring every stride with a sort of chuckling pedometer.

Meanwhile Richard followed the lawyer's counsel, not only as to closing his mouth with regard to Mr. Renwyck, but as to opening it without delay with regard to Mr. Renwyck's daughter. This at least was his intention, but he found himself once more disappointed. Miss Harriet was in her favorite seat on the lawn, with an open book resting in her lap. Richard's footfalls made no sound on the soft green turf, and, unconscious of his approach, before he was within hailing distance she arose abruptly and went into the house. He followed her forthwith, but just as he reached the veranda steps a sprightly little figure bounced out and greeted him effusively. Needless to say, it was not Miss Renwyck. Miss Imogene Chittendon was more fluffily irritating to the adventurer than usual. Her motions, like her manner of speech, were nervous and spasmodic, not unlike the movements of a humming bird over a bunch of honeysuckle, with the lord representing the fragrant blossoms.

"Why, Lord Croyland!" she twittered, with something between a giggle and a shriek, "how very fortunate! I was just going out to pick wild flowers. I've never picked wild flowers with a real nobleman. Please say you are just dying to give me a new experience."

She looked up at him with a baby-like air of innocence and admiration and laughed again.

"I—I should be delighted," said Richard, telling the first downright lie which had passed his lips since arriving at Irvington.

He relieved her of the absurd basket she was carrying on her arm and started across the fields, cursing inwardly at the fate which linked him with this troublesome and irresponsible little creature and striving outwardly to be decently polite to her. Unconscious of his cogitation, Miss Imogene fluttered at his side, now murmuring idiotic small talk into his bored ears, now pouncing with little squeals of delight upon some gaudily colored weed and depositing it in the basket.

"It is so good of you to come," she confided, with a melting glance. "It isn't heavy enough to tire you, is it? You are so strong, you know, and so brave."

She alluded to the basket, which weighed perhaps four ounces. Richard assured her that he thought he could stand the strain and that he was not in the least afraid of butterflies, the only living thing they had met so far, which brought forth a fresh outburst of gigglesome joy. Presently she took a seat upon a stone, begged him to do likewise and began fanning herself with her hat.

"Do you know," she whispered, "I think I shall trust you and tell you a secret."

"All right," he said carelessly. "Fire away—I mean do so, by all means." He seated himself and added dramatically, "Believe me, maiden, it shall be sacred with me."

"There!" she cried in triumph. "I knew you could do it, though Harriet says flatly—just flatly—that you couldn't."

"Couldn't what?"

"Act."

"Well, she's right," agreed Richard. "I can't. I've been told so before. Where do you get your strange delusions?"

Once more her big baby eyes looked upward with a pleading glance.

"But you'd try if I asked you, wouldn't you? You couldn't resist if I begged you—er—real hard, could you?"

"Nothing short of assassination could make me refuse you," said Richard, emphasizing the pronoun and looking sadly out across the Hudson. It was wrong, of course, but he couldn't help it, and really she was pretty enough to excuse so venal a lapse.

"Oh, you dear, delightful man!" chirruped the little lady. "Now, listen. Don't look at the river. Look at me."

"I dare not."

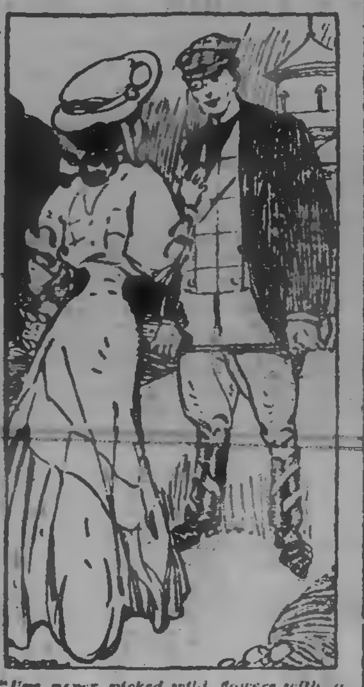
"Nonsense! You said you were not afraid of butterflies."

"I was wrong. I am of one."

"Don't be afraid of me. I won't hurt you," said the highly flattered girl laughingly.

"I breathe again. Go on."

"Well, Lord Croyland, we are going to have a little one act play on Friday evening, and you are in it, because you just said you would, and I know you will do it just beautifully, because I told Harriet you could, and, having promised, of course you can't refuse now, when everything has been"—



"I've never picked wild flowers with a real nobleman."

"Hold on; hold on!" interrupted Richard. "I'm sort of losing my grip on things. Slow down to a trot and let's get our bearings."

This sounded very unlike an English nobleman, but the young lady in her excitement failed to notice.

"You see," she began again, "the play is called 'The Man and the Bird.' You are the man, and"—

"And you are the bird," completed Richard. "I thought as much. Well, go on."

Miss Imogene dimpled with pleasure and applauded his quick perception.

"Yes," she said; "I am the bird, and you—it's only a play, you know, of course—and you're just desperately in love with me."

"I couldn't act that part. It's too real, and"—

"Oh, yes, you can! I thought you wouldn't find it difficult. I'll help you."

"That settles it. I'm lost."

"And, besides, it will make Cornelius Van der Awe just frantic. He isn't in the cast, you know. We've put him in the audience, and he has just to sit there and be wretched. Oh," she cried, "it will simply be too delicious! Don't you think so?"

"Rapturous, but dangerous for me," assented Richard gravely. "Is Miss Renwyck in the play?"

"Why, of course she is, stupid! She's getting it up herself and has the leading part."

Richard brightened. Private theatricals were not so silly, after all.

"What sort of a part will she play?" he asked.

"Oh, the serious part!" his companion advised him. "It's more real acting than mine, of course, but I like the love part best, don't you?" Richard nodded, and the debutante continued: "Harriet is the rich heiress, you know. And, oh, she's going to wear the Renwyck diamonds! Her father will bring them up from the city tomorrow night. She'll look awfully stunning in them. You are engaged to her—in the play, I mean—but you'll find out that you love me best, and it's an awfully exciting scene. You and I—in the play, I mean—you and I are in a room together, and you tell me how much you love me"—

"Hadn't we better practice a little bit now?"

"Don't you think you could do it without practice?"

"I shall need to acquire—er—restraint in the presence of such temptation, you know."

"Oh, I see. I guess it won't be necessary for you to be too restrained. It's beautiful, so impassioned—the language, you understand"—

"I shall try to live up to it."

"And just when you kiss me"—

"I'm sure it would be best for us to try that in private."

"Not at all. We can make believe about that part, you know."

"That's not true acting."

"Isn't it? Oh, we'll see about that later, and we needn't rehearse that anyway."

"But I'm sure to be so awfully awkward about that. I've had so little practice in my short life."

"You poor little innocent Englishman! We'll fix that later."

"Oh, happy hope!"

"Will you listen to me, Lord Croyland?"

"I'm silent."

"Harriet comes in and denounces you. Don't you think it's perfectly delicious?"

"Dazzling."

"Then it's settled. I'm so glad. Come on and let's dig up more roots."

Miss Imogene Chittendon proceeded to pick wild flowers. Mr. Richard Williams carried them in the four ounce basket and communed with himself. Denunciation at the present speaking was rather a sore subject with him and coming from the lips of the girl he worshiped in a one act play in which he was some one else was more than flesh and blood could stand. It had too definite a relation to his present circumstances to be comfortable. On the whole, he decided to get out of that play if he could. He did not want Harriet denouncing him, even in fun. She might have to do it in earnest later, and he did not wish her to have the advantage of a previous rehearsal. He was getting sensitive, he realized, but he wanted to see her alone, to talk with her as a kind of relief from the troubles that were gathering around him in uncomfortable, sticky coils. But at every turn his innocent purpose was frustrated, and he found himself in the clutches of some one else, an inquisitor like Michael Corrigan, a chatterbox like Miss Chittendon.

THE EGYPTIANS' SECRET.

The Egyptians of Pharoah's time were a wonderful people. The pyramids, for instance, put our modern buildings to shame. Where such huge blocks of stone were carved—how they were moved and put in place—are mysteries to modern minds.

The Egyptians were skilled physicians, too. We know that they used fruit juices in treating many diseases. Some years ago, a physician in Ottawa discovered a method of combining the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes, by which the most remarkable results have been obtained.

Whether "Fruit-a-tives" (these combined fruit juices in tablet form) are a re-discovery of the prescriptions of the ancient Egyptians, will probably never be known.

Certainly, the ancients never had a more effective remedy than "Fruit-a-tives" for all Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bowel Troubles. "Fruit-a-tives" are sold by dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c—or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

He was not so occupied with his thoughts, however, as to forget a plainsman's training, and during the latter half hour of his wild flower hunt he was conscious of a spy upon his trail. He had turned at some remark of his companion and had chanced to see a figure that dodged swiftly behind a bowlder some fifty yards away. He had paid no special heed to the occurrence. But when it was repeated twice he became convinced that some one was watching them—why, he could not imagine. As they neared Restmore Richard wheeled suddenly and spied the figure crouching along a boxwood hedge. It seemed a very strange affair, and he determined to get to the bottom of it. So, excusing himself on the steps of the veranda, he made a circuit of the house, cut across the rose garden and vaulted a fence into the road. The hedge ended at this point, and, to the vast surprise of two gentlemen, Richard came near to landing on the head of Mr. Cornelius Van der Awe.

CHAPTER XI.

"Oh, it's you, is it?" said Richard, the first to recover from astonishment. "Do you know, I almost fancied it was some one with designs on the poultry."

Mr. Van der Awe flushed, drew himself up and folded his arms in a strikingly dramatic pose.

"No," he answered without the first vestige of humor; "I was not after the poultry. To be perfectly frank, I was after you."

This was another one! Was everybody lying in wait for him this morning? Could he have speech with all the world but her?

"I admire candor," coolly remarked Richard in return, "and I rejoice in the fact that your desire is gratified. How may I serve you?"

"Lord Croyland," said the dramatic young gentleman, "there is a matter which must be settled between us here and now. Upon it depends my future happiness."

"All right," responded the Texan cheerily. "Shall it be rifles, pistols, lariats, bowie knives or arbitration?"

Once more Mr. Van der Awe flushed. He had a faint idea that the English nobleman was laughing at him, a point on which extreme youth is sometimes oversensitive.

"I think it can be settled by arbitration," he answered coldly. "Will you kindly follow me to some less public place?"

The two young gentlemen walked up the road for a short distance, stopping at the brow of a hill which overlooked the river. It struck Richard that this being continually led away from the house of his ladylove for secret conferences was growing rather monotonous. This was the fourth time in two days, and each excursion seemed to involve him more deeply in some quagmire of trouble. They sat down under a tree and for a time remained silent.

"Smoke?" asked Richard, holding out his cigar case.

"Thank you, no," said the young man sadly. "I have no heart for pleasure just at present. If you don't mind, we'll get down to business."

The Texan lit his cigar and expressed a willingness to open negotiations with the enemy, while the enemy collected his thoughts and dug holes in the ground with a short sharp stick.

"Lord Croyland," he began at last, "in this country openness and squareness are the first principles. I've heard that gentlemen have the same ideas in England. Is this true?"

Richard bowed.

"Very well. I'm going to ask you a plain, blunt question, without any intention of offense, and I want you to give me a straight, plain answer. Which one are you after?"

Richard's cigar nearly dropped from between his teeth, while he gazed at his questioner in extreme astonishment.

"Which one of what?" he asked when he recovered himself.

"The girls," said Mr. Van der Awe. "Perhaps I didn't put it clearly."

The Texan tried hard to conceal his amusement and succeeded imperfectly.

"Ah, I see," he returned. "Which one are you after?"

"Miss Imogene," confessed the young man without reserve, "and if you don't object to my confidence, Lord Croyland, I love her as no man ever loved a girl before. It's—it's—well, hang it, it's painful!" He fell into a thoughtful pause, then looked up again. "Now, I think I've been perfectly candid with you, and I want you to be quite frank with me. If it's Miss Chittendon we can decide what to do later."

"My dear fellow," said Richard, "you can't imagine how I appreciate your openness and squareness. It throws new light upon your glorious American people. Allow me to give you a cigar and be equally unreserved. While I admit without hesitation that Miss Imogene Chittendon is a most charming and utterly desirable young lady, I beg to assure you, sir, that never for a single fraction of a second have I entertained the least idea of—of—in your own phrase, of going after her. Is that satisfactory?"

"Entirely so," said Mr. Van der Awe, holding out his hand with the nearest approach to happiness he had yet shown. "I'm glad to know you in your true, real light. You are not a bit like other Englishmen I have met. Fact is, you don't even talk like one."

"Thanks," bowed Richard, prudently screwing in his monocle. The eyeglass always made him feel like an idiot; but, on the other hand, it gave a dash of local color to his appearance without which he would have been lost. "Is there anything else in which I can serve you, old chap?"

"Yes, Lord Croyland, there is. You have very kindly stated to me that you have no intention of making a bid for Imogene. That's very square of you, and I appreciate it. But would you mind telling her so?"

Richard laughed a long, free, bubbly laugh that came echoing back in merry mockery at this most ingenious proposition.

"Well, he said, "that's rather a difficult thing to do, isn't it? Strikes me as rather—er—indelicate."

"Not at all," protested Mr. Van der Awe. "Imogene is a sensible girl"—oh, the blindness of love!—"and would understand you perfectly. You see," he explained, "she's young. Her mind, I confess frankly, is immature. She's apt to be—well, dazzled, I might say, by foreign titles and brass buttons and things of that description. It's a woman's natural instinct, you know, and I have no logical right to blame her. You see, I have reasoned it all out and am speaking from a standpoint of superior age and experience. Now, you can't find fault with that line of thought, can you?"

Preparing Wool For Market.

Many farmers, says a wool buyer, are losing up to 2 cents a pound in their wool by not paying attention in preparing it for market. There are cases where it might just as well be put into a hole with a pitchfork and trodden down. Practically everything goes in together—fleece, bellies, locks, tags, short and long staple, fine and coarse, Merino and crossbred. Now, what can a buyer make out of this? How can he tell the proportions of each in a bale? The consequence is that only a low value all around can be risked, and many buyers will not bid for it at all.

Sentence Sermons by Gipsy Smith

UTTERED IN MASSEY HALL, TORONTO

"The face is an index to the heart. Then do you wonder why some parsons cannot preach when they look at the faces in their congregations.

"When God measures a man for his heavenly clothes he does not measure his face. It might take too much stuff."

"Be filled with the spirit of joy—not jaw. Spare the gospel chin music."

"Lets some of the light which gilds the buttercups and the pansies stray into your faces. Be joyful Christians."

"Christianity will make business men as careful about carrying their ledger as their Bibles. It will make women as courteous to girls behind counters who are trying to serve them as to Christ in their prayers."

"The fruit of the spirit is Love. Measure yourself by that. Do you love everybody?"

"Isn't it pleasant to hear anyone called a good man or a good woman. It is a rare thing, because so few deserve the title."

"Nothing creates infidels like inconsistency on the part of professing Christians."

"I don't believe in the hodge-podge milk and water religion which teaches that a Christian has nothing to do. That is a mongrel gospel. Christianity means to walk in measured step with."

"A woman should look more like a Christian if she took some waif from the slums and fed and dressed, and nursed it instead of taking a dressed-up dog out riding in an automobile."

"If the people of this continent hope to hold their own with the nations of the world they will have to tighten their hold upon the Lord's Day."

"It's hard work to get some people to sit a few minutes in prayer, and then they are staring through their fingers."

BUILDER OF FAULTY CHIMNEY RESPONSIBLE FOR FIRE LOSS

Important Judgment Delivered by the Superior Court at Montreal—Defective Work Renders Worker Liable.

A decision holding a builder responsible for fire loss due to faulty construction was recently rendered, by Mr. Justice Archibald, in the Superior Court at Montreal. The detailed opinion rendered is of too great interest and importance to be passed without some further reference than that already given it.

The case was that of the Rochester-German Insurance Company of Rochester vs. Castle, et al. The plaintiff was insurer of a house at Outremont, the property of J. C. Walsh. An incipient fire happened in that house in February, 1907, and did damage to the extent of $400, which after due proofs, the insurance company paid to Mr. Walsh, taking a subrogation from him in all his rights against any persons responsible for the fire.

An adjuster on behalf of the insurance company found that on the evening previous to the fire the insured had been sitting in his parlor up to about midnight with a friend, and that there was a wood fire in a grate built in the corner of the room. There was also in the cellar, which was not finished off, a furnace pipe which entered a chimney in the immediate vicinity of the fireplace. The first floor joists were open in the cellar and the furnace pipe passed underneath, at a distance of 2 or 2 1-2 inches, from the furnace to the chimney, a distance of about 20 feet.

Owing to the position and limits of the fire, the insurance adjusters came to the conclusion that the fire resulted from the defective construction of the hearth of the fire-place. This hearth had been constructed by the defendant under a contract with Mr. Walsh. The company, guided by the report of its adjusters, demanded from Mr. Walsh, upon making payment, subrogation against the defendant, whom they claimed to be in fault for the fire. The action set up that the defendant had constructed the hearth; that it was badly constructed and caused the fire, and prayed that defendant be condemned to indemnify the plaintiff for the loss suffered in the premises.

The defendant pleaded that the hearth was well constructed; that the fire did not result from the hearth, but from the pipes of the furnace.

However, it was established that the hearth was built upon boards, and as a result of the fire, these boards were burned through as well as the bond timber immediately under the hearth was also burned and charred. In considering the other possible cause of fire, the judge remarked that the furnace pipe would naturally be hotter nearer the furnace than it would be father away. It was practically the same distance from the joists during its whole length of 20 feet. None of the joists near the furnace were in any way affected. The burning which took place in the bond timber, and in the joists next to it, and, to a less extent, in the next again, was upon the top and not upon the bottom.

In concluding, the judge stated that he had no hesitation in giving judgment to the effect that the defendant was in fault in the construction of the hearth in question, and that fault produced the fire, and, therefore, that the defendant must indemnify the plaintiff for the loss which the fire caused. Judgment, therefore, went in favor of plaintiff for the sum of $400 and costs.—The Chronicle.

ST. CATHARINE'S REGIMENT TO BE NEARLY 350 STRONG

The St. Catharines Star-Journal says:

Yet another increase in numerical strength was one feature of the regular weekly parade of the 19th Regiment last night, denoting a genuine and constantly growing interest in the corps on the part of the young men of the city. The parade state showed the muster to be as follows:

Staff, 13.
Brass band, 33.
Bugle band, 32.
Bearer Corps, 18
Signalling Corps, 17.
A Company, 34.
B Company, 34.
C Company, 32.
D Company, 34.
E Company 29.
F Company, 20.
Total, 304.

In addition about a dozen recruits were sworn in after parade. There is every indication that the regiment will go to Peterborough nearly 350 strong. Every company is putting forth strenuous efforts to fill up its ranks to its establishment, and to attain the highest degree of efficiency in drill.

The usual march-out was dispensed with last night and the entire evening was devoted to practising the exceedingly pretty and impressive ceremony of trooping the colors. Considering the number of recruits in the ranks and the fact that the ceremony has not been performed for a good many months the work was done in most creditable manner. A Company formed the escort for the color, and deserved the many expressions of commendation showered upon the rank and file.

"Cheer Up;" It's Not So Bad

The incessant rains of the last few days have led to a general outcry in regard to the backward condition of the weather and people are becoming perhaps unnecessarily alarmed in regard to its effects upon the coming harvest. After all when this season of 1909 is contrasted with the spring of 1907 it will be found that the weather at the present time is no more unfavorable than it was at this time two years ago. While it is admitted that the season is late and backward yet at the same time there is no cause for alarm as there is yet sufficient time for the crops to develop and there are still great possibilities for an abundant harvest this year.

Though the constant wet weather has had the general effect of retarding farming operations no serious injury has yet been done, for up to date little grain has been sown. It is true that the grain sown a couple of weeks ago or longer may not grow so well as under more favorable conditions, but so little has been sown that the general bad effects will not be great. While the spring has been very backward so far as the grain is concerned, still there will be compensation from the growth of grass. Clovers and grasses stood the winter very well and the prospects are for an abundant growth.

The wet, backward spring in a manner has its lessons for the farming community for where lands are well underdrained no serious results will follow the late extensive and heavy falls of rain. But where lands are not underdrained the results will be more serious owing to the fact that such lands cannot be worked until the season is far advanced and probably too far advanced for the maturing of the crops. The cold, wet weather has not yet had any serious effect upon the growth of the wheat crop, which is advancing very fairly under present conditions.

SEVERAL COTTAGES BEING BUILT AT CROWE'S LANDING

Special to the Review.

Crowe's Landing, May 12. — The water is two feet over the Government wharf.

Mr. John Toys, of Quarry Island, had the misfortune to slip and dislocate his shoulder two weeks ago. A physician from Warsaw was procured to attend to him and we are glad to learn that he is able to be around but it will be some time before he will be able to attend to his duties.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Ackerman arrived at their summer home, Cliff Cottage, last week.

The "Ajax" started on her wood tour last week.

The "Empress" gave us a call on Monday. The "Bobs" is also on the move.

Mr. L. E Finlay completed the wood work of his cottage Saturday night on the first point west of Mr. Burnham's cottage on the lake. It is in a good location and has a good view from every quarter of the east end of the lake. It is 35x28 ft. The carpenter work was done by Mr. H. Fife, contractor of Norwood, and his gang of workmen.

We expect to see another cottage completed before the camping season starts on this same property, which belongs to Mr. Ackerman, who is dividing it into building lots for campers.

Mr. Packenham, of Norwood, has the material on the ground just east of Crowe's Landing for a beautiful cottage which will be started in a few days.

THE NEWS FROM DOURO TOWNSHIP

Special to the Review.

Douro, May 12—Mr J R Richardson, insurance agent of Norwood, took a business tour through this neighborhood on Thursday before the storm

Miss Aggie O'Brien, of Peterborough spent Sunday with her cousin, Miss Gertie O'Brien.

Mr. Bert Duffus of Otonabee was the guest of Mr Maurice O'Brien on Sunday last.

Mr and Mrs John Torpey of Otonabee visited friends here on Sunday.

Mr J. Towns of Brighton, was visiting friends in this neighborhood last week.

Mr Muggins, piano dealer, was in the village last week. Mr Muggins says that business prospects in the piano line are bright in this vicinity.

Mr. Joseph Hogan, proprietor of the Shearer cheese factory was in the village this week. Mr Hogan is expecting this will be another prosperous year. We wish him all success.

The lightning storm on Thursday evening was one of the worst we have had for years. However we are happy to say no particular damage was done in this district.

Mr. Frank Moher, reeve, and Mrs. Moher were in Peterborough last Thursday.

Miss Tivey of Peterborough, was visiting Miss Bella Russell on Sunday last.

Miss Fannie O'Leary, trained nurse, who has been home for a few days has been called to Ennismore.

Mr. James O'Connor of Peterborough was visiting friends in Douro on Tuesday last.

Mr. Wm O'Brien of Ottesloe, was home for a visit on Sunday.

Mr. W. E. Chamberlain has completed the contract for cutting the trees on the Dummer road along his farm. He has picked up and burned all the brush, and his work has made a great improvement to the road.

Friday being Arbor Day, the school children always expect a holiday. At many of the schools throughout the township the little folks devoted the day to planting trees and flowers, and endeavoring in other ways to beautify the school yards. All were busy in earnest each seeming to believe that on Arbor Day there is plenty of work that little hands can do.

Mr. R. J. Young, of Peterborough, was visiting his brother Mr. Wm. Young, on Sunday.

Miss Lizzie Burns is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Wm. Devlin, of Otonabee.

Mr. Harry Youngman has engaged for the summer with Mr. Wm. Barry.

Miss Stassia Moher is visiting her sister, Mrs. M. J. Leahy.

We are pleased to learn that Mrs. John McCarthy, who has been seriously ill in St. Joseph's Hospital, has arrived home, and is feeling much better, and we hope she will soon be entirely well again.

During the recent storm, a large cedar tree was broken by the wind and thrown across the telephone line. The tree is overhanging the road with no support other than the wires to keep it from falling across the road. The tree is dangerous to those travelling the road especially in windy weather and should be looked after at once.

Mr. Wm. Blewitt, of Lakefield, has been engaged for the summer with Mr. Geo. E. Wilson, cheesemaker.

HITS AN ICEBERG

Steamer Tunisian Meets Accident Like That of the Champlain.

Montreal, May 14.—A marconigram was received yesterday by the Allan Line from Captain Fairfull of the Tunisian, stating that that vessel had suffered an accident almost similar to that which recently befell the Lake Champlain, and that he had been compelled to put into St. John's, Nfld., for safety. The Tunisian, while steaming slowly, inward-bound, through heavy field ice, struck an unusually heavy mass, and started a plate under her forepeak. The broken plate caused quite a heavy leak, and Captain Fairfull considered it his duty to head at once for St. John's, which was only sixty miles distant. The vessel will be overhauled there, and if it is found that she has sustained serious injuries the passengers will be forwarded to Port Basque by rail, thence by the Reid Newfoundland Co.'s boats to Sydney, where they will be taken by special trains to St. John, N.B., and Montreal. If the Tunisian has to go into dry dock the passengers booked for her sailing from Montreal on the 21st instant will be transferred to another of the Allan boats. This is the third accident the Allan boats have suffered since the opening of navigation, the Corinthian and Siberian having both met with mishaps.

THE QUEEN DOES NOT WANT A VOTE

Her Majesty Indicates That She is Not a Suffragette

London, May 14.—Queen Alexandra is evidently not in sympathy with the female suffragists. Princess Louise yesterday opened the Women Nurses' Congress at Liverpool, and in a little speech said: "I have a message for you from the Queen. She has the fullest sympathy with you in your work. She feels that this is the work which women can do. Some women nowadays try to be like men, but this is the thing that men can't do; and it, therefore, is here that we feel superior to anybody else."

The Queen's attitude is the more interesting because her daughter, Queen Maud of Norway, sent a message of sympathy to the International Suffragists' Congress, which met a few weeks ago in London.

CHARGE AGAINST HAILEYBURY LAWYER

Woodstock, May 14.—Alfred Hall, a Haileybury lawyer, has been brought to Woodstock by the local authorities on a charge of fabricating evidence and misleading the High Court, in that he produced a certain affidavit to the court purporting to be signed by one Davidson, who was supposed to be prosecuting a local suit.

Davidson declared that he had never signed nor authorized the signature of the affidavit. The magistrate reserved his decision pending the settlement of certain legal points, which will be referred to the Attorney-General. J. W. Curry of Toronto appeared for Hall, who is a former resident of this county.

RUNAWAY HUSBAND HAS BEEN CAUGHT

Windsor, Ont., May 14.—A Pittsburg despatch says that Mrs. Elizabeth Templeton of Windsor yesterday had her husband, A. H. Templeton, aged 37, and Eleanor Walcott, 38, for whom he is said to have deserted his wife, arrested. The Walcott woman claims to have been regularly married to Templeton.

Seventeen years ago Templeton married Elizabeth Dicken in Windsor. Two years later he disappeared and she heard nothing further of him until about two months ago, when she received information that he had married again.

A PROVINCIAL POLICE FORCE

Toronto, May 14.—The Attorney-General's reorganization scheme for the provincial police system is nearly completed, and will be announced shortly.

The organization will have a most comprehensive field, touching upon the work of several departments. In addition to the ordinary pursuit of crime there will be the enforcement of the license laws and the maintenance of law and order in the unorganized districts of New Ontario.

Gets Off With Fine.

Brantford, May 14.—H. Nyagarias, one of the Blue Lake Italians implicated in the charge of destroying live stock and indiscriminate shooting, was fined $10 by Mayor Patterson of Paris yesterday, who ordered that the Italians be deprived of all firearms in their possession.

One witness said the Sabbath proceedings among the colony were like a continuous roar on a battlefield. The Italians claimed they were merely shooting birds.

OLD MAN GOES TO PRISON FOR CRIME OF FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Vowing Never to Be Taken Alive, Officers Break Into House and Capture Him After Battle With Family —A Respected Farmer—He Forged Will.

New York, Friday, May 14.—William H. Stillman, former President of the New Jersey Horticultural Society, whose place near Blawenburg, N.J., is one of the show farms of the State, was arrested yesterday, taken to Trenton and lodged in the penitentiary to serve a term of five years for forging a will of his friend and neighbor, William Lanehart.

The forgery was committed fifteen years ago. Lanehard died in December, 1895. The forged will bequeathed half of Lanehart's estate to Stillman. Criminal charges were first lodged against Stillman in 1897, and for twelve years he has been fighting them.

Stillman is seventy years old and the best known farmer in Somerset County. Until the criminal charges were brought against him he was one of the most respectable men in the State and a leader of his own community. He is a man of scholarly attainments. It is not believed he will survive the five years' prison sentence which he began to serve yesterday.

FIGHT FOR PRISONER IN HOUSE.

Stillman did not submit to arrest without the hardest kind of a fight. Two weeks ago the Supreme Court finally affirmed the verdict of the court of Somerset County which imposed the five year sentence.

Stillman promptly barricaded his house near Blawenburg and made it known that he would never be taken alive. With him lived his wife, his two sons, his daughter and son-in-law, and they declared they would stand by the old man in his resistance of arrest.

No serious effort to take him into custody was made until yesterday morning, when Sheriff Frank Rose and Detective George B. Totten made an early start from Somerville for the Stillman home. Both men were armed and they got to the farmhouse without any word of their coming reaching the occupants.

The first they knew of the old man's danger was when Ross and Totten burst into the house by a rear door. Immediately the whole household fell upon the two men. Ross and Totten drove off the men by drawing their revolvers, but the women were not so easily scared. They scratched and clawed the faces of the officers, who could do nothing but push them away.

Finally they found the old man hiding in an inner room. Though handicapped by his weight of years, he fought valiantly, but was easily conquered by the two younger men and dragged out to their wagon.

With his wife and children standing about weeping he only had time to bid them a brief farewell when the Sheriff started on the long drive to Trenton.

DREW UP SECOND WILL.

In his youth Stillman studied law, and though never admitted to the Bar, he was called upon by his farmer friends to perform many little legal services for them. One of his specialties was the drawing of wills. Lanhart had him draw a will in which he left all of his estate to his sisters, except some small charitable bequests.

Stillman later drew up another will on a piece of paper, on which Lanhart had written his name, for some purpose in lead pencil. The pencil signature was traced over with ink, according to the testimony of handwriting experts at the trial. This will ignored Lanhart's sisters, and left one-half to Stillman and the other half to Lanhart's niece.

Soon after Lanhart died in December, 1895, Stillman offered the forged will for probate, and John N. Race, cashier of the Hopewell National Bank, offered the will, which was subsequently adjudged genuine. The civil litigation continued until 1897, when the Stillman will was declared a forgery, and then criminal proceedings were begun.

At Stillman's first trial the jury disagreed. After the trial several jurymen complained to the court that they had been approached in Stillman's behalf. An investigation was made and three court officers were fined for permitting outsiders to approach the jurymen during the trial.

Stillman was finally convicted and sentenced in December, 1907, but by different appeals and dilatory tactics delayed execution of the sentence until yesterday.

London, May 14.—A Melbourne despatch says that Premier Fisher states that the proposal to hold a naval conference emanated first from Australia.

Unrest In Portugal.

Lisbon, May 14.—During the past few days the Government has made a number of political arrests, searched the houses of various suspects, and adopted a number of other precautions in fear of a plot or of a big Republican demonstration to take advantage of the present political anarchy in Parliament. The local garrison is being kept under arms.

White Plague Unchecked.

Washington, May 14.—That the vigorous campaign against tuberculosis has failed to check the great white plague was the charge made yesterday by Nathan Straus, the New York philanthropist, at the fifth annual meeting of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

Cage of Monkeys Cremated.

Jeffersonville, Ind., May 14.—A boy last night threw a lighted match into a cage of seven trained monkeys at the tail of the parade of a circus, and, as the cage was littered with straw, the monkeys were burned before they could be released.

In Deadly Current.

Brantford, May 14.—Frank Leddetter, coachman, having driven a party to a dance here Wednesday night, had a remarkable escape from death on Alfred street. A wire across the trolley of the street railway broke down, and the driver and his team of horses were enveloped in a loop made by a live wire carrying 2,200 volts. One of the horses was electrocuted, and the other was laid out.

Leddetter had one arm badly burned in taking hold of one of the horses' heads.

St. Thomas Man Murdered.

St. Thomas, May 14.—Word has been received here that James Purdy, ironworker, a former resident of St. Thomas, has been found with a companion, John Whitelaw, with his skull crushed, at Gloucester, N.J. A spade used to murder the men was found nearby.

Purdy was identified by means of a money order for $210 from St. Thomas.

Woman's Fearful Death.

North Bay, May 14.—Mrs. Benjamin Patterson, aged 40, was fatally hurt Wednesday night while crawling under a freight train to cross the railway tracks to visit a neighbor. The Patterson family live close to the tracks and residents are accustomed to crossing through the railway yards. She leaves a husband and four children.

May Share In Huge Fortune.

St. Thomas, May 14.—If only a missing marriage certificate could be found Mrs. Donald Darrach's claim to a share of a $52,000,000 fortune would be sustained. She is one of the fifty descendants in America of William Fortner of Scotland, whose fortune is estimated as above.

A Long, Long Look Ahead.

Plainfield, N.J., May 14.—Rev. F. V. Stevenson, a graduate of Toronto University, is preparing to become an American citizen. He says he looks forward to the merging of Canada and the United States under one flag.

Funeral In Opera House.

New York, May 14.—With impressive services in which solemn music played a dominant part, the public funeral of Heinrich Conried, former director of the Metropolitan Opera Co., was held yesterday in that building.

Beautiful Gardens Sinking.

Vienna, May 14.—Grave danger exists that the beautiful gardens and conservatories of Baron Alfons de Rothschild, situated at Hohe Warte, near Vienna, may disappear owing to the threatened landslide, due, it is supposed, to excavations which have been carried to an excessive depth. The gardens, situated at a great height, are probably the finest horticultural sight in Europe.

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

The Turkish troops at Erzeroum are said to be on the verge of mutiny.

The United States Senate yesterday voted for a duty of 25 cents a ton on iron ore.

Wilfred Bishop, clerk in the Ottawa postoffice, has been arrested on a charge of stealing letters.

The French Chamber of Deputies yesterday endorsed the Government's attitude with regard to the postal strike.

A. W. Maguire, Hamilton, a well-known flour and feed merchant, committed suicide yesterday, because of business troubles.

Great activity prevails at the Sydney, N.S., mines, and, as wages are good, it is believed the men are loath to throw up their hands and strike.

Elmer Pennock, a medical student at Queen's, went suddenly insane at Brockville and attempted to kill his mother. He was committed to the asylum.

In their presentment yesterday at the Victoria Assizes, the grand jury lamented that so many cases of petty larceny were found in the jail, and advocated flogging as a deterrent.

Edward Boisseur of Toronto has entered suit at Springfield, Ill., to recover $27,500 on a note given P. J. Kieran of the Fidelity Funding Co. by the Benedictine Sisters of Nauvoo, Illinois.

Kung Ksin Chao, the new Chinese consul-general for Canada, sails by the Empress of Ireland from Liverpool for Canada on June 18, accompanied by his wife and family and secretary.

Hon. L. P. Brodeur accused the Ontario Minister of Public Works of breach of faith in the House last night for publishing the fisheries regulations in the treaty between Canada and the United States.

Lighted by Wireless.

Omaha, May 14.—The lighting of the big auditorium by electric impulse from the wireless tower at Fort Omaha, six miles away, was a novelty to which visitors at the Omaha electrical exposition were treated.

The method used was developed by Dr. F. H. Millener, experimental engineer of the Union Pacific Railroad, and is the same as was used by him several months ago in operating a motor car at a distance. Dr. Millener had the co-operation of the United States army signal corps. The show will be lighted by wireless each night.

Seized 800 Pounds of Fish.

Ogdensburg, N.Y., May 14.—A new inspector sent by the Canadian Fisheries Department to this part of the St. Lawrence river in response to recent complaints that Americans have been illegally fishing and shooting in Canadian waters made several hauls confiscating the property of some Americans alleged to be poachers. Among other things seized were several boats and 800 pounds of fish.

ENGLISH CAPITAL FOR PRINCE RUPERT

Vancouver, B.C., May 13.—Moreton Frewen, a distinguished English capitalist and representative of English capital, which will become heavily interested in the Grand Trunk Pacific townsite at Prince Rupert, is now off to Montreal to consult with President Hays of the Grand Trunk relative to the establishment of some large industrial undertakings at the Pacific terminus. Frewen is in a hurry, because he has to be back in Vancouver in time for the commencement of the Prince Rupert auction sale. Exactly what his plans are, he declares he is not prepared to state till he has had another meeting with Hays. It is reported, however, that several millions of dollars are involved.

MILLIONS WILL BE INVESTED

Vancouver, B.C., May 14.—The investment of two million dollars in the halibut industry with Prince Rupert as a base is planned by a wealthy English syndicate recently organized. Sylvester Swettenham, brother of Sir Frank Swettenham, who is associated with business enterprises in which the banking house of Glyn Mills & Co. is concerned, has reached here on a mission in connection with the proposed enterprise. He also plans to establish numerous salmon canneries along the Skeena river.

FOUL PLAY IS SUSPECTED

St. Thomas, May 14.—That William Tomlinson was murdered in the city and dragged to the ravine on the outskirts, where his body was found last Friday, is an opinion now held by Crown Attorney McCrimmon.

It is said the post-mortem shows injury to the man's body, as if he had been kicked to death, but the doctors refuse to divulge their findings, and Provincial Detective Greer will say nothing. Coroner Guest is supposed to be responsible for the outside police assistance, but he declines to state his reasons for suspecting foul play.

Robbery could scarcely be the motive, as Tomlinson had two weeks before been discharged from the M.C.R. and owed a bill at his boarding-house.

It was at first thought he was drowned, but there was no water in the lungs.

MOVES IN THE COMMONS FOR AN IMPERIAL HOUSE

Col. Hughes Favors Imperial Body With Power to Discuss Matters of Diplomacy and Defence—Resolution is Withdrawn—House Puts in a Busy Day With Ministers Answering Questions.

Ottawa, May 14.—Few Parliamentary days at Ottawa have furnished so many and such varied subjects as was the case yesterday. All of the questions discussed were of importance and the Ministers were kept on the alert, furnishing information for members who will in a few days return to their constituencies.

On motion to go into supply Col. Sam Hughes moved a resolution advocating closer union with the Empire. He thought there should be a small Imperial Parliament, with perhaps an Upper House. The representation might be based on population, except as regards India. He would not draw the color line.

Mr. Fielding remarked that the member for Vancouver would not agree to that.

Col. Hughes: What the member for Vancouver complained of is the policy of the Government which allows people of an oriental nation, who do not become Canadian citizens, to establish themselves on the Pacific coast to the detriment of Canadian citizens.

Mr. Lemieux: What about immigrants from India?

Mr. Hughes said it was not to Hindoo immigrants, but to foreigners, that the Government was kow-towing.

Col. Hughes said this Imperial Parliament should discuss Imperial problems, such as defence and diplomatic relations, while local Parliaments would retain their present status. It would secure the maritime supremacy of Britain and make her so powerful as to command the supremacy of nations.

He hoped the Premier and leader of the Opposition would consult together regarding Imperial federation.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier congratulated Col. Hughes on the lofty views he had expressed. However, it was too late in the session to deal adequately with a matter of such importance. He suggested that the resolution should be withdrawn.

Col. Hughes complied.

George Bradbury of Selkirk introduced the question of the depletion of Manitoba fisheries. He affirmed that lakes had been depleted by great American companies through connivance between officials in the west who were influenced by American interests. Millions of pounds of white fish and sturgeon had been taken from the lakes. Settlers had protested. Icelandic fishermen who had been brought to this country to fish the lakes were starving. So also were Indians. The firms were now extending their operations to lakes of Saskatchewan and the north.

Hon. Mr. Brodeur said the reports showed that there was no depletion of the fisheries of Manitoba.

In the Senate yesterday, on motion by Senator Watson, for the suspension of the rules relating to the Ontario & Michigan Power Co., protests were made by Senators Landry, Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Senator Lougheed against it being railroaded through. There had been great objection to the bill in the Province of Ontario, and in the Commons, it was noted.

Senator Watson said the Senate had two years ago passed this same bill in a more radical and far-reaching form.

Senator Dandurand said the suspension of the rules would only enable the bill to get in one day. At this stage of the session those who advocated the bill were anxious to get in all the time possible.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell asked if the Prime Minister had received from Sir James Whitney a telegram protesting against approval of the waterways treaty with the Senate rider. If, as reported, the reply of the Government would be that the original treaty was satisfactory, but that the amendment was not satisfactory, the country would approve of that reply.

The Senate sat well into the morning hours and passed the second reading of Conmee's bill and the Canada Life bill. These bills now go to committee.

BIG REDUCTION IN THE NEW PRINTING CONTRACT

Methodist Book Room and E. H. Harcourt Are Awarded King's Printer's Work for the Next Five Years at $60,000 a Year—Saving Will Amount to $100,000—Awards Going to Methodists

Toronto, May 14.—Between $20,000 and $30,000 is the tidy sum which the Whitney Government will save the people of the province on the new contract for the public printing, which was awarded yesterday to the Methodist Book Room and E. H. Harcourt & Co.

From this and other recent occurrences it would appear that this is a great year for the Methodists and also for the people, for on April 20 the Government gave the contract for printing the new school readers to the T. Eaton Co., prominent Methodists, and made a saving to the people of the province estimated at $500,000 for the first year and $125,000 for the remaining years of the contract.

For the past ten years the Government printing has been done at a cost of $80,000 to $90,000 a year. The new contract is for $60,000, so that, as it has five years to run, commencing on July 1 of this year, the province will be the gainer by at least $100,000 in that time.

It is understood that the tenders were remarkably close in the totals, though large divergencies were shown in the figures for particular items. Six firms sent in tenders, though only one tendered for the whole contract.

The printing contract is divided into five sections, of which the first four are awarded to the Methodist Book Room and the fifth to E. H. Harcourt & Co.

PEACH BASKET HAT SAVES NOSE OF SHOW GIRL

Head Driven Through Taxi Window But Maligned Straw Helmet Protects Her

New York, May 14—Here's a kind word at last for the peach basket. One of them saved a show girl's nose from being skinned yesterday by acting as a buffer when the girl was thrown head first through the glass wind shield of a taxicab. Even the preachers who rage against the latest styles of headgear will admit that a show girl with skinned nose would be in a most unfortunate predicament.

It happened in Central park about four o'clock in the afternoon. Bessie Ryan and Ruth Rand, of the "Havana" company were riding down the West Drive in the taxi when their chauffeur, George A. Southall, of No 629 Seventh avenue, had to decide between running his machine into a tree by the roadside or being crumpled up in the path of a northward speeding touring car filled with joy riders. With the quickness of a fire engine driver in similar emergencies Southall chose the lesser evil and swerved the taxi toward the tree. Fortunately he was running at slow speed, because the show girls had told him that they wanted to go that way so they could better enjoy the shrubbery and songbirds.

Although the front of the taxi was badly damaged the chauffeur escaped injury and so did Miss Rand. But Miss Ryan was pitched forward so violently that her well armored head went through the glass. The touring car got away and two traffic squad men who chased it did not get near enough to read its number.

Both the show girls live at the Hotel St Margaret, at No 129 West Forty-seventh St. They were willing to have their names used.

DRUGS IN THE DANCE DRINKS

Students of Kentucky College and Girls Made Ill by Prank

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 13.—Ipecac in the punch and croton oil in the lemonade broke up the annual junior promenade in the Kentucky State University across the Ohio River last night. More than a hundred boys and girls were hurried to their homes in carriages, and a number of them who had partaken freely of the refreshments are reported to be seriously ill.

The trick is laid at the door of the sophomore and freshman classes. The beverages were prepared at the Women's Exchange and were conveyed to the dance hall in two large cans by two negro boys. The woman who prepared them told the faculty investigating committee to-day that the beverages were all right when they left the Exchange.

The colored boys say they were stopped before they reached the hall by four students who said they were members of the refreshment committee. The boys were sent to get some cake and oranges and the cans were left in charge of the students. Members of the fire department stated that they had seen the four students send the boys away and then stir something in the cans.

EVENTS TO-NIGHT

Y.M.C.A.—Meeting of Intermediate Baseball League, and of Junior Church League.

City Hall—City Council meets in committee of the whole.

George St. Sunday School room—Mission Band concert.

Grand Opera House—McPhee's repertoire company, in "For Her Brother's Sake."

ENGINE CRUSHED

Slide of Rock on the C. P. R. Almost Wrecks Passenger Train.

North Bay, May 14.—A serious accident occurred on the Kippewa branch of the C.P.R. between Mattawa and Kippewa. That no casualties occurred is almost miraculous.

The railway runs north from Mattawa to the foot of Lake Temiskaming, and winds its way through the Laurentians, along narrow ledges far above the Ottawa river, and through many huge rock cuttings.

As the passenger train north, heavily laden, was passing through a particularly dangerous section, where the road bed clings to the mountain side, with the river many feet below, a five-ton rock crashed down the declivity, wrecking the locomotive, but fortunately not forcing the train over the precipice. Passengers were severely shaken up by the sudden stop, but not seriously injured.

So tightly was the engine wedged by the immense rock that dynamite had to be utilized to clear the wreckage.

At Woman river, on the C.P.R., 200 miles west of North Bay, a freight train telescoped another freight standing at the station, smashing up several cars and seriously injuring Conductor Lavie of Chapleau, who was in his van when the crash came.

Trial of Banker Roy.

Montreal, May 14.—The trial of Hon. P. H. Roy was begun at St. John's yesterday afternoon.

E. Langlois, accountant of the Bank of St. John, who testified that the bank held a number of notes signed by C. S. Roy, brother of the accused, who was the president of the bank. These notes had been discounted to the credit of the accused to the extent of about $300,000.

Famous Hotel Burned.

Plymouth, N.H., May 14.—After destroying the Pemigewassett House, one of the most famous hostelries in the White Mountains, together with the railroad station and express office, one of the most disastrous fires in this vicinity for many years swept into the pine forests and licked up two farm houses. Nathaniel Hawthorne died in the hotel in 1864.

Scottish Capital Coming.

Winnipeg, May 14.—Western Canada has just reaped the first direct benefits of the visit of the Scottish Agricultural Commission last year, one of the commissioners, J. M. Hodge, having returned and purchased 5,600 acres in Southern Alberta, paying therefore $70,000.

Want a Vote in Manitoba.

Winnipeg, May 14.—The temperance workers in Winnipeg are engaged in securing signatures petitioning the City Council to put a vote to the people at the municipal elections in December next on the temperance question.

Fatality In the West.

Deloraine, Man., May 14.—Joseph Roblin, aged 20, was killed while examining the machine of a gasoline well-boring outfit. His head was crushed.

THREE MEN ARE KILLED

Fell 6,000 Feet in Mine in Michigan — Bodies Crushed to a Pulp

Detroit, May 14.—A special from Calumet, Mich, last night says: Death which was swift and sure, but none the less terrible, came to three miners at the Red Jacket mine here yesterday afternoon when the ground upon which they were at work suddenly gave way, precipitating all three into a yawning abyss. For a distance of 6,000 feet the shaft runs down into the very bowels of the earth, and through this opening the unfortunate men were shot as though impelled by a mighty catapult.

The bodies were crushed into an unrecognizable mass of blood and splintered bone. The men were all foreigners. Their names are: Louis Rossio, Lowis Mustonen and Zech Benjamin.

The shaft of the Red Jacket mine is famous all over the world as the deepest working mine in existence.

WILL NOT LET HER GO HOME

Clinton, Ont., May 14.—The people of this town are indignant at the action of United States immigration officials in refusing to allow a woman, who had been visiting her old home here, after a residence of some years with her husband in New York State, to return to her husband.

Mrs. W. Hamm, the daughter of Joseph Cooper, of this town, married two years ago and went to live in Rome, N.Y. In the fall of 1907 she came to visit her parents, and remained some months, returning to her husband with no interference. This spring she again came to Clinton, and was here two months, but on returning on May 7 she was stopped at Suspension Bridge, and refused admittance to the United States. The case has been taken up with the authorities in Washington.

The Daily Review

FRIDAY, MAY 14, 1909.

THE COMING AGE

A perusal of the general press and of some of the financial journals will give an excellent idea of the change in the present day idea of investment. This is pre-eminently the get-rich-quick-and-anyhow age. It is all gambling in the medium of exchange—gold and silver. A trust, a corner, or a monopoly in either, means that bread cannot be bought for the hungry, clothes for the naked or decent, comfortable dwelling-places for the labouring-man at a normal or reasonable price. The price frequently involves the health, the sacrifice, the almost total ruin of the toiler. While he engages in honest toil in building up in making two blades of grass grow where but one grew before the stock-gambler, the grain-gambler, the produce-gambler, the gold-mine gambler, the silver-mine gambler are all making him sweat blood, and his wife and his children also. It is this half-concealed but momentous fact that is slowly preparing for a new era—that of the dominance of numbers when necessity will have compelled employers and employed alike to return like with like—for "Necessity knows no law." This appalling but actual fact will be the great, final apology and explanation of the new age that is yet to come. At one time in the history of the world, land-monopoly was the source of power. Means of transportation and communication were not yet devised, for even the coach did not come in till the 18th century. Hence land or neighbourhood was the great desideratum. It is true there was plenty of land, but position was everything, much more so than at present. But being a landlord in time ceased to be profitable. The money-lord succeeded him and succeeded well. Forms of investment as they are called so respectfully and awe-inspiringly, became the fashion of the age. On the one side was the capitalist who dealt in money only, like the Rothschilds, and as money, having succeeded barter, was the only possible medium of sale and purchase, it followed that to control money was to control not only the land as heretofore, but all forms of industry, and also the people engaged in it, their wives and families. It has continued so. On the other side are all those who employ, superintend, plan and carry out, together with the means, human and mechanical, which they employ for that purpose. The scale of remuneration is settled, not by sharing, but by a law of supply and demand, which being interpreted, means the law of necessity, that is to say, the law which allows a man or woman to get what he can, but has no reference to giving them what it SHOULD. Such a scheme has yet to be evolved, or if not evolved, at least generally adopted. When it comes the people of the world can conscientiously say, "We have at last reached an honourable basis of employment and industry. Henceforth we shall go ahead in the full assurance that we are doing right." This will make a difference. The great gambling-hell which modern life has been made into with its awful and chiefly unmerited punishment for the toiler, and those that depend upon their daily bread, will, however, not cease to be until the people wake up and bring about the peaceful revolution. Industry and happiness will then be no longer the slaves of the millionaire, but will be free and reasonably sure. Science has given us ample means of alleviating the tortures of disease. The spirit of co-operation and public service has done much for education and for providing refuge for the waif and the aged poor. All that is wanting is a system of economic fair play, and when this comes it will transform the world.

OUR DECREASING TRADE

Germany imports the products of the farm in large quantities, and the freight on the goods from Canada to Germany could not exceed a very few cents per bushel. We were examining the figures with respect to British trade and we were trying to find out what it is that she is importing from other countries because we are looked upon as supplying such a large portion of the British trade that other countries are not likely to get much in there. Total imports of Great Britain from and total exports of Great Britain to the following countries;—

Total Imports

From Canada	£ 26,029,461
From Australia	33,836,353
From New Zealand	17,785,729
From Argentine Republic	26,479,724
From United States	133,683,631

Total Exports

To Canada	£10,220,973
To Australia	27,146,803
To New Zealand	9,414,908
To Argentine Republic	18,294,492
To United States	58,052,574

The Minister of Customs is fond of telling us of the wonderful expansion of Canadian trade in comparison with the trade of other nations but the figures I am able to give show that unfortunately we are not making equal commercial progress with some other countries. The following tables will show the total imports and exports of the countries therein named;—

Total imports and exports 1907

Total Imports

Argentine	$285,860,683
Australia	252,137,298
New Zealand	84,207,256
United States	1,194,341,792
Canada	370,786,525

Total Exports

Argentine	$ 296,204,369
Australia	354,411,335
New Zealand	97,868,924
United States	1,880,775,346
Canada	280,006,606

It will be noticed that in the case of these countries the balance is on the right side of the ledger but in the case of Canada the balance of trade against us amounts to $118,000,000. and the balance of trade against us with the United States alone is $100,000,000. Permit me to refer briefly to our trade relations with Germany, and it is for that purpose principally that I have risen to speak. I would point the Minister of Customs to the fact that the deplorable condition of our trade relations with Germany is not only bad enough in itself, but that it has had such an effect on immigration from that country to Canada that we get scarcely any German settlers, although they are probably the best citizens a country like ours could possibly have. The Argentine Republic is giving large grants of land to German settlers, and the United States is eagerly seeking immigration from the Fatherland, but the Canadian government is spending hundreds of thousands of dollars to get inferior settlers from southern Europe and there is no effort to induce the German people to come here. When I look at the money we are spending to extend our trade with other countries, and the deplorable commercial relations existing between Germany and Canada, I cannot help feeling humiliated. This government is spending $200,000 now to encourage trade relations with France when they must know that mighty little of our wheat or our oats or our barley or the products of the farm, will ever get into that country. We are subsidizing steamers to Mexico on the east coast and the west coast; we are endeavoring to cultivate a trade with Japan and China where we must first educate the people to consume our products, but Germany one of the best customers in the world for our natural products is without a Canadian trade representative. We have trade representatives in China and Japan but we have no representative in Germany, nor have we one in the United States to which we are sending $100,000,000 worth of goods.—Mr Armstrong, MP.

DOES FREE TRADE INJURE ENGLAND?

Trade Review.

At first glance, a comparison of England's large exports and imports with other nations, says a writer in the London Standard, signifies much prosperity—a misleading feature in a free trade country's statistics. A large part of these amounts represents "exchanges," which at most keep only a few London clerks, and their masters, employed. England retains the shadow, but is losing the substance. But similar statistics in a highly protected country tell a different tale—the imports represent a far larger proportion of raw material, and whether the finished article is re-exported or consumed the cost of labor connected with its manufacture remains in the country. England's years of free trade have placed her in a peculiar position. Many industries have dwindled almost to vanishing point, and others are in a more or less unstable condition, caused by the dumping of foreign goods, the most serious outcome of which is England's loss of pace in the art of economical manufacture and specialising in their most modern forms, as practiced principally in the United States in the metal trades.

The average English tradesman, or employer, for that matter, has no conception of the time-saving devices and specialism in vogue in the United States—it is the country of specialists, and the man who is such, or an organiser, rises to what in England would be practically unattainable positions. A high protective tariff immediately imposed would cause more misery amongst the poorer classes for a time, but, on the other hand, it would ultimately prevent the dumping of foreign products into England and give employment to her own people. What of it if the British workman has to pay 5 per cent. or 10 per cent. more for his food and clothing, when by so doing ten times that amount is kept in England and paid to these self-same workmen as wages and some of her declining industries saved from absolute extinction? The Government, if necessary could better afford, with the extra customs' revenue, to alleviate any additional temporary distress caused by the operation of the tariff.

However, this is a matter for the English statesmen, but let the individual citizen wake to the seriousness of the situation at once, for foreign competition and its solution must become the question of the hour, and delay deepens the problem. The increasing unemployed, and decline of home industries has been so gradual that, unfortunately, only a small percentage of Englishmen realise it. It is the colonial merchant who notices the British-made goods being slowly but surely displaced by German and American. Let the reader examine the windows along a principal street in, say, London, Liverpool or Manchester. He will see foreign goods galore: German fancy goods of all kinds, leather, metal, paper, lamps, stoves, fenders and a host of ironmongery, toys, foreign picture postcards, picture books, chemicals, American and German engineering tools, saws, planes, files, boots and shoes, typewriters, news and wrapping paper and 75 per cent. of cameras.

There are many more and the list would be even larger but for the patriotism of the Englishman. Let the reader see for himself. He will be surprised at the inroads made by foreign competition, and perhaps he might think this has something to do with England's unemployed and Budget deficit. In conclusion, I would say that in my opinion "preferential trade within the empire" and a revenue tariff on foreign manufactured articles, foodstuffs, wool and leather would go a long way towards solving the problem. The United States' new tariff will further reduce England's trade with that country, and the colonial feeling is tending towards higher protective duties, but if England will join in the consideration of the Empire while Colonial patriotism is so genuinely put forth these higher duties may not eventuate, that is, as far as England is concerned—and the probabilities are the present duties will be lowered on British-made goods.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Much fault is being found with the cheap style of construction of the G. T. P.

The Rubaiyat is ascertained from recent discoveries to be a collection of middle age Persian poetizings not of one author, but of many. It is a mere collection.

During the orange season the pavement is often strewn with pieces of peel thrown carelessly upon it by peripatetic fruit eaters. It is more dangerous than ice. Many a serious accident has been caused thereby. An old saw has it, "Cursed be he who throws orange peel upon the flags." The police ought to keep a sharp eye out for the culprits.

It is no wonder the British investor is beginning to experience an uneasy feeling. It is not surprising that the rate of interest charged on Dominion loans has so greatly increased. We have been borrowing too much and must pay the penalty of our extravagance.—Weekly Sun.

A man who gets heavily in debt to a bank is working for that bank. The bank officials may be lenient and all that but the "man" never seems to get ahead. So it is with Canada. Borrowing money from Great Britain means working for Great Britain. If "thrift" is to be the watchword of the future, and if "thrift" is what made Scotland what it is, what will wild extravagance do to Canada?

Mr G. Barnes, M.P., speaking on the unemployed problem on Saturday, said that "the trouble was world-wide, and blighted the temperate man equally with the drunkard." He dismissed tariffs and drink as irrelevancies. The root-causes of unemployment included land monopoly and the increased introduction of labour-saving machinery. He declared that they must somehow or other take over the land and use it for the common good. Labour exchanges in themselves were not calculated to put a single man into work. His own Engineers' Society had already got exchanges in their 700 branches better than anything the Government could ever hope to set up; and yet, for all the work they found for their members, they might as well not exist.

SPRING WEARINESS

Are you feeling languid and all run down—is it hard for you to pull yourself together, and does everything seem too much trouble for you? Are you feeling irritable and bad tempered? No wonder if you are. The months of winter have tried you sorely and robbed you of more vitality than your system has been able to replenish. You are in need of a good tonic which will revive you and bring back that old-time vim and energy. PSYCHINE will do this.

Mr. James Stoliker, of Ridgetown, says:—"THERE IS LIFE IN EVERY DOSE. I cannot speak too highly of PSYCHINE, for it is the greatest medicine I ever used. I was just about 'All in' when I began the treatment, and in 3 months I was as well as ever. It is a great tonic for weak and run down people. There seems to be new life in every dose." You cannot do without PSYCHINE at this time of the year. It is a necessity and will banish that run-down feeling, languor, etc., and give you new life. Send to DR. T. A. SLOCUM, Limited, Spadina Ave., Toronto, for a sample to-day, or purchase a bottle from your local Druggists or Dealer.

PSYCHINE is sold everywhere at 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

STRANGE IDEAS OF THE ANCIENTS AS TO THE CAUSE OF EARTHQUAKES

WARNING SIGNS OF SHOCKS.

Pliny Says They Were Shown in the Air, Clouds and Water and by Animals—The Two Mountains That Crashed Together and Then Receded.

If we search history to find to what causes the ancients attributed earthquakes we find that the Babylonians believed that all occurrences of the kind were due to the influence of the stars, especially of the three to which they ascribed thunder—namely, Saturn, Jupiter and Mars. The seers of the day believed that these disturbances were caused by the stars moving with the sun or being in conjunction with it, more particularly when the stars were in the quartile aspect.

Pliny chronicles the report concerning one Anaximander, a Milesian, who warned the Lacedaemonians to beware of their city and houses. And legend has it that the city was soon afterward destroyed.

Pliny, who wrote his natural history in A. D. 77, conceived that earthquakes were caused by the winds, as "the earth never trembles except when the sea is quite calm and when the heavens are so tranquil that the birds cannot maintain their flight, all the air which should support them being withdrawn. Nor does it ever happen until after great winds, the gust being pent up, as it were, in the fissures and concealed hollows."

Many scientists have observed that all great convulsions of nature are likely to be preceded by calms; also that birds and animals generally exhibit certain presentiments of the event, facts which the wise men of ancient days noted and accounted for in their different ways.

Pliny says: "When an earthquake occurs there is often sound without any motion. When there is motion it is tremulous and vibratory. The clefts of the earth sometimes remain, displaying what has been swallowed up, sometimes concealing it, the mouth being closed and the soil brought over it, the city being, as it were, engulfed, devoured. Maritime districts are more especially subject to shocks. Nor are mountainous districts exempt. I have found the Alps and the Apennines frequently shaken by them. The shocks happen more frequently in the autumn and the spring. They also happen more frequently in the night than in the day. The greatest shocks are in the morning and the evening, but they often take place at daybreak. They also take place during eclipses of the moon, because at that time storms are lulled. They are most frequent when great heat succeeds to showers or showers succeed to great heat."

Pliny further says: "There is no doubt that earthquakes are felt by persons on shipboard. There are many signs for the mariner beforehand, however. The timbers of the vessel creak. The birds that settle on the vessel are not without their alarms. There is also a sign in the heavens, for when a shock is near at hand, either in the daytime or a little after sunset, a cloud is stretched out in the clear sky like a long, thin line. The water in wells is more turbid than usual, and it emits a disagreeable odor."

In describing the various kinds of shocks and expanding on his investigations on the subject Pliny remarks that "arched buildings are the safest: also the angles of walls and walls made of bricks suffer least. The earth movement that resembles the rolling of waves is the most dangerous, or when the motion is impelled in one direction. The tremors cease when the vapors have burst forth, but if there be no escape of vapor of any kind then the tremors may continue for forty days. They have been known to continue for two years."

The historian records the greatest "prodigy of the earth" as having occurred in the district of Mutina during the consulship of Lucius Martius and Sextus Julius, when "two mountains rushed together, falling upon each other with a very loud crash and then receding, while in the daytime smoke and vapor issued from them." Pliny says the wonder was witnessed by "a great crowd of Roman knights and travelers along the Aemilian way."

The same writer says: "The greatest earthquake which occurred in our memory was in the reign of Tiberius, by which twelve cities of Asia were laid prostrate in one night. During the Punic war we had accounts of fifty-seven earthquakes in one year. Nor is it an evil merely consisting in the danger which is produced by the motion; it is an equal or greater evil when it is considered as a prodigy. The city of Rome never experienced a shock that was not the forerunner of some great calamity."

Pliny, of course, takes a good many of his accounts from Aristotle, but his references to events are confirmed by other writers. Herodotus describes a great disturbance in his day, when "the sea came beyond Memphis, as far as the mountains of Ethiopia, and also from the plains of Arabia. The sea also surrounded Ilium and the whole of Teuthrania and covered the plain through which the Meander flows." Pliny makes actual mention of one of the Aeolian islands having "emerged from the sea." It was a matter of common belief among the scientists of Pliny's day that Sicily was torn from Italy by such a disturbance.—New York World.

SAW THE GHOST.

A Story That Stood the Test of a Court of Law.

As a circumstantial ghost story and one that stood the cold scrutiny of a court of law Booty's case is without a parallel. The date given is 1688, when Mrs. Booty brought an action for slander against one Captain Barnaby for what he had said of her late husband. According to an extract from a journal produced in court, dated Friday, May 15, 1687, the captain on that day went ashore with a large party of friends to shoot rabbits upon Stromboli, the island off Italy, which, from its ever burning crater, is called "the lighthouse of the Mediterranean." At about 3:30 in the afternoon two men were seen running toward the volcano, which was emitting flames. Captain Barnaby then exclaimed, "Lord bless me, the foremost is old Booty, my next door neighbor." They then vanished in the flames, a fact of which every one present took note.

Upon Captain Barnaby's return to England he learned that "old Booty" had died just about the time of the strange occurrence at Stromboli. He then made the remark which was the subject of the action, that he "had seen old Booty running into the flames of hell pursued by the devil." Mrs. Booty claimed £1,000 as damages, and the case came on in the king's bench before the chief justice, Sir Robert Wright. For the defense, in addition to the testimony of Captain Barnaby and his friends, old Booty's clothes were brought into court and identified by several witnesses as being similar to those worn by the foremost man who ran into the crater—even to the peculiar buttons on the coat. The judge was so impressed by this evidence that he said: "Lord have mercy upon me and grant that I may never see what you have seen. One, two or three may be mistaken, but not thirty." And so Booty's widow lost the day, and the case remains, perhaps, as the only judicially accepted ghost story on record.—London Chronicle.

HE OBEYED ORDERS.

A Young Recruit's Rapid Rise to Title and Power.

One day a young recruit was standing guard before the door of the entrance to Peter the Great's private chambers in the palace of St. Petersburg. He had received orders to admit no one.

As he was passing slowly up and down before the door Prince Menschikoff, the favorite minister of the czar, approached and attempted to enter. He was stopped by the recruit.

The prince, who had the fullest liberty of calling upon his master at any time, sought to push the guard and pass him. Yet the young man would not move, but ordered his highness to stand back.

"You idiot!" shouted the prince. "Don't you know me? You'll be punished for this!"

The recruit smiled and said:

"Very well, your highness, but my orders are peremptory to let nobody pass."

The prince, exasperated at the fellow's impudence, struck him a blow in the face with his riding whip.

"Strike away, your highness," said the soldier, "but I cannot let you go in."

Peter, in the room, hearing the noise outside, opened the door and inquired what it meant, and the prince told him.

The czar appeared amused, but said nothing at the time.

In the evening, however, he sent for the prince and the soldier. As they both appeared Peter gave his own cane to the soldier, saying:

"That man struck you in the morning. Now you must return the blow to that fellow with my stick."

The prince was amazed. "Your majesty," he said, "this common soldier is to strike me?"

"I make him a captain," said Peter.

"But I'm an officer of your majesty's household," objected the prince.

"I make him a colonel of my life guards and an officer of the household," said Peter again.

"My rank, your majesty knows, is that of general," again protested Menschikoff.

"Then I make him a general, so that the beating you get may come from a man of your rank."

The prince got a sound thrashing in the presence of the czar, and the recruit, who was next day commissioned a general with a title, was the founder of a powerful family whose descendants are still high in the imperial service of Russia.

SIMPSON'S PLUCK.

An Inventor's Weary but Successful Fight Against Great Odds.

Charles Goodyear is not the only inventor who might turn his face to the wall to die saying of the tardy recognition of his efforts, "I die happy—others can get rich."

Goodyear's efforts to introduce the use of vulcanized rubber were no more tragic than the stories of a dozen other inventors. There was a man named Simpson in Missouri who discovered that gutta percha was a nonconductor of electricity. He borrowed money of one Amos Kendall to make his application for a patent. It was rejected over and over, rich companies fighting his claim. But he had "sand;" he never weakened. It was just after the civil war that he made his last fight. He had no money—not a dollar—but he started from St. Louis for Washington afoot.

He would not beg, but made his way half across the continent by sawing wood, hoeing corn or doing any work that came to hand. In one place he robbed a scarecrow of a pair of pants and a hat, leaving his own more ragged garments in their place. In Pittsburg he had to work as a truck driver till he could earn enough to repair his shoes and take him on his way. And all the time he believed stubbornly in himself and in his invention. His own words were:

"When I came over the tops of the Alleghenies I saw the sun rising, and I knelt down and thanked God for my life and asked him to let me get my patent. He promised me on the spot, and I never had a moment's doubt after that."

Arriving in Washington, he got a living as a day laborer on the stone foundation of the patent office, and from that vantage ground he fought his claim through the office and the courts and got his patent. The Western Union Telegraph company gave him $100,000 down for the privilege of using it.—Exchange.

Odd Cures For Rheumatism.

Cures for rheumatism are almost as old as the complaint itself. In the midland counties of England it was formerly considered that the right forefoot of a hare, worn constantly in the pocket, was an amulet against rheumatism, while the Dutch peasantry still cherish a belief in the preservative virtues of a borrowed or stolen potato. Stranger than these, however, was the remedy discovered by a servant girl at the village of Stanton, in the Cotswolds, who contrived to be confirmed three times, in the belief that confirmation was an unfailing cure for rheumatism.

Covell's Joke

By WILLIAM MORRIS, JR.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

All Balmoral, with the exception of Dan Betterley and his sister, thought Colonel Covell's joke a good one. The Betterleys were excepted because the joke was on Dan and the talk across the bar of the Brindle Pup saloon was hushed on those rare occasions when Betterley favored the place with his company. At other times men slapped each other on the back and roared as Covell detailed the progress of events.

The joke had sprung from a careless remark made by Rob Henders when Julie Betterley had refused to marry Howard Wetton on the ground that she did not want to leave Ben alone to keep house in bachelor discomfort.

"Some one would do Wetton a personal favor by marrying off Ben," suggested Henders, and the rest of the crowd shouted with delight at the idea of the silent Benjamin marrying.

"But he wouldn't know how to ask a girl," suggested Colonel Covell. "Some one would have to pop the question for him. By John Rogers," he added, "I think I'll do it for him! I've a maiden aunt back east who's been crazy to get married for more years than I've lived. Her name's Adora Dedrick, and she must be about sixty now.

"She's got a little money, and she may think that he's marrying her for that, but she'll take him. We'll carry along the game until we've proposed for him, and then we'll let Ben get the answer or else we'll bring the old lady on and let him fight it out with her."

"That would be great," declared Henders approvingly. "Let her walk right up to him and put her arms around his neck and say 'Darling!' I'll bet that will scare him into talking."

"I'll be one to help pay the old lady's traveling expenses on this here excursion," broke in Denver Bill, who dealt bank. "What will it cost?"

"Say $400," suggested Covell as he took off his hat and threw in $20. In a few minutes more than the needed sum had been realized, and, calling for pens and paper, Covell wrote the first letter, while the rest of the crowd looked on.

Betterley was not disliked in Balmoral, but his taciturn ways and his refusal to make one of the crowd that nightly thronged the Brindle Pup marked him a man apart from the rest. Hence the crowd was willing to pay for the pleasure of seeing his amazement when his undesirable bride elect should appear.

Unmindful of all postal regulations, the postmaster agreed to let Covell have the letters addressed to Dan Betterley should any come from the little New England town where Miss Adora Dedrick lived. Presently it came, a heavy letter in which Miss Dedrick expressed a willingness to correspond with a man so well recommended by Cousin Covell.

"I guess she's forgotten you, Col," suggested Henders when this line was reached, but Covell merely grinned appreciatively and continued to read.

There was little to laugh at in the letter. Indeed, more than one in the crowd wished there was some one back east who would write letters like that to him, but Covell's vivid description of Miss Dedrick's overripe charms and the thought of what Dan would say when she arrived kept the joke alive during the correspondence that followed. Finally when Miss Dedrick wrote that she was sending her picture and the accompanying photograph proved to be that of a comely girl scarcely out of her teens Covell rolled on the floor in his delight.

"Cousin Adora was that old before they knew how to take pictures," he insisted. "She must have begged this of a photographer. I think that it's time to spring the joke now. We'll send her the money to come on with and ask her to start at once. Dan will see this picture, and when Cousin Adora comes I reckon he'll be some surprised."

Covell laboriously indited a lengthy letter, in which he declared Dan's inability to wait longer for his bride and begging her to come west at once.

A few days later a telegram telephoned from the railroad town to camp announced her start, and when they had learned the sense of the message the plotters allowed it to be delivered, while at the same time Miss Adora's last letter and her picture, inclosed in the original letter, were placed back in the postoffice and delivered to Dan that evening.

The Brindle Pup kept open until 4 o'clock in the morning that the earliest news might be learned, but Dan gave no sign that he was disturbed. A scout reported that his shack was in darkness.

"I don't think I'd lose sleep myself," admitted Henders with regret. "I suppose it took him rather sudden that some one's done his courting for him, but he's willing to make good for his unknown friend with the original of that photograph."

"Wait until he sees what he draws," reminded Covell. "He'll go some shy of sleep when Cousin Adora gets after him with all those letters. She'll never believe that he didn't write them."

The thought cheered the disappointed ones, and even when Dan went quietly to his claim on the morrow and did not even ask the postmaster about the letter they chuckled as they thought of the awakening that was in store for him.

Every man in the camp was on hand when the stage came over from Buxton three days later.

Far down the trail the driver waved his hat three times as a signal that the bride had arrived, and they were all lined up about the front of the hotel where they could watch Ben and his sister without being so near that he might suspect something.

There was a tense moment when the veiled figure descended from the interior of the stage, but a murmur of disappointment followed when it was seen that a heavy automobile veil was impenetrable.

Dan came forward, and the arrival turned to him. He led her up to his sister, and the three climbed into the Betterley buckboard and were off to Dan's shack before the camp fairly realized that it was being robbed of its fun.

"It's going to be curious when she takes off that there veil," said Henders, with a sigh, "but it's darned mean that we can't declare in on the deal. I sort of feel that I've been cheated."

"Same here," chimed another voice, and, though Covell urged that there still would be plenty of fun, he was decidedly unpopular for the moment.

In an effort to change the humor of the crowd he invited them over to the Brindle Pup, and they were still having drinks at his expense when Dan Betterley strode in and drew Covell to one side.

"Look here," he said quietly, but with a ring of determination in his voice, "Dora has been asking for 'Cousin Covell,' and I suppose that means you. If it does, you are at the bottom of this trick. I want to know what it all means."

"It was a sort of joke," explained Covell, who did not appear to be greatly enjoying the "joke." "Some of the boys thought that you ought to be married, so's Julie could marry Howard Wetton, and I remembered that I had a Cousin Adora back east who's been wanting to be married for the last fifty years, so I thought I'd make the whole lot of you happy and"—

"And you did the writing," concluded Dan. "From what Dora says I gather that there were a number of letters I never saw. I want them."

From the saloon safe Covell extracted the package of letters and silently turned them over to Betterley.

"I suppose you know what the punishment is for illegal use of the mails?" he asked, raising his voice. "The first hint from any one that reaches my wife's ears to the effect that she was the victim of a rotten practical joke will bring a postal inspector here who will see that you get what's coming to you!"

"Your wife!" gasped Covell. "You don't mean to say that you're going to marry that mummy!"

"Doesn't the fact that you are still alive argue that?" asked Betterley. "The joke appears to be on you, Covell. I fell in love with her photograph just as Dora did with mine, and I was well content to make the match you so amiably planned."

"She looks like that photograph?" asked Covell gaspingly.

"It doesn't half do her justice," declared Betterley fondly. "The Adora Dedrick that you have been corresponding with became Mrs. Henry Sprague some ten years ago. This Adora is her niece, her brother's child, named after her. She was the only Miss Adora Dedrick, and she received the letters. She wants to see her cousin, and if you dare hint anything when you come up I'll"—

"You won't have to," said Covell humbly. "I've acted like a hound puppy, Dan. You needn't be afraid. I'm only too glad the joke's been switched."

"Same here," said Betterley, more contentedly. "You fellows come up tonight. There's going to be a double wedding, for now Julia can marry Wetton. You're a pretty good joker, colonel!"

"I ain't no joker," declared Covell, with more emphasis than grammar. "I'm one of them pretty pink Cupids that they have on valentines—and I'm rather good at the job too."

The Poverty Ridden.

Was there ever a more heartbreaking problem than that of being poor and yet looking prosperous? Far better were a diet of potatoes and cabbage soup and a pair of leather breeches of the vintage of 1858. And that is one great reason why the country—be it in Galway or Cattaraugus or Posey county—is a better place to be poor in than the city. A man is a man there, even if blue drilling jumpers are his best.

Barring a condition of actual, griping want—from which may God save all who were made in his image—there are no people in the world so fortunate as those who have made up their mind to be poor and happy together. Nor is there anywhere a man so cursed as he who can no longer live in the simple society in which he was born and yet yearns for it.—New York Mail.

The Beginning and the End.

The beginning is three or four weeks previous to election. Two aldermen get to talking politics over their beer, and one finally says:

"Well, Jim, I think I know the sentiment of the people, and I'm willing to bet my candidate will be elected."

"He doesn't stand an earthly show."

"Money talks."

"How much will you put up?"

"Five dollars."

"Done."

And two or three days after the election the daily paper informs its readers:

"Among those who had a clear insight into the temper of the electors throughout the country is Alderman Thomas, who backed his acumen with his money and is a winner to the extent of $30,000."—Baltimore American.

SPRING

Hail, lovely spring, young summer's herald gay,
At thine approach all life their homage pay;
Sweet is thy call that winter's strongholds shake,
And bid the world more pleasing garments take;
'Tis winter's pride to clothe the vile earth in garments just,
But spring, a fairer beauty, of clay and dust!

Emblem of youth! strong manhood's summer dawn,
When life runs fast, its fleeting breath half drawn;
Dear are those days, so quick to pass away,
Not all the length of manhood can repay;
And memory fondly points to boyhood days as best,
When weary age awaits the long-expected guest!

No life but shares the God of nature's power,
And wonders rise to praise Him every hour;
Shall man, who knows unbounded cause for praise,
No grateful voice to his Creator raise;
Ignoble creature, by his God, through nature's wonders sought,
Enjoying all His bounteous gifts, but answering not!

WORK STARTED ON ELEVATOR

Ground Broken for Big C. P. R. Elevator at Orillia

Work was commenced Monday in connection with the construction of the new C.P.R. elevator at Maple Island by the John S. Metcalfe Co. and a large number of men are now at work preparing the ground for the building, which will be constructed entirely of cement and tyle along much the same lines as the elevator built here by the same company last year. The company have direct telephone communication with Midland, where doubtless a great deal of their business will be done. The C.P.R. will have their rails up to the elevator site within the next few weeks, and will probably locate a station at the road crossing this side of Victoria Harbor, or opposite Maple Island.—Orillia News.

FASCINATING CHILDRENS' PLAY —"WHEN THE TOYS AWAKE"

Mr. Ford and Miss Adams Who Will Produce Brilliant Fairy Spectacle Arrived in City Last Night—Will be Given Under Auspices Children's Aid Society.

There is something about a fairy play that appeals to both children and the grown ups. The grotesque and amusing capers of these little dwellers of the Land of Fancy are delightfully entertaining when presented with a background of color and melody, produced by beautiful stage pictures, captivating dances and evolutions and tuneful clinging music. The fairy play never grows old, and as the greatest license may be employed in the creation of characters and enchanting surroundings and effects the scope of the originator is a particularly wide one, and his imagination is not hampered by conventional restrictions.

"When the Toy's Awake," which will be given here shortly under the auspices of the Children's Aid Society is one of these fairyesques referred to, and if enthusiastic press notices and congratulatory private letters count for anything it is an offering of exceptional worth and interest. Mr. J. H. Ford and his niece, Miss Bertha Adelle Adams, who will have charge of the local preparation and direction of the presentation of the play at the Grand Opera House, arrived in the city last night and were seen by the Review at their hotel. They state that it will require from 200 to 300 to present "When the Toys Awake," and they will secure the talent and commence rehearsals as soon as possible. It is likely that the opening rehearsal will be held on Monday, and the play will be given in about three weeks' time from the first reading. Mr. Ford and Miss Adams have produced the play with magnificent success all over the continent, and under the auspices of hospitals, schools and philanthropic institutions. Their efforts have won them most flattering newspaper reviews, and the general opinion of the writers is that the attraction is the best one of its kind before the public at the present time. This is rather a broad statement, in view of the many offerings of its kind, but is made unqualifiedly, and comes from authoritative sources.

Both of the directors are well qualified in the matter of special educational equipment, being graduates of the National School of Elocution and Oratory, Philadelphia, and judging from their success, have a special adaptability for the work of training the children and helping and interesting the older members of the amateur companies presenting their fascinating children's play, in which the quaint and fanciful characters provide so much merriment and charming entertainment.

SHOULD THIS TRAVELLER HAVE HAD TWO LICENSES

What about the provincial license of $300 a traveller for a liquor house is supposed to have if the house he represents is outside the province? This is the interesting point brought up in a local retail liquor store yesterday in the presence of a traveller from Montreal, his customer and the license inspector.

The commercial man had a Dominion license, which he claimed gave him the selling privileges he required, but the law requires travellers selling in the province to have a provincial license. The argument is that it would not be fair to make him pay the expense in connection with both.

Inspector Stewart is investigating the point at issue.

45th REGIMENT WILL DRILL AT HEADQUARTERS

Lindsay, May 13.—The 45th Regiment will drill at headquarters in Lindsay this summer, instead of going to Kingston as has been the custom in previous years.

This is the gist of the official notice that Col. R. Sylvester received yesterday from Commanding Officer Goddon, of Kingston, and it will no doubt come as a surprise to the members of the regiment, who always look forward to their annual trip to Kingston.

The date has not been definitely settled as yet, but it is thought that it will be on or about June 15th. The reason for the regiment drilling at headquarters is due to the fact that the Government has cut down the militia estimates by thousands of dollars, and by every regiment drilling at headquarters the Government saves the enormous expense of transportation. The same implies to every regiment in Canada.

When asked where the regiment would drill a well-known military man stated this morning that he thought it would be in the agricultural ground providing they could be secured. Another well known military man will try and induce the regiment to go to Sturgeon Point and drill on the golf links.

It is twenty-seven years ago since the 45th regiment drilled at headquarters, then under Col. Cubitt. They drilled at the head of William street, along the river bank. The regiment at present consists of about 350 men, composed of eight companies.

INTERESTING INFORMATION ABOUT THE LOCAL Y.M.C.A.

The annual report of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. for the year book of the association has just been compiled and shows the following interesting statistics—

Number of members, 351.

During the year 56 social gatherings have been held, with a total attendance of 1,115, besides which there have been nine paid entertainments.

The total value of the property, including furnishings, is $44,200.

310 individuals used the physical department privileges. 200 were enrolled in gymnasium classes, of which there were 306 sessions, with an attendance of 4313.

There were 16 organized athletic teams with 180 members.

The association contributed two leaders towards the church club gymnasium work, in which 30 members took part.

Eighteen men and boys attended the summer camp which was carried on for 26 days, and in this department the physical director conducted Bible class with an enrollment of eight men.

In the educational department there are 65 periodicals in the men's reading rooms, and 11 in the boys', at a cost of nearly $100.

The boys have held two practical talks, and have organized a postage stamp club.

There are six men enrolled in junior matriculation subjects, in which instructions are given three nights a week.

In the religious work department there are 44 men in four Bible classes and 78 boys in four classes. These classes have had 114 sessions, with a total attendance of 734.

There have been three meetings for men only, with 180 in attendance, and 10 meetings for boys, with an attendance of 172.

Two theatre meetings were held with an attendance of 1150, and four shop meetings with an attendance of 125.

The association observed the weeks of prayer for young men in November and the members contributed $100 towards the work in India.

A large number of men and boys have, as a direct result of the association's efforts, decided to live a Christian life, and the majority of these are known to have united with some local church.

A number of boys were swimming in the Otonabee river below Riverside Park yesterday afternoon. Although the water must have been rather cold they seemed to enjoy the plunge, but did not stay in very long.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Japan and Korea, the land, people, present conditions and the outlook for the progress of Christianity, will be discussed this evening at the Bible Circle. Tomorrow afternoon the juniors go to the woods for flowers.

A meeting of the Board is called for Monday afternoon at 3.30. A full attendance of members is desired.

A meeting of importance and interest to all association members and others, who though not members are in sympathy with the work, is called for Tuesday evening next. We would urge the girls of the city to make a special effort to be present at the meeting.

BOAT FOR STONY LAKE
On Saturday, May 15th, Str. Stoney Lake will leave Lakefield on the arrival of morning train, returning to connect with 4.40 train for Peterborough.

A PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN FOR OTTAWA CITY

Ottawa, May 13—Petitions for signatures to a largely signed memorial that is to be presented to the mayor asking him to call a public meeting here are being circulated by members of the publicity committee of the Board of Trade. A deputation will probably wait on his worship tomorrow asking him to call a public meeting at the city hall. The committee desires to inaugurate a big publicity campaign and to advertise the city thoroughly and the intention is to discuss this at the meeting.

It is understood steps will also be taken to raise a big fund to meet expenses of a thorough and regular system of advertising Ottawa.

A sterling silver tea service was presented Lt.-Col. Logie of Hamilton by the officers of the 91st regiment.

BARMEN OBJECT TO LICENSE

Will Probably Endeavor to Have the Clause Repealed

A local bartender informed the Review this morning that in all probability the "men behind" would wage war against the regulation calling for them to take out a license. He stated that none of the 400 bartenders in Toronto had taken out their licenses for this year yet, and that it was probable that they would try to have the clause killed that called for them to do so.

"I don't see how it is that a man can be forced to pay a license to work."

The city of Montreal has secured a temporary loan of half a million.

WERE SETTLED OUT OF COURT

Many Dog Owners Who Neglected to Secure a Tag Paid the Costs Rather Than Appear in Court

Many dog owners who had neglected to secure a license for their animals and were summoned to appear at the police court this morning, rather than do so paid the costs and settled the case out of court. Only two citizens were before His Worship at this morning's session and in both cases were leniently dealt with.

MANY WEDDINGS FOR MONTH OF JUNE

Many Young People Will be Wedded in the Month of Roses and Sunshine

According to the little bird that tells tales a large number of young people of this city during the month of June will embark upon the matrimonial ship and endeavor to sail the rough and troublesome but sometimes calm waters in the voyage through life or in other words, get married. Peterborough has always done its share towards furnishing part of the joy and trouble in this world and next month will make a further addition. There are still eighteen more days for some of the sterner sex who have the notion to pop the question on in the case of the gentler sex to see that it is popped, but while this time is sufficent for some people it will take eighteen years for others to get up the necessary nerve to make the first move in the greatest game that was ever known to have been played.

The Mercury is the New Sheet and Will Endeavor to Give Out the News on a 10x12

Madoc now has two papers, the latest venture being "The Mercury," published by Mr. B. J. McKerracher, the late manager of the Madoc Review. The new sheet is small in size 8 pages 10x12 but the editor remarks that he intends furnishing brains instead of pulp.

THEY DON'T LIKE THEIR NEW HATS

Firemen at Hamilton Sending up a Howl

Hamilton, May 15—This morning a howl went up around the fire station from every fireman on the job. The reason for it was the handing out of the new headgear. Two years ago the men had brown hats, and last year they were worse than that. This year they look like a tin bucket with an eavetrough around it. Immediately after the hats were given out an order was issued from headquarters that they should not be changed from their present shapes. By turning down the brim in front the sky pieces might be made to almost resemble a hat, the firemen say, but that is prohibited by the order which contained a special clause to the effect that the hats should not be turned down in front or behind. The firemen have jollied their wives and sweethearts as all other mortal men have this spring about the new styles of millinery but in the words of one of them "I aint got nothing on my wife now. The alleys for mine."

ANOTHER LINK IN THE CHAIN

Mr. Geo. Spotton is adding another link to the chain of business colleges which already covers a large area of Eastern and Western Ontario. About June 1st Mr. Spotton will invade the Niagara peninsula and establish a college at Welland. This is a good centre and the venture should be a most successful one.—Wingham Times.

The Power committee will meet at five o'clock this afternoon.

WILL SPEAK ON A SUBJECT OF MUCH INTEREST

Mr. W. J. Maplesden to Give Address on the "Second Advent, is it Imminent?"

Mr. W. J. Maplesden, of Buffalo, who is holding meetings every night this week in Gospel Hall, will close the week in the hall to-night with an address on "The Second Advent; is it Imminent, or are we to Look for the Millenium?" This subject has been engaging the attention of the whole of Christendom very much during the past year. Any who are at all interested should hear Mr. Maplesden to-night.

On Saturday night at eight o'clock (weather permitting) an open-air meeting will be held on the corner of George and Brock streets, at which Mr. Maplesden will speak on "Where Socialism Fails."

On Sunday afternoon he will speak in the hall on the "Heavenly Marathon," and at seven in the evening the subject will be "The Man Who Tried to Feed his Soul on Cereals."

PILL POUNDERS WERE "AT HOME"

In the Foresters' Hall Simcoe St. Last Evening — Many Young People Were Present

The Pill Pounders held their annual "At Home" last evening in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, and it was as usual, a very successful and enjoyable affair. About one hundred young people were present and thoroughly enjoyed the dancing, the music for which was furnished by Mr. Herb Nichol of the Crystal.

Supper was served about 12 o'clock and credit is due those who were instrumental in making the evening pass so pleasant and enjoyable for all.

St. John's Mission Band will hold their annual entertainment on Friday, May 14th, in the school room of the church. The children are preparing an interesting programme which will include a pretty cantata, "Flora's Birthday." The admission fee will be 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children.

District Meeting

The annual district meeting of the Peterborough district will be held at the Methodist church, Millbrook, on Thursday and Friday, the 20th and 21st inst. On Thursday evening a public meeting will be held in the interests of Sunday school work, to be addressed by the Rev. G. W. Henderson, of Peterborough, and others.

Hen in Buggy

A good story is told of a couple of young ladies from Westwood who were coming to Norwood one day last week to do some shopping. After they had driven some distance one of them thought she felt something picking at her feet. Lifting the robe she was surprised to find under the seat of the buggy, a hen and a newly laid egg.—Norwood Register.

THE LINDSAY ORANGEMEN TO VISIT PORT HOPE

The Orangemen of the Lindsay district will go to Port Hope to celebrate the glorious Twelfth of July this year. This was decided upon some time ago and arrangements have been made for the excursions which will carry the Lindsay District Orangemen to that town. Three excursions will be run from Coboconk, Haliburton and from Lindsay and it is expected that a large number will be in Port Hope from Victoria county that day. Plans are being made early so that everything will be pre-arranged and no confusion or misapprehension will result.—Lindsay Warder.

OBITUARY

ROBERT S. SHANNON.

Robt. S. Shannon, son of the late Richard Shannon, of Douro, died in Campbellford on Thursday, May 13, of pneumonia. He leaves a wife and one child. The late Mr. Shannon conducted a grocery business in Campbellford for twenty-three years, and was a highly esteemed and successful merchant.

RICHARD STAPLES.

Another old and highly respected resident of Cavan passed away this week, in the person of Richard Staples, of the Bethany road. Deceased was born in the township and lived there all his life, except for a few years in Millbrook some twenty years ago. No more honorable or noble citizen ever lived in this community. He was twice married, his first wife being a Miss Dawson, sister of F. W. and John Dawson, to whom one daughter, Mrs. Ralph Richardson, was born. His second wife, still living, was a Miss Staples, and one son, Sandford, at home, and three daughters, one married in Winnipeg, one in Chicago and one in Toronto, all of whom need not sorrow without hope, for Mr. Staples served his day and generation well and has entered into his reward. He was a leading member all his life of Cavanville Methodist church. The funeral took place on Tuesday and was very largely attended.—Millbrook Reporter.

SPORTING NEWS

JACK SEYMOUR WON THE ROLLER SKATING MARATHON

Jack Seymour, first.
Percy Parrington, 3-4 laps behind.
M. Kenneally, 3 laps behind.
B. Clute, 4 laps behind.

That's how they finished in the roller skating Marathon at the Auditorium roller rink last night, and the distance was done in one hour and 52 minutes. There were seven skaters in the race, but the pace was too hot for three of them and only four went the long route. The race was an interesting one and the crowd was delighted with the sport. The first mile was made in four minutes, and the ten miles were negotiated in 42 minutes.

The race was started by Mayor Rush at 12 minutes after nine, and the skaters set a hot clip from the signal. The twenty mile mark was hit in one hour and 24 minutes.

JIM HARRISON SHOWS GREAT FORM AND NOW IS FOURTH

Harrison, the clever Peterborough walker, is to be congratulated on jumping up from eighth place to fourth on the second night of the Milwaukee race. The Milwaukee (Wisconsin says;—

The killing pace set by the walkers in the seven night race for the world's championship Monday night at Schlitz Park, was resumed last night and at the finish of the three hours W. A. Hoagland, the recognized champion of hikers, was still in the lead with three laps to his credit over his nearest rival, George Brown, the Auburn, N.Y., youthful racer. Hoagland and Brown both set a fast clip from the start, and practically kept this up for the entire evening, but Hoagland by numerous sprints managed to gain two laps over Brown, and his one lap of Monday puts him three full laps ahead of Brown.

Al Corey, the French Walker, who kept right up with the fast pace set by the leaders on the first night, did not show up as well last night, but he walked a creditable race nevertheless with his more experienced competitors in walking. This is Corey's first attempt at walking, being a distance runner. Corey covered 39 miles and 15 laps for the two days of walking, and is third in the standing.

Jim Harrison, the old time star, walked wonderfully last night, the veteran covering 38 miles and 11 laps for the two days. West and Blake, the colored boy, and Van Tassel, the Wilwaukee youth, also walked well.

There was an unusually large crowd on hand, and they cheered the walkers vociferously at every sprint. The walking last night of Van Tassel, especially, made a hit with the crowd, the Milwaukeean at numerous times walking past the leaders at a furious pace.

To-night will be ladies' night, and all ladies accompanied by an escort will be admitted free. Dunker's band will again play tonight.

Harry Clark and Barry McCormick, who were responsible for the the victory of the Brewers yesterday, were enthusiastic admirers of the walking match at Schlitz Park last night. Jack Dougherty, fighter, bag puncher, actor, trainer, etc., was also there, and let out yelps which aroused the walkers.

The crowd let out a terrific howl when Hoagland, the champion, ran away from the field and practically gained two laps on Brown, who held him down to a single lap during the first night's walking.

Oddy, an old-time walker, who was entered in the race and who covered 18 laps and 5 miles Monday night, did not walk last night on account of a bad shoulder. Oddy fell down Monday night and hurt this member to such an extent that walking was out of the question last night.

Two baseball meetings are on the bill for tonight at the Y.M.C.A. The intermediate league teams will get together and look over the proposed schedule, and receive the certificates on which the players will sign. This is where an important part of the league is decided as to whether one team will have all or none. Ball players will turn out with any team for the purpose of practicing, but when it comes to jotting down a name on a certificate it is a different thing. About 100 players will be signed up by the different managers, but there are also many good ball tossers who will be unable to sign and it is not altogether fair to them to be barred from participating in this summer sport. One or two of these players would fill in nicely on each one of the teams and it stands to reason that if the games are to be played on Riverside, it is going to cost money to the clubs and the only way to get the fans interested and the only way to get the fans out is to put up a good article of ball. Although the intermediate league has dished up a fair quality of baseball in the past, it has not been up to what it should be and if an admittance fee is to be charged this season, the quality wants to be of a much higher order. Efficient officers are in control of this organization this year and why not go a step farther and allow some more players to come in on the certificates. This would be a means of strengthening each team, thereby making the game faster, which would enlarge the gate receipts and add in a very material manner in making the league a huge success.

The Junior Church League will decide to night as to whether the age limit of 17 will be raised or not. Some teams say they could put a good team in the league if the age limit was raised to 18, but would be unable to do so according to the present rule.

This is an important question which will come before the representatives and should receive due consideration. Many other small matters will also be discussed and all representatives are asked to be on hand in good time.

BALL TOSSER'S CORNER

"BUTTERMILK BEND" LATEST

Pitcher Harry Bush of Seattle is now working on a new curve ball that will make the batsmen curl up like a frankfurter on a hot griddle. Spitballs and drops are so common that they do not impress the batsmen, so Harry has sought out something new. He calls it the buttermilk bend. To throw this curve it is necessary to drink buttermilk until it fairly oozes out of the pores. Then the ball is grasped firmly between the thumb and middle finger of the right hand, the arm describes a graceful arc over the head and around toward third base; the left foot is raised in the air until it looks if the pitcher was trying to kick the batsman in the face and the deceptive slant is sent upon its way. The ball whastes towards the plate, hesitates and then drops. If the control is good the buttermilk bend is very effective but if the supply of buttermilk is short the bend may be hit. Harry is now looking for a cow that gives buttermilk and if he finds one he will lead the league in games won this year.

Buttons Briggs, the old Toronto, Brooklyn and Cub twirler has hooked on with Charlie Dooley's Utica Club, in the New York State League.

One Providence scribe has decided the Eastern League race but the teams will go through the playing season for the good of the game. Providence wins the pennant, Montreal finishes second and Rochester third, according to his dope.

At last there has been discovered a battery in the minor league whose names make a more peculiar combination than did the cognomens of Bert Blue and Jerry Upp, of Columbus two seasons ago. The team of the Blue-Upp which seldom did so by the way, has to take a back seat in the comedy league to the Backoff and Dye battery which Dubuque possesses.

If one man ever gathered together all the hard luck that exists in a country, handed it together and put his own label on it that one man might be Walter Johnson of Washington, DC, more than anyone else. Johnson is one of the best pitchers in the American league. He is with a club that has never played really good ball consistently. When Johnson goes in to pitch it is practically one man pitted against nine and one man against nine is a handicap that no man can beat.

These few sorrowful words were written by a New York fan after he had lost 13 coppers on a ball game.

Toronto's three pitchers were smashed all over the lot yesterday, and Jersey City won 12—1. Moehler, for the Skeeters, in five times at bat made three home runs, a double and a single.

Rochester again beat Newark yesterday 4—1. Newark made the first run that has been made off Holmes this season.

Baltimore secured a firmer hold on last place by allowing Buffalo to beat them yesterday 4—1.

Cy. Young was beaten by his former team mates yesterday. Cleveland did not give the old man very good support and Boston got 17 hits off him. The score was 6—4.

Moehler's three home runs, a double and a single, or a total of fifteen bases for five times up in one game constitutes a record for these parts and for that matter, for the Eastern League, and he was only twice beaten elsewhere in league swatting. In the National four home runs and a single were pulled off for a total of seventeen bases on two occasions, and once in a scratch game a clouter made five home runs for a total of 20 bases.

"O—U. MIKE"

O Mike we sadly miss you.
The fans are feeling sad.
O Mike, say that you'll join us
And make us all feel glad.

Old Brooklyn's team has topped us,
Now isn't that a shame,
It never would have happened,
If you were in the game.

Our team is quite a good one,
They're playing classy ball;
The only thing we need now
Some batting, that is all.

Now, Mike don't disappoint us,
Don't wait till it's too late.
Come back and be the hero
You were in nineteen eight;

I hope that you will answer;
O Mike, it's up to you;
To help us in our struggle.
And come back PDQ.

WHEN BASE RUNNERS ARE OUT.

Rule 56, sec 9—If at anytime while the ball is in play he be touched by the ball in the hands of a fielder, unless some part of his person be touching the base he is entitled to occupy. Provided, however, that the ball be held by the fielder after touching him, unless the baserunner deliberately knocks it out of his hand.—Sec. 10 if when a fair or foul hit ball, other than a foul tip as defined in in rule 46, be regularly caught by a fielder, such ball be legally held, by a fielder on the base occupied by the baserunner when such ball was batted, or the baserunner be touched with the ball in the hands of a fielder before he retouch such base after such fair or foul hit ball was so caught. Provided that the baserunner shall not be out in such case if after the ball was legally caught, as above, it be delivered to the bat by the pitcher before the fielder hold it on such base, or touch the base runner out with it; but if the baserunner in attempting to reach a base, detach it from its fastenings before being touched or forced out, he shall be declared safe.

Corney Burns has signed with the Examiner baseball team and will endeavor to pound some knowledge of the game into the heads of the players.

RUNNING

APPLEBY AND AKOOSE

Winnipeg, May 13— Paul Akotse, the Grenfell Indian and Fred Appleby the English crack will meet at the arena rink over a specially prepared course. They will not go the Marathon distance but will vie with each other in a fifteen mile event a distance that will take better with the public in a two-man race than the gruelling 26 miles and 385 yards.

On the surface the race promises to be a hummer. Appleby has established a world wide reputation while his dusky skinned opponent only leaped into prominence in the last year. Akotse has all the ear marks of developing into a star, not because he is an Indian but by the fact that he has conclusively proved ability in the big events in which he has participated. He ran a remarkable race in mud, slush and snow last Thanksgiving in the YMCA road race. While this event was only five miles the Grenfell Indian finished fresh and apparently is good for a much longer route.

The purse being hung up for the Akotse-Appleby race is a good one, 75 per cent of the $1500 going to the winner and the remaining 25 per cent to the loser.

A large number of the Y.M.C.A. Harriers were out last night. A run was made to the two mile post on the Lakefield road and good time was made.

Several gentlemen in the city who own automobiles have notified the energetic boys' secretary of the Y.M.C.A. that they will convey the runners to Lakefield from here, when the relay race is held from that place on Saturday May 29th.

Toronto Telegram: Pat McDonogh has bobbed up again. He's back in his old haunts around Beaverton signing the members of that old Beaverton team that got bumped by the C.L.A. to take to Chicago. Pat is said to have secured about eight of his old team mates and is said to be even now sitting up nights trying to figure whether it would be better to pay duty on the bunch or ship them over the line in bond.

CHICAGO AND WASHINGTON PUT UP 17 INNINGS

Game Was a Tie 1-1 — Washington Used 15 Men During the Contest

Chicago, May 13.—Chicago and Washington battled for 17 innings today, and the game was called on account of darkness with the score 1 to 1. Manager Cantillon's tactics in the seventeenth inning probably saved his team from defeat. The locals had men on second and third with one out. Manager Sullivan sent in Welday, a left handed batter. When Cantillon saw his move he sent Hughes, who was then pitching, to right field, and sent in Gray, a left hander. Sullivan countered by taking out Welday after Gray had pitched one ball to him. Then Cantillon tried to withdraw Gray and send Hughes back against Owens, a right-handed batter. According to the new rule it was up to Gray to finish pitching to the man who was then batting or give a pass. After some heated argument the umpires forced Gray to continue pitching to Owens. He did and passed him. Tannehill was the next man up and Hughes returned to the box, while Ganley went to right field. Tannehill hit to Hughes and Altizer was forced at the plate. White ended the chances with a grounder to Delehanty. White allowed only one hit in the last ten innings.

The score—

A DE BIG SALES AT TORONTO MARKETS

Local Cattle Dealer Disposed of a Large Number of Live Stock

Mr. H. P. Kennedy, who has been up to the Toronto markets this week, reports a big business, he having disposed of a large number of live cattle. The Toronto World says;—

The railways reported receipts of 130 car loads of live stock at the city yards for Wednesday and Thursday, consisting of 2062 cattle, 2275 hogs, 84 sheep and lambs, with 568 calves.

The quality of fat cattle was generally good, with a few loads of choice.

Trade, considering the heavy deliveries during the week, as well as on these two days, was good, although a little slow at times. Prices did not change very much from the commencement of the week, some grades may have been 10c per cwt. lower. But, of course, there was a much easier feeling than a week ago.

Should there be heavy receipts this coming week, look out for lower quotations.

H. P. Kennedy sold 10 butchers, 1110 lbs. each, at $5.50; 11 cows, 770lbs. each, at $3.85; 1 butcher, 970 lbs., at $5.50; 18 feeders, 900 lbs. each at $.75; 14 butchers, 920 lbs. each, at $4.90; 13 butchers, 1100 lbs. each, at $5.10; 5 feeders, 970 lbs. each, at $4.90; 4 cows, 910 lbs. each, at $4.25; 2 cows, 780 lbs. each, at $3.20; 1 cow, 1200lbs. at $4; 10 butchers, 1030 lbs. each at $5; 23 feeders 890 lbs each at $4.80; 3 butchers 950 lbs each at $5.20; 1 butcher 780 lbs, at $4.25; 10 butchers 1140 lbs each at $5.70; 1 butcher 1240 lbs at $5.75; 4 butchers, 900 lbs each at $4.80; 21 feeders 1010 lbs each at $5.25; 1 cow, 1270 lbs, at $4; 1 stocker, 770 lbs, at $4.70; 5 butchers 1120 lbs each at $5.25; 15 butchers 1030 lbs each, $5.30; 1 butcher 1220 lbs at $5.30; 1 butcher, 1060 lbs at $5 3-8; 4 butchers, at 976 pounds each at $5.20; 2 stockers, 630 pounds each at $4.50, 1 butcher, 990 lbs. at $5.25; 1 cow, 870 lbs. at $3.65; 4 stockers, 610 lbs. each, at $4.80; 4 stockers, 720 lbs. each, at $4.60; 17 butchers, 1210 lbs. each, at $4.95; 5 butchers, 1040 lbs. each, at $5.50; 5 butchers, 900 lbs., each, at $5.40; 1 butcher, 1090 lbs., at $2.25; 1 butcher, 990 lbs., at $5.65; 4 butchers, 940 lbs. each at $5.40; 2 exporters, 1240 lbs. each, at $5.65; 1 exporter, 1230 lbs at $5.75; 1 butcher, 970 lbs., at $5.50; three butchers, 4300 lbs each, at $5.20; 6 butchers, 1030 lbs each, at $5.25; 1 butcher, 920 lbs., at $5.50; 8 butchers, 1000 lbs. each at $5.20; 5 feeders, 740 lbs. each at $4.65; 5 feeders, 990 lbs. each, at $4.80; 4 feeders, 900 lbs. each, at $4.80; 1 feeder, 780 lbs. at $4.25; 7 feeders, 870 lbs. each, at $4.80; 1 cow, 1060 lbs., at $3 1-8; 1 cow, 840 lbs., at $1.60; 8 cows, 960 lbs. each, at $3.65; 1 cow, 1070 lbs., at $5.20, shipped out 11 loads on order.

A SPEEDY PRACTICE

Hose Drill Being Held by Fire Brigade To-day

The fire brigade is having a hose drill this afternoon at the corner of Simcoe and Stewart streets. The idea of the drill is to make the work of getting hose attachments as quick as possible, and the men jump off the wagon while it is going at full speed and attach the hose to the hydrant. Experience in this work means means quite a saving of time and a saving of time often means a great deal in getting after a fire.

Richard the Brazen

BY

CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY,

Author of "For the Freedom of the Sea," "The Southerners," Etc.,

AND

EDWARD PEPLE,

Author of "A Broken Rosary," "The Prince Chap," Etc.

Copyright, 1906, by Moffat, Yard & Company.

"Not a flaw," answered Richard gravely. "It's simply perfect. Go on."

The lover proceeded earnestly.

"As Imogene's future husband it is my duty to surround the child with every possible safeguard, and for that reason I should like her present fancy for you disillusionized. She refused to let me go with her to pick wild flowers this morning and chose you, merely, I suppose, because you are an earl. That's why I followed you. Now, I'm not asking you to do anything that I would not do for you cheerfully, and so I ask you again if you would mind dropping a rather broad hint to Imogene that a union with you is out of the question. You might explain that you are unworthy of her, or something like that. I don't care how you fix it just so it's fixed. What do you say?"

Richard thought for a little space, especially of his harmless but decidedly imprudent remarks to Miss Imogene of half an hour ago. Then he flung away his cigar and turned to his companion.

"I should like her present fancy for you disillusionized."

"Look here," he said, "I'm going to help you out in this matter, but I'll have to do it in my own way. I have a brilliant idea as a starter. Just listen and don't interrupt me. They're going to have a play next Friday night called 'The Man and the Hoe'—no, I beg pardon—the 'Bird.' I'm the man, and Miss Imogene is the bird. You see, the rough idea is this: I'm engaged to Miss Renwyck, but am in love with Miss Imogene to the point of frenzy—in the play, of course. So far so good. The man is in the room with the bird and declares his passion in language which is simply beautiful, making other demonstrations that are realistic both to the actors and the audience. Of course I'd rather set my heart on doing this role; but, by Jove, I'm going to chuck the thing and let you do it!"

"Me!" cried Mr. Van der Awe, clutching at his benefactor's hand. "Oh, I say"—

"Wait," said Richard. "I haven't finished yet. A young man of your obvious histrionic talent ought fairly to glitter in a part like that, and, besides, it will give you a chance to do the devoted to your ladylove. Just as you are in the middle of it Miss Harriet calls in and denounces you. Oh, it's a bully little play, especially the denunciation! But you don't mind that on account of your great and glorious love for the bird. Miss Harriet's remarks just roll off you like water from a duck's back. Touching little scene! Hanged if I can see how I can give it up, but"— He paused, sighed, then turned impulsively: "Shucks! I don't want to appear mean. The part is yours!"

For half a minute perhaps Mr. Van der Awe gazed in silence at his generous friend, beaming with gratitude.

"Lord Croyland," he murmured brokenly at last, "you're a good fellow! I'll try to do the part justice. I—I don't know how to thank you."

"I'm sure you will. Don't mention it," said Richard, with the wan smile of a complete martyr. "Let's play a game of billiards."

CHAPTER XII.

RICHARD, much to his chagrin and disgust, did not see Miss Harriet until the four ladies and the two gentlemen sat down to luncheon. To one thing he had made up his mind definitely—he would follow Mr. Corrigan's advice and brazen it out, putting his faith in luck, but helping luck along with assurance. From the opposite side of the table the fair Imogene cast languishing glances in his direction, while on his left the ancient Miss Schermerly grew positively sprightly and covered him with a Gatling gun of perplexing questions. She wanted authentic information regarding barons, earls and noble dukes, to all of which Richard gave ready but quaint answers—answers that might have caused the English aristocracy to rise in one vast, furious mass and lynch him without formalities of trial or benefit of clergy.

"How different it is from what we read in novels," said Mrs. Renwyck. "I'm afraid our American authors are ill informed. Really, they ought to travel more."

"They travel enough, but I fancy they do not get into the best society abroad," suggested Miss Schermerly. "I shall prepare a paper upon that very subject for the Woman's Literary league. Would you have any objection, Lord Croyland, if I quoted you as an authority?"

"Not in the least," said Richard gallantly. "In fact, my dear Miss Schermerly, I should be honored—vastly so."

He smiled on himself at the thought of the real Lord Croyland should that gentleman ever chance to read the paper in question, but that was Croyland's affair, not his.

"I will bring my notebook into the library this afternoon," the ancient one stated, and, with a smile to Richard, "Could you help me then, do you think?"

"I should be most pleased," said Richard, with an answering smile, "but I fear I'm engaged to Miss Renwyck this afternoon for quite a long horseback ride. At another time I shall be charmed, I assure you."

Miss Harriet started. She was unaware of any such engagement, but somehow the idea did not displease her. She smiled and offered to release Lord Croyland, but that gentleman would not hear of it.

"By the way," said Miss Harriet in order to change the subject, "Imogene tells me that you have agreed to take part in our little play. It is awfully good of you to help us out."

"Not at all," answered Richard, with pronounced sadness. "It is a pleasure to serve you in any way."

Mr. Van der Awe in thunderstruck amazement stared blankly across the table, while his half raised fork fell clattering upon his plate.

"Oh, I say"— he began, but Richard arrested further speech by a swift glance. There was silence for a moment; then Miss Renwyck spoke:

"You don't seem to be overenthusiastic at the prospect, Lord Croyland. Don't you think the part would suit you?"

The Texan considered her words thoughtfully, fumbled for his monocle, got it into position after another gymnastic exercise with his left eye and sighed elaborately.

"The part," he stated, with a slow drawl, "is delightful as I understand it—but—shall I be perfectly candid, Miss Renwyck?"

The ladies in a breath assured him that that was just what they wished, so he continued, struggling with embarrassment:

"I've never gone in for that sort of thing—er—but once and confess with regret that I caused a fiasco. I'm very stupid at such things—really, you know, abominable. It is rather the duty of a guest to comply with the wishes of his hostess, and I feel it incumbent upon me to make a trial of the role, even if the outcome holds me up to open ridicule. We Englishmen appear a bit eccentric to Americans, I am fully aware, but nevertheless it hurts at times when"—

He paused and looked at his plate in deep confusion. Miss Harriet blushed furiously. She had wounded her guest unwittingly and was sincerely sorry. Lord Croyland, she thought, was acting very nobly in thus sacrificing himself for the sake of her foolish whims and she ought to have consulted him first of all. She made up her mind at once and turned to him impulsively.

"Lord Croyland," she said, "I beg you to believe me when I say that I never thought for an instant of holding you up to ridicule. Won't you forgive me? It was splendid of you to agree, and—there—we won't have the play at all!"

"But, my dear Miss Renwyck," Richard protested, "I should feel frightfully cut up if you abandoned it on my account. Do go on with it. Perhaps I shan't be so jolly bad after all. I"—

All four ladies immediately took up the cudgels against him until his polite protests grew weaker and weaker, finally subsiding in a suggestion that relieved the situation from every point of view.

"Why not have Mr. Van der Awe do the part?" he asked, with a beaming smile directed at that young gentleman. "You'd do it splendidly, old chap, and I shall be uncommonly obliged to you."

Amid a chorus of approval the young lover accepted blushingly, while Richard not only freed himself of a hateful task, but became a hero and a genius in the eyes of the entire party.

As they passed out of the dining room Cornelius plucked Richard's sleeve and whispered:

"See here, I thought you said you couldn't act?"

"Can't," returned the Texan, with a sly wink. "That was what you Americans call bluff, but if you let on I'll wring your neck."

The Earl of Croyland pro tem. proceeded to his rooms with the object of arraying himself in a certain riding suit in the wardrobe of the Earl of Croyland, in actu, which would have made a cow puncher snort with disdain, but which Richard in his present state of mind rather longed for. Certainly he had no fault to find either with his prototype's taste or tailor. On entering his dressing room he was greeted by a sight which fairly took his breath away, and he was not easily surprised, either. In a corner opposite the door stood a handsome morris chair. In the chair sprawled Mr. Woolsey Bills holding a tumbler in one hand and Richard's brandy flask in the other. One-third of the original contents was still in the glass; the other two-thirds was obviously in Bills, for that worthy smiled pleasantly at his master and made no attempt to rise or to apologize for his extraordinary conduct.

Richard's first impulse was to take the offender by the scruff of the neck and kick him soundly through his host's baronial halls, repeating the attention until his valet reached a point somewhere beyond the Renwycks' front gate, but on second thought he changed his mind. First and foremost he wanted information. The kicking could be postponed. There would be time enough for that later.

"Well, Bills," he began, with a dash of sarcasm in his voice, "for a recently employed servant you seem to be doing remarkably well."

"Yes, sir," returned the valet, with the utmost complacence; "I'm doin' nicely, thank you." He helped himself to another pabulum of liquid cheer and held the glass between his eye and the light. "This 'ere brandy, sir, is equal good as wot we 'ad on the other side. Your judgment's better than the earl's, sir. You 'ealth, sir."

Richard stuffed his clinched hands deep into his pockets, striving with all his might to keep them from the impudent rascal's collar. What did it mean? However, there was nothing to be gained by violence, while much could be learned through the exercise of a little tact. Therefore he curbed his rage and spoke calmly. If Bills had known the Texan better he would have realized that when he was most quiet he was most dangerous.

"Might I inquire as to the reason of your present condition?" asked his master.

"Yes," answered Bills airily, but nevertheless in quite open defiance; "me an' you 'as got to part company, Mr. Williams."

"Ah!"

"Yes, sir."

The murder was out. The man's manner of address implied many things which Richard was as quick to grasp as to appreciate their consequences. Bills might drop a bombshell in the Renwyck household by a mere mention of the name of "Mr. Williams." A confession on Richard's part would be bad enough, but to be forced to admit the accusation of a servant would be infinitely worse. Bills, too, seemed aware of the situation and was determined to make the most of it, as was shown by his next remark.

"Mr. Williams," he began, with the confidence of holding the whip hand, "I'm not disposed to make trouble, sir, though it do go against me to be decelvin' people. I've got no complaint ag'inst my present dooties, Mr. Williams, sir, an' special so as they is light." Richard made no answer, and Bills continued, "I might—I say I might—be indooced to stay on, sir, for a small advance of two hundud pun with a promise of another one to come."

"I dare say you might," assented Richard, with ironic calm quite lost upon the man. "Anything else?"

"Yes, sir. I fancy Mr. Renwyck would do as well as that—maybe more."

"Probably," agreed Richard. "He's richer than I and inclined to be more generous. Try it by all means, Bills. I should hate to stand in the way of your making an honest penny or two."

The Texan began to undress, while the surprised valet stared at him in wonder. He had rather expected a scene, but his master's easy acceptance of the blackmailing scheme took him unawares. He was completely nonplused by this seemingly indifferent reception of his statement. His bombshell, which he had charged so elaborately, seemed to be hanging fire. He was not so sure that Mr. Renwyck would pay for his information after all, and a bird in the hand is worth many on the wing, especially to an inebriate, whose facilities for bird catching are limited.

"Your judgment's better than the earl's."

"I'd—I'd rather stay with you, sir," he faltered presently, with a suggestion of compromise, not to say surrender, in his tones.

"Suit yourself," smiled Richard genially, more indifferent than ever. "The matter is of too little importance to trouble over—really. Get me out that pair of dove colored riding breeches, so long as you are here, will you?"

The valet brought the desired article and, looking his master squarely in the face, summoned the last vestige of his artificially supplied courage and made a final bold attempt at blackmailing him:

"Will you give me two hundud pun, sir, or won't you, now?"

"Couldn't think of it," laughed the Texan lightly. "I made a bargain with you, and you break it at your own risk. Now, bring me Lord Croyland's second best pair of riding boots. The new ones are a trifle small and pinch my toes damnably. That's right. Thank you." He looked up with a happy smile. "It's your deal, Woolsey. What do you contemplate doing next?"

The valet had been thinking hard. He had one more shaft in his quiver and believed it would reach its mark.

"I've decided, sir," he stated as he swaggered across the room, "not to say nothink to Mr. Renwyck at all. The information might be worth a good deal more to Mr. Renwyck's daughter."

Richard wanted to strangle him on the spot; yet, strange to say, he acted very differently.

"Ah!" he exclaimed, with a look of open admiration. "I had thought of that, but forgot to mention it. Pardon my negligence. Really, Cardinal, you have a brilliant mind, so ecclesiastical in its workings too. It dazzles me." He paused and sighed. "And a man like you would sell himself for £200! What a pity! Have you really decided to break with me?"

"I 'ave," said the valet resolutely.

A coward at heart, he had fortified his spirits with a liberal stimulant, and now, at the sting of ridicule, which galled him in a tender spot, he became rather a dangerous rascal. Whom the gods destroy they first make drunk, and the besotted Bills went sullenly to his doom.

"Look 'ere!" he cried. "You told me once you wouldn't stand no nonsense. No more will I. You got my offer—two hundud pun. Take it or leave it! You daren't 'ave me peach to Miss Renwyck, an' you know it! I know more than you think I know, an' Mr. Williams cawn't cover it up with none of 'is mawkish smiles. No, sirree! I 'ave you w'ere I want you, an' you've got to pay. You got to make it three—an' cash down at that! Now, one last time—will you or won't you?"

"No, Woolsey," said Richard, calmly drawing on his boot, "I won't."

Bills scowled at him angrily and turned toward the door. He was drunk enough to put his threat into execution, and well Richard knew that such an exposure would be a deathknell to his hopes of winning Harriet.

"Wait!"

At the sharp command the valet turned suddenly; then his master changed his tone and continued in an even voice: "Miss Renwyck is dressing for a ride with me, and at present you can't see her. She will probably be down in twenty minutes, after which you may do as you like and be hanged to you! In the meantime I would be obliged if you would get me that small bottle of machine oil on the closet shelf; then find me a piece of soft white rag."

The valet wanted to refuse, but his servant's training, together with a certain compelling something in Richard's eye, enforced obedience. He brought one of Lord Croyland's handkerchiefs from the bureau drawer and laid it with the bottle of machine oil on a table in the center of the room. Richard thanked him, seated himself again and began tearing the handkerchief into narrow strips, while Bills stood watching him, his human curiosity beginning to get the better even of his anger.

"Sit down, Cardinal," said Richard pleasantly. "You have twenty minutes to wait, so why hurry? I have found that morris chair to be very comfortable indeed. You were enjoying it when I came in. Don't let me spoil your afternoon. Try it again."

The valet, still wondering and uncertain, took the indicated seat, narrowly watching his master while the Texan crossed the room, returning to the table with a small screwdriver and a formidable revolver. He seated himself and began taking the weapon to pieces, oiling each part carefully and then running a greasy rag through the barrel. Bills became more and more interested in this singular and to him unfamiliar proceeding, but Richard offered no explanation of his unusual occupation. After five minutes of utter silence the valet could stand the strain no longer.

"Er—beg pardon, sir," he asked, and the tremor in his voice indicated his uneasiness, "but wot are you a-doin' of, sir?"

"Cleaning my gun," returned Richard laconically. "What did you think I was doing—shaving?"

"O-oh!" said Bills and lapsed into silence.

Richard began to whistle. It was a merry, happy little tune, but somehow it got on the valet's nerves. His mind commenced to work and draw inferences. The gun had a very unsympathetic look, which was lessened in no degree by the six enormous cartridges that the worker placed before him on the table. He wished that the Texan had not placed himself so as to command the only exit from the room. Presently the nervous Bills spoke again. The effect of the brandy was wearing off rapidly on account of his growing fear.

"You—you don't expect to 'ave no immejit use for that 'ere thing, do you, Mr. Williams?"

"Don't know," said Richard unconcernedly. "I might, and then, again, I might not. It depends. Pretty little toy, isn't it?" Bills licked his lips and said nothing. The Texan continued: "You see, I always try to keep it in working order, because you can never tell when you've got to whip it out and get down to real enjoyable work. Why, you really wouldn't believe it, Bills, but I haven't shot a man since I left Texas—two whole weeks," he added despondently, shook his head and then began dripping oil in the pistol's lock.

"I suppose," said the valet, by way of filling in the gap of another pause, "I suppose that down w'ere you live, sir, they—they don't mind—er—murderin' of people, Mr. Williams, sir?"

"Shucks!" laughed Richard. "What's a man or two? A bang—a yell—and it's all over. Of course they die hard sometimes, but that's their affair."

The irresponsible person took up his whistling once more, while the muzzle of his carelessly held gun seemed to point persistently at the pit of the valet's stomach, in which, by the way, there was growing a queerly responsive feeling.

"Beg pardon, sir, but—but it isn't loaded, is it?"

"Not yet," smiled Richard. "I'll attend to that later. Besides, I wouldn't hurt you, my boy; no, not for £300—cash down."

The sum was not a large one, yet the particular amount seemed to grate upon the servant's sensitiveness. He cast a longing glance toward the door, but the Texan was already filling the chambers of his revolver, so Bills perforce sat still and watched him, experiencing a separate and distinct spasm as each cartridge nestled into its crib. Richard laughed softly, as at some pleasurable memory.

"By the way, Friend Woolsey, I don't know why I think of it just now, but a mighty funny thing happened down in Texas a couple of years ago. I had a contract with a fellow—chap about your size and age as I remember him, with a charming disregard for keeping promises similar to yours. He broke his contract."

In the awkward pause which followed the surviving partner in the deal drew a fine bead on the tassel of the window curtain and smiled.

"Where is he now, sir?"

Richard shrugged his shoulders.

"Did—did you kill him, sir?" feebly began the unfortunate Bills again, feeling a sudden and unaccountable draft blowing on his spine.

"Well, no," said Richard dreamily. "I didn't. That's the funny part of it. I tied him to a tree and shot away portions of him that didn't count."

"Count, sir?"

"Yes, parts that are not vital, you understand—such as ears and fingers and kneecaps and things like that. Why, you wouldn't believe it, Bills, but you can chip away at a man for half a day if you're only careful. You see, I had plenty of leisure time on my hands—almost as much as I have now—so there wasn't any hurry and rush about it. That was a rifle. I had a hatful of cartridges and an extra gun to use when the other got too hot for quick firing. A double acting revolver is better for household use."

Once more Richard paused to laugh, twirling his gun around airily in his quick fingers in retrospective joy. "Oh, I say!" he cried. "You just ought to have heard that fellow when I began to pick off his knuckle bones. Knuckle bones, you know, seem to be very sensitive to sudden shock, and in this particular instance I had no earthly cause to complain. Perhaps you are wondering how I could shoot so accurately. Well, I'll tell you." Richard leaned forward and confided in a pleased whisper, "I had just oiled my gun."

TUMOR OF YEARS GROWTH

Removed by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winnipeg, Man.:—"Eleven years ago I went to the Victoria Hospital, Montreal, suffering with a growth in the uterus. The doctors said it was a tumor, and could not be removed, as it would cause instant death. They found that other organs were affected and said I could not live more than six months in the condition I was in. After I came home I saw your advertisement in the paper and commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it constantly for two years, and still take it at times, and both my husband and myself claim that it was the means of saving my life. I highly recommend it to suffering women."—Mrs. ORILLA BRADLEY, 284 Johnson Ave., Winnipeg, Manitoba.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy—tumor. If you have mysterious pains, inflammation, ulceration or displacement, don't wait for time to confirm your fears and go through the horrors of a hospital operation, but try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills.

To Enlarge Windows.

A very good way to make windows appear larger than they really are is to secure strips of wood about two inches wide and of a length to extend six or eight inches beyond the edges of the sash frames, instead of using the ordinary poles as wide as the window. Lace curtains falling only to the window sill may be hung on small brass rods set inside frames and long curtains of semiopaque goods tacked on a strip in plaits, leaving open a space of one foot in the center. A valance across the top completes the arrangement.

THIS SOUNDS LIKE FRED VARTY

Young Man by the Name of Vardy Makes a Noise Like Fred Vardy

A young man named Vardy from "the front" blew into town on Thursday last and proceeded to awaken the populace to the fact that he had arrived. The plan that he adopted has often been tried before and generally results disastrously for the one who tries it. Vardy was having a high old time when the "police force" swooped down upon him and gathered him in. He was sober next morning and after contributing $1 to the village exchequer was given his freedom.—Bancroft Times.

COMMITTEE AND PATRONESSES WERE CHOSEN THIS MORNING

A meeting of some of the ladies of the city interested in the production of "When the Toys Awake," which will be given in about three weeks' time in aid of the Children's Aid Society, was held this morning and a committee was appointed and the list of patronesses, about twenty in number was prepared.

The committee is composed of Mrs W. H. Hill, Mrs. Rolfe Denne, Mrs. Hazen Ritchie and Mrs J. E. L. Goodwill, and the patronesses are chosen from the congregations of the different churches.

The principals of the schools of the city will be communicated with with a view of securing children to take part in the play.

PREPARING FOR THE SUMMER SEASON AT STONY LAKE

Mr T. Lane, of Lane & Eano's, was out to Young's Point yesterday and says the Stony Lake region is beginning to take on the attractive appearance of approaching summer. The cottages are being re-touched and furnished and some of the resorts are making preparations for the summer traffic.

At Young's Point the boats of the Stoney Lake Navigation Company are being got into readiness for the opening of the late navigation season. Men are employed on boats making repairs and adjustments to the machinery and looking after other matters in connection with their repair and improvement.

CRUEL TREATMENT OF HELPLESS LITTLE LAD

Yesterday afternoon a number of cruelly inclined boys acted in a most heartless manner toward the little crippled son of Mr Jim Harrison, the pedestrian. They caused much indignation among several ladies and children who happened to witness the scene by threatening to throw the little fellow into the river at the Smith street bridge. He was badly frightened and as he has to go on crutches, was unable to offer any resistance. The police were communicated with and a constable responded, but when he arrived the boys had gone. Their actions were cowardly in the extreme and an example should be made of them by summoning any whose identity is known to appear in court.

OBJECTION RAISED TO CHILDREN COLLECTING MONEY

Many complaints have been heard lately regarding children going from house to house and soliciting aid for religious and charitable organizations. In some cases cards or some other article are sold, the purchaser being told that the money is for some religious or charitable purpose. In many cases persons do not know whether the children are collecting money for themselves or whether they are in good faith.

A gentleman from the south end of the city remarked today that children should not be allowed to collect money in this way. If it is necessary to send them out they should be provided with credentials.

A DOLLAR A POUND FOR A PRE-SEASON LUNGE

The young man that Inspector Watt caught yesterday with a fine lunge, all prepared for the table, had to pay $10 for his close season pleasure. When the inspector arrived on the scene which was above the Hunter street bridge the fish was all prepared for the table.

"I'll take that thank you," he said in the most obliging manner.

The angler was greatly surprised but had to acquiesce with the request and the fish was presented to a local charitable institution.

REPORT DENIED

Jurors are Satisfied With the Verdict Given in Kinrade Inquest.

Special to the Review.

Hamilton, May 14— The Kinrade jurors strongly resent the report to the effect that they rendered the verdict under a misapprehension and that they intend holding another meeting to consider the matter and possibly to pass a vote of censure on the government. Two or possibly three jurors profess to be dissatisfied with the verdict but the remainder emphatically declare they are satisfied that they have been always so and that they have not the slightest intention of holding another meeting.

Coroner Anderson says they could not meet as jurors anyway because with the closing of the inquest their duties ceased altogether.

The only way in which the matter could be re-opened would be to have another jury sworn in and the body exhumed. There is of course, no thought of taking this action.

FIRST REHEARSAL OF THE PLAY

Will be Held at the Collegiate Assembly Hall To-morow Afternoon

The first rehearsal of "When The Toys Awake," will be held to-morrow afternoon in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute at 2 o'clock. All those expecting to take part are asked to be on hand at the hour named.

MEAT PRICES MAY ADVANCE

This is the Season of the Year When Feed isHigh-Pork is Scarce

At the present time retail prices of beef in the city have reached the high-water mark, and meat will continue to be very dear until the grass-fed cattle begin to come in in July next.

Pork is exceptionally dear and lamb as is usual at this time of theyear, is also more expensive.

The reason for the rise in the price of beef, is that, as grain is exceptionally high in price the farmers have found it profitable to sell their feed grain with the other and have therefore kept no stall-fed cattle on their hands.

It will be remembered that last fall there was lots of beef and pork at the time that the farmers wishing to sell their grain, desired to get their stock off their hands. The farmers do not find it profitable to purchase feed to fatten their beef cattle, and unless they can hold sufficient grain for this purpose, they invariably sell out their stock.

Pork is dear the world over, due to the general increase in the price of grain. Mutton and lamb are always somewhat dearer at this time of the year. Veal alone is cheap, and the offering on the market is always a large and choice one. But choice cuts of beef for which 15 cts. per lb. is considered a good price to-day cost 18 cents, and pork is equally advanced in price.

AT THE COUNTY HOUSE OF REFUGE

Average Cost per Week per Inmate is $1.43

We have received the report of the Inspector of Hospitals and Charities and the following statistics in reference to the County House of Refuge.

Value of buildings—$24,350.
Value of contents—$2,150.
Value of land—$5,600.
Number acres—96.
Received from maintenance—$3377.54
From sale of products—$507.95.

The average weekly cost per inmate compares most favorably with other Houses of Refuge which run the extremely low figure of 63c in Northumberland and Durham to $2.66 in Middlesex.— Lakefield News.

On Tuesday, May 25th, Str. Stoney Lake will leave the Wolfe-st. wharf at 9 o'clock, with passengers and freight for Stony Lake.

The fruit crop in Delaware will be an entire failure this year, owing to freezing weather.

DISMISSED MOTION OF SHAREHOLDER

Cannot Order Liquidation of Ontario Bank to Contest Bank of Montreal Claims

Toronto, May 14—Mr George Kappele, official referee in the Ontario Bank liquidation yesterday dismissed the application of Mr I F Hellmuth KC. on behalf of Mr W J McFarland, a shareholder for an order to contest the claim of the Bank of Montreal to rank of creditor for $1,576,000.

Mr. Kappele dismissed the application on two grounds; first, that the courts will not direct a liquidator to contest a claim of such a kind against his will, and second that the present case is not one where the cost of contestation should be charged against the estate.

The official referee said that the applicant's objections to the claim of the Bank of Montreal should not enter into the question whether the order asked for should be made. The whole question as far as the application was concerned was who should bear the costs of contestation the estate or the objecting shareholders. It appearing that a large number of shareholders have already admitted their liability. Such shareholders should not have imposed on them the cost of litigation not desired by them.

"I think," said Mr Kappele "that the shareholder making this application can only speak for himself. He has the right to contest the claim of the Bank of Montreal without coming to the court for this order and under the circumstances contestation should take place at the risk of the shareholder or shareholders supporting it, and not at the risk either of the estate or of the general body of shareholders or of the creditors whose claim is being contested."

Two courses are open to Mr Hellmuth, one to appeal from Mr Kappele's decision and the other to proceed to contest the claim before Mr. Kappele as referee under the provisions of the Winding-up Act. The only reason for appealing would be the desire of the appealing shareholders to place the costs of the contest of the Bank of Montreal's claim upon the estate.

REDMOND WOULD CHANGE THE CORONATION OATH

Wants to Remove Catholic Disabilities

Motion Supported by Asquith and Gets Good Vote on Second Vote.

London, May 15.—A comprehensive bill for the removal of Roman Catholic disabilities and providing for an alteration in the accession oath taken by the British sovereign, was introduced by Wm. Redmond in the House of Commons yesterday.

The same opposition that hitherto has defeated any similar effort, however, again showed up to-day, in the form of a petition signed by 300,000 persons against the removal of Roman Catholic disabilities.

Premier Asquith spoke early in the debate and gave his cordial support to the objects of the bill. He declared that the exclusion of Roman Catholics from the Lord Chancellorship of Great Britain and the Lord Lieutenancy of Ireland was unjustifiable on the grounds of either logic or policy.

Regarding the oath of accession the Premier said that this declaration was dated during the worst period of British history and the time had come to put an end to it.

The bill passed its second reading by a vote of 133 to 123, but as it is not a Government measure there is little prospect of finding time to pass it into a law at the present session.

The fact that a majority of the House of Commons voted in favor of the measure, however, is regarded as a great victory for the Catholics. Although similar bills have been debated on many previous occasions, this is the first time that one has passed its second reading.

Jesuits In Canada.

London, May 15.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—In the Commons, seconding the rejection of the Roman Catholic disabilities bill, A. C. F. Boulton said in recent times the Pope had claimed the right to interfere in the internal government of the British Empire. (Cries "No.") He referred to the Jesuits Estates Act passed in Canada in 1888. The Roman Catholic Church had been shown by what had happened in Canada to be not only a religious but also a political body.

The correspondence embodied in the preamble of the act as to the sale of the property of Jesuits showed that the Pope therein granted permission for the sale of land belonging to the crown. (Ironical Nationalist cheers and cries of "Oh.") Moreover the church had fulminated against one particular party of state in Canada, thereby interfering with politics.

Lord E. Talbot pointed out many Catholics there are in the colonies, and said it would be wise statesmanship to make a change in the declaration.

A motion for the rejection of the bill was defeated by 133 to 123, and the bill was then referred to committee of the whole House by 124 to 121.

CANADIANS IN NEW YORK

Notable Canadians and Americans Dine at the Memories of Home

New York, May 15.—Memories of home and childhood days were recalled in speech and song to the members and friends of the Canadian Club of New York at their annual banquet last night, which was the most memorable affair of its kind in the history of the organization. More than 500 covers were set at the Hotel Astor and there was a band of ten in Highland costume.

Frank Hitchcock, Postmaster-General of the United States, made a short talk and the Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Postmaster-General of Canada, who came on for the banquet, replied. Among the other speakers were: Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior; Hon. George E. Foster, M.P., of Toronto; W. O. Sealey, M.P., of Hamilton; Hugh Guthrie, M.P., of Guelph; Rev. Donald C. MacLeod of Washington, D.C.; Geo. W. Wickersham, Attorney-General of the United States; Hon. James Bryce, the British ambassador to the United States; Wu Ting Fang, Chinese ambassador to the United States; Jonathan Bourne, jr., United States Senator from Oregon, and the representative from Washington State, Francis W. Cushman.

SERIOUS TIMBER FIRES IN N. S.

Halifax, N.S., May 15.—Thousands of dollars' worth of valuable timber lands, have been swept away by a fierce forest fire, which is raging in the vicinity of Annapolis.

The flames have traversed an area of over three miles since the fire started yesterday afternoon from the remains of a fire left by a fishing party, and, fanned by a high wind, has been racing along unchecked. Last night assistance was sent to the scene from Annapolis and surrounding towns. Unless rain falls shortly the loss will be very heavy.

Owing to the dampness of the underbrush causing a dense smoke, the work of the fighters has been greatly hindered.

THE BAILIFF SIGNED NOTES

Montreal, May 15.—Yesterday was a bad day for ex-President Roy before the St. Johns Criminal Court.

The "black list" of valueless notes, amounting to $573,000, made by men of straw, and being discounted by the bank, placed to credit of accused, was exhibited. Some of these notes were made by Roy's bailiff and amounted to $75,000. The bailiff said he was only worth $1,500.

C. S. Roy, brother of the accused, had got a note of $10,000 discounted to pay the accused's election expenses when he was contesting the Montreal mayoralty.

WAS WITNESS OF FAMOUS INCIDENT

Montreal, May 15.—The man who heard the last words uttered by the ill-fated admiral, Sir George Tyron, as he was going down with the 600 victims of the flagship of the British Mediterranean squadron, arrived in the city to-day.

Amongst the passengers to reach Canada by the Empress of Britain was the Earl of Clan William, who, as Lord Guilford, was a torpedo lieutenant when the Camperdown rammed the flagship, and when the gallant young nobleman threw a life preserver to the admiral, the latter pronounced those memorable words, "Save yourself, my lord," and went down with as brave a lot of Britons as ever trod a deck.

DEFICIT IN THE UNITED STATES

New York, May 15.—Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh during a visit yesterday afternoon to the sub-treasury referred briefly to the condition of the national finances, stating it appeared probable that the deficit for the current fiscal year would exceed $100,000,000.

It should not be lost sight of, however, the Secretary added, that owing to the process of financing payments for the Panama Canal the present deficit was in reality only about $67,000,000 for the reason that money advanced for the construction of the canal was due the Treasury, which was to be reimbursed by the proceeds of a bond issue.

What the Review Does for Advertiser

Reaches The People, Bringing the Merchant, His Store and His Goods Directly to the Buying Public.

THE most vital thing to the man who has goods to sell or service to offer is publicity. By far the best way to obtain publicity is to advertise in the local daily and weekly papers. Many have tried other channels, and most of them have proved unsatisfactory. There is no profitable substitute for consistent and judicious newspaper advertising.

The newspaper is a power in bringing customers to the store of the merchant. That publicity is a thing to be paid for because it costs money to produce it. The return comes to the merchant in proportion to the values he has to offer, to the extent to which he keeps the promises made in his advertisement, and to the number of people—who being prospective buyers—read his announcement and seek his store.

Experience of years of publishing, of printing and distributing newspapers, confirms the recognized rule of newspaper work that the paper which brings the largest return to the advertiser is that paper which is taken by the people because it is a newspaper—not an organ—because it is paid for by the subscriber—not given away—because it consistently and fairly and in liberal quantity prints the news, not exploits some one man and his views, and ambitions and wishes, or some men and their objects.

The Review is a paper strictly in the first class mentioned. It is a paper for the people. It is printed for business and to give the news on business principles—not given away. It finds favor with a very large list, an increasing list of people, exactly the kind of people that the merchant wishes of all others to reach. It is delivered direct to the homes of the subscribers, near or remote, by carriers employed by the office, by boys controlling their own routes and by newsboys serving groups of readers. The service is wonderfully good considering that boy labor is made use of. It is prompt and reasonably reliable.

The Review has now completed its lists of subscribers following the popular European Tour Contest. The results and gains have been most gratifying and surprisingly large. The canvass of the city and district has been most thorough and brought in such a number that in addition to the formerly large list, the city is most thoroughly and successfully covered. There is no doubt of that. The Review has pleasure in stating that close on 1500 subscribers have been added to the lists of the daily and weekly.

While this fact is one that the average reader will accept as showing that more people are interested in a newspaper in which he is interested, it is a vital thing to the merchant. The lists are ready for his inspection. They have been shown to many already, who have expressed unqualified satisfaction in seeing the extent to which their announcements are being afforded publicity. There is no humbug about these lists of subscribers. Each one is labelled, with street address and number, and at a glance it can be seen who is getting the papers and which section of the city is being served. No merchant who wants his values known can afford to have his advertisement not appear in the Review.

People who pay for a newspaper are pretty nearly always able and willing to pay for other things. A newspaper's best recommendation to the advertiser is a list of paid up and paying subscribers. In this respect the Weekly Review stands head and shoulders above all papers in this district. There are on the lists the names of thousands of subscribers living within trading distance of the city. These lists are equally at the service and inspection of the advertiser. He can see exactly who is taking the paper, the post office to which it is addressed, the township in which the reader lives, and may determine as closely as possible how to shape his announcements. If he used no other paper than the Review he would leave very little lacking in the way of publicity, though all papers have a value; and all papers do some work,

The Review presents its compliments to the merchants of the city and renews its invitation to call and look over the lists and see for themselves exactly the return in publicity—and its business bringing character—that they will receive in return for advertising placed in the columns of the Daily and Weekly Review

Confesses to Perjury.

Brampton, May 15.—Hugh Whitty has made confession of wilful perjury in the recent case of Orr v. Farrell, wherein the latter, an unlicensed hotelkeeper at Streetsville Junction, was convicted of having liquor upon his premises. Whitty swore that the license inspector had stolen money while making the search. Farrel and Whitty will now be tried with perjury at the sessions.

Thrown In Vat of Dough.

New York, May 15.—Max Alheim, who did not close his bakery when the bakers recently went out on strike, was dragged from his bed yesterday by a mob and thrown into a vat of dough in the basement of his establishment. Women meanwhile attacked Mrs. Alheim and threw pailfuls of dough upon her.

San Francisco, May 15.—Athletic sports on Memorial Day and other exercises "inappropriate to the day" are forbidden to the soldiers of the National Guard and members of the state naval militia in a general order issued yesterday.

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION FROM TORNADO

Special to the Review.

St. Louis, May 15—Reports are received today of devastation by tornadoes, in Kansas, Mo., and Oklahoma which killed a dozen people, injured about 100 more, devastated Hellis, wrecked a train and did great damage to property last night. Twenty-five persons were injured in the suburbs of Kansas City. At Hellis, three men were killed and ten others seriously injured. Five members of the Eckstrom family are missing and may be dead in the ruins of their home.

Near Great Bend a tornado killed two and injured twenty others. Wm. Ackerley, a Santa Fe engineer and Frank Nicholson, a conductor, were killed when the tornado wrecked a train and blew it into a ditch near Kingsley, Ala.

EARLY CLOSING

During July and August—Local Druggists Hold Meeting.

The Peterborough Druggists Association held a largely attended meeting yesterday morning at which considerable business of importance was transacted. The druggists at the meeting, with two exceptions, decided to close their stores during July and August at six o'clock each evening on every day except Saturday, when as usual they will keep open for the Saturday night business.

A stringent but unanimously approved of measure was carried to the effect that any apprentice using the telephone for anything but professional communications, should receive his notice of dismissal.

THOS. MULVEY, K.C., IS NEW UNDER SECRETARY OF STATE

Dominion's New Under Secretary

THOMAS MULVEY, K.C.

Will Succeed Jos. Pope at Ottawa.

Has Been Assistant Provincial Secretary—S. A. Armstrong Succeeds Mr. Mulvey.

Toronto, May 15.—Thomas Mulvey, K.C., Assistant Provincial Secretary, has been offered and accepted the position of Under Secretary of State at Ottawa, which at the present time is filled by Joseph Pope, C.M.G. Mr. Pope has been given another appointment in the public service, as Under Secretary of the Department of External Affairs.

Hon. W. J. Hanna made the announcement yesterday afternoon. He said:

"Mr. Mulvey a few days ago received an offer of the position of Under Secretary of State at Ottawa at a salary very much in advance of the salaries paid deputies here. After talking the matter over with me, he decided to accept—his new duties to commence on the first of June next.

"We are all very sorry," he said, "to lose Mr. Mulvey, but we congratulate the Government at Ottawa on having secured one of the best officials in the public service to-day."

S. A. Armstrong, inspector of public charities, will succeed Mr. Mulvey as deputy. He will, as well, continue in his present position as inspector until the fall, devoting himself in the future as he has in the past to the management of the estates branch of the Department. Mr. Armstrong's reputation for personal charity and good works render him eminently fitted for the post he has so well filled for some years.

Mr. Mulvey goes to Ottawa with a distinguished academic and departmental record behind him. He is a graduate of St. Michael's College and Toronto University. He studied law under the late Walter Barwick, K.C.; was called to the Bar in 1889, and was made a King's counsel in 1902. In 1903 he received the appointment of Assistant Provincial Secretary. In this capacity Mr. Mulvey has had charge of several important matters for the Government. The present Companies Act is the result of his work. In the celebrated case of C.P.R. v. Ottawa Fire Insurance Co. he was counsel for the province. He also acted for the province before the Parliamentary committees at Ottawa, opposing the cooperative companies bill and Dominion power transmission bill, succeeding in both.

BOY KILLED IN WILLIAMSBURG

Ottawa, May 15.—Ross Beckstead, aged 16, was shot and instantly killed at the McMillan's mill, about four miles from Chesterville, at 9 o'clock last night. Isaac Garlough, aged 40, is in jail.

Beckstead's body was not discovered until this morning, when John Elia, a farmer, found it in the corner of a field by the roadside. Garlough acknowledged having fired off his shotgun to frighten some boys who were bothering him by firing stones at his house.

The boys gathered every evening to worry Garlough, who lives in the Township of Williamsburg, breaking his windows and stoning him and his house. Beckstead was not among them and is presumed to have been passing as the gun was fired. He was the only son of a widowed mother.

WATERWAYS TREATY UNJUST TO CANADA

Mr. Magrath, a Westener, Holds the Government Up to Ridicule for Letting the Americans Get the Best of Canada's Negotiators—Sir Wilfrid Waxes Hot at Ontario's Interference in Recent Legislation.

Ottawa, May 15.—Clashes between the Ontario Government and the Dominion have been frequent this session. The waterways treaty is the latest cause. A discussion of the treaty was introduced by C. A. Magrath, a prominent western Conservative, who declared that the Canadian commissioners had not been as carefully chosen as they should, and had been "easy marks" for Uncle Sam's negotiators.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier defended the personnel of the commission, declaring that it was preposterous to say that the men were appointed because of their political influence. The commissioners had been entrusted to make a division of the waters of the St. Lawrence basin and everyone had to admit that they had made a fair division. As regards Niagara, some held that they should have got more, but under a treaty it was impossible for each party to get all that it wanted. Concerning the St. Mary and Milk rivers, the Americans contemplated putting at the head of those streams an immense reclamation works, where water would be stored and would be available during all the summer months. Mr. Magrath and his constituents would have the benefit of it.

Sir Wilfrid did not care to express an opinion at present on the whole treaty for obvious reasons, but the Senate amendments had caused delay in the ratification. Two things were to be considered: (1) What were the physical conditions to be affected by it? (2) The amendment was not as clear and as lucid as one would wish. He had not made up his mind regarding the treaty as it stood now, but he was very glad to have the views of those who had spoken.

In conclusion, Sir Wilfrid criticised recent actions of the Government of Ontario. He did not think that Ontario's interference was well taken. He could understand the protest regarding the Conmee bill, but when they interfered in the Canada Life legislation, they went altogether beyond their authority. The same applied to the waterways treaty. Sir James Whitney and Hon. Mr. Hanna might offer their opinions, and great weight would be attached to them, but interference was a different thing.

B. L. Borden promptly pointed out that the province had riparian rights on the St. Lawrence, and the Ontario Government would be false to every duty they owed to the people if they did not speak while yet there was time.

The Premier had destroyed his own argument when he had told them that the members of the commission had been instructed to consult with the members of the Ontario Government. Ontario was further justified because the treaty called for legislation which must be enacted by the various provinces, where these rights come into question.

The debate was opened by Mr. Magrath, who said the Canadian Government had taken three years to appoint three commissioners, and then found two of them in the corridors of its own Departments at Ottawa. The American Government originated ideas, pushed negotiations with celerity and appointed eminent authorities; the Colonial Office in London also showed energy and despatch, while the Ottawa Government moved only when prodded by the Colonial Office. The upshot was that the American commissioners were appointed two years before the Canadian section was completed and several of the Canadian appointments showed that the patronage system had been at work, while no special technical experts were appointed. The Canadian section, therefore, were dominated by better men.

He criticized the Government for yielding to the Americans when they refused to include the St. John's river and the Americans had ignored the subject of the transmission of electric energy, though set for discussion.

The Canada Life Co.'s bill went through the banking and commerce committee of the Senate yesterday morning without hindrance.

In the afternoon the Senate committee discussed the Conmee power bill for an hour. R. G. Code, K.C., representing the Ontario Government, made a strong protest against the expropriation clauses of the bill as a distinct invasion of the province's rights.

Senator Dandurand asked why the promoters did not go to the Ontario Legislature instead of coming to Ottawa, F. B. Carvell, M.P., appeared for the promoters.

The Thessalon and Northern Railway Bill was reported. Mr. Code first entering protest as an invasion of provincial rights, as did also L. A. Globensky, K.C., for the Quebec Government.

THE SECRET OF GERMAN SUCCESS

The Spectator, in the article on "A New Way of Life," which we quoted last week, suggested that the English might take a hint from German methods. A book which authoritatively shows what German methods are is that by Mr. W. H. Dawson, called "The Evolution of Modern Germany." (Fisher Unwin). Mr. W. H. Carruth in the Dial thus reviews the book:

"Commercial Germany has gained enormously by her dependence upon science, by her exactness of method, and by her consideration for the customer's wishes. It is a common complaint that there are English dyers who will not bring theory (in others words, science) to bear upon their practice, but persist in the old guesswork which was good enough for their fathers.' In the chemical industries there is a university-trained chemist to every forty work-people, a ratio of science to labour probably excelled in no other country in the world. 'The German manufacturer has put away from him the antiquated idea that the consumer exists for his benefit, and instead he acts on the principle that the buyer has a right to have what he wants, if it can be made. It is impossible to say how much trade has left England, never, perhaps to return, owing to obstinate refusal to recognize this not unreasonable principle.'

"And the merchant is equally alive to his patron's convenience and his own interests. 'He does not expect foreigners to be expert in the German language, but addresses them in their own tongue—often, no doubt, with peculiar variations of their own—and if letters will not answer the purpose the merchant goes himself or sends some one who is well able to do his business for him.'

"An interesting instance is cited of the Commercial Association of the city of Stettin, which for thirty years has prepared and sent abroad to America and the British Colonies a certain number of young men with a stipend of $375 annually, whose business was to make commercial reports to the Association and in general to 'tout' the commerce of Stettin. 'The whole theory of trading as understood in Germany is that, if business is worth having it is worth seeking.' Perhaps the United States does not need instruction in this principle, and our consular agents are supposed to do for us what the young men of Stettin are pledged to do for their city.

"Personally, as Mr. Dawson observes, the German workman 'walks well, works well and looks well, which canno the said with so little reservation of his English fellow. The German's superiority in this respect is attributed in part to his military training, to the Government's are for him, and to his frugal habits, this Genugsamkeit, as manifested in the satisfaction that he takes in simply sitting in the parks and visiting.

"There is a certain negativeness about this form of enjoyment which a man of active temperament might not readily appreciate, for a German Workman can patiently sit for hours together upon a bench or a patch of sward silently smoking his cigar and gazing into space. It would be unfair to say that such a condition of mental inertia is necessarily unintelligent; rather, it goes with the essential simplicity and naivete of the German nature, which is still on the whole frugal in its hedonism as in other things, requires no violent relaxations, can make a little pleasure go a long way, and can derive satisfaction from trifles. The Germans have coined a word to describe this mood of passive content; it is the untranslatable words Behagen.'

"Among the improved conditions of the workmen Mr. Dawson noted the growth of partial or total abstinence from alcoholic drinks. The growth of Germany in this direction has been almost as startling as that of the United States, though the two countries are still far apart in their attitude toward 'the drink.' Twenty years ago it was difficult to obtain drinking water on railways and at hotels in Germany; to-day it is universally provided, and its use does not occasion comment. Germany has her Good Templar Lodges, her 'Society for the Suppression of the Traffic in Alcoholic Drinks.' 'Trade Union conferences exclude alcohol from their meeting rooms,' and Mr. Dawson finds that the Socialists seek to wean the working classes from alcohol on the theory that capital deliberately uses the drink as a means to degrade them.

"'When large public works are constructed, the authorities require the contractors to keep alcohol in the background in all their canteens and to give prominence to non-alcoholic drinks. The conviction has taken hold of a large section of the workers that their industrial efficiency and their value as members of society will be increased by the practice of temperance.' It may be added that since the preparation of Mr. Dawson's book another step in this direction has been taken in the prohibition of the sale of alcohol to soldiers in transit.

"The chapter devoted to Co-operation is interesting, but too brief. It is remarkable how the intensely individualistic Germans have learned, partly under State tutelage, to combine for the common good. One German in every fifteen belongs to a co-operative society of one sort or other. In two squares the reviewer counted last year the offices of nineteen unions or combinations of some sort.

"The Population problem is being studied intelligently in Germany. There is no foolish and unreasoning demand for larger families, but prudent study to care, better for the children that are born. The 'Motherhood Protection League has for its object 'to improve the position of women as mothers in legal, economic, and social matters,' and in general to check infant mortality. Yet it may be said in general that England spares its women, where Germany spares its children.' Each country has ample room for improvement in the other direction."

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is gratifying to find that the provincial police and detective force has been reorganized. We had begun to fear that there wasn't any force, the way things were going.

The Scriptures say, or something like it, that in a multitude of counsellors there is wisdom. We are glad to see that Mr. Francis, C. E., is one of the noble band chosen to give opinions on the Smith street bridge.

All this wild talk about Mr Foster and Mr. Carvell's getting mixed up re the Pugsley debate, and that Mr. Foster was afraid of Mr. Carvell or anybody else had better be dropped. Mr. Carvell is well known to have no great love for Pugsley.

What's the good in discussing hereasy charges when the higher critics say that there cannot be such a thing. It is merely a question of more or of less scholarship. Contrary to tradition and the scripture both, the "truth" seems to be revealed only to the learned. It is a case of verb. sap. we suppose.

The Toronto Star, Liberal, says that the successful attempt of the Laurier Government to interfere with Ontario provincial rights and franchises anent the Connee, Michigan and Ontario Power Co. will sadly interfere with the prospects of the Liberal party in Ontario.

If Blythe escapes the death penalty the Public will begin to think that our systems of investigation and punishment are both a complete failure. It is this way danger lies as in the States, where lynch law has succeeded the abortive mixture of comedy and justice.

It is a curious idea that some people have which impels them to believe that a revenue raised by the payment of unprotective duties is better than the same revenue protectively raised. The logical application of free-trade means Socialism. The application of direct taxation to property in order to raise revenue means not the voluntary action of a people, but the arbitrary action of its so-called representatives.

The catch resolution by the Montreal Board of Trade regarding freedom of trade within the empire is likely to cause trouble. 95 per cent. of the members are said to be against it.

In some countries the number 13 is considered unlucky, in others vice versa. It is so with 7 and 8, and 18 also. Rory O'More believed in all the odd numbers. Old hardened criminals are strong believers in such things.

It would be in better taste if Col. Sam Hughes would leave matters of imperial importance to other and more representative Canadians to bring up, or at least to introduce.

Announcements of imperial policy may well be left to the leaders unless the speaker feels that there is no leader on that point. To do otherwise excites suspicion of wishing to attract public attention to the speaker himself.

The following neat rejoinder to Mr Conmee by Mr MacDonell of Toronto is well worth reading:

Mr. MacDonell —The hon gentleman is asking permission to utilize a water-power. There is no provision for payment or compensation direct or indirect. He is asking a perpetual franchise for something which the province is selling in other places, as other provinces are. Thus, although the Bill is whittled down, although it is not as fat a proposition as when it first came before the House, it is no less objectionable now than it was then, in principle and in fact. —Hansard.

Mr. Sexsmith—I agree that the 1st of October would perhaps be early enough to have the law come into force. There is a considerable manufacture of food stuff of medicinal qualities such as herbageum. I have in my desk analysis of that stuff and it is not worth as much as a food as ordinary linseed meal. It is composed of pure wheat meal, charcoal, sugar, etc. I do not wonder that the manufacturers of these protest and say they should not be compelled to put a label on the outside. If we have this Act come into force the first of October and then have it carried out, that will be time enough. The people have been defrauded a good many years and it is time to put an end to it.—Hansard.

And now the west is sitting back to watch it grow. With wheat over $1.20 a bushel the west will just hold its breath and wish from now till the first of September—The Globe.

This is like many of the Globe's idiotic statements. A child would know that the price of anything and the amount that people receive for it are entirely dependent, not upon the man who does the real work, nor upon the weather, nor upon the material, nor upon the soil, nor upon anything above, upon or under the earth except the grafter, the stock and produce gambler, the manipulator and the trusts. To aver, as does the Globe, that the wheat of the westerners has only to get busy to bring the market price, is, as we said before, nothing if not idiotic, and it is surely that.

We have received from the Rev. Dr. Burlingame, of the First Baptist church, San Francisco a paper on Religion in San Francisco. He says that from the earliest days San Francisco has been the familiar home and haunt of the gambler, the harlot, the libertine, and the drunkard. The earthquake annihilated many of the churches. For sixty years the proportion of saloons to population has been about one per hundred. There is no Sunday law. The theatres are specially demoralising. Protestantism made no gains in the twenty years immediately preceding the fire, although the population was nearly doubled. There are only 16,000 Protestant church members in a population of 500,000 though there is a Roman Catholic population of over 200,000. But there are signs of better things. —British Weekly.

It will always appear as if Liberal asseverations to the effect that free-trade is the whole tip, are true because the principle of that and other forms of freedom is doubtless correct enough. But to assert that freedom of trade in its widests ense is always right is like saying that because gravity tends to pull towards the centre of the earth therefore it is wrong to lift one's foot in the contrary direction in walking and that it becomes correspondingly iniquitous for a man in full flight from a highwayman to lift his feet still higher and oftener. As for the aeroplanist, he is not only crazy. He has accomplished the impossible according to the Globe. It is just so with Free Trade and Protection. The one is a natural law, the other is a human law. The Globe moves because its namesake does and only for that reason. The protectionist moves because he is more than vegetal or an onion-top being human, capable and progressive.

INDEPENDENT CONSERVATIVE

Mr. W. L. Gordon Will Run on This Ticket in East Victoria

At a largely attended meeting of the Independent Conservatives of Haliburton county held in the village of Haliburton on Thursday, Mr. W. Lochart Gordon, of the English Land Company was tendered the unanimous nomination to contest the riding of East Victoria in opposition to Dr. Mason, the choice of the Liberal-Conservatives.

The chair was occupied by Mr Geo. Potts, and Mr. Gordon, after mature consideration accepted the nomination, promising to bend every energy towards advancing the interests of the riding.

Mr. Gordon, speaking at the Liberal-Conservative convention in Fenelon Falls on Tuesday said that there were a number of delegates in the north country who were not aware that a convention was being held, and others who, owing to a short notice were unable to attend the convention. He thought, therefore, that he could not sign the pledge to support the choice of convention and therefore objected to it being passed.

In concluding he stated that the electors would hear from him later, on the day of the election, viz. the 25th of May. "I'll be there, and don't you forget it."

ECZEMA CURE A MIRACLE? —NO, JUST SOUND SCIENCE

Physicians now admit the superior value of simple medicines for all diseases.

For eczema and other skin diseases certainly nothing in the world could be simpler than oil of wintergreen, carefully combined with such well known healing and antiseptic substances as thymol, glycerine, etc., as in the D.D.D. Prescription. The use of this simple remedy, though, accomplishes results that look like miracles. Cases of eczema of ten, twenty and even thirty years' standing have been completely cured in a few weeks.

Read the experience of Mrs. John Sanders, of Griswold, Manitoba—

"When I sent for six bottles of D.D.D. I had one of the worst cases of Eczema in my legs. I only used two bottles when they were clear of Eczema. The four bottles I have left will keep for hives and insect bites. It is a useful remedy to have in the house at all times. Wishing you all success with D.D.D."

THE LOCAL OPTION MOVEMENT IN THE CITY

The Matter Appearing in This Department is Furnished by the Peterborough Temperance and Moral Reform League Which Has Arranged for its Publication.

LEADING CATHOLICS AND PROHIBITION QUESTION

The great victories being gained by the prohibition forces, not only on this continent, but in the Old Land as well, are due largely to the splendid work of leading Catholic divines. If the Catholics and Protestants of Peterborough will unite in the present local option campaign as Catholics and Protestants have in other sections, it will ensure the carrying of local option at the polls next January.

Among the many Catholic divines who have done great work in the cause of temperance, probably no temperance reformer ever accomplished more good than did the famous Father Mathew, who conducted the wonderfully successful temperance crusade in Ireland more than half a century ago. After a life of earnest effort on moral suasion lines, two years before his death, he wrote as follows;

"The question of prohibiting the sale or ardent spirits and the many other intoxicating drinks which are to be found in our unhappy country is not new to me. The principle of prohibition seems to me the only safe and certain remedy for the evils of intemperance. This opinion has been strengthened by the hard labor of more than twenty years in the temperance cause."

Archbishop Ireland's position

Archbishop Ireland's Position

Archbishop John Ireland is known throughout Christendom as an earnest, progressive, and devoted worker for the good of humanity. In an address to the Minnesota Catholic Total Abstinence Union some years ago, he made the following strong statement:

"We thought we meant business years ago in this warfare, but I hope God will forgive us for our weakness, for we went into the battlefield without sufficient resolution. We labored under the fatal mistake that we could argue out the question with the rumsellers. We imagined that there was some power in moral 'suasion,' that when we would show them the evil of their ways they would abandon the traffic. We have seen that there is nothing now to be done but wipe it out completely."

Local option in Orillia

LOCAL OPTION IN ORILLIA

Rev. Canon Greene, of Orillia, is one of the most prominent Anglican clergymen in the Province of Ontario. He has lived for many years in the town of Orillia and is thoroughly conversant with conditions there.

Speaking in Huntsville a short time ago, Canon Greene, by request, referred to the enforcement of Local Option. The Huntsville Forrester quotes him as follows;

"Based upon the most careful and judicious enquiry, and upon information gleaned from sources thoroughly trustworthy, he was able to say that Orillia was prospering under Local Option. The effect upon business was declared by the business men themselves to be productive of a greater volume of trade, with a smaller proportion of unpaid accounts. It was shown also that licensed municipalities close at hand did not draw from Orillia merchants trade from within their circle.

"The hotel accommodation was better than ever before, meals were better, the houses were cleaner, and the travelling public better satisfied. Hotel men and clerks were more obliging and civil than under license, and so far as the financial return was concerned, some of the houses had declared that they were able to make a splendid living from the table alone, without the revenue of a licensed bar.

"The police court returns gave ample evidence of the strict observance of the provisions of the act. For the six months prior to May 1, there were 47 cases of drunks and violations of the Liquor Act before the local magistrate. Since May 1, the local option period there had not been a single case of drunkenness up for adjudication until that time

DOES LOCAL OPTION PROHIBIT

The opponents of local option claim that local option does not prohibit. They say that just as much liquor is sold in local option districts as there is where the open bar is permitted, but that it is sold on the sly. That this is not the case is shown by the fact that wherever local option is carried, the sale of liquor is greatly reduced. The State of Michigan recently carried local option in a large number of counties. As a result the wholesale dealers admit that their sales in those sections will be decreased by millions of dollars. Samuel Klein, a wholesale liquor dealer in Cincinnati, Ohio, stated at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce that the whiskey dealers in Cincinnati would lose $2,000,000 because 19 counties in Michigan had voted in favor of local option.

Great Liquor Centre

"Cincinnati is the great liquor centre of this country," he continued, "and it feels the prohibition very keenly. We supply the larger part of the liquor used in the Wolverine state. I was particularly fortunate in having withdrawn some time ago from most of the counties that voted dry. However, there are other liquor houses that will lose big trade.

The following statements have been obtained from dealers who will suffer through the prohibitionists' victory in Michigan.

"Cincinnati's loss by Michigan having gone dry in many counties will be tremendous," said Charles H Rosenthal. "These counties and the whole of Michigan, in fact were considered a part of Cincinnati's field. To say that some local houses that did business in these territories will suffer an annual loss of $50,000 is a very conservative estimate."

Will Cut Down Trade $25,000

"Mr. Rosenthal's statement as to the annual loss this city will suffer is correct," declared an officer of the Star Distilling Co. "We did business with these counties through our representative at Detroit and would roughly estimate that the dry vote will cut down our trade $25,000 a year."

"Cincinnati sold two-thirds of the liquor used in Michigan," said another dealer. "The estimate of a loss of $2,000,000 to the Queen City is a fair one. Our company will lose many thousands a year, and I know of other companies that will lose from $25,000 to $50,000. But that is not all. Many of the saloonists who have been driven out will now be unable to pay their bills and Cincinnatians will lose a tidy sum through this cause."

Liquor dealers in this city have been watching the fight between the "drys" and the "wets" in Michigan with much interest. It means much to them. The public of Cincinnati realises the importance of the liquor interests in this city as it is estimated that $50,000,000 is invested in liquor companies here."

If as much liquor is sold under local option as where the open bar is permitted, why is it that when local option is carried the sales of the wholesale liquor dealers immediately show a great decrease?

Will some of the opponents of local option in Peterborough please tell us?

Dodd's Kidney Pills Cure Kidney Disease of Eight Years Standing.

That's What They Did for William O. Cain and Now He Says: "Dodd's Kidney Pills are a Great Medicine"

Mapleton, Albert County, NB, May 14.—Special—"When I began taking Dodd's Kidney Pills I got relief right away. I have found Dodd's Kidney Pills a great medicine." So says William O. Cain, well known and highly respected in this neighborhood. And Mr. Cain has a very good reason for making so emphatic a statement. For eight years he was a sufferer from Kidney Disease, and did not seem to be able to get relief.

"Why, I was so bad," Mr Cain goes on to state "and my kidneys bothered me so that if I would go to pick anything off the ground I would fall." But Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him just as they have cured thousands of other sufferers all over Canada. They never fail to cure Kidney Disease of any kind. Not once, but scores of times they have vanquished Bright's Disease, the most deadly of all kidney troubles, while every day brings stories of cures of Rheumatism, Lumbago, Dropsy and Heart Disease from various parts of the Dominion. Other kidney medicines may cure. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure.

Infection From Milk.

Washington, May 15.—That there is a tendency to over-rate the danger to children from milk from tuberculosis cattle was the decided view expressed yesterday in the section of tuberculosis in children of the National Association for the study and prevention of tuberculosis.

It was argued that the attention of the public should not be diverted from the great and very real danger of human contagion. If tuberculosis milk was as virulent as so many declare, it was difficult to conceive how any children at all escaped infection.

Woman Burned to Death.

Montreal, May 15.—Mrs. Terney Plumbo, 25 years of age, was burned to death last night at her home as the result of a lamp explosion. Mrs. Plumbo apparently went into the kitchen to light a lamp, leaving her four children in front asleep. The lamp exploded, smothering her with oil, and a neighbor, hearing her cries for help, found her lying on the floor with her hair and clothing a mass of flames.

AFTER TREATMENT

He was surprised at how the sores healed "I took your NEW METHOD TREATMENT for a serious blood disease with which I had been inflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itchiness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the NEW METHOD TREATMENT for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish." W. DOG MESSENGER OF DEATH AFTER BOY OF 6 IS KILLED

Fox Terrier Races from Place of Trolley Accident to Shop of Victim's Father and Tries to Drag Him to the Body.

New York, May 14—In her suffering from spinal trouble in the last six months the most devoted of the four children of Mrs Rudolph Buchner, of No. 244 Franklin street, Brooklyn was her six year old son, George. He was around the sick room constantly and doing his best in his small way to be of service to the invalid.

The boy was in the room as usual yesterday afternoon. The mother, noticed that he was restless and that frequently he crept softly to the window and watched with longing eyes his playmates romping in the street. About four o'clock she told him to go out and play but to be careful of the waggons and trolley cars. Followed by his fox terrier, Boy, little George hurried out.

He started to run down the street, the dog barking and running joyously in front of him, but stopped and re-entered the house. Going to a garden in the rear, he plucked spring flowers from a bush and took them to his mother. She kissed him put a flower in the buttonhole of his coat, and again cautioned him to be careful as he went out.

In the street the boy was joined by Walter Farmer and William Bach who live near the Buchners. The three began to steal rides on waggons. There was no need for any one to call "hitch behind," as the barking of the dog betrayed them and the drivers scared them off with a crack of the whip. They finally clambered aboard a truck and rode around into Greenpoint avenue. In front of the house of Hook and Ladder No 56 the driver ordered them off. Farmer and Bach ran to the sidewalk; young Buchner darted the other way.

George did not hear the warning cries of half a dozen persons and ran directly in front of a trolley car of the Lorimer street line. Michael Mullen the motorman, had no time to stop and the wheels passed over the child cutting him in two. Scores of persons saw the tragedy and a dozen women fainted. A crowd closed in about the car.

The first to reach the body was Boy the dog, who first whined and then snapped viciously at men near him. One man kicked the dog, who ran home, whining piteously. The car had to be raised to let the body be taken out. It was carried to the Greenpoint avenue police station, the reserves of which had been called out to keep order. George's companions who had scampered home were so frightened that they said nothing of the accident.

Meantime the fox terrier had entered the shop of the dead boy's father. The little animal seemed distraught. It ran around the place, moaning and now and then seizing Mr Buchner's trousers in its teeth. Whenever the man ordered the Boy to be quiet the dog would slink into a corner, but in a few minutes would be back again, barking sharply. Buchner was at a loss to account for the pet's behavior.

When his son had not returned at six o'clock Mr Buchner became worried. He saw young Farmer and Bach pass. They stammered that they did not know but there had been an accident a few hours before around the corner. Then they ran off. With Boy close beside him, still whining, Mr Buchner went to the Greenpoint avenue station and found his boy's body. At sight of it he almost swooned while the dog yelped and ran around frantically.

The news of her son's death so shocked Mrs Buchner that two physicians who were called to attend her, said last night that she probably would die.

Mullen, who lives in No 1373 Atlantic avenue was arrested charged with homicide.

Looked Too Far.

There was an English farmer, a Somersetshire man, who once owned a telescope. The old man remarked to a friend at a local race meeting that the gentry nowadays had glasses for both eyes and added that he "had had one once for one eye, a right good one it was, but now it was no use at all—no, not to nobody."

"Why not?" asked the friend.

"Well," he said, "it were a good one. I could see miles wi' en. I could see plain the steeple of the church five miles off. But missus' son John, he borrowed en, and he tried to see the steeple of t'other church, ten miles off—and tried and tried and couldn't. And that strained it, and it were never of no use any more—no, not to nobody."

Would Kill the Shah.

ALDERMEN ENTHUSIASTIC ABOUT THE NEW INDUSTRY

Additional Information Secured at Meeting of Council Last Night Makes Them Certain That Purity Ware, Limited, is a Good Thing.

The Purity Ware, Limited, by-law was up for consideration at the meeting of the city council last night, when several of those interested in the company were present and several points in connection with the matter were discussed and in this way considerable new information was elicited.

Before adjourning all the aldermen expressed themselves as greatly pleased with the progress that had been made and stated that they were going to do everything in their power to carry the by-law on June 1st. Mayor Rush expressed a similar opinion. In short speeches the aldermen, all of whom were present, said they believed the proposition was an excellent one and that it should receive the support of every ratepayer interested in a "greater Peterborough."

There were no reports of serious opposition to the by-law and the unanimous opinion was that it should be carried by a comfortable margin.

A representative of large financial interests in Montreal was present and explained to the council that a very strong institution were prepared to underwrite the stock of the new company en bloc, thus giving the assurance that the establishment at Peterborough will be a going concern.

The financial interests referred to had gone to Brooklyn and visited the plant of the American company which manufactures goods of the same nature as will be turned out here in order to find out exactly what the proposition was before undertaking to underwrite the stock. They were satisfied after their visit that Purity Ware, Ltd. was a good thing.

It was also brought out at the meeting that several other towns are after the factory but Peterborough has first choice.

YOUNG MEN'S BIBLE CLASS OF ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH HELD ENJOYABLE BANQUET

Membership Contest Was Won by the "Reds" Who Were Banquetted by the "Blues"—The Newly Elected Officers of the Class.

The young men's Bible class of St. Andrew's church held a very successful and enjoyable banquet in the school hall last evening. For some time past a membership contest, in which the Blues and Reds have been endeavoring to secure new members, has been held, and as the Reds were successful in obtaining the larger number, the Blues had to put up the banquet, and they are to be congratulated on the splendid manner in which all the arrangements were carried out. The semi-annual reports were read last evening, and these showed an encouraging state of affairs in the work of the Bible class. The officers for the year were also elected and are as follows:—

Hon. President—Rev. J. G. Potter.
Pres.—Edson Wegg.
Secretary—J. Evans.
Treasurer—G. Carter.

Mr. J. S. Ferguson was made an honorary member.

After the reading of the reports and election of officers the large number present sat down to the well-laden and inviting tables, on which were spread all the delicacies which can only be properly prepared by the ladies, and their work was very much in evidence last night. After the company had done full justice to the many good things, the following toast list was carried out, and Mr. Wm. Langford, jr., acted as toastmaster in a capable manner.

The toast to the King was first proposed and honored by the singing of the National Anthem, after which Rev. J. G. Potter rendered a vocal number, "Keep Digging."

The toast to "The Reds," winners of the contest, was proposed by Mr. C. Thornton, and honored by Mr. C. Wegg.

A vocal solo by Miss King followed and was much appreciated.

The toast to the success of the class was proposed by Rev. J. G. Potter, and honored by Mr. H. McCulloch.

The toast to the teachers of the Bible class was proposed by Mr. Ballard, and honored by the teacher, Mr. Cornish.

The toast to the retiring president, and newly-elected president, was proposed by Mr. John Evans, and honored by Messrs. R. Patterson and E. Wegg.

The last toast was "The Ladies," and in proposing the toast Mr. T. D. Donaldson thanked the ladies for the kind and willing manner in which they had performed their duties of the evening. Mr. H. McCulloch honored the toast on behalf of the ladies.

During the evening Miss Mary Potter presided at the piano, and her numerous selections were enjoyed by all.

The singing of Auld Lang Syne brought to a close a most enjoyable and successful function.

MR. CHIPMAN WILL MAKE REPORT ON SEWAGE SYSTEM

Report for Council Will be Ready in June—Was in the City Last Night—Assistant is Now Doing Ground Work.

Mr. Willis Chipman, the eminent engineer, is in the city, accompanied by an assistant, and waited upon the city council at last night's meeting. Mr. Chipman was engaged last fall to make a report upon a sewage system for the south western part of the city but he was called to the west and was not able to go ahead with the work here. He intends going ahead with the preparation of his report for the Peterborough council at once and explained this to the aldermen last night. Mr. Chipman's assistant is now doing the ground work and a complete report on the matter will be made by Mr Chipman in June.

In his report Mr. Chipman will deal with the Romaine street sewer in addition, which has given so much trouble since it was constructed.

Mr. Chipman stated to the council last night that his assistant had found that the water from the river was backing up in the trunk sewer all the way to the Belleville line of the Grand Trunk Railway.

CITY COUNCIL DECIDES TO HAVE REPORT OF MR. FRANCIS

On Plans for Smith Street Bridge—Civic Welcome to Orange Grand Lodge—Several Other Matters

The City Council met in Committee of the Whole last night and disposed of several matters. Mayor Rush was not present when the meeting opened, and Ald. Phelan was elected chairman.

Mr. R. J. Kidd was the spokesman for a deputation regarding the new sidewalk to be built on Benson Ave., near the Normal School. Mr. Kidd said the ratepayers wanted the sidewalk built on the outside of the tree line, but the engineer had been at the place in question and was making his plans to build it on the inside.

Ald. Turner moved and Ald. Butler seconded, that the matter be referred back to the Board of Works, and that the work be deferred until it has been dealt with.

Ald. Morgan moved that the sidewalk be built on the outside of the tree line, as had been promised. Ald. Metheral seconded the motion.

There was a little brush between Ald. Morgan and Ald. Phelan counter charges about "playing to the gallery" being made.

Ald. Butler said he understood that the walk could not be built on the outside of the tree line on account of the water main.

Mr. Kidd said the walk could be built on the outside and that it would be eighteen inches from the water main at the narrowest place.

The original motion carried.

SERVICES IN PARK.

Mr. G. W. Mulligan and Mr. Fife were a delegation from Gospel Hall, and Mr. Mulligan, who acted as spokesman, asked that they have the privilege of holding gospel meetings in Central Park on Sunday evenings. They had this privilege last year.

The request of the deputation was granted.

Ald. Morgan drew the attention of the aldermen to the meeting of the Orange Grand Lodge here opening on May 25th, and suggested that the chairman of the Reception Committee, Ald. Turner take steps to extend the visitors a civic welcome. The aldermen favored the suggestion and Ald. Turner and Mayor Rush were delegated to look after the matter.

MR. FRANCIS TO MAKE REPORT.

Ald. Phelan read two letters from Mr. W. J. Francis of Montreal, regarding a report on the plans for the proposed new Smith street bridge. Mr. Francis said his charges for this kind of work were $50 per day, or he would give a report as requested for $100.

On motion of Ald. Hicks and Ald. Butler it was decided to have Mr. Francis report on the plans at the figure named.

BUILDING BY-LAW.

Ald. Turner took up the question of the building by-law. He said that it had some defects and that it might be gone over and revised. The clause making it necessary to have a thirteen inch wall within the fire limits was a hardship when building a small house. A nine inch wall would be thick enough for the upper part of a small building.

The matter referred to by Ald. Turner will be taken up again.

Ald. Turner also drew attention to the number of dogs running at large in the city.

March—"Our Director," Bigelow.

Overture—"Barber of Seville"; Rossini.

Cornet solo—"Sing me to Sleep"; Sergeant Hughes; Edwin Greene.

An Indian Intermezzo —"Rainbow"; Heinrich.

Selection —"The Time, the place, and the Girl"; Howard.

Two step novelty —"Hoop-e-Kack"; Allen.

Medley—"Don't take me Home," Von Tiltzer —Introducing "Just one sweet Doll," "Some Time" "When Highland Mary did the Highland fling," "Schooners that pass in the night," "I remember," "Don't take me home, "Taffy."

Valse—"Capriccio," Wieniaski, Miss Julia Choate.

Grand Pastorale and Hunting Fantasie —"Le Fremersberg"; Koennemann.

SYNOPSIS.

The Margrave's horn, echoed by the mountains, is heard summoning the huntsmen, and the fanfare, heard first in the distance, then drawing nearer, indicates their approach, the signal for the hunt to commence. During the rustic scene which follows the horns are heard both near and in the distance. Then comes the song of the country folk —solo with refrain and dance. During the dance a storm approaches, the wind rises and the peasant's dance becomes more animated. A peal of thunder stops the dance—the peasants run shrieking away to seek shelter. The lightning flashes; the storm grows in intensity; at last it bursts forth in full fury; rain falls in torrents; the thunder crashes.

The Margrave, who has been overtaken by the storm, is heard crying for help—in vain —the noise of the storm drowns his appeal. Overcome by weariness the Margrave falls to the ground. Suddenly he hears the monastery bell and chant of monks. Following the sound he finds the Fremersberg. The storm ceases, and the retainers who have been seeking the Margrave find him in the Monastery. All join joyfully in the Te Deum.

Accompaniste, Miss Simon.

The band had an excellent practice last night, every member being in attendance.

AN ORGANIZATION OF QUALITY

McPhee Stock Co. Provided Excellent Show — Remarkably Good Vaudeville

The price is not the only popular feature of McPhee's Stock Organization, and the quality of the presenting company and the special artists is considerably higher than the "ten, twenty, thirty" admission figures would indicate. In fact the entire show was a big and welcome surprise to the interested audience at the Grand last night, which did not fail to show its appreciation by continuous and hearty applause.

The bill was a most acceptable comedy drama, "For Her Brother's Sake," and was excellently presented by a capable caste. The captivating work of Mlle La Tena Downie, as Bonnie, the meddler, was especially praiseworthy, and the other members of company showed decided talent in different parts.

The specialties were sterling. They were not the ordinary colorless turns that are presented between times in the average travelling stock company performance to keep the audience awake till the next curtain, but were real classy vaudeville acts that were entertaining and clever, and held the attention and won admiration and applause. The juggling act was a brilliant exposition of skill and dexterity in that line, and the head balancer has an edge on any performer of his kind ever seen here. The singing and dancing numbers were also original and entertaining, and all obtained encore approbation. The company's orchestra is a large and excellently balanced one, and was heard to advantage in its overtures and accompaniments.

To-night's performance should command a big sale.

FIDELIS MISSION BAND CONCERT

Enjoyable Programme at George St. Church—Bouquet for the President

A successful concert was held in the George St. Sunday school hall last night under the auspices of the Fidelis Mission Band. There was a large attendance and the programme, which was one of much merit, was greatly enjoyed. Rev. E. A. Pearson was chairman and the programme was as follows:

Prayer.
Pastor's remarks.
Vocal solo—Miss I. Baird.
Recitation—Miss A. Stenson.
Dialogue—Eight girls.
Vocal solo and chorus—Miss C. Hinds and ten girls.
Recitation—Miss V. Merrill.
Solo—Miss M. Obesty.
Recitation—Miss D. Dobbin.
Sale of candy.
Solo—Miss M. Armstrong.
Clock dialogue—Twelve girls.
Solo—Miss E. Kemp.
Recitation—Miss A. Stenson.
Missionary exercise—Eleven girls.

At the conclusion of the programme the president of the band, Miss Aggie Davis, was presented with a beautiful bouquet amid loud applause. The presentation was made by Muriel Moren on behalf of the members of the band.

MURRAY ST. CHOIR HELD CONCERT

Programme of Spendid Merit Last Evening — Will be Repeated Tuesday Evening May 25

The choir of Murray St. Baptist church held a most enjoyable and successful concert last night, and an appreciative audience was present. The numbers were all well rendered and those present received a distinct treat.

Besides the vocal numbers by the members of the choir, Miss Emma Aldridge gave two readings with fine expression and Miss Hope Miller was heard to good advantage in a violin solo. The concert will be repeated on Tuesday evening, May 25.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM GLIDDON.

Mr. Garret Spencer, who formerly conducted the barber shop on Hunter street, East City, has purchased the business formerly carried on by J. Mongraw on Simcoe street.

THE PURITY WARE CO.

It is gratifying to find that the Purity Ware by-law is to be opened up for public inspection at Tuesday night's meeting of the Board of Trade. Public opinion seems, to be, the possibility of losing the undertaking having been provided against that it is up to the council to enlighten the people concerning all the important details. The Waterworks Commissioners have met with general approval in their refusal to ignore the vote of the people on the power by-law. Whatever may be the opinion of some people as to that vote it must be remembered that the majority is bound to rule and that any attempt to override it by legislative interference will, unquestionably, arouse the antagonism of the public as never before. Of course it is only by hearing and discussing ideas and opinions that any matter is usually settled and conflicting interests that arise during that discussion may be harmonized or put aside as the representatives of the city may consider to be in the public interest. Enthusiasm is an excellent thing but "whooping it up" is not. It is a form of reasoning that does not guarantee safety. The city wants power and this should have been provided for before this. The present, certainly is not a moment too soon. The public will be satisfied with a plain commonsense, businesslike handling of its affairs without any mixture of miracle, coercion or flapdoodle and it has every reason to expect the best results from its present representatives.

SERIOUS MATTER

The Georgian Bay Canal will render the Trent Valley Canal a piece of useless extravagance. Except for internal trading it annihilates at one blow all the prospects of the Trent Valley Canal. It will sidetrack central Ontario which will not even hear the murmur of the traffic going by on the north to the Atlantic coast and to the west. It means the direct connection of the west and the east at Central Ontario's expense both in money and future prospects. It is a huge undertaking that will render impossible the guaranteeing of bonds or the expenditure of federal money where most needed. It is yet time for our people there as elsewhere to protest to the government at Ottawa against an expensive, unwise and extremely harmful enterprise. Any through-line either of canal or railway that passes Ontario on the far north is doing that part of the province to the south of it irreparable injury. Let us hear from the Board of Trade on Tuesday night and unless the bogey of "politics" is raised and the nippers are put on, no doubt we shall.

Choral Festival in St. John's Church Wednesday, May 19th at 8.15 p. m. Stainers sacred work "Daughter of Jairus" and Handel's "Hallelujah" chorus will be sung. Solos by Miss Helen Davies, Mr. G. E. Chandler, Mr. H. W. Morphet and Mr. E. Barton, (Toronto) Chorus and orchestra of sixty Conductor Mr. Richard J. Devey. Everybody welcome. Silver Collection.

NEW WAGGON OF CITY MUSIC CO.

The City Music Company have purchased a handsome new waggon to be used for delivering pianos and organs. ANCIENT ORDER OF HIBERNIANS CONDEMNED BY CARD. LOGUE

Dublin, May 13.—Cardinal Logue has issued a strong condemnation of certain practices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. He says that in some places the Hibernian Society is a pest, and practises cruelty and tyranny, its members indulging in drinking and dancing, and compelling people by force to join the organization through threats of boycott and even personal violence. He forbids the priests from this time on to give absolution to those guilty of such practices.

DRUGGISTS CAN'T BREAK OPEN PACKAGES FOR SMALL SALES

After this the people of Peterborough won't be able to buy headache powders, teething powders and other package drug articles in the small quantities they have in the past. This was one of the matters that was discussed at the meeting of the Peterborough Druggists Association yesterday.

The new Inland revenue law has prohibited the opening of the packages, which must have the inland revenue stamp on them when sold. The idea is to prevent any adulteration and to protect the fair dealing druggists and the public.

This regulation will cause some inconvenience to those wishing to make only trifling purchases, but the new clause gives a protective measure.

EXPERIMENTING WITH AUTO CAR DELIVERY SYSTEM

The Geo. Matthews Co. is experimenting to-day with the automobile delivery system and is using a large McLaughlin auto car in making its deliveries. The car is Model F. and has seats and may be transformed into a pleasure auto if desired. It is of 18 h.p. and is the kind in use in the larger cities.

If the company is satisfied with the car it will be purchased for delivery purposes.

PENTECOSTAL MEETINGS HERE

Will be Held in Empty Store on Water Street — Rev. J. E. Sawders the Preacher

Rev. J. E. Sawders, of Watertown, N.Y., arrived in the city last night to hold a special series of evangelistic meetings in an empty store on Water street, half a block north of the post office, next to Mason's green house. Services will be held on Sunday at 10 a.m., 2.30 and 7 p.m., and every day at 2.30 and 7 p.m. Mr. Sawders is one of the prominent pentecostal teachers, and has been wonderfully used of God in other cities. He says the work has been much misrepresented here, and he believes in nothing fanatical or foolish. He preaches the old Bible truth and power. The pentecostal work is the miracle of modern missions sweeping around the world in the last three years. The speaking in Bible tongues is all right in Bible order.—Com.

HOAGLAND'S RECORD TIME; HARRISON CREEPING UP

Milwaukee, May 13.—Willard Hoagland still continues to increase his lead over the rest of the field in the seven-night walking match at Schlitz park. At the end of the sixth hour last night the world's champion had covered 60 miles 3 laps; Brown is still in second place with a distance of 59 miles and 14 laps to his credit.

Corey, the Frenchman, who is putting up a great race, was slightly off form Wednesday night and covered but 59 miles and 1 lap. Harrison is beginning to give an account of himself by crawling up gradually and at the end of last night's walk he had covered 57 miles 16 laps. Slater and Van Tassel have dropped out of the race.

Hoagland is now two and three-quarter miles ahead of his best previous record for a similar event. The attendance last night was large and a great deal of interest is being shown in the affair. The standing follows:

	Miles	Laps
Hoagland	60	3
Brown	59	14
Corey	59	1
Harrison	57	16
West	57	13
Blake	57	5
Quale	54	9
Regan	53	10
Raddatz	54	12
Gale	51	7

HAVELOCK TO ENTER TEAM IN JUNIOR MIDLAND LEAGUE

Havelock, May 15.—A large number attended the organization meeting of the junior football club in the Armstrong House on Tuesday evening. It was decided to place a team in the junior Midland series. The following officers were elected;—

Secretary—A. Armstrong.
Treasurer—B. Brooks.
Manager—Wm. Ryan
Captain—W. Livingston.

The junior team will get together for practise right away, and so be in shape for league games.

The school and town baseball teams clashed in the second match of the season at the park on Wednesday evening, resulting in a victory for the town of 10—8. The following was the line-up;—

Town—W. Rose c; A. Armstrong, p; 1b, G. Barlow; 2b, Robt. Frost; 3b, R. Joyce; ss., Jas. Bohan; centre field, R. Webb; left field, Jay Knox; right field, Wm. Ryan.

School—Centre field, Bennet; p, C. Bohan; 1b, P. O. Nelson; 2b, F. Falkner; 3b, E. Murphy; ss., J. Innis; centre field, H. Carmichael; left field, John Sparks; right field, G. Frost.

BALL TOSSER'S CORNER

WHEN BATSMEN ARE OUT

Rule 56, —If when the batsman becomes a base runner, the first base, or the the first and second bases, or the first second and third bases be occupied, any base runner so occupying a base shall cease to be entitled to hold it and may be put out at the next base in the same manner as in running to first base, or by being touched with the ball, in the hands of a fielder at any time before any base runner following him in the batting order be put out unless the umpire shall decide the hit of the batsman to be an infield play.

Section 12—If a fair ball strike him before touching a fielder, and in such case no base shall be run unless necessitated by the batsman becoming a base runner, but no run shall be scored or any other base runner put out until the umpire puts the ball back into play.

If Lew Moren, the twirler of the Phillies, National League team, keeps on winning games the way he has started he will put an awful crimp in "Dad" Moren's bank roll. For Capt. John Moren, father of Lew, has admitted that he gives his son $500 for each game he wins, and the boy has won four already.

The South Central school team took the first fall out of the St Peter's team yesterday and won by 9-8. Callaghan for St Peter's was all to the good with his benders but his team mates were off in fielding. The contest, which was played on the losers' field, was a good exhibition of ball and many pretty plays were made by the players on both nines. Mr Stacey gave good satisfaction as umpire.

Montreal shut out Providence yesterday, the score being 1-0. Both Barry and Winters put up a good exhibition but Winter had the horse shoes. No other Eastern League games were played.

The Chicago Cubs put it over the Giants again by 6-0. McGraw's men were there with the errors which aided the Cubs in their run getting.

Pitcher Pat Connolly was released outright yesterday by the local club. This leaves Toronto with seventeen men, two of them, Phyle and Starnagle on the hospital list. All the Eastern League clubs must cut the number of their players down to sixteen today. Toronto, is for the present, one below the limit, as Starnagle and Phyle do not count while incapacitated by injuries. Yesterday was last day for waivers on Carl Lundgren and he may be here tomorrow, or on Monday if no other National League club claims him.

The officers of the West End baseball team are, Messrs Geo. Hooey, president; Harvey Staunton, manager; James McNirn, captain; and Connie Halpin, Sec-treas.

Matters are reaching a crisis in the Intermediate League. There is a report going the rounds today to the effect that three of the teams represented at the meeting last night and who were in favor of allowing the player who held Intermediate certificates last season and who participated in some of the games in the Midland League to play again in the Intermediate this year, will form another league and leave the kindergarten section to themselves. The teams that will likely compose the proposed new league will be Strathconas, YMCA, TAS and Park St AC.

The boys representing St. Peter's school, met their first defeat of the season last evening when they were defeated by the South Central team. The score, after nine full innings had been played stood 9—8, and considering the age of players and the earliness of the season the quality of ball dished up was good. For the losers Callaghan pitched splendid ball, but was given ragged support. He had no less than fifteen strike outs. Creswell, the southpaw twirler for the Centrals, pitched a good game, being particularly effective in tight places.

The batteries were: South Centrals, Creswell and McConnell; St Peter's, Callaghan and O'Heron.

JUNIOR CHURCH LEAGUE MEETING

Four Teams Represented Last Night—Games May Start on the Evening of May 25

Four teams were represented at the junior Church Baseball League meeting last night. They were All Saints, George street, St. Peter's and St. Andrew's, and all were in favor of having the age limit raised to nineteen, so that any players who have not yet reached that age will be allowed to play this season. A schedule will be drawn up and presented at the next meeting, which will be held on Monday night, and the games will likely commence on the following week. All teams must have their entrance fee paid before the games start, and as the league will supply all the balls for the games, an additional $2 must be paid by each team to pay for same. All games will be played on Boswell's field on Tuesday and Thursday nights, and the contests will start at 6.45, so as to allow seven innings being played. The certificates were given out last night and all must be signed by the players and by the clergyman of the church for which the player has signed to play, before the first games are played. Other small matters were settled satisfactorily, and all teams are looking for a very successful season.

NEW SCHEDULE TO BE DRAWN UP

Park St. A. C. Team Was Admitted to League—No Chance for the Midland Leaguers new schedule to be

There was something doing all the time at the intermediate baseball league meeting last night. A motion was made by one of the representatives to the effect that players who held intermediate certificates and played a couple of games in the Midland league last year be allowed to play again in the intermediate league this season. Three teams voted for this and three against, so it was up to the president to decide and he voted against the motion, so it is hoped that this question is settled for good. Park Street A. C. asked to be admitted to the league, and this was granted. On account of the addition of this team a new schedule will have to be drawn up, and the matter was left in the hands of the same committee and another meeting of the league will be called next week.

FORM 4 WON FROM FORM 3B

Second Game in Collegiate Institute League Played Yesterday Afternoon—Score 12-11

The second game in the Collegiate Institute baseball league was played yesterday afternoon and Form 4 won from Form 3B by 12-11 in a fairly well played contest. There were plenty of wild throws, big hits and an occasional good play and the large number of students on hand appeared to enjoy the battle. Both twirlers were hit hard at times and this, with the poor support they received was responsible for the big score. The grounds are soft and slippery yet and besides being a big disadvantage to the players in fielding, make the ball hard to handle.

Messrs. Kenner and Petit officiated as umpires on the bases and strikes respectively.

The teams were:

Form 4—O Brien 2nd; Brown 3b; Quinlan cf; Adams rf; Dobbin, c; Lees lf; Hickey p; Swainston, ss; Anderson, 1b.

Form 3B—Meldrum, lf; Dean c; Goale ss; Hall 3b; Kirn p; Richardson 2b; Denison, rf; Fortye 1b; Moore c;

BOXING

IT'S GREAT

Recited by James J. Jeffries.

Oh, it's great when the mob is cheering,
And the hats are in the air;
When a champion lies before you,
And you've grabbed the winner's share;
You stand there in the spotlight,
Undisputed, monarch—KING;
A panting, battered, bruised and bleeding
Ruler of the padded ring—
But that's when you're champion.

Ev'ry handshake holds a welcome,
Years of struggle are a joke;
Ev'ry face is smiling gladly
Through the wreathes of curling smoke.
Joy and riches, fame and glory—
Loud and long your praise is sung,
And the world soon knows the story
And your name's on ev'ry tongue—
But that's when you're champion

But you'll learn that time is fleeting;
Glory seldom comes to stay.
And the fate that made you in a night
can break you in a day.
Once again the ringside echoes,
But a curse is ev'ry shout,
For they're cheering a new champion
And you're slowly counted out—
And you're a "has-been"

For your foot's no longer shifty,
And your spirit wants to bolt,
And your eye has lost its cunning
And your swing has lost its jolt.
Then the handshakes lack their welcome,
And the cheers don't sound the same,
And you realize how fickle
Is that empty bubble "Fame."
When you're a "has-been."

Still all this world's a battle,
And moral's an old, old text—
The cheers for each new champion
Are drowned in the cheers for the next.

Five Years for Lothano.

Kansas City, Mo., May 15.—Chas. E. Nord, who courted by mail widows and heiresses in all parts of the world for the purpose of separating them from their money, and received more than 2,000 love letters from several hundred women, including two or three residing in Ontario, was sentenced yesterday to five years' imprisonment.

The prosecuting witness, Mrs. Carrie Hamilton, a Frankfort, Kansas, milliner, testified to having sold her home and her store and given Nord the proceeds.

Cardinal Logue Attacks A.O.H.

Dublin, May 15.—Cardinal Logue has issued a strong condemnation of certain practices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

He says that in some places the Hibernian Society is a pest and practices cruel tyranny, its members indulging in drinking and dancing and compelling people by force to join their organization through threats of boycott and even personal violence.

He forbids the priests from this time on to give absolution to those guilty of such practices.

Is Bowling Gambling?

Welland, May 15.—I. Porter, proprietor of the Arlington Hotel, was yesterday before a magistrate charged with permitting gambling on the premises, in that games "for the drinks" were played in the hotel bowling alleys.

It is understood the Attorney-General's Department instituted the prosecution. An adjournment until June 2 was made.

Eleven Italians were fined $1385 in Port Arthur for selling liquor illegally.

THEY WANTED TO GET FREE RIDE

Three Young Men Jumped on to Baggage Car of G. T. R. This Morning

This morning just as the 8.25 train for Lindsay had left the Grand Trunk station, three young men jumped on to the front of the baggage car with the evident intention of getting a free ride. Their presence on the car was soon noticed by the trainmen, who stopped the train but the young men jumped off and made for the junk yards on the west side. They were too slippery for their pursuers and after hiding in the back yard until the train pulled out again, boldly appeared on Charlotte street and made off in a westerly direction.

MAJOR BIRDSALL WILL COMMAND

Rice Lake Man Will be in Charge of the 40th Regiment

Major Birdsall, Birdsall's, Rice Lake, was in town on Saturday and spent a busy day in making preparations to take over the command of the 40th Regiment. Lt.-Col. Floyd's term as commander expired last week, and as no extension of time was given, Major Birdsall will take over the regiment. The new commander is a tall, well-built, gentlemanly fellow, and he should be a thorough soldier, as well as a competent and popular commander. We trust that the 40th, under his command, will continue to prosper and increase in efficiency, so that should the day ever come when Canada needs its services, the regiment may be able to readily respond to the order, "Quick march!"—Cobourg Sentinel Star.

The Review extends its hearty congratulations.

Two Mills Using Same Quality of Wheat May Not Produce Same Quality of Flour

The quality of flour largely depends on the milling. Two mills might grind wheat of the same quality and the product of one far outclass the other. It is not only the high quality of the hard wheat used, but also the superior milling facilities, that places "PURITY" flour so far above all others. Our milling plant at St. Boniface, Manitoba, cost nearly $1,000,000, and is one of the most perfectly equipped mills in the world. The wheat itself is subjected to the most wonderful system of cleaning and scouring, passing through twenty distinct machines. Fifty-five steel rollers, the largest in Canada, reduce the wheat into flour. Then it is purified and dressed by "bolting" it through silk sifters of fine mesh. Not a "branny" particle or speck of dust is ever found in "Purity" Flour.

You may have to pay a little more for Purity, but baking results, quality and quantity, prove it is worth far more than the slight difference.

We have two other modernly equipped mills at Brandon, Man., and Goderich, Ont.

Bills now began to sober up with astonishing rapidity. His putty-like complexion had grown grayer still, while his eyes were watery, wandering about in the fruitless hope of detecting some avenue of escape. Even his hair seemed to stir restlessly on his head, and a feeling of weakness and nausea came over him.

"Wot—wot became of the gentleman, sir?" he asked, with a choky click in his voice.

"Gentleman?" repeated Richard absently. "What gentleman?"

"W'y, the—target gentleman, sir, the one as was losin' parts of 'isself that don't count, Mr. Williams, sir. I mean"—

"Oh, yes, yes!" laughed the Texan. "I was thinking of something else. You mean my contract man? I don't remember exactly. He was alive when I left him, I believe, but I rather think the crows got him in the end." There was another pause, in which Richard listened intently. "Ah!" he exclaimed. "I believe I hear Miss Renwyck coming downstairs. Hadn't you better see her before we go for our ride?"

Bills breathed hard, thought for awhile, then looked up timidly.

"M' lord"—

"Don't call me my lord," said Richard so sharply that the servant nearly fell out of his chair. "I have no right to that title now—since we've parted company. No; I'm just plain Mr. Williams, cow puncher, man eater, anything you like except an English nobleman."

"But—but—m' lord," persisted Bills, rising unsteadily and becoming the respectful servant once more, "I don't want to leave you, sir. Candid, Mr. Williams, sir, I'll serve you faithful; 'deed I will. It was only the drink wot made me forgit meself, Lord Williams, sir—I mean—good Gawd! M' lord, you won't think of shootin' at my knuckle bones when I was only foolin', sir—when"—

"Oh, is that it?" Richard interrupted. "It was a joke, then?"

"Yes, sir."

"My! What a delicate humor you Englishmen have! Am I to understand that you will continue to be my servant on the original terms of agreement?"

"It would make me 'appy, m' lord, oh, so 'appy!"—

"Very well," said Richard. "I'll give you another trial. But understand me, Bills, there must be no more nonsense!"

"No, sir."

"No more brandy?"

"No, sir."

"And you will obey me implicitly in everything?"

"I will, so 'elp me!"

"All right," smiled the Texan. "I'll give you an order as a starter. Just get those new riding boots of Lord Croyland's, will you, and put them on—break them in for me? I may be out for several hours. You will walk up and down in them until I return."

"But—but," protested Bills, "them boots is too small for you, sir—I mean, your lordship—an' my foot is bigger'n yours, sir."

"I know that perfectly," answered Richard pleasantly. Singular how Bills had never before recognized how pleasant his master could be! "We'll kill two birds with one stone. Not only will you break those boots for me, but per contra at the same time you may be reminded of what it means to break a contract with me. Am I clear?"

The valet sat limp and speechless. He made no move to obey the harsh command, so Richard turned on his heel, crossed to the window and stood looking out among the trees.

"Bills," he asked presently, "have you noticed how many crows are flying about the place? I never observed them before."

"Yes, yes, m' lord!" the servant gasped. "I've noticed 'em frequent, sir, an'—an', awskin' your pardon, sir, I'm ready to put the boots on."

Richard watched the operation in grim enjoyment. The fit was a tight one, but Bills accomplished the feat at last, though the perspiration came out on his forehead in copious profusion.

"Thank you," said the Texan simply and departed without giving any further directions.

He enjoyed his ride with Miss Harriet hugely. For three long, blissful hours he cantered with her on beautiful country roads, where the air was sweet and invigorating, where the scent of wild flowers came to them and the fragrance of the wild woods sweeter still in the deepening dusk. A hundred times he was on the verge of confessing all, of throwing himself upon the mercy of her gentleness, but a warning something held him in check, and in spite of his impulses—like the sailor in the opera—he remained an Englishman. Once she turned to him with sparkling eyes.

"Do you know," she said, "there are times when you remind me so of a man I chanced to meet that—that"—

"The cowboy?" Richard asked.

She made no answer, but flushed and gave free rein to her eager horse, while the Texan spurred after her, laying a firm hand upon her bridle arm.

"And if I were he would it make a difference then—a difference, I mean, in winning your respect and trust, and"—

"How absurd you are!" she laughed in swift interruption. "Have I not given you both already? My cowboy is but a memory, and you—why, gracious, how late it's getting! We shall never be in time for dinner! Come!"

If Richard and Miss Harriet enjoyed their afternoon, the same could not be said of Bills. For three long hours the servant did penance for his sins, knowing not which ached the most—his head, his heart or his tender feet. To walk was agony. To sit was to suffer with a gnawing, burning heat that ever increased as his feet began to swell. At the end of the first half hour he determined to run away, to hide himself somewhere in the wilderness of New York, where his master might seek for him in vain. Immediately, however, a stumbling block presented itself. To get into the boots had been difficult. To get out of them proved to be an utter impossibility, and to run anywhere with such an agonizing handicap was out of the question. True, he might have cut them off, but in view of the thought of crows and knuckle bones he preferred to bear his martyrdom.

Richard found him seated on the edge of the bathtub, with his feet in half an inch of warm water—a mutineer reduced, like his boots, to a pitiable pulp.

"Hello, Woolsey," Richard asked cheerfully, "what's up?"

"M' lord," the valet wailed, "for Gawd's sake, 'elp me, sir, for I'd rather 'ave you shoot me in the parts wot doesn't count than wear these 'ere blasted boots fer another minute, Mr. Williams, sir, if you'll be so good."

"That'll cost me a pair of boots to Croyland," thought Richard over his cigar as he dismissed the wretched valet to seek relief below stairs. "But I rather think it was money well spent."

CHAPTER XIII.

On Wednesday morning two items appeared in one of the New York newspapers, neither of which would strike a casual reader as being important; but, so far as this narrative is concerned, they led to complications. The first was an obviously exaggerated report and read as follows:

TEXAN FATALLY INJURED.

Mr. Richard Williams, son of the famous millionaire and cattle king of San Antonio, Tex., was severely injured on Sunday last in an automobile accident. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital, where our reporter called last evening. Mr. Williams was too prostrated by the shock to be interviewed, but we learn from one in authority that the young man is suffering from concussion of the brain, besides sustaining a fracture of the shoulder and internal injuries. The accident was due to the carelessness of an inexperienced chauffeur, who gave his name as Peter Wilson, but whose address had not been ascertained up to a late hour last night. The police are making inquiries.

The above paragraph chanced to catch the eye of a certain Mr. Loger, who had taken the morning train for Chicago. He was an intimate friend of old Bill Williams and would have gone to look after the son himself except that urgent business necessitated the continuance of his journey west. Mr. Loger therefore wired his friend from Pittsburg, stating that Richard had been hurt and lay at the point of death in a New York hospital.

On receiving this startling information the father became greatly agitated. He had not heard from Richard for several days and had begun to worry even before the receipt of Mr. Loger's telegram. He wired at once to the St. Regis, where he knew his son to be stopping, and received an answer to the effect that Richard Williams had not been seen since the previous Monday morning, though his dress suit case and other belongings were still in room No. 926, which had not been given up.

Bill Williams, who loved his son as he loved no other being on earth, committed the deep water harbor and improvement business to his most trusted subordinate, although affairs had reached a critical stage, and started for New York on a special train.

The other newspaper item appeared in the social column under the head of "Gossip." It read as follows:

On Friday evening of the present week an entertainment will be given in the beautiful country home of Mr. Jacob Renwyck, at Irvington-on-the-Hudson. Among other features a little one act play will be presented, entitled "The Man and the Bird," in which Miss Imogene Chittendon, one of the season's most charming debutantes, will take the part of the bird, while the charming and accomplished Miss Renwyck will assume the leading role, wearing a costume ordered specially for the occasion and the famous Renwyck diamonds. The entertainment, we understand, is given to a few intimate friends in honor of a distinguished guest, Lord George Fitz-Clarence de Courcy Howard, earl of Croyland. The affair promises to be an unusually brilliant one.

This breezy but otherwise unremarkable item caught the attention of one Jack Bibbs, a gentleman possessed of much ingenuity, some varied experience, quite a collection of aliases and a passion for acquisition. He had received no invitation to the above mentioned social function, though he hoped to profit thereby in ways best known to himself.

Mr. Michael Corrigan, returning from a business meeting in the city, took the 12 o'clock train for Irvington and went into the smoker, where he seated himself and lighted a short black pipe, the pet aversion of his refined brother-in-law, Jacob Renwyck, who visited most of his disgust upon his unfortunate wife. His business transactions in the city evidently pleased Uncle Michael vastly, for that gentleman kept chuckling to himself and rubbing his plump white hands in the manner of one upon whom good fortune has descended suddenly.

After a time his attention was arrested by two men on the seat opposite him. They were engaged in a whispered conversation while they ate their lunch from a brown paper parcel. To a casual observer there was nothing unusual in the appearance of the two passengers. They were roughly clad, unshaven and apparently poor, having the air of workingmen out of a job. Mr. Corrigan would probably have not noticed them at all except that one of them—the better looking, who if he had been shaved and well clad might have been called good looking—had a slight cast in his eye, a physical blemish which the old gentleman had ever regarded as a sort of name plate on the front door of a scalawag. He saw the man only a moment or two before getting out of the train, and in the stress of far more important matters the incident passed out of his mind. It was recalled later on. He was sitting on the front porch of Restmore, where he had just taken luncheon, when a tramp entered the place and came timidly to the house begging for food in the usual professional whine.

FRIGHTFUL STOMACH TROUBLE

For Four Long Years He Suffered—Then "Fruit-a-tives" Brought Relief.

Stratford Centre, Wolfe Co., Que.
May 11th, 1908.

I have been completely cured of a frightful condition of my stomach through this wonderful medicine, "Fruit-a-tives." I suffered for four long years with this trouble. My head ached incessantly. I could not eat anything but what I suffered awful pains from indigestion. I used every known remedy and was treated by physicians, but the dyspepsia and headaches persisted in spite of the treatment.

I was told to try "Fruit-a-tives," and I sent for six boxes, and this was the only medicine that did me any good. I am now entirely well, I can eat ordinary food and I never have a headache, and for this relief I thank this wonderful remedy "Fruit-a-tives." My case is well known in this vicinity and you may publish this statement.

ALCIDE HEBERT.

50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size 25c. If, for any reason, your dealer does not handle "Fruit-a-tives," they will be sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

BARRIE HAS A CITIZEN'S PLEDGE

Original Idea of the Horticultural and Town Improvement Society

The following citizens' pledge has been printed on cards and is being circulated in the town by the Barrie Horticultural and Town Improvement Society.

I promise to keep my sidewalk clean.

I promise to keep the gutter front of my premises free from weeds.

I promise not to throw fruit skins or paper in the streets.

I promise to keep the weeds cut down in front of my premises.

I promise to keep my back yard neat and clean.

I promise not to walk across other people's lawn or parking.

I promise to do all in my power to help others to keep the pledge.

TAKE THIS PLEDGE AND LIVE UP TO IT

Some people look upon tea as a mere drink. It all depends upon the tea. "Salada" Tea is a delicious and refreshing beverage. Sold only in sealed lead packets.

A LINDSAY MAN HAS LEMON PLANT

Mr F. J. Frampton, caretaker of the Central public school, has a very interesting plant, which he is very proud of just at present. It is what is known as the Ponderosa lemon plant, and at present it is bearing fruit. On the tree, or rather bush, there is just one big, yellow lemon. It is the same size as all ordinary lemons which you can buy in the groceries, but as yet it is a little on the green side.

Mr Frampton received the plant from a friend some three or four years ago, and this is the second time it has borne fruit. One peculiar thing about the tree is that it blooms and has fruit at the same time. The plant will be on exhibition down town in a few days.—Lindsay Post.

TAKES REGULAR MORNING DIP

An enthusiastic exponent of the early morning bathing principles of Bernair McFadden is a well known employee of the Examiner. Every morning, even in the very cold weather he takes his regular plunge in the Otonabee at a [illegible] hour.

It has been suggested that other members of the Examiner staff follow the worthy example especially in the summer months.

A Woman's Sympathy

Are you discouraged? Is your doctor's bill a heavy financial load? Is your pain a heavy physical burden? I know what these mean to delicate women—I have been discouraged, too; but learned how to cure myself. I want to relieve your burdens. Why not end the pain and stop the doctor's bill? I can do this for you and will if you will assist me.

All you need do is to write for a free box of the remedy which has been placed in my hands to be given away. Perhaps this one box will cure you—it has done so for others. If so, I shall be happy and you will be cured for 2c (the cost of a postage stamp). Your letters held confidentially. Write to-day for my free treatment. MRS. F. E. CURRAH, Windsor, Ont.

FORMER TWEED MAN A BISHOP

Rev. Wm. White Elected Canadian Protestant Bishop to China

Tweed, May 13—A boy who stood behind a counter for two years in Tweed has been elected as the first Canadian Protestant Bishop to China. We refer to the Rev. Wm. White, son of Mr. Henry White, of Norwood. He was clerk for two years for Mr. E. P. Cuff, when he conducted a store here, a few years ago.

Bishop White is under 40 years of age. His headquarters will be in Honan.

We congratulate our former townsman on his elevation to this most responsible as well as honorable position and trust that his labors will prove abundantly successful in the Master's service.

TRY THE SMILE

What is the worth of a smile? What clerk ever talked this way to promotion through an ugly down-town mouth? Who ever fell in love with a scowl? What home ever prospered on temper or on tears?

There are times always when if you have any particle of "nerves" in your make-up you have to either laugh or cry. Then laugh! The ugly burst of temper never wins anything but disgust and just a little shrinking.

The trials of to-day may not ever be memories to-morrow. The mountain of the moment to come shrinks to the mole hill. You can't help but smile to think how you worried. Smile first and you'll forget to worry.

Don't imagine a smile is always a self-sacrificing, martyrlike arrangement. It isn't. It pays. Smile at your troubles and even your enemies will admire you for it.

A smile is a beautiful boomerang. It goes out and cheers the folks around you and then comes back and helps you forty times as much as all the others put together.

BE A CHARMING WOMAN

You never saw a beautiful woman who didn't have beautiful hair. The charms of a beautiful woman lie in her hair. Many women do not realize the attractions they possess because they do not give proper attention to the care of the hair.

The women of the "400" are famed for their beauty, not because their facial features are superior to those of other women, but because they know how to keep young by supplying vigor, lustre and strength to the hair.

Up to a few years ago Parisian Sage could hardly be obtained in America. But now this delightful hair restorer can be had in every town in America. W. Madill, druggist, Peterborough, sells it for 50 cents a bottle, and he guarantees it to grow beautiful, luxuriant hair; to turn dull, lifeless hair into lustrous hair; to stop falling hair; to stop itching of the scalp. Understand, W. Madill will give you your money back if it fails.

HAVELOCK

Special to the Review.

Havelock May 15—Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Weir, of Norwood, were in town on Friday.

Mrs. A. McWilliams and family will leave for Cobalt on Saturday, to join Mr. McWilliams at that place.

Messrs. Wm. and Geo. Mathieson returned from a trip to Alberta on Saturday last. During their trip they secured two farms in the west, and Messrs. Geo. and Harold Mathieson will leave next month to take charge of them.

Miss Lillian Campbell has returned from a month's visit with friends in Toronto and London.

Mr. K. McKay, of town, was in Norwood on Friday.

Mr. S. Fisher, of Campbellford, was in town on business on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Bellegum were in Peterborough on Thursday attending the funeral of Mrs. Bellegum's sister, Mrs. W. M. Cartner, whose death took place on Tuesday.

Mrs. Ed. Williams returned Monday last from a visit with friends in Toronto.

Miss Copeland, of Collingwood, was the guest of Mrs. P. J. Wright on Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. H. T. Andrews and Miss T. A. Heazin visited friends in Norwood on Thursday.

Mrs. Wm. Barlow, of Toronto, is the guest of Mrs. Ed. Williams, her sister-in-law.

Mrs. Liddon, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. G. R. McGregor.

The matrons of Havelock will be the 'hosts' at an "at home" in the town hall on May 21st.

The Havelock Electric Light and Power Co. will hold a special meeting in the council chamber on Monday afternoon, May 17th. The meeting is certain to be a most interesting one, owing to the disagreement among some of the shareholders about the allotment of certain stock, and the fact that the dissenting element will be present at the meeting to object to some of the proposed business.

Mr. A. Ormiston has installed a handsome three-panel natural oak wall case in connection with his ice cream soda fountain. The wall case, which is a fine piece of workmanship, is the work of H. Curtis, of town.

The Belmont Trout Club, composed of twelve chartered members, have leased a creek southeast of the village for a private trout reserve, and have stocked it with fry.

Dr. Holdcroft, of town, acting for the Fish and Game Club, has secured consignments of 100,000 salmon trout fry for both Oak and Belmont Lakes.

Mr. James Thompson, M.P.P., has returned from a business trip to Toronto.

Miss Flo Howe was in Peterborough on Friday.

The funeral of Mrs. S. J. Seabrooks took place to the Maple Grove cemetery on Thursday afternoon. Services were held at the family residence at 1.30 p.m. by Rev. C. W. Holdsworth.

"JOHN ORTH" FOUND SAYS A CHICAGO PAPER

Missing Archduke Said to be Working as Machinist in Ohio Town

Chicago, May 14—The Journal today devotes its entire front page to the elaboration of an unequivocal statement that it has discovered "the lost John Orth," otherwise Archduke Johann Salvatord, of Austria, Prince of the House of Hapsburg, who disappeared nineteen years ago after marrying Ludmill Stubel, an opera singer. Briefly sketched, the Journal story says:

John Orth was discovered at Painesville, O., working as a machinist at $15 a week. Previously he had followed this occupation at Grand Rapids, Mich., and Cleveland. His reason for making his identity known at this time, the Journal says, was due to his advancing age, and his desire that he might be buried in Austria.

Johann Salvator, as the alleged Archduke has always been known, since he left the court of Vienna, was married in London and he and his wife afterward sailed to South America in the Santa Margarita, a schooner which he had chartered. It has always been believed that the Archduke lost his life when the schooner sank off the coast of Chili. According to the story of the Painesville machinist he and his beautiful wife were not aboard the ship as was generally thought to have been the case. They went ashore at Conavena, a small port on the Rio de la Atlanta. It was planned that they should meet the ship at Valparaiso, but the craft sank on the way.

The romantic couple drifted all over the world, finally taking up a plantation on the island of Martinique. When the first rumblings of Mount Pelee gave warning of the catastrophe which followed soon after, Johann Salvator made a hurried visit to the city to arrange to get his family away. But the warning had come too late. His wife and their two children were killed. Salvator, according to the Journal story, was rescued by a French gunboat and came to the United States.

"FLORA'S BIRTHDAY" WAS EXCELLENTLY PRESENTED

At Annual Mission Band Concert at St. John's School-house—Thirty Children Took Part—An Interesting Programme.

The annual concert of St. John's Mission Band, given at the school-house last night, was a pleasing success in every particular. The cantata, "Flora's Birthday," was captivatingly presented by thirty children of the Mission Band, and was received with very evident appreciation by the large audience.

The cantata is a pretty one, and those taking part acquitted themselves in a manner highly creditable to themselves and their capable instructress, Miss Margaret English. Mrs. Conway and Miss Vida Foote, superintendent, and assistant superintendent, respectively, of the Mission Band, are also to be congratulated, and they were actively interested in the production of the cantata.

The other numbers on the programme were thoroughly enjoyed.

Those taking part in the cantata were:—Greta Roumtree, Kathleen Cuffe, Gertie Batley, Gertie Hood, Wilhelmina Cuffe, Hazel Hawes, Ethel Foster, Stephen Sanderson, Cora Wendover, Olive Conway, Sarah Emmerson, Joyce Davidson, Phyllis Hood, Florence Adams, Rex Evans, Willie Common, Otto Gliddon, Powell Gliddon, Harold Devey, Lorne Conway, Doris Clegg, Dorine Wood, Jeannie Smith, Grace Conway, Ola Hawes, Marguerite Herridge, Florence Staunton, Georgie Cuffe, Annie Conway, Odee Dutton.

The programme was as follows:—

Piano Solo—Miss D. Dutton.

Violin Solo—Miss E. Palmer.

Cantata—Flora's Birthday.

Piano Duet—Cyril Devey and E. Horsefield.

Vocal Solo—Mr. Chandler.

Wooden Doll Drill—Miss Coventry's senior class of girls.

DOUBLE DROWNING NARROWLY AVERTED

Two Englishmen Had Thrilling Experience at the Locks Bridge—Clung to the Sides of the Sluice-way—Were Rescued Just in Time.

A double drowning was narrowly averted at the locks dam below the city about seven o'clock last evening. A punt in which there were two men was heading straight for the sluice-way dam and to save themselves the occupants sprang from the craft as they entered the sluice-way and clung by their hands to the timbers until they were rescued. One of them only had a hold on the top of the wall with his fingers and if assistance had not been in the neighborhood he would have had to release his hold in a moment or two and drop in the fast running current. Neither of the men could swim

The participants in the exciting experience were Englishmen. They got in the punt somewhere above the bridge and were bent on a fishing expedition. Apparently they were not used to rowing for when they got into the current below the bridge, they lost control of the craft which headed for the dam borne along at a rapid rate by the swift running current. The punt went into the sluice-way at the west side of the channel and to save their lives the two men took a chance and clutched on the sides of the sluice-way. There were many persons at the locks at the time and they rescued the unfortunate fellows from their peril. The punt was grasped with a net and kept from going over the dam.

POWER QUESTION DISCUSSED AT JOINT MEETING YESTERDAY

Water Commissioners' Plans for New Dam Provide for Development of Surplus Power—May all be Required for Waterworks Purposes Within Few Years.

The Power Committee of the City Council and the Water Commissioners held a meeting yesterday afternoon to discuss the power situation, especially as regards the new waterworks dam.

Power Committee—Ald. McIntyre, chairman; Mayor Rush, Aldermen Phelan, Morrow, Gillespie, Hicks and Bradburn.

Water Commissioners—Mr. T. F. Matthews, chairman; Mr. W. H. Moore and Mr. W. H. Hill.

Ald. McIntyre presided and in opening the meeting stated that the Power Committee wanted to know if there would be any surplus power at the new dam.

Ald. Hicks stated that the Seymour Power Company wanted to sell the city power, and the committee wanted to know if there would be any surplus power at the dam in order to deal to better advantage with the Seymour company.

Mr. Matthews stated that the commissioners were going ahead with their plans and were enlarging their forebays and tail races, so that a power house could be erected. As yet they have secured no further information than was contained in Mr. Kennedy's report. He said there was no doubt but that there was a surplus of power there, but Mr. Kennedy thought that if the city grew in the next ten years as it has in the past ten years, the waterworks would require all that power.

Ald. Hicks was skeptical as to the engineer's estimate of the amount of power that will be available at the dam. It was more than was being developed at the other dams on the river.

Ald. Gillespie said it would be too bad to have surplus power going to waste in ten or fifteen years.

"When will the Water Commissioners be willing to become Power Commissioners?" Ald. Gillespie asked.

"When the city has decided on a definite power policy and has the approval of the people," said Mr. Matthews.

Mr. Hill agreed with Mr. Matthews' answer.

Ald. Morrow said he would be in favor of developing the surplus power at the new dam. There might be enough to do the lighting of the city.

Ald. Hicks thought it might be cheaper to secure power elsewhere than to develop the surplus power at the dam in view of the fact that it might all be required for the waterworks within twenty years, or perhaps sooner.

Mr. Moore said he would be greatly disappointed if there was not 1000 horse power at the new dam.

Ald. Hicks said the Burleigh power would ultimately come to the city, and if there was surplus power at the dam it could be switched on to that from Burleigh.

Ald. Gillespie agreed with this suggestion. The City Council could wait until the dam was completed and a better idea could be had then as to how much power would be available.

The Power Committee will meet representatives of the Seymour Power Company here next Tuesday night and the Water Commissioners will be present.

LARGE GATHERING OF MOST DISTINGUISHED ORANGEMEN

At Sovereign Orange Lodge Convention Here Commencing May 24th — Prominent Officers of Dominion Will Attend—Representatives From all Over Canada.

Probably the most distinguished gathering of Orangemen ever held in Peterborough will be the annual convention of the Sovereign Orange Lodge, which will open here on May 24th. The convention will be held at the court house and Sovereign Grand Master Sproule and other of Canada's most prominent Orangemen will be in attendance.

On Monday, the 24th, the Black Chapter will meet, and as it closes the Sovereign session will be commenced. It will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Representatives from all over the Dominion will be here for the convention.

THE FREE METHODISTS OF PETERBOROUGH WILL BUILD CHURCH ON AYLMER STREET

Site Will be Between Charlotte and King Streets—Denomination at Present Worshipping at City Mission—History of Doctrine.

Notwithstanding the fact that several new churches have been erectd in Peterborough lately, and preparations are in progress for others, still another one is contemplated.

A deal was closed today by which the Free Methodists of Peterborough came into possession of a fine lot on Aylmer street between Charlotte and King, upon which they expect in the near future to build a church. The property is of 108 feet frontage with a depth of 114 feet. It is expected that 75 feet of this property will be utilized for church purposes. A considerable sum has already been secured, in cash and pledges towards the building fund, and Misses Babcock and Clarke who have charge of the church here, say that they are meeting with gratifying success in their canvass for funds

The society at present are worshipping in what is known as the City Mission on Water street, but the work has been much hampered by the lack of proper accomodation and they believe that the time has now arrived for them to "go forward."

As the Free Methodist body in Peterborough is not large, and their religious beliefs not generally known, the following brief sketch of their history will be read with interest by Christian people generally;

The Free Methodist Church is a child of Providence that came into existence as an organized body in Western New York on the 23rd day of August, 1860.

The cause of its origin was a conflict between the spirituality and worldliness that was in the church.

In doctrine they are Methodists. They insist that it is the duty and privilege of every believer to be sanctified, wholly, and to be preserved blameless unto the coming of the Lord Jesus Christ. They look upon practical godliness as the never-failing result of a genuine religious experience. "By their fruit ye shall know them." Hence they insist that those who profess to be disciples of Christ should come out from unbelievers and be separate abstaining from connection with all secret societies, renouncing all vain, pomp and glory, adorning themselves with modest apparel, and not with gold, or pearls, or costly array.

They believe Christians have no right to abolish any of the requirements made by Christ and the apostles; or to make obedience to them a matter of small consequences. The golden rule, they hold, applies equally to mankind.

The Government of the Church is not autocratic; but the members have an equal voice with the ministers in all the councils of the church.

They endeavor to promote spirituality and simplicity in worship; congregational singing is universal, and performances upon musical instruments and singing by choirs in public worship are prohibited

They do not believe in resorting to worldly policy to sustain the gospel; hence they give no countenance to modern expedients for promoting Christianity such as selling or renting pews, picnics, Christmas trees, festivals, lotteries, fairs and donation parties. They now have forty annual conferences that extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans, and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, and a membership of about 40,000.

They have missions in the West Indies, Norway, India, Africa, Japan, China, Ceylon, Santo Domingo and six seminaries and one college. They publish one weekly paper and other periodicals and have a publishing house in Chicago, Ill.

It is about thirty years since they opened up their work in Canada and they now have three annual conferences —the East and West Ontario. The membership numbers about 2000 and they are growing slowly but steadily. They have urgent calls to send preachers to other parts of Canada and the United States. Future prospects of this church are encouraging.

SIR WM. VAN HORNE SAYS THAT RAILWAY RATES ARE TOO LOW

C. P. R. Magnate Declares That Railroads on This Continent Are Not Earning a Fair Precentage on Their Investment.

London, May 17.—Sir William Van Horne expressed some interesting views with regard to railroads, in the course of a conversation with an interviewer yesterday at the Savoy Hotel, where he is staying for awhile before making a trip to the continent.

"There is one thing certain about the railways of North America," said Sir William. "Their charges are much too low. They are not earning as much as they should on the capital invested, and I don't feel very hopeful of an increased percentage of earnings. The railways of America are doing more for less money than any others in the world. I think the present low rates are simply absurd. It has been the aim of railway managers for as far back as I can remember to act in unison in the matter of rates, but they have never succeeded in doing so for any considerable length of time.

"The solution of the problem will not be Government ownership. No Government ever ran railways as cheaply as private management could."

Sir William said the general business and financial situation looked most promising as far as he was able to judge. Railway companies would find no difficulty in raising funds for improvements or extensions; yet he did not think there would be a great deal of railway building in America in the next twelve months. The need of great additional mileage did not exist, Sir William said.

HEIRESS IS DISCOVERED

St. Catharines Is Hiding Place of Brooklyn Runaway.

Buffalo, May 17.—In a pretty little cottage in St. Catharines, Ont., a reporter found Hazel Stuart Drew, the pretty 17-year-old heiress who eloped from Brooklyn on Christmas Day with Walter McGreal, the 20-year-old son of Thomas F. McGreal, a retired United States naval pharmacist.

Last Monday Hazel became of age, and entitled to the fortune of $150,000 bequeathed to her by her grandfather, the late Daniel Drew.

The reporter found the runaways living together under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dinsmore, one of many pseudonyms they have taken since they have disappeared.

There is a warrant issued by Magistrate Dooley in the Adams street police court, Brooklyn, for young McGreal, charging abduction, but it will not now be enforcable, because Hazel is 18 years old. The happy bride will soon be baptized a Catholic, the religion of her husband, and immediately thereafter they will be married by a priest, and then start for home and seek the forgiveness of the girl's mother, who has been bitterly opposed to the match, and who has vowed that she will prosecute her daughter's husband to the bitter end.

Mrs. McGreal is a tall, slender girl, graceful of figure, with a mass of chestnut brown hair, and sparkling blue eyes.

FIVE YEARS OLD AND RICH

New York, May 17.—On the register at the Hotel Netherland appears the name of the Hon. Betty Bellsworth.

The Hon. Betty is five years old, but it requires three rooms to accommodate her and the two nurses who came to this city with her from Canada. She is a niece of one of the principal nitrate operators in the world, and is on her way to Colorado. Her father, an engineer in the service of the British Exploration Co. in Africa, is expected to come to to this country to meet his daughter in Colorado Springs.

At luncheon hour the Hon. Betty sat in state in the restaurant in the hotel. Her two nurses stood behind her chair. The child ate bread and milk, which was first sampled by the nurses.

INTENDED TO KILL WHOLE FAMILY

South Bend, May 17.—Charles Rapp, who had considerable local fame as a baseball pitcher, Saturday night killed his mother and then committed suicide.

Rapp, according to the police, had been drinking, and when the mother pleaded with him to leave off liquor he grabbed a hammer and after beating her on the head, stabbed her with a butcher knife, which he snatched from a table. When his mother fell, Rapp gashed his throat with the same knife.

The police found Rapp still conscious. At the hospital he stated he had intended to kill the entire family.

Strike Riot at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 17.—Two hundred strike sympathisers battled with fifteen special policemen and seven patrolmen on Southwater street Saturday to prevent the latter from escorting twenty strike-breakers from the Erie Station to the shipping headquarters of the Lake Carriers' Association. Thirteen of the strike-breakers refused to abide by their agreement and joined the strikers. Three men were injured by sticks thrown during the struggle and it was necessary to turn in a riot call before the crowd dispersed. Six men are under arrest.

Visited by His Mother.

Windsor, May 17.—Richard Kraft's aged mother visited him in Sandwich jail, where he is awaiting trial for shooting three men in his attempt to escape from Windsor police headquarters. Prison rules prevented the woman from entering the cell, but she clasped her boy in her arms through the bars and sobbed brokenheartedly as she talked to him in German.

The defence will probably be an attempt to show that there was no intent to murder, but that the prisoner was so nervous that he was irresponsible.

LATEST NEWS AS TOLD IN DESPATCHES

Lobster Fishery Dispute.

Louisburg, N.S., May 17.—Trouble between the lobster fishermen has culminated in the closing of several of the largest canning factories. The fishermen are demanding $3.25 per cwt., and packers will not pay more than $2.25, for which price the men will not wet their gear.

The Fishermen's Union at Mainadieu has telegraphed J. W. Maddin, M.P., at Ottawa, to use his influence in securing a steam service to that port, enabling them to export their live lobsters. The small ones they will can themselves.

The outlook is not bright for the fishermen, who are blaming the Government for allowing a few packers a monopoly of the canning trade.

To Build All-Steel Cars.

Chicago, May 17.—Richmond Dean, general manager of the Pullman Co. announced that $3,000,000 will be spent in the improvement of the car shops at Pullman. This means the employment of 12,000 men. The capacity of the plant is to be largely increased, the increased being almost entirely in the line of steel car construction. One of the first orders is 300 all-steel passenger car for the Pennsylvania road.

Two Men Lost.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 17.—Capt. A. A. Batten of the steamer Caribou, which arrived here from the north yesterday, reports that Robert McMennemy, keeper of the lighthouse at Otterhead, on the north shore of Lake Superior, and a man named Wilson, who started a week ago for Heron Bay for supplies, are missing.

Cut In Two.

Cornwall, May 17.—The body of an unknown young man was found on the G.T.P. near Rainsville on Friday. It was cut in two. It is thought that the unfortunate man was riding the bumpers of a freight train and fell on the rails. The head of a young girl and a horse are tattoed on one arm.

Carried Big Bylaw.

Owen Sound, May 17.—Little interest was shown in the results of the vote on four bylaws voted upon by the property-owners here Saturday.

Two were defeated and two carried. The former were to raise $7,000 to remodel the interior of the old town hall building, and $3,500 to erect an isolation hospital. The majorities against were 129 and 53 respectively.

The expenditure of $125,000, to take in part of the Sydenham river, construct a sedimentation basin and a filtration plant, adding a million gallons daily to the supply, was endorsed by a majority of 50. The extension of the electric light plant by an expenditure of $30,000 was also ratified, the majority being 88.

Wind Lifted Sidewalk.

Oil Springs, Ont., May 17.—Mrs. Richard Swain, a resident of Oil City, was almost instantly killed, and her niece, Miss Josie Truan of this village, was injured here about 5.30 Saturday afternoon in a very peculiar manner.

They were on the way to the station when a severe storm came up and picked up the sidewalk on which they were walking and hurled it across the street into a deep ditch on the opposite side.

~~The ladies were carried with it, the sidewalk striking Mrs. Swain on the head and crushing her skull,~~ [illegible]

Jap-British Parade.

Victoria, B.C., May 17.—The day's proceedings in Victoria to welcome the Japanese cruisers Soya and Aso closed near midnight with one of the strangest parades ever seen in Victoria. Four hundred bluejackets from the warships marched arm-in-arm with British bluejackets from the Esquimault station and soldiers from the local garrison.

The march followed a smoker and concert and a reception to Admiral Ijichi and to the officers and cadets by the Japanese colony.

EARTHQUAKE IN THE WEST

Prairie Section Experiences a Shock Lasting Nearly a Minute

Winnipeg, May 17.—Earthquake shocks varying in intensity were felt all through the Canadian prairie west at about 10.20 central time Saturday evening, in most places rattling dishes, banging doors and shaking windows, while in several points people were driven in alarm out of doors. The duration is reported at from 20 seconds to a minute.

At Wolseley, the well of the electric light plant caved in just before the shock was felt and the town was plunged in darkness.

Other places report cracked plaster, but that appears to be the sum of the damage done.

The shock was very light in this city, but was distinctly felt at Selkirk, on Lake Winnipeg, and from there the disturbance was noted at scattered points for a thousand miles west across the prairie.

Shocks appear to have been most severe in the heavy "Cumbo" country of Saskatchewan, along the main line of the Canadian Pacific, but were felt as far north as Prince Albert.

It is the first time in known history that earthquake shocks have visited the Red River or Saskatchewan Valleys, and Prof. Frank Allen, Ph.D., of Manitoba University, said last night that they might never recur.

He attributes the disturbance as a wave, or echo, of serious earthquakes in southern America or the central Pacific, and holds that the vibration thus caused has followed the chold of a circle coming out in the Canadian prairie.

Prof. Allen is reassuring regarding the future, so far as the prairie is concerned. There is no evidence that this region was ever visited by an earthquake in historical times, or at least no marks of such have been left. This section is a long distance from the coasts where the earthquakes usually occur.

Besides, that the lay out of the prairie foundations is distinctly against such a thing. The rock layers are horizontal, whereas it is known that great earthquakes occur where the rock layers run down towards the earth centre at seventy, eighty or ninety degrees. These sometimes slip against each other causing subsistinence and such is now known to have been the case at San Francisco.

On the prairie where rock layers are horizontal earthquakes are practically impossible and people will be reassured to know that it is quite possible the prairie country may never again get such a jar.

CAPT. HAINS' SENTENCE

Gets Indeterminate Term of From Eight to Sixteen Years for Shooting Annis

Special to the Review.

Flushing, NY, May 17.— An indeterminate sentence of from eight to sixteen years was passed today on Peter C. Hains Jr. convicted of manslaughter in the first degree for shooting W F Annis at the Bayside Club last August.

THE KILLED NUMBER 10,000

Adana, May 17.—The estimates of from 20,000 to 25,000 Christians killed by Mohammedans, in the Province of Adana, made a fortnight ago, must be revised. It is now ascertained that the number can hardly reach more than 10,000. Thousands who were supposed to have been killed in the country districts have since come into some of the large towns for relief. Nearly 50,000 persons have received assistance from the foreign and Turkish relief committees or officials at Adana, 22,000 at Marash, 14,000 at Hadjin, 3,000 at Mersina, 2,000 at Latakia, 4,000 at Tarsus and a comparatively large number at Aintab and Alexandretta.

SWEARING IN WISCONSIN

Madison, Wis., May 17.—The lower House of the Wisconsin Legislature has put the finishing touches to the Hull bill, making it a misdemeanor to swear in public. The bill as first introduced simply prohibited swearing in the presence of persons under 18 years of age.

When the bill reached the Senate in that form Senator Hudnall submitted an amendment striking out the reference to age. The amendment has been adopted and the bill passed.

Royal Garden Party Off.

London, May 17.—King Edward having returned from his two months' holidays on the continent and the Mediterranean, the dates have been definitely fixed for the customary two courts at this time of the year. The first is set for Friday, June 11, the second for Thursday, June 24.

But there will be no garden party at Windsor Castle this summer and great is the disappointment at the announcement of the fact. Those garden parties were becoming a distinguishing and extremely popular feature of King Edward's reign. They enabled a vast number of his subjects to bask for an afternoon in the sunshine of royalty.

COMING CONFLICT BETWEEN ONTARIO AND DOMINION

The Conmee Bill a Most Dangerous Measure—Canada Life Bill no Better—What Sir James Whitney Says

A long constitutional battle over the question of provincial rights seems probable as a result of the position of the Federal Government in relation to several bills being dealt with.

When asked by The Globe what view the Ontario Government took of the declaration of policy by the Dominion Premier in the House on Friday night Sir James Whitney said: "If the newspaper reports are correct the position assumed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier is indeed an extraordinary one.

"It is true," continued the Premier, "that he admits our rights to oppose the Ontario and Michigan power bill and perhaps this is a good time for me to say that there will be no submission on our part to any attempt to take Provincial property, but his reported attitude with reference to our action on the Canada Life legislation and the waterways treaty seems almost incredible. I would rather, therefore, wait until I see Hansard and secure his exact words."

WILL THEY TALK AT PLAYS AFTER THIS SCORCHER?

Peterborough, May 17.
Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,— I saw a most timely allusion in your paper a short time ago to the habit of members of choirs talking during prayers and while my complaint is along different lines, I nevertheless think I am fully as well as justified in making it.

I am constantly annoyed when I go to the theatre by thoughtless and shallow minded persons keeping up a patter of conversation, sometimes in the most interesting part of a play. With a constant buzzing in one's ear it is impossible to follow the story of a play and the talkative ones are most inconsiderate of the rights of better behaved and apparently better brought up people. If they don't know enough to behave themselves, these interferers should not attend the theatres and they certainly show great ignorance by their unbecoming jabbering.

If there was a theatrical blacklist I would certainly put these inveterate talkers upon it.

Yours truly,
THEATREGOER.

DEATH OF THE PIONEER HEAD OF GRAFTON & CO.

The Hamilton Herald of Saturday says the following of the death of James B. Grafton, of Dundas;—

The death of James B. Grafton, founder of the firm of Grafton & Co., occurred Friday evening at his home, The Maples, Dundas, and in his passing this county has lost one of its oldest and best known residents—a man whose name has been associated with its mercantile life for the last sixty years, and whose influence in the Christian life of the community has been equalled only by his generosity to works of philanthropy and benevolence. For the last two years the late Mr. Grafton has been in failing health, and as the end drew near the members of his family were called to his bedside, and all were with him when death closed his eyes and ended his long life and useful activity.

The late Mr. Grafton was born at Meadowvale, near Toronto, on Sept. 9, 1826. His parents were of United Empire Loyalist stock, and the sturdy patriotism and devout manner of life they inherited were imparted to their son and made him an outstanding figure in the community in which he made his home. In 1853 he started a dry goods business in Dundas and soon built up a large trade in the Valley City. A few years later he organized the wholesale clothing and dry-goods firm which bears his name, and which is known through its branches all over Ontario.

A large factory was built in Dundas, and through sound business methods this mode has become one of the largest concerns of its kind in the province.

On September 26, 1855, Mr. Grafton married Miss Charlotte Sydney-Smith, daughter of the late Dr. Sydney-Smith, of Toronto, and he is survived by his widow and the following family;—Lieutenant-Colonel James J. J. Grafton, manager of the firm of Grafton & Co., and paymaster of the Seventy-Seventh regiment, Wentworth; Mrs. John Herald, Kingston, widow of Dr. Herald; Miss Nellie Grafton, Dundas; Mrs. J. Albert Dickson, Hamilton, and Mrs A. Orr Hastings, Toronto.

Though the late Mr. Grafton did not take an active part in public affairs, his interest in all that pertained to the public welfare was never tired in exerting itself. He was a member of the Dundas Methodist church, and was an office-holder in it for the last half a century, and for many years was a member of the senate of the Victoria University at Toronto. He sat in the Dundas Town Council for a few terms, and served on the Board of Education in that town, and his large fund of common sense and wide grasp of business made his counsels of great value to those bodies. It is however, through his large gifts to works of benevolence and charity that he will be best and kindly remembered. He took a deep interest in the work of stamping out the white plague, and then the Hamilton Health Association was organized a few years ago he and his son greatly assisted it in presenting it with the Grafton Infirmary, through which it has been enabled to do much good work. His interest and his means were ever ready to respond to such calls, and his memory will live through his open-handed generosity and a life's work well done.

The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon at 3.30 from the Dundas Methodist church to the Dundas cemetery.

LITTLE BOY HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

Little Johnny Cassells of Ashburnham, had a narrow escape from drowning this morning. He fell into the Otonabee opposite the Wolfe St. wharf while walking out on a log.

He came up and hung onto the log his cries attracting some employees of a local lumber firm who went out in a punt and they effected his rescue.

A BULLFROG OF MAMMOTH PROPORTIONS GETS HOOK

Mr. Fred Daniels, of Smith showed a monster frog to the Review this morning which he caught in Lily Lake on Saturday evening. Mr Daniels says it is the largest frog he ever caught or ever saw and disposed of it to a local restaurant.

He didn't weigh the giant of the marsh but it is quite safe to say it tipped the scales under ten pounds. He caught it with a red flannel bait and says the frog fishing in the spots where those who are "on the inside" are familiar with, is excellent this season and they are biting readily at the alluring bait of red.

THEY SHOULD VISIT COLONIES

London, May 17.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Mr. Birrell, Secretary for Ireland, at the dinner of the Bristol Chamber of Commerce, proposing the toast, "Ships, Colonies and Commerce," said he rejoiced to feel that representatives of the colonies were coming over to consider the whole question of naval defences. The colonies knit together would play a great part in our national life, and it would in course of a few years become a scandal for a middle-aged man like himself to get up and say he had never visited any of the colonies.

The clothes of John Blackshaw of Port Dover, were found on the dock and he is believed to have committed suicide.

Cadet Shot at Ranges.

Halifax, N.S., May 17.—By the accidental discharge of his rifle, Wm. McKenzie, 16 years of age, a cadet from the Dartmouth High School, was instantly killed on the military ranges at Bedford, 10 miles from Halifax, on Saturday afternoon.

The lad, with a number of friends, left the city early in the afternoon for rifle practice. It was McKenzie's first attempt at rifle shooting, and while waiting for his turn to fire, he stood leaning on his rifle. The rifle was cocked, and the trigger, catching his clothing, snapped down, the bullet crashing through the lad's brain.

Youth Admits Serious Charge.

St. Catharines, May 17.—Jesse Strickler, the youth who held up William B. Calder near Beamsville a week ago, was before Judge Carman and pleaded guilty to shooting at Calder with intent to maim. The boy claimed to have been employed at the Rossin House, Toronto, for some time. After a severe lecture the judge remanded him till Wednesday for sentence.

Attacked by a Bulldog.

Chatham, May 17.—Gladys, the five-year-old daughter of F. Schram, was badly bitten on the face by a white bulldog on Saturday. The dog was left here by a theatrical man, who left the city. It has been shot.

Three hundred Doukhobors are to leave Kamsack for British Columbia.

NEW INSURANCE MEASURE IS REPORTED IN THE HOUSE

In Long and Busy Session on Saturday Insurance Bill Clauses Are All Passed But One—Fifty Million Loan and Ministry of Labor Come Up for Discussion.

Ottawa, May 17.—Considerable speed was made in the Commons with the insurance bill on Saturday and in committee all of the 192 clauses, except that relating to the 15 per cent. tax, were passed. This contentious matter will be taken up to-day.

During the day Mr. Fielding announced the Government's intentions to create a sinking fund. R. L. Borden opposed the appointment of a Minister of Labor as unnecessary. Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, edged into a corner, finally admitted that the Government had received certain representations from British Columbia as to race track gambling.

Prior to taking up the insurance bill Mr. Fielding introduced a resolution declaring it expedient that in the case of insurance on property in Canada, effected in any unlicensed company, the person effecting such shall pay to the Minister of Finance for the consolidated revenue fund a sum total of 16 per cent. of the total net cost of the insurance so effected.

Mr. Fielding said the resolution would guage the temper of the House. Upon the clause on which was based the resolution there was much difference of opinion, but he did not regret the matter as vital and would accept the judgment of the House.

He pointed out that the object of the Canadian law was that when licensed companies comply with the law unlicensed companies should not be allowed to do business without restriction. However, the machinery for this was defective and it was evaded by entering into contracts outside the company.

The clause was designed to raise the question. In its original form, parties who came into Canada to inspect risks would be considered as doing insurance. Property owners, however, had resisted this proposal on the ground that they would be at the mercy of the insurance combine. A compromise was effected and the plan of proposing a reasonable tax was proposed.

Mr. Fielding said that the New England mutuals, and individual underwriters did much business in Canada. The former, by sprinklers, and other forms of protection, greatly reduced risks and by a system of rebates greatly reduced the cost of insurance.

The tax, he said, would be not on the nominal, but the net rate. One manufacturer feared that his premiums would thereby be increased from $400 to $900. It would only be increased to $460.

Mr. Haggart doubted if Parliament had the power to impose such a tax, and this doubt was expressed by several of the speakers.

Speedy progress was then made with the bill in committee, and by 3.30 in the afternoon all of the 192 clauses had carried except that relating to the tax. The bill was accordingly reported.

The Commons then went into committee on Hon. Mr. Fielding's resolution to authorize the Government to float a loan amounting to $50,000,000. The Minister of Finance said that obligations were maturing and they requested funds to meet these. To meet the 1885 loan of six and a half million pounds, $20,874,000 was requested, $17,750,000 for the 1886 four per cent. loan, and $11,277,330 for temporary loans, altogether about $50,000,000.

Mr. Fielding added that it was the intention of the Government to establish a sinking fund.

The bill was allowed to stand for third reading, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved the second reading of the bill to create a fully organized Department of Labor with a responsible Minister in charge. He considered that the present Department of Labor, which was created nine years ago, had proved an eminently successful experiment in creating the better relations between the wage-earners and the wage-payers.

In committee on the bill, Mr. Borden said he could not understand the necessity of having seventeen Ministers. In the United States, with a population of 90,000,000, they had only nine Cabinet Ministers. This Government had already added two Ministers to the Cabinet since it came into power.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said the system here was really different from that of the United States, where responsibility for legislation rested with the Senate and the House of Representatives.

The amendment to the Exchequer Court Act which gives the crown the right to appeal to Provincial Court, but does not give the same right to the subject, was opposed by Mr. Borden, Mr. Doherty and others, but Mr. Aylesworth refused to yield, and the bill was carried.

When the bill to amend the criminal code was under review as to race track gambling, Mr. Borden read telegrams which he had received from the British Columbia Methodist conference urging action and saying that American gamblers were finding their way into the country. He asked if the Government had received any representations from British Columbia.

A dead silence ensued. Eventually, Mr. Aylesworth said he had not heard Mr. Borden express his views on the question.

Mr. Borden countered that he was merely enquiring if the Government had had representations.

Mr. Aylesworth then replied in the affirmative, but said he would like to have the views of the House on the matter.

Mr. Borden said that if conditions were as represented action should be taken at once. The question should have been referred to a special committee to deal with. Some action seemed to him necessary.

Hon. R. F. Sutherland moved an amendment to penalize the transmission of electricity of more than 50,000 voltage unless on a fenced roadway 60 feet wide, the penalty to be $10,000. He said the penalty had been suggested by recent accidents in Western Ontario. Mr. Aylesworth suggested that the amendment stand over, and Mr. Sutherland withdrew it.

The penalty for kidnapping was increased from seven to twenty-five years, and the bill passed.

The House then went into supply and rose shortly before midnight.

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

The petition against the election of Hon. Sydney Fisher was dismissed.

Archbishop Bruchesi has placed the Theatre Royal at Montreal under the ban.

Percy M. Stinson of London, Ont., was killed on the railway near Dorchester.

Germany is establishing a line of airship stations along the French frontier.

A number of Armenians were fired on by a band of Moslems near Adana on Saturday.

The fourth son of Abdul Hamid, the deposed Sultan of Turkey, has been placed under arrest.

Foreigners at Urumiah, Persia, including British and American missionaries, are in danger.

The French postal strike is practically dead, and the leaders in their desperation are adopting destructive tactics.

The steamer Gargantua carried away three gates in the Welland Canal yesterday, but repairs are being rushed.

Rev. George Anderson was consecrated Bishop of Moosonee by Archbishop Matheson at the Church of St. Andrew, Kildonan.

Chas. L. Foxwell, a mining stock broker, is under arrest at Washington. He is alleged to have victimised a number of firms in Canada and the United States.

IMPRISONED FOR STEALING

Chicago, May 17.—Another holdup man was sentenced to life imprisonment by a jury in Judge Kerstens' court Saturday. The amount said to have been stolen by him was 52 cents. The verdict was returned under the new law which calls for life imprisonment in cases where robbery is committed by men armed with deadly weapons. Nine bandits have been sent to prison for life under this law.

CHIEFTAIN SAVITZKY OF RUSSIA KILLED

Mohiley, Russia, May 17.—The noted robber chieftain Savitsky, the "Robin Hood" of the Russian revolution, has been killed by members of the Rural Guard. With three members of his band Savitsky was surrounded by the guard two days ago in a neighboring village, and, after a fight that lasted for four hours, all four were killed. One member of the guard lost his life in the encounter.

Savitsky, who was a high school student when he took to brigandage, has been the terror of the police of the provinces of Tchernigov and Mohiley for several years, but he was a source of amusement to the rest of Russia on account of his daredevil exploits. He delighted in playing fantastic tricks on the police. It was his custom to rob only the rich, and he distributed his spoils among the peasantry with a lavish hand. He finally was betrayed by a member of his band.

BLINDED BY COFFEE EXPLOSION

Indianapolis, May 17.—"I am badly burned and blind," was a message slowly ticked in the Panhandle railroad despatcher's office at Logansport, Ind., last Saturday night from G. E. Frazel, an operator in a block tower near Marion.

The despatcher ordered a freight train to stop at the place, and the crew found Frazel suffering terrible agony from burns. He had been scalded by the explosion of a bottle of coffee he was heating on a stove, and felt his way to a key to call for help. Frazel was taken to Marion, where yesterday a physician says he fears he cannot save Frazel's sight.

PROVINCIAL RIGHTS

The heather is afire and the blaze can be seen afar off. The Conmee Bill allowing a company or a man to expropriate provincial property simply because it is, or he says that it is "for the general benefit of Canada," is an outrage. The best and choicest possessions of our people will become the spoil of the grafters if this loophole is opened to those Americans with capital, who want to gobble up our waterpowers and can find Canadians willing to help them. The Ontario Government is appealing to the Senate, to Liberal and Conservative alike, to Hon. Geo. W. Ross, as well as to Sir Mackenzie Bowell for support in repelling this attempt to despoil us, not in this instance only, but in all those for which this one will serve as a precedent. It is always graft. It is with the Laurier Government, not the people, but the moneyed man every time.

AN UNFAIR COMPARISON

The Conservative Government not only gave the Canadian Pacific Railway $25,000,000 cash, 25,000,000 acres of land and an equal value in railway already built, but in a time of stress made the company a loan of $30,000,000, which loan was duly repaid. This was done in the interests of the people.

It is equally important in the interests of the people to make a loan of $10,000,000 to the Grand Trunk Pacific. The loan is fully secured and will hasten the completion of the prairie section.—Kingston Whig (Liberal.)

Surely there is no similarity between the two cases. The C. P. R. had to be built, no matter what happened, in order to keep British Columbia and the west in the Dominion of Canada. They would have done undoubtedly as they threatened. Then again the loan was repaid, and then again the whole scheme has been a success. The Grits opposed it, tooth and nail, being wholly in the wrong. The Conservative party, led by old Sir John, was wholly in the right. Which is, then, the better authority in the present case? But above and beyond lies this important fact. The G.T.P. would have been built, and was offered to us for nothing. The favoured syndicate wanted it otherwise. That's what's the matter with the G.T.P.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL

The article in Saturday night's issue of the Examiner, affirming that the Whitney Government has introduced the spoils system into our local Normal school, is a wholly baseless fabrication of a disordered brain. In the first place, Mr. Walker, the efficient head is a Liberal. He was appointed because he was a first-class man and he has amply justified his selection. In the second place schools that are "invaded" by the teacher-pupils of the Normal schools are paid by the government for the privilege made use of. No interruption takes place nor is there the possibility of harm being done. On the contrary, great good ensues to the "invaded" school—the teacher of it, and the teacher-pupils as well. As for Mr. Gibbs, the liveryman, having been instructed to avoid Liberals in his patronage in connection with the conveyances hired to carry the teacher-pupils, it is only necessary to say that the statement is too trivial and absurd to waste words on. Neither the member, Mr. Bradburn, nor Mr. Gibbs is so small as to suggest any such thing. The whole affair is a success. That's what is irritating the Examiner.

GERMAN HIGHWAYS

The following information concerning the highways of Germany is furnished by United States Consul Robert J. Thompson, of Hanover:

Perhaps Germany is not more noted for the excellence of its roads than any other of several European countries, but it is not an extravagant statement to say that one never sees in any of the American Western States a country road as good as the poorest to be found here. While this is due principally to the scientific building and maintenance of public roads in Europe, it is, perhaps, likewise attributable in equal degree to the restriction of the highways to a reasonable and workable width.

German roads are perhaps subjected to a hundred times more traffic than similar roads in the United States. These roads range from 20 to 30 feet in width, while in our Middle or Western States, where the traffic is comparatively light, we take land of an average value of $100 per acre and cut it up with roadways 66 feet in width, practically two-thirds of the same being given over to weeds, which furnish an inexhaustible supply of seeds for the adjoining farm lands. The farmer in Germany who has conquered the weeds on his ground need have no thought of their being started again from uncultivated or uncared-for land along the roadways. There are no weeds, no mud or chuck holes, no sand stretches in the roads. Looking into the valleys from one of the thousands of lookout towers which have been placed on the summit of nearly every high elevation of land or mountain in Germany, the roads lie before one's view like bright white ribbons running past squares of green or brown fields, along the verges of cultivated woods, and binding village to village—a solution of the first and most important problem of human economy and evolution, that of transportation.

It is not an infrequent sight, when travelling by rail through the more level stretches of country in Germany, France, or Holland, to see an automobile flying over some main highway running parallel with the railroad, easily keeping pace with the train for miles, it being generally necessary to slacken speed only when passing through the larger villages and towns and never on account of poor roads.

The good-roads question for the United States may seem almost hopeless when considered with such pictures before the eye, but one of the simplest and most practical measures that could be taken for their betterment would be to reduce their width to from one-third to one-half of what they now are. Work could then be concentrated on the roadway and drains, the waste land returned to the farmers or abutting property owners, and by these perfectly natural economies make both the building and maintenance of the roads a much simpler and less expensive proposition.

No road can be called really good if it is bordered with weeds or mud, and to care for and keep up a road from 60 to 70 feet in width, not to mention the loss of land, means in the long run nearly double the expense of a 30 or 35-foot road. The Prussian law specifically states that unnecessary width shall be avoided on account of the cost of land and the greater expense of construction and maintenance.

The average width of the chaussee or highway of the first-class in Prussia is approximately 30 feet, and this width has been found to be ample for all purposes. In the United States, public highways in the States given below may be conservatively estimated as follows, in miles, the data for Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan being official:—Minnesota, 80,000; Wisconsin, 60,000; Michigan, 60,000; Iowa, 70,000; Kansas, 70,000; Nebraska, 80,000; Missouri, 80,000; Illinois, 80,000; Indiana, 70,000; Ohio, 80,000; total, 700,000.

Reducing the width of these public highways, which now average 66 feet, to 36 feet, leaving them still much wider than the highways of Prussia, would give back to the farmers of those states for cultivation, 2,500,000 acres of generally tillable land, which, at an average valuation of $100 per acre, would mean the restoration to the producing values of the states named of $250,000,000. This sum has an annual interest value of $12,500,000, an amount which might be recovered, and if applied to the proper scientific construction of roads in the United States would in a few years give us the most extensive and finest country road system in the world.

PUSHER-GRADES IN HARVEY

This is the sum represented by the cost of the Grand Trunk Pacific government-owned branch between Quebec and Moncton. When first the line was spoken of, it was said that 140 miles in distance to the seaboard, would be saved in comparison with the Intercolonial, our other government owned road. Through a miscalculation, wilful or otherwise, it turns out to be a possible saving of 20 miles. When it had been freely alleged by the capitalistic press that the grades of the new branch were so low as to make it a matter of necessity in comparison with the Intercolonial. This was another myth. The grades are so much higher than those of the Intercolonial as to necessitate huge "pusher" engines to be added behind trains to enable them to get up. Another blunder so glaring as to be suspicious. Then we rob our 75 million dollar Intercolonial of a part of its traffic although it is already now known as the deficit railway from one end of continent to the other. What may we expect therefore in the future? If the G.T.P. refuse to operate the line from Winnipeg to Moncton arguing that since it is a government railway it must be operated by it, then we have worse than two more Intercolonials on our hands. No wonder the Weekly Sun is upset about it. Then we shall have to lend the capitalists more of our good money. We lend to them at a low rate and borrow at a higher, paying the difference ourselves. The Grand Trunk guarantees the $10,000,000 loan! And yet the Grand Trunk cannot pay the millions it owes the government now, nor has it ever paid one cent even of interest. This loan was got forty years ago. Then the loss to Ontario farms is as someone has calculated, 50 per cent from opening up rival lands. This would mean not less than a loss of one hundred millions to the farmers of Ontario. The poor farmer, as always, loses first. His hopes of improved conditions vanish and he will never know the reason. But if he looks he will see the rich capitalist grow richer, hence he may have a fairly good idea where his money has gone. The cost of the Quebec to Moncton bungle is now said to be $35,000,000 which really might just as well have been thrown into the river along with the Quebec bridge. In the meanwhile the farmer can look at his own pusher grades in the townships and wonder why the government could not have spent his money to help him instead of to further impoverish him.

BUILDING UP EXCUSES

Major Currie asked if the Premier was aware that a round robin had been circulated, pledging members to support a government guarantee of the bonds of the Georgian Bay Canal scheme, and if such legislation was to be brought down this session.

Sir Wilfrid replied that this was the first intimation he had had of the matter. However, so far as legislation was concerned, every important measure was on the order paper.—The Witness.

The round robin has done duty before. It did duty at the time of the salary grab, members of both parties signing the circular agreement to the effect that no matter what inducements might be offered the signers would not be betrayed into giving way. What noble conduct! Here again it is to be used as an excuse for making the poor toilers of Eastern Canada build a canal that will neither now nor hereafter do them one particle of good. On the other hand, it will be a source of great actual harm. The money men and contractors are squeezing the workers to death but it will not always continue.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The civil service at Ottawa may be over-manned but it certainly is not overpaid. Under the present regime money goes but a short way in comparison with even ten years ago.

Mr. Thomas Mulvey, K.C., till lately Under Secretary of State in Ontario, goes to Ottawa in the same capacity. He is a man of fine character, much resource and great executive ability.

"Hon. Adam Beck's artesian wells have solved the water problem in London for a time," says the Globe. Why is an effort not made to get artesian well water here? It would be a great boon.

Peterborough County claims for flooding paid to the people of Ennismore, Stoney Lake, Otonabee, Harvey, Monaghan and Asphodel, amount to $36,762, as contained in returns to the question asked the Minister of Railways and Canals, in the House.

The Examiner charges Mr. Gibbs with ordering his drivers to go unfed rather than patronize Liberals in their Normal school drives. In company with all who enjoy good living, and who will not go hungry and unfed merely to spite Liberals, we call upon Mr. Gibbs to remember that his goodly proportions were not built up in that way, and further, can anyone call to mind a Tory's ever doing anything for his party on an empty stomach? We pause for a reply.

The church baseball leagues result in the bringing together of both clergy and people of all shades of religious opinion, who go to watch their flock steal—bases, or "fly-out"—to centre or guy each other from the coaching bench. Baseball is doing a good work. If we can "tolerate" each other in sport, which is perhaps the most inflamable of pursuits, we can look forward to toleration if not co-operation in other branches of human progress. Thus do we broaden out like streams as we near the great sea of the eternity beyond.

Seriously Hurt.

Belleville, May 17.—Thomas Givens, an aged man, has concussion of the brain as the result of being thrown from a cart while the pony attached was running away.

Vessels drawing 19 feet 6 inches can now navigate the Lime Kiln Crossing.

THE SHEPHERD.

A well bred sire will often add two or three pounds in weight of flesh or fleece over a poor one.

Protection For Lambs.

Molasses barrels or other large barrels, with one end knocked out, placed about the field and open to a warm quarter afford capital protection for lambs from cold winds. These barrels can easily be turned daily against the wind, and lambs will make extensive use of them. Warmth to a young animal is equal to so much good food.

Condition Powders For Sheep.

I keep a box fastened about two feet from the floor, under cover, always filled with salt, ashes and sulphur, two parts salt, one of ashes and one of sulphur, says a breeder. I have never needed any other condition powders. Sheep cared for in this way, if of a good breed, will be healthy and rugged, will own their lambs and have plenty of milk to raise them. I consider them one of the best paying branches of stock husbandry.

Dipping Improves the Wool.

Sheep thrive much better when their skins are clean, and it has been clearly proved that a good dip increases the quantity and improves the quality of the wool. It is absolutely impossible for lambs infested with ticks or any other parasites to thrive properly owing to the constant irritation set up.

Burling the Ewe.

It is often the practice to burl the ewe—that is, cut away the wool on the inside thighs and around the tail and the wool around the udder—before sending the ewes to a distant field. It no doubt is right in theory, but practical men say it is wrong, for should cold east winds prevail gargeted udders will be the result, with the loss of several ewes. Just take away any quite loose wool near the teats which may possibly get into the lamb's mouth and so cause death by swallowing, but do not interfere with nature's protection to the udder until warm weather is assured.

An Epistolary Hint.

In the letter from Boston was a special delivery stamp.

"What did she send that for?" the woman wondered. "The information she wants can be sent in an ordinary letter. It won't need to be sent special."

"That stamp," said the man, "is a delicate hint to be quick about answering. It is a hurry up device used by many men. It is very effective. A two cent stamp does not always spur one on to any special effort, but a special delivery stamp means that the writer wants what he wants when he wants it, and the most dilatory correspondent alive is not going to let any grass grow between the scratches of his pen when answering."

Mantle Rays.

"There are X rays and X rays, and there are also rays from those mantle things that you put on gas burners to improve the light." The speaker, a photographer, pointed to a batch of fogged plates. "I know to my cost that there are mantle rays," said he. "For a month I stored new plates in a closet along with a mantle, and all of them got fogged. The mantle, you see, contained thorium, a radio-active substance that penetrates a cardboard plate box as easily as it penetrates glass. I didn't know that till my doctor told me so last week. My ignorance cost me over a hundred plates."

Shunted.

Editor—Is this your first effort?

Budding Poet—Yes, sir. Is it worth anything to you?

Editor (with emotion)—It's worth a guinea if you will promise not to write anything more for publication until after this has been printed. I want your entire output, you understand.

Budding Poet—I promise that, all right. When will it be printed?

Editor—Never while I'm alive.—London Telegraph.

Mr. Corrigan had small patience with tramps and was about to order him off the place when something changed his mind. The fellow had a cast in his eye. He recognized him instantly. It struck the old gentleman at once as being singular that this man should claim to be starving when not two hours before he had been eating heartily from a brown paper parcel in the train. Tramps did not usually travel by train—not inside of them, at any rate—which was an additional cause for suspicion. Uncle Michael determined to investigate the matter further, so he led the tramp to the back of the house, where a plate of bread and meat was set before him. He ate sparingly for a hungry man, but took in the premises with a seemingly careless eye, while the account he gave of himself was far from satisfactory. He claimed to have come from Albany on foot, as was shown by the travel stained condition of his shoes, which was clearly a lie, for Mr. Corrigan had seen him traveling in an entirely opposite direction and was more convinced than ever that a cast in the eye was the brand of a scoundrel. He declined to give the fellow money and watched him suspiciously until he left the place, feeling instinctively that something would bring him back again.

Richard, who was sitting on the lawn with Miss Harriet, had also seen the tramp as he limped through the open carriage gate into the road. Bills had ridden over to Tarrytown in quest of pipe tobacco for his master and was stopped by the vagrant at the entrance of the drive. Richard saw him bend in his saddle, confer with the man for a momen' or two, then turn into the stable yard. Presently he reappeared and crossed to his master with the tobacco which he had secured.

"Navy Capstan, m' lord," he stated triumphantly, "the kind wot you smokes at 'ome, sir."

"Thanks," said Richard. "By the way, Bills, what was that queer looking beggar saying to you just now?"

Bills started slightly, as one ashamed of being seen in such evil company.

"Oh, 'im? Yes, sir. W'y, 'e was awakin' his way to the station, m' lord. A rum sort, I calls 'im, sir, beggin' your pardon for"—

"Yes, yes, Bills," Richard reproved, with a show of impatience. "That will do. You may go."

The valet bowed respectfully and departed, while Miss Harriet looked at her companion in polite surprise.

"Why are you so short with him?" she asked. "To me he is perfectly delicious. I don't believe he ever laughed in all his life, did he?"

"Don't know, I'm sure," drawled Richard lazily. "I curb his tongue from necessity. The fellow is inclined to be loquacious. At times I am forced to—ah—sit on him."

Miss Renwyck laughed.

"Do you know," she said, "you are becoming an American very rapidly? Really, I am beginning to be quite vain of my success with a first pupil."

"My dear young lady," the Texan answered in a tone half banter, half in earnest, which was deeper than she dreamed, "if you should wish it I'd gladly become—er—a kangaroo."

Again Miss Renwyck laughed till the silvery echoes reached the ears of Michael Corrigan, who lounged on the front veranda.

"By George," he chuckled to himself as he rubbed his hands in the manner characteristic of him, "that young man is making progress!"

In the evening when Mr. Renwyck came up from the city Mr. Corrigan took him aside and related the day's experience with the tramp, suggesting that a detective be employed while the valuable lot of diamonds was in the house. The two gentlemen, as has already been stated, never got on together peaceably. If one of them offered a suggestion the other found reason to combat it vigorously, and in this case Mr. Renwyck took the opposite side with a vengeance, poohpoohing the possibility of theft from start to finish.

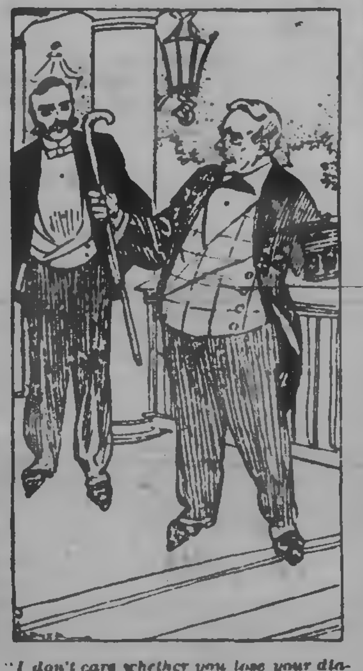
"Why, my dear Michael," he said in a tone of undisguised scorn, "what you say is nonsense, pure and simple. The house is equipped from top to bottom with a perfect system of burglar alarms, which I set myself each night. Unless there is collusion with some person on the inside I not only defy any light fingered gentleman to enter, but I give him a cordial invitation to try. No, sir! If you want to put a Gatling gun in your own house, do so by all means. In mine I have no room for artillery or an army of Pinkertons. Now, don't you see how absurd you are?"

"All right," assented Mr. Corrigan. "I've warned you, and that's all I've got to say. They're not my diamonds."

"Just wait a moment, Michael," said Mr. Renwyck, walking after him. "I want to show you what an idiotic stand you have taken. You say the man has a cast in his eye. Very good; I'll admit that, but I venture to say that in the state of New York there are from twenty to thirty thousand people with casts in their eyes. You claim that it is a mark of rascality. I don't agree with you. My own father had a cast in his eye."

"Don't doubt it in the least," snapped Mr. Corrigan. "That explains it. I've often wondered"—

"Come, come," laughed Mr. Renwyck; "you gain nothing by being personal. But listen. You saw a man in the train—though you confess you only glanced at him—and immediately recognized him as a bristly murderer who has committed the crime of being hungry. Did you see murderer No. 1 get off the train? No, of course not. He is probably dining in the bosom of his humble but honest family, while you, my dear sir, are aching to clap him in the penitentiary." Mr. Renwyck paused to laugh. "Really, Michael, you amuse me. Age is reasonsible for bad eyesight perhaps, but it is your poor old brain that troubles me. You have developed into a fussy old woman—Miss Michaela Corrigan, spinster, sixty-one and afraid to say 'boo' to a bat."



"I don't care whether you lose your diamonds and plate or not."

The old lawyer paused suddenly in his walk and thrust the ferrule of his cane deep into the gravel path.

"Jacob," he said in a tone of suppressed anger, "that will do. You have gone just a little too far. I told you what I thought without any wish for an argument, and now I'll tell you something else. I don't care whether you lose your diamonds and plate or not. What's more, I hope you will. Good night."

He had intended staying for dinner, but changed his mind and swung rapidly away, while Mr. Renwyck looked after him, laughing merrily.

"Oh, I say, Michaela!" he called. "Don't forget to look under your bed tonight. You might find a burglar with a cast in his eye."

For once Mr. Renwyck had got the better of his brother-in-law, and the fact pleased him immensely.

"The poor old granny!" he muttered as he went into the house. "Upon my word, I'm astonished at him!"

It may be stated that, contrary to Mr. Corrigan's flat denial, that gentleman did take further interest in the possible burglary, if only to prove his own theory. On the following night three private detectives came out to Irvington and stole separately to the lawyer's house. About 11 o'clock, accompanied by Mr. Corrigan in person, they concealed themselves at various points of vantage on the Renwyck place and awaited developments. The night was damp and gloomy—most excellent weather conditions for a housebreaking party, but with disadvantages for amateur detectives at the advanced age of sixty-one. Beyond a touch of rheumatism Mr. Corrigan bagged nothing, and the morning found him a very disgruntled old gentleman. However, there was a humorous side to the vigil, and with this the old lawyer consoled himself.

"Lord!" he chuckled. "The joke's on me this time, but I wouldn't have Jacob find it out—no, not for a thousand dollars cash."

Meanwhile Mr. Renwyck, having scored decisively on Uncle Michael, enjoyed his dinner as a victor should. He was in the best of spirits, not alone because of his triumph, but because of certain cheerful developments which had come to light at the meeting of the stockholders of his new deep water harbor company. He was so elated over his certain success that he cast out broad hints which were mystifying enigmas to all present with the exception of Richard, who understood only too well. To him they meant the collapse of his father's cherished hopes, while he, a dutiful son, was forced to sit calmly and watch an enemy gloat.

Dinner was scarcely over when callers were announced. They were old friends of the family, claiming the attention of Mr. and Mrs. Renwyck and Miss Schermerly, which left the four young people to their own devices. For this Richard thanked the visitors fervently and wandered with Miss Harriet across the lawn, where they seated themselves on a favorite bench and enjoyed a long and uninterrupted chat. Had Uncle Michael been present instead of sulking in his lonely bachelor home he might have had cause to exchange his frowns for chuckles, in view of the fact that a certain young scamp was assuredly making progress.

The progress was not of tremendous moment, after all, yet Richard forgot the troublous harbor company and all else, indeed, besides the lady and himself. Miss Harriet in tugging at a rosebush had wounded her finger with a tiny thorn, and the Texan at once became far more solicitous than he would have been had he himself been gored by the horns of a fractious steer. He found it imperative to examine her hurt by the light of matches which Miss Harriet struck and held in her unwounded hand, and the physician, therefore, required a much longer time than he might have taken under more favorable circumstances. At length he was forced to admit reluctantly that neither was there any danger of lockjaw nor was he studying palmistry, yet as the last match went out he applied a remedy by pressing the afflicted member to his lips.

True, Miss Harriet had snatched her hand away, but she smiled in the darkness and was not half so displeased as she tried to make this impertinent nobleman think. Nor was the impertinent nobleman half so contrite as he might have been, for before they left their seat he had bent his head and kissed her hand again on a certain dimple which had taunted him for several days.

His heart was singing now, and the words he set to music were the words of advice by his eminent counsel, Michael Corrigan:

If ever you hope to find your joy,
You've got to brazen it out, my boy,
For—

And here the heart's song ended abruptly, for Mr. Renwyck was calling them from the steps of the veranda.

"Croyland," he said laughingly as they came into the light, "if you and Harriet have finished your flirtation I'd like you to come into the library for a quiet smoke. There, Harriet," he chided, "you have had this young gentleman to yourself all day. You don't begrudge him to your hardworking father for an hour, do you? Kiss me and run along to your nest."

The Texan longed with all his soul to say the same, but was forced to part more formally, at the same time bidding good night to the rest of the little house party, after which he braced himself for an ordeal and followed Mr. Renwyck into the library, wondering what was coming.

CHAPTER XIV.

To the suspicious adventurer the first action of his host was most peculiar, for without explanation he closed and carefully locked the door. Richard's apprehensions were relieved, however, when Mr. Renwyck produced a decanter and cigars, lighted his own perfecto and then lay back in his deep leather chair and laughed till the tears ran down his face. The mystified Texan smoked on in polite silence, patiently waiting for some explanation of the old man's humor. He could wait quietly, since it was evident from Mr. Renwyck's exuberant joy that Richard had nothing personally to fear—that his secret was still his own. After a time his host wiped his eyes with his handkerchief and apologized for his merriment.

"Forgive me, Lord Croyland," he begged; "but, to tell you the truth, I just can't help it. Affairs in Texas are not only drifting my way, but the whole situation has become intensely humorous. Why, it is a regular play. Old Bill Williams represents tragedy, my company will shortly supply melodrama, while a third corporation has appeared on the stage and is furnishing both sides with comedy. Let me explain."

"Do so, I beg you," murmured Richard, striving not to look as uncomfortable as he always felt when this Texas business came up. The financier laughed again and proceeded:

"As I told you before, Bill Williams' company is working for a deep water harbor at Matagorda City, while my company is equally anxious to operate at Longmatt. Very well. Now, listen. I learned today that a new corporation was organized last month under the laws of the state of New Jersey which styles itself the Peace and Good Will Realty company. Think of it! The very name will kill it in its teething stage."

"Who are back of this corporation?" asked Richard, greatly interested in this new development.

"I don't know. They are probably so ashamed of themselves that their names are kept secret," laughed Mr. Renwyck.

"But I thought the incorporators"—

"Dummies, like my own company, only in this case all of them are real dummies in fact as well as in theory."

"I see."

"It develops that the promoters of this company, whoever they may be, have gone down to Texas and invested their capital in the state's largest and most generous product."

"And what is that?" asked Richard in some surprise.

"Hot air," returned Mr. Renwyck in a paroxysm of mirth. "It's cheap, but they seem to want it."

"I don't quite understand."

YOUR BACKACHE WILL YIELD
To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Rockland, Maine.—"I was troubled for a long time with pains in my back and side, and was miserable in every way. I doctored until I was discouraged, and thought I should never get well. I read a testimonial about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and thought I would try it. After taking three bottles I was cured, and never felt so well in all my life. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all my friends."—Mrs. WILL YOUNG, 6 Columbia Avenue, Rockland, Me.

Backache is a symptom of female weakness or derangement. If you have backache, don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Nothing we know of will do this so safely and surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Cure the cause of these distressing aches and pains and you will become well and strong.

The great volume of unsolicited testimony constantly pouring in proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has restored health to thousands of women.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge.

"LION AND MOUSE" BROUGHT $7 A WORD

Generally there is not much money in authorship. One has to climb a long way before mediocrity before his income from his pen assumes more than very ordinary proportions. Even then actual merit is not always the measure of success, for merit without popularity does not command money in literature. But when one produces something really good and at the same time manages to catch popular fancy, success is assured. Such a happy combination means both fame and money. There are writers who, because of the fame they have achieved, are able to market their most commonplace productions at their own figures; and there are others whose best work is only second grade but who find a ready market because of their prominence in other walks of life. But on the whole the man or woman in literary work is rare who reaps a pecuniary reward anywhere commensurate with the effort expended.

Among those whose productions have proved a mine of wealth may be numbered Charles Klein. In his play, The Lion and the Mouse, he struck popular fancy and it has netted him $7 a word. His latest play, The Third Degree, is proving a success.

ALMOST SENSATIONAL

There is General Surprise at the Great Number of Persons in Peterboro' Who Praise Booth's Kidney Pills.

It's but a short time since the first box of Booth's Kidney Pills came to Peterborough.

What a work this stranger has accomplished. Dozens of residents benefitted and cured of lame, weak and aching backs, urinary and kidney troubles. It is remarkable; the reason for it is Booth's Kidney Pills are a new blend of vegetable ingredients having a peculiar action on the kidney tissue that brings quick help.

Mrs. M. J. Cook 494 Aylmer street, Peterborough, Ont., says:—

"I always find quick relief in Booth's Kidney Pills. They strengthen and relieve my back of a dull, heavy pain which settles in the small of it and extends into my shoulders. For years I had suffered with these symptoms of kidney trouble and could find no relief. I would have frequent spells of dizziness and headaches. I was restless and weak and would often awake more tired than on going to bed. I had never found relief for these painful and weakening symptoms of kidney trouble until I used Booth's Kidney Pills procured at McDermid & Jury's Pharmacy. I have had little trouble since as I use Booth's Kidney Pills occasionally, and they keep me in the best of health."

The Salt Sea Legend.

There is a legend in the Norse scalds which explains why the sea is salt. The "bountiful Frodi," whose mythical reign was a golden age indeed, possessed a quern, or hand mill, which ground out gold and peace, but which would grind out stores of anything desired by its owner. Two giant maidens, ruled over by Frodi, were the grinders. In an evil day a sea rover came upon the scene, slew Frodi and carried off the quern and the two giant maidens who worked it. When the sea rover's vessel was right out at sea he ordered the maidens to grind salt. At midnight they asked if they had not ground enough. The sea rover, angry at being awakened from his sleep, commanded them to grind until morning. Now, the giant maidens naturally enough worked very quickly, so as they went on grinding the load of salt grew so heavy that it sank the ship, and now the sea will continue salt forever.

North Sydney, N.S., May 15.—The French fishing schooner Dictator was seized yesterday morning and brought into North Sydney by the revenue cutter Gladiator, Capt. Gordon, for a breach of customs regulations committed a year ago.

One day last summer Capt. Gordon saw the Dictator sailing out of the Port of St. Agnes. Upon being interrogated the master of the Dictator replied that he had entered his vessel at that port, but subsequently it developed that such had not been the case.

During last week about 400 bales of tobacco leaf were shipped from Havana to the United States.

SALE OF LANDS IN GILLIES LIMIT

Under authority of an Order-in-Council dated 22nd April, 1909, the northerly portion of that tract of land generally known as the Gillies Limit, situated in the District of Nipissing, and Province of Ontario, containing about 800 acres, is offered for sale by tender in parcels containing 20 acres or thereabouts, such tenders to be addressed to the undersigned, at the Department of Lands, Forests and Mines, Toronto, marked on the envelope "Tender, Gillies Limit," and to be receivable at the said Department up to one o'clock p.m. on Tuesday, the 15th day of June, 1909.

Tenders are to be for each parcel separately, and to name a lump sum or bonus therefore. An accepted cheque for ten per cent. of this amount to accompany the tender, and the remainder to be paid in full within twenty days of acceptance of the same.

A royalty of ten per cent. on the gross proceeds (less freight and smelting charges) of all ores, minerals or concentrates taken from the land will be payable to the Crown, and purchasers will be required to enter into a satisfactory agreement with regard to the same.

Working conditions will be attached to the sale, and certain lands and rights will be reserved, full particulars of which, together with a map or plan showing the said tract, and the subdivisions thereof, may be obtained on application to the Department.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

F. COCHRANE,
Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.

THE CASES THAT WILL COME UP AT TO-MORROWS HIGH COURT SESSION

Six Cases, All Civil, Are on the List — Mr. Justice Clute Presiding Judge—History of the Cases.

Six cases will come up before Justice Clute at the sittings of the High Court tomorrow. The first is the Parker vs Parker case.

The action is entirely a friendly one and is brought by the direction of the Official Guardian of the Infants, Mr Harcourt, to settle a question of title of certain lands in Hamilton. The late Alfred Parker had made an agreement with his son as to these lands but died suddenly before the legal formalities had been completed. His widow, Mrs. Minnie E Parker, wishes the arrangement completed as her late husband had intended, but Mr Parker's infant heirs have no power so to do, and the Official Guardian on their behalf desires the order of the court before he feels at liberty to execute the necessary documents. The formal allegations made in the pleadings are simply to bring before the court the necessary facts upon which to base an order.

Roger, Bennett and Goodwill, solicitors for plaintiff; Hall and Hayes, solicitors for defendants.

In the case, Cooper vs Edmison and Dixon, the plaintiff Cooper seeks to recover monies paid by him to the defendants which were to be used in paying off a mortgage but was not done. Dennistoun, Peck and Kerr, solicitors for plaintiff, O'Connell and Gordon for defendants Edmison and defendant Dixon will conduct his own case.

A mortgage claim is the cause of the Harper vs Dobbin case. Hall, Medd and Davidson, solicitors for the plaintiff and Robt. Ruddy, KC for defendant.

Taylor vs Wm Solomon Northey, George Forsythe and Sarah Parnell is a dispute as to a mortgage claim. W H Moore, KC, for the plaintiff, Taylor, and Roger, Bennet and Goodwill for defendants Forsythe and Parnell, and R F McWilliams, for defendant Northey.

Hall vs Derocher, with Edmison and Dixon as third parties is another case caused by a mortgage dispute.

W H Moore, KC, solicitor for plaintiff, Hall and Hall and Hayes, solicitors for defendant Derocher.

Moore vs G D Hay, James D Clarke, A H Stratton of this city and E V Portway of Toronto, is a dispute in which the plaintiff Moore, claims that he gave promissory notes to defendant Hay and did not receive any returns.

W H Moore, KC, for pltff. and Hall, Medd and Davidson for defendants.

AN ORIGINAL WAY OF HOLDING A PROSPECTIVE BUYER

The rivalry amongst those interested in the sale of real estate is keen. An example of the strong competition is evidenced in the ultra friendly attitude towards a customer, of a local contractor.

The contractor was getting a house ready for a gentleman from New York who was to live here, but the latter came before the house was ready for occupancy. To make sure, however that he did not move into another residence the hospitable contractor took the visitor and his family under his own roof for a couple of weeks, it is stated, pending the completion of the house which is situated on the Dickson property in the north end of the city.

The dwelling was finished last week and the new citizen with his family and effects moved into it.

ST. PETER'S T.A.S. WILL TRY TO ENROLL SOME NEW MEMBERS

At the meeting of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society yesterday afternoon it was decided that a special effort would be made to get in new members during the next three weeks It is customary to hold a movement of this character during May and October of each year and the canvass has always been attended with excellent results.

The committees for the purpose of completing organization in connection with the campaign will meet in the T.A.S. rooms Thursday evening.

BUSINESS MEN STRONGLY FAVOR PURITY WARE BY-LAW TO BE VOTED ON JUNE 1ST

In face of the public meeting of the Board of Trade, to be held in the Council Chamber on Tuesday evening, the Review interviewed several of the prominent citizens on the Purity Ware by-law. This by-law will be the subject of discussion at the Board of Trade meeting, and as it is a matter of no little importance to the citizens generally, the views of business men are at this time of value.

W. H. HILL.

Mr. W. H. Hill stated;—"In order to boom a town, and especially Peterborough, we must have new industries, and unless we get new factories we will have a lot of men out of work. The Purity Ware, limited, should certainly be supported by everyone. I for one will support it on the grounds that it is a good concern and is costing the city practically nothing. We only pay $3,000 for the site. The interest on that will amount to $120 a year. The school taxes alone will amount to much more than that."

E. F. MASON.

Probably one of the best authorities on a business proposition is Mr. E. F. Mason. When seen by the Review he said;—"From a manufacturing standpoint the Purity Ware, Ltd., is one of the best propositions ever put before the people, as we give practically nothing except the free site and the usual exemptions. The amount of money the city is asked for will not likely cost the people anything, as when the debentures are ready to be issued it is quite possible that they can be sold at 4 per cent par. Money is much easier now than it was. The loan is therefore nothing more than backing a note, where there is ample security for the amount, and the council has safeguarded itself along that line. As to the manufacturing establishment itself I consider it one of the best factories for any town to have, as they employ a high class of labor, and for which they pay the highest prices and they also will engage a great number of men. Not only this, but the locating of such a factory will bring other industries, who will manufacture the raw materials for the Purity Ware, such as pressed steel and cast-iron, etc."

E. A. PECK.

Mr. E. A. Peck said;—"The future of this town depends upon manufacturing. We must either get new factories or increase the output of those we have. I believe the aldermen have gone very carefully into the Purity Ware proposition, and I am satisfied with their recommendation. I understand that in all large undertakings there is a certain amount of information which cannot be published during the preliminary negotiations, and I am willing to go by the advice of the Manufacturers' Committee."

A. W. CRESSMAN.

Mr. A. W. Cressman;—"I am convinced that the council has made a very good bargain. I believe it would be very unwise of the ratepayers not to support it, and support it very strongly. The Manufacturers' Committee have made a particularly good bargain, and the people should support it by their votes and influence. Personally I am perfectly satisfied with the work of the committee. I have gone over the by-law carefully and will support it as it stands.

DR. MORRISON.

When Dr. M. A. Morrison was seen he stated that he had not yet given the by-law much thought, but that he would attend the Board of Trade meeting on Tuesday night and listen to the discussion.

THOS. BARRIE.

Mr. Thomas Barrie said;—"I am very much in favor of the Purity Ware by-law. I cannot see that the city is taking any particular risk in making it a loan on such security as is given by the company. I am strongly in favor of the by-law and will support it."

R. HALL & SON.

R. Hall & Son will support the by-law. They are perfectly satisfied with the work of the Manufacturers Committee and believe that the people should stand by the by-law.

MANSON COMSTOCK.

When Mr. Manson Comstock, manager of the Peterborough Hardware Co., was seen, he said;—"You may say for us that we are strongly in favor of the Purity Ware by-law. We know the position of the American concern behind the company, and are convinced that financially the Purity Ware is sound. The assistance given by the city is very little when one looks into the conditions and the factory is one which will do well."

ROBT. FAIR.

Mr. Robert Fair, president of R. Fair & Co., expressed himself as being strongly in favor of the passing of the by-law. "The people," he said, "have not in a long time had an opportunity to get a factory on such equitable terms, and I know that at least a dozen other towns are only too anxious to take up the Purity Ware proposition if it is turned down here. The council is to be congratulated upon carrying on the negotiations in secret until they had reached a ripe state, and if the Manufacturers' Committee can negotiate with several other factories in the same way, the people will undoubtedly support them."

JAMES LYNCH.

Mr. James Lynch said that as a business man he would support the Purity Ware by-law on June 1st. "If the city does not go ahead it will certainly go back, and to go ahead we must have more industries."

CHAS. MURTY.

Mr. Chas. Murty, when asked what he thought of the by-law, said that he was opposed to the bonus system on principle. He was not opposed to as many factories as possible being brought here, but he thought they should stand on their own feet,

DISCUSSES THE SHOW SEASON

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" Always Appeals in Spite of its Age

"This has been a pretty quiet year in the show business," said Andrew Downie McPhee to the Review on Saturday night at the Grand Opera House, "but still I have managed to get through all right and have no complaint to register."

Mr. McPhee is the manager of the McPhee Stock Company, that played Friday and Saturday is one of the best known showmen in the business and has several attractions on the road.

"A great many companies went under this year," he continued, "but that was simply an expression in the theatrical world of the general depression that exists everywhere in all lines of business. Musical shows have enjoyed more prosperity than most attractions and the people seem to have taken kindly to musical comedy and comic operas. A few years ago when they were at the height of their popularity it was predicated that musical plays would soon die out and were only a popular fad but they still continue to draw and apparently are good for a long time yet.

Mr. McPhee is a most successful producer of Uncle Tom's Cabin and his "Tom show" holds the matinee attendance record at the local theatre. This was made last year when the play was given to an audience of 1500.

"Mrs. Stowe's masterpiece of slavery days is one of the most human and appealing stage pictures ever written and the same people see it year after year. It is a modern classic and is so full of humor and pathos that it is always new and interesting no matter how often it is seen."

YOUNG LAD STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Young Son of Dr. T. P. McCullough Was Knocked Down on George Street

What might have resulted in a serious accident took place Saturday evening shortly after five o'clock, when the young son of Dr. T. P. McCullough was struck by an automobile, which was travelling at a fair rate of speed. The little lad had just got off the street car on the north side of Brock street on George, and when in about the middle of the road the automobile struck him, and he was hurled to one side. A large crowd soon gathered and the unfortunate young lad was carried into Redner's store and shortly after to his own home, where it was found that no serious injuries had been received. Upon enquiries being made this morning it was ascertained that the victim of the accident was bruised considerably but was able to be up and around.

LINDSAY IS ORGANIZED

Local Option Forces Choose Their Officers for Campaign

Lindsay, May 15—There was a sound of "going in the mulberry trees" last night when the general committee having in charge the movement for local option met for organization in the YMCA parlors.

Practically all the members were present, and those who were not there sent reasons. The utmost unanimity prevailed and if all work together as they did last night, it looks as if Lindsay would be dry this time next year.

The following officers and committees were elected unanimously, and from the list of names it would seem that any movement ought to be carried that had their support and backing.

McPHEE'S SHOW AGAIN SCORES

"The Girl I Love," a labor problem play of depth and interest was given a reading of absorbing interest by McPhee's stock players at the Grand on Saturday night. The drama deals with the vexed question of capital and labor and a love story of more than ordinary strength holds the interest of the audience.

All the parts were well portrayed, and the climaxes brought forth the heartiest applause.

The specialties were again finished and pleasing, the flying ring artists who were seen at the previous performance being given a particularly cordial reception.

Taking the show on its merits, even exclusive of the brilliant vaudeville numbers, it may be pronounced quite the best popular priced organization that has favored Peterborough.

OBITUARY

MRS. R. J. MUNRO

The death occurred on Sunday morning about five o'clock of Margaret Jane McKeown, wife of Mr R J Munro, of this city. Deceased had been suffering for some time from nervousness, but the immediate cause of death was heart failure. She was a daughter of the late Samuel McKeown of Cobourg, and was born in 1862. In 1882 her marriage took place to Mr Munro and with her husband and children came here from Lakefield about eight years ago.

The late Mrs Munro was a member of St John's church and attended service whenever her health permitted. Besides her husband one daughter, Irene, and one son, Harold both at home, and one sister, Miss Sarah McKeown, are left to mourn her loss.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock and interment will take place at Hillside cemetery, Lakefield. The Rev. Canon Davidson will conduct the services.

MEETING OF THE RURAL DEANERY

The Rural Deanery of Northumberland and Peterborough will meet today and tomorrow, at St George's church, Grafton.

FOR SPRING

Another collection of delighting surprises awaits you. We have just received our complete Spring importation of the splendid Axminster Carpets and they're now on display awaiting your coming, viewing and choosing.

Will you have a rich, colored Oriental design or the more simple, neat Colonial effect or perhaps you'd prefer a Louis XV or XVI style? You'll find them all here—in perfect expressions of the finest artistic work.

The splendid, rich, deep-colored blends, the soft, fine textures; the magnificent patterns, and the very exceptional values, all combine to make this showing the most attractive this store ever held.

Every piece of Carpet is of perfect weave and highest quality. If you have any Spring Carpet needs you certainly shouldn't miss this exhibit.

APPEAL FOR THE MISSION CAUSE

Was Made at St. Mark's Otonabee Yesterday

At last Sunday's service Rev. Dr. Langfeldt read the annual ascensiontide appeal which is issued by the archbishops and bishops of the church in Canada on behalf of Canadian missions. In commenting upon it Rev. Dr. Langfeldt spoke of the indifference and selfishness which the church displays when the call to help the missionary cause comes. While people spent any amount of money on finery, pleasures, etc., they think they discharge their obligations to God by giving a few cents for bringing the comforts of religion to their brethren scattered over the prairies of the North-west. He exhorted the people to be liberal, to exercise sacrifice for Christ's sake, who sacrificed Himself for them. A religion that did not require sacrifice could not amount to much, being acquired so cheaply, it was regarded cheap. Some people had their piety only in their mouth—it would be better if they had it in their hearts and in their purse as well.

Dr. Langfeldt referred to Mr. Albert Taylor, who was brought up in the parish of St. Mark's, and who is now preparing himself at Wycliffe College for the work of the ministry, and expects to be ordained next year. The call to service had come to him in St. Mark's, and the people should be proud to have one of their own giving himself to the service of God.

The Sunday being Rogation Sunday Dr. Langfeldt said special prayers for blessings upon the crops and for a fruitful season.

The offering next Sunday will be for Canadian missions.

SEVERAL BRIDGES ARE UNDER WATER

Farmers and Those Travelling in the Country are Meeting With Difficulties on Account of the High Water

Farmers and others travelling in the county in different parts are experiencing great difficulties in getting from place to place and some have been unable to reach their destination on account of the high water which had flooded several of the bridges. The bridge at Downeyville is almost impassable as is also the Pigeon Lake bridge. The roads too are in bad shape, in some places and many persons who use the bridge and roads, have been compelled to cancel intended trips.

BEWARE OF OINTMENTS FOR CATARRH THAT CONTAIN MERCURY

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

BOBBY KERR'S BIG MEET ON SATURDAY A GREAT SUCCESS

Hamilton, May 16.—The threatening weather of Saturday kept many from attending the athletic meet at Britannia Park that afternoon, but it did not prevent 2,500 ardent admirers of Bobby Kerr from turning out and cheering him to the echo when he appeared to give his two exhibition stunts at 100 and 220 yards. The event was arranged to raise funds to send Kerr to England to defend his title at the British championship games, and the result was gratifying to those who had the handling of the affair.

The track was slippery and treacherous. The Toronto athletes captured the lion's share of the honors after some lively contests. Bobby Kerr ran 220 yards in 22 2-5 seconds, and 100 yards in 10 seconds flat on a circular course which was pretty well rainsoaked.

The games were opened by His Honor Lieut.-Gov. Gibson, who was introduced by Mayor McLaren. His Honor made a short address, and said he had particular pleasure in being present at such an event. The prizes were presented by Mrs. J. S. Hendrie, Mrs. P. D. Crerar and Mayor McLaren. Bobby Kerr, at the close of the games, heartily thanked his supporters for their kindness and assistance.

BALL TOSSER'S CORNER

Ryle 56, sec. 13.—If, when advancing bases, or forced to return to a base, while the ball is in play, he fail to touch the intervening base, or bases, if any, in the regular or reverse order, as the case may be, he may be put out with the ball being held, by a fielder on any base he failed to touch, or by being touched with the ball in the same manner as in running to first base. Provided, that the base-runner shall not be out in such case if the ball be delivered to the bat by the pitcher before the fielder holds it on said base or touch the base runner with it.

Sec. 14.—If, when the umpire calls "play" after the suspension of a game, he fails to return to and touch the base he occupied when "time" was called before touching the next base.

Provided, the base-runner shall not be out, in such case, if the ball be delivered to the bat by the pitcher, before the fielder hold it on said base or touch the base-runner with it.

Sec. 15.—If, with one or no one out, and a base-runner on third base, the batsman interfers with a play being made at home plate.

Sec. 16.—If he passes a base-runner, who is caught between two bases, he shall be declared out immediately upon passing the preceding base-runner.

HOW TO FIND AVERAGES.

How to find the batting record—Divide the number of base hits by the number of times at bat. Example—Jones makes 148 hits and was at bat 447 times; 148 divided by 447 equals 331.

How to find the fielding record—Divide the number of chances accepted by the total chances. Example—Jones has 289 chances. He accepts 268 putouts and 15 assists; 283 divided by 289 equals 979

To find the standing of the club—Divide the number of games won by the number of games played. Example—Jonesville plays 137 games and wins 63; 63 divided by 137 equals 460.

To rind base running record—Divide bases stolen by number of games played. Example—Jones has 59 stolen bases; has played in 145 games; 59 divided by 145 equals .407 bases a game. ball tossers corner

Looked Too Far.

There was an English farmer, a Somersetshire man, who once owned a telescope. The old man remarked to a friend at a local race meeting that the gentry nowadays had glasses for both eyes and added that he "had had one once for one eye, a right good one it was, but now it was no use at all—no, not to nobody."

"Why not?" asked the friend.

"Well," he said, "it were a good one. I could see miles wi' en. I could see plain the steeple of the church five miles off. But missus' son John, he borrowed en, and he tried to see the steeple of t'other church, ten miles off—and tried and tried and couldn't. And that strained it, and it were never of no use any more—no, not to nobody."

TRIED TO BE NICE.

But Fannie Made an Awful Mess of It With the Old Lady.

"When Fannie is bent upon pleasing," sighed Fannie's younger sister, "she can certainly make a horrible mess of things. Last Sunday Charlie Evans, having arrived at the point where he felt he wanted his family's opinion of me, invited us both up to take tea with his mother. The minute I laid eyes on his mother I knew Fannie would get in trouble—she simply can't help getting nervously foolish when there's a religious person around.

"Charlie's mother kissed us and, addressing herself to Fannie as the elder, said something about our being very sweet to come and see a daughterless old woman. Whereat Fannie looked at Charlie and his two brothers and replied feelingly that it must be a terrible disappointment to have only them. Mrs. Evans, to rectify my sister's misapprehension, told us proudly that she had three more sons, not present.

"By this time Fannie realized that she had made a bad beginning and leaped further in with the supposition that the other three were off having a good time instead of moping at home. The older lady drew herself up and said severely:

"'My three sons are in heaven, Miss Barnes.'

"'Oh, how awful!' came Fannie's ready gasp.

"'No, not awful at all!' and Mrs. Evans was positively glaring at us. 'I feel that they were specially blessed in being allowed to pass thus early to their Lord. They died as little children.'

"'Dear me, how glad you must have been!' blurted out flustered Fannie.

"By this time I had kicked a hole in her ankle, and that quieted her for awhile. She might have kept still for the rest of the evening had not her pet subject, the higher education of woman, come up for the old lady's disapproval. Then Fannie made a handspring into the conversation by remarking that when we had more educated mothers there would be less infant mortality.

"And, mind you, Fannie was really trying to be nice for my sake."—New York Times.

THE WORD "ALPHABET."

It Comes Through the Greeks and Hebrews From Phoenicia.

When we speak of our A B C's as our "alphabet" we are using a word hoary with age, that, as far back as we can trace it, came from the eastern shore of the Mediterranean sea, thousands of years before the Hebrews went up there and took possession of the land of Canaan. Back of the people who occupied that land before the events of Exodus were written we are not able to trace the word, for we have not sufficient knowledge of them or of their etymological history before we find them in Canaan.

It has been only within recent years that we have been able to know that the word "alphabet" came to us from the Phoenicians. Before that we supposed that it came to us from the Hebrews, through the Greek. As we say "A B C" the Greeks say "alpha beta" (the first two letters of their alphabet), which when it reached us became "alphabet." This we supposed had come to the Greeks from the Hebrews, who called their first two letters "alph" and "beth," but since then we have found that both the Greeks and the Hebrews got the word "alphabet" from the same source, which was the Phoenicians.

The people of Phoenicia had the same letters, "alph" and "beth," which have suffered but little change in sound down to our A and B. Alph meant simply an ox, the sign of it being a conventional ox's head, with the lower part of the face turned slightly to its right, and beth meant a house, which was pictured by the rude outline of a primitive dwelling, which had a superfluous line added to distinguish it from other characters very like it, as we place a tail on a Q to distinguish it from an O. So the first two letters of our A B C's were originally an ox and a house and gave the name of all of the twenty-six letters which we call our "alphabet."—New York Herald.

Kissing the Book.

"Kissing the book" is a rather late development of the mere touching of the gospels with the fingers, which dates from the sixth century. It is likely that the kiss was originally intended not to increase the solemnity of the oath, but to signify reverence and affection for the book. The kiss appears to have come into fashion toward the end of the sixteenth century and would seem, from what George Fox says of it, to have been a Protestant innovation. According to him, the unreformed method was simply to hold the gospels with three fingers above the book, typifying the Trinity, and two fingers below, typifying the twofold destruction of body and soul that an oath taker invoked upon himself if he swore falsely.

JUDGING A CIGAR.

The Only Real Way to Find Its Quality Is to Smoke It.

On no point is the average smoker so ill informed as that of judging a cigar. Nine times out of ten, upon being handed a cigar, he will hold it to his nose, unlighted, sniff at the wrapper with a critical air and deliver his verdict in a self satisfied manner. This characteristic maneuver is always a source of amusement to any tobacco man who happens to observe it. There is only one way to ascertain the quality of a cigar, and that is to smoke it. No expert will pass judgment on a cigar until he has lighted it and smoked it well down toward the middle. The first and most important point upon which he bases his opinion is the "burn." Tobacco may have every other virtue, but if it does not hold the fire and burn evenly it is poor tobacco. Next in order of importance comes the aroma—the smoke must have a pleasing "smell;" next comes the flavor—the smoke must be smooth and not "scratchy" or bitter. Then there is the color—rich brown, indicating a ripe leaf, well cured—and last is workmanship—good if the wrapper is put on smoothly and the "bunch" is made so that the cigar "draws" freely and is neither too hard nor too spongy, bad if the reverse.—Bohemian Magazine.

ROMANCE OF HISTORY.

These Things Read Like Legends, but Are Matters of Fact.

A peasant girl called half witted did promise to defeat the victors of Agincourt and did it; it ought to be a legend, but it happens to be a fact. A poet and a poetess did fall in love and eloped secretly to a sunny clime; it is obviously a three volume novel, but it happened. Nelson did die in the act of winning the one battle that could change the world; it is a grossly improbable coincidence, but it is too late to alter it now. Napoleon did win the battle of Austerlitz; it is unnatural, but it is not my fault. When the general who had surrendered a republican town returned, saying easily, "I have done everything," Robespierre did ask, with an air of inquiry, "Are you dead?" When Robespierre coughed in his cold harangue Garnier did say, "The blood of Danton chokes you." Strafford did say of his own desertion of parliament, "If I do it may my life and death be set on a bill for all men to wonder at." Disraeli did say, "The time will come when you shall hear me."

The heroic is a fact, even when it is a fact of coincidence or of miracle, and a fact is a thing which can be admitted without being explained.—G. K. Chesterton in London News.

No Drums In the Middle Ages.

As we come to the middle ages, when the nations of modern Europe were struggling into existence, we find that at first the drum was not used at all. So, although melody had been known and practiced for many centuries, rhythm had been quite forgotten, for what there is left to us of the music of the middle ages contains no bars, and we know that it was slowly and monotonously chanted, without the least accent.

In the eleventh century, however, things began to improve, more particularly as the crusaders brought into Europe all sorts of percussion instruments from the east. Various kinds of drums, tambourines and cymbals were then seen in Europe for the first time since the days of savages, and they have been used, with very little change, ever since.—St. Nicholas.

Politics and Poker.

A man who dips into politics occasionally may be compared to a man who engages in a poker game occasionally. He is liable to run into a professional and be worsted. The safe rule is to keep out of politics and poker.—Atchison Globe.

She Threw Him Over Twice.

"Why have you thrown over Mr. Pitcoe?"

"Oh, I could never marry a man with a crooked leg."

"What made his leg crooked?"

"I ran over it with my motor car."—Success Magazine.

The Perfect Type of Man

No two men were ever all alike. When they match at the chest they differ in waist or in length of limb.

Different ways of walking have their effect upon one's carriage. Shoulders never really match. It is impossible to produce clothes which will absolutely fit unless the figure of the wearer is normal, and every man's figure must be specially studied. All properly fitting clothes must possess a corresponding unlikeness.

By the Semi-ready physique type system of tailoring every garment can be quickly finished to shape and to overcome figure defects. The finisher can intensify or diminish height—build out hollow spots, and improve a physique so cleverly that he has to all appearances produced this perfect type.

SPLENDID MUSIC BY MARK ST. CHOIR

Several Vocalists Have Joined the Choir and the Music Last Evening Was Very Creditable

During the evening service at Mark street church yesterday the music by the choir was exceptionally good. The Misses Houston, Mrs Sargeant and Mr. Chris Houston have recently joined the choir and the addition of these talented vocalists have made a big improvement. The anthem last night was "The Springtide Hour," in which Miss Houston took the solo part in a particularly pleasing manner. A quartette and solo by Misses F. D. Downsley and Coon and Messrs. Houston and Callander, in which Miss Downsley sang the solo was also beautifully rendered.

A MEETING OF INTEREST

The members and all our city girls interested in any way in the association, are invited to attend the Y.W.C.A. to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. Matters of interest will be discussed. There will also be musical numbers and tea will be served.

BIG EARTHQUAKE SHOCK SOMEWHERE

Special to the Review.

Toronto, May 17.—Another earthquake, much more intense than that of Saturday night, was registered on seismograph at the Toronto Observatory this morning, but where it occurred is not yet known here. The movement commenced at 3.12 a.m., and lasted an hour and thirty-two minutes. Very large waves were recorded at 3.21 a.m., which continued for ten minutes. The semi-amplitude of the shock was four millimeters, and the estimated distance of the earthquake from Toronto was 7,750 kilometers or approximately 4,800 miles.

GETTING SORE ON THE RUNNERS

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I see by the papers that Shrubb and Longboat ran yesterday afternoon at Montreal. I think it is about time that these professional athletes were given less boosting by the papers and less encouragement by the public when they desecrate a day that is held sacred by all Christian people and offer open insult to them by their money-grabbing tendencies.

Yours truly,

READER.

THE EVER POPULAR BOBBIE KERR

Hamilton, May 15—In Bobbie Kerr, of Hamilton, Canada owns one of the best sprinters the world has ever produced. His prowess up to last year was confined to Ontario and the indoor meets at Buffalo, but like many other athletes he acquired world fame in England, last year, when he won the 100 and 220 yard championship at the English championship games and the 200 metre Olympic championship losing the 100 metre championship to Walker, the South African runner whom he had previously defeated in the English championships. In this race in which he ran third, just inches behind Rector, the Yankee athlete, his defeat is laid to over training and should these three runners ever meet again, many look for Bobbie to lead the trio at the wire.

Kerr, who is 28 years of age, is a favorite everywhere he goes, due to his fine personality and unassuming manner and good sportsmanship. Born of Irish parentage, Bobbie came to this country when a mere child and has since resided in Hamilton.

EVENTS FOR Y.M.C.A. BOYS

On Friday the YMCA. boys will hold a kite flying contest and on Saturday a three mile walk will be held for boys 14 years and over, and a two mile walk for boys under 14.

POLICE GET BUSY AGAIN

New York, May 15.—The police put a stop to a boxing bout between Johnny Glover, of Boston, and Johnny Murphy, of New York, at the Olympic Athletic Club, at the end of the first round last night. With the fighters, the president, secretary and doorkeeper of the club were arrested. All gave bail and were released.

The bout between Glover and Murphy was to have been a preliminary to the go between Mike Glover, of Boston, and Jack Curley, of New York, scheduled as the chief contest of the evening.

GRADE WAS TOO STEEP FOR GENE

Toledo, Ohio, May 15—The lightweight wrestling championship bout between Eugene Tremblay, of Montreal and John Billeter, of Toledo, was not put on last night as Tremblay was overweight. Instead, the men wrestled a handicap match, in which Tremblay was to throw Billeter twice in 75 minutes. He failed to secure a fall.

JUNIOR CHURCH LEAGUE MEETS TO-NIGHT Y.M.C.A.

Teams Who Have Not Yet Received Certificates are Asked to be Represented at Meeting

A meeting of the representatives of the junior Church Baseball league is called for to-night at the Y.M.C.A. The certificates will be given to those teams who did not receive them at the last meeting. The schedule has been drawn up and will be presented to the teams for adoption. All interested teams are asked to send representatives, as it is necessary to settle many small matters, so that if possible the games may start next week.

BOTH TEAMS SCORED ONE GOAL

Second Midland Football League Game in This District Results in a Tie--The Score Was 1-1

The second Midland Football League game of this district was played Saturday afternoon between the Brinton Carpet Factory team and and Bethany, and the score resulted in a tie of 1—1. The contest took place at the former's grounds at the east of the Driving Park, and a fair-sized crowd was present and appeared to be well satisfied with the quality of football dished up by both teams. Mr. J. R. Stratton, the honorary president of the league, was present and started the game. The Bruntons were first to score, Downs doing the trick, but the Bethany eleven could not even up matters in the first half. But shortly before full time was called, Delong scored for Bethany, and although both teams worked hard, neither could get the necessary winning tally. The teams were:—

Bruntons—Goal, A. Giles; backs, A. Rew and A. Bishop; halves, C. Downes; A. Ashton, and J. Apary; right wing, T. Monk and D. Ferguson; left wing, H. Davis and T. Williams; centre, T. Moule.

Bethany—Goal, H. Price; backs, W. Price and C. Morton; halves, Dr. Hamilton, W. Hannah and J. Staples; left wing, A. Delong and M. Sherin; centre, E. Roberts.

Referee—J. E. Sullivan.

FINISH OF WALK IN MILWAUKEE

Hoagland Wins in Easy Fashion—Jim Harrison Did Well

Special to the Review.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 17.—At the close of the seven-night walking match for the world's championship, W. A. Hoagland, the Auburn, N.Y., champion, captured first place with 113 miles and one lap to his credit for the week. George Brown, who also comes from Auburn, was second with 112 miles and 6 laps, and A. L. Corry, the French walker, and runner took third place in the final standing; his distance for the seven nights being 111 miles and 13 laps. The final standing;

Hoagland, 113—1; Brown, 112-6; Corey, 111-13; Harrison, 106-5; West, 109-19; Blake, 109-2; Quale, 101-9; Regan, 100-9.

Mr. Gerald Dunsford Will Handle Billy W. and Queen's Bourbon

Mr. Gerald Dunsford is in town from Toronto to handle Billy W. and Queen's Bourbon, for their owner, Mr. Wm. Whittom, of this city. Both horses will be raced over the Canadian circuit this summer.

Billy W. is a sensationally fast performer and can step a half mile in 1.05. He is entered in the free-for-all at the Peterborough Turf Club's races on May 24th, and a number of local enthusiasts are anxious to see him perform.

EASY MONEY FOR PAPKE

Hugo Kelly Took the Count in the First Round

San Francisco, May 15—One minute and thirty seconds of a scheduled 45 round contest was sufficient to demonstrate that Hugo Kelly of Chicago is no match in speed or skill for Billy Papke, the Illinois Thunderbolt. At the end of this brief period, after half a dozen short rallies, Papke stood unmarked while Kelly lay unconscious in the centre of the ring, with a deep cut over his right eye and his chance for the middleweight championship, gone.

Faster and stronger than he has appeared since his memorable battle with Stanley Ketchel at Los Angeles, Papke virtually toyed with his opponent. In the several clinches he smothered Kelly's attempts at infighting and pushed him away, only to land stinging rights and lefts, that found the Italian almost unprotected. Kelly lost the battle when Papke landed his first clean right, and left to the jaw. He went to the floor for the count of nine. Prior to this Papke had shot a terrific hook to the temple, which laid open an inch-long gash just above Kelly's eye. Kelly thereupon appeared to weaken and Papke instantly rushed to the ropes, shooting lefts and rights into his mid-section. Kelly fell face downward and was counted out by Timekeeper Hastings. As Referee Eddie Smith counted ten, Kelly struggled to raise himself on his elbow, but the effort exhausted his last spark of vitality and he fell back unconscious.

Papke's wonderful strength and speed were the features of the brief contest. At no stage did Kelly have a chance to show his cleverness. Half of the ninety seconds was spent in clinches. Papke wrestled and flung Kelly about with utter disregard of the Italian's greater height. Against the ropes whither he was rushed two or three times, Kelly was almost helpless and it was in this plight that Papke's clean blows were landed.

They were struck at such a fast clip that they could be followed only with difficulty. All of Papke's effective work was done at short range. Three important blows were struck, Papke landing all of them.

While not technically so, Papke's victory carries virtually with it the middleweight championship title, inasmuch as Stanley Ketchel has stated repeatedly in public his inability to make the middleweight limit.

WALKING

The Milwaukee Wisconsin says;—

The record breaking walking is still continuing in the seven-night walking match at Schlitz Park, and Willard Hoagland, the champion, is still responsible for the performance. Hoagland last night covered sixty miles and three laps for nine hours of walking, establishing a new record for the distance, and breaking the old one, held by himself, by two and three-quarter miles. Hoagland, although he did not start out as fast as on previous nights, soon got his gait and made it hot for the rest of the leaders, Brown, Corey and Harrison, overtaking them a few times by wonderfully fast walking.

George Brown, the toy wonder, who kept up with Hoagland during the first night of record breaking walking, did not quite walk up to his standard last night, letting the champion gain six laps on him and contenting himself mostly with holding down Corey, the French champion, who walked better than Tuesday night. Corey is now but thirteen laps behind Brown, having covered fifty-nine miles and one laps for the three nights of hiking.

Harrison is rapidly getting up to the leaders, his record for the same hours of walking being fifty-seven miles and sixteen laps, and he is walking better than at any night this week.

Van Tassel, the Milwaukee boy, dropped out last night, as did Slater, for whom the pace became too fast.

There was a good-sized attendance at the races, many of the fair sex being there again. Walking will be resumed at eight o'clock to-night and Dunker's band will again officiate.

The score for the three nights is as follows;—

THE STANDING.

The total distance covered to the end of Wednesday night's walk was;

	Miles.	Laps.
Hoagland	60	3
Brown	59	14
Harrison	57	16
West	57	13
Blake	57	5
Carey	59	1
Quale	51	9
Regan	53	16
Raddatz	53	12

YOU NEVER CAN TELL

You may be at bat when on every sack
A runner is safely roosting.
You've lost the lead and are almost back.
While the whole big crowd is boosting;
The fans may rise as a single man,
And holler for you to clout it.
But you get three balls and then you fan,
You can't tell a thing about it.

For the game's so blamed uncertain
You can never tell just when
With the score a tie you may pop a fly,
Though your average is 310;
May get caught off some day.
And the only excuse they ever turn loose,
Is, "It shouldn't have broke that way."

It may be the ninth, with two hands out,
And the weakest man at bat,
The game for them was a sorry rout,
And the score on your side is fat,
You may have the game sewed up so tight
That nobody dares to doubt it,
When your pitcher determines to take a flight,
You can't tell a thing about it.

For the game's so blamed uncertain,
And that's why we love it so,
We can never lose hope, and we never can dope
The way that it's going to go;
The steadiest pitcher who ever pitched
May throw the ball away
And his only excuse when critics cut loose,
Is, "It shouldn't have broke that way."

Forger Suicides.

Prince Albert, Sask., May 17.—J. W. Currie committed suicide Saturday afternoon at the Prince Albert Hotel, by taking strychnine.

He had passed forged checks to the amount of $25. A firm in the city which had a check for $10 notified Currie to settle before 6 p.m. When the time arrived he was dead. His family is well-to-do in Halifax.

Circus Tent Blown Down.

Corry, Pa., May 17.—A large number of persons were hurt, none fatally, when a terrific electrical storm broke over this city Saturday night and blew down the main tent of Cole Brothers' circus.

ANXIOUS TO COME

Many St. Catharines' Civilians Would Like to Visit Peterborough on Holiday.

The St. Catharines Star-Journal says —Citizens who are not members of the 19th regiment are anxiously inquiring as to whether or not a special excursion rate will be offered in connection with the Victoria Day trip to Peterborough. Several hundred persons would take advantage of such an opportunity to visit the "Electric City" and Lieut.-Col. Campbell is today consulting the railway authorities with a view of giving St. Catharines people a chance to accompany the 19th on the outing.

EIGHT YEARS FOR CAPT. HAINS

Flushing, N.Y., May 18.—Captain Peter C. Hains, Jr., U.S.A., who was convicted of manslaughter in the first degree, for killing William F. Annis, at the Bayside Yacht Club last August, was sentenced yesterday by Justice Garretson in the Supreme Court to an indeterminate sentence of not less than eight years nor more than sixteen years at hard labor in states prison.

Mr. McIntyre, his counsel, said that he was not decided whether to appeal the case, but he would go to the Circuit Court and endeavor to obtain a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that Hains was never properly within the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court, but as an army officer only within the jurisdiction of the Federal Court.

CANADIAN UNION HAS BEEN PLANNED

Sydney, N.S., May 18.—Prominent P.W.A. officials are in receipt of applications for information about the association from labor centres in western Canada, and it is planned to establish branches of the order there.

In the Alberta and Crow's Nest Pass coal regions, the local leaders of the United Mine Workers have become dissatisfied, and favor joining the Western Federation, but most of the workers favor affiliation with the Nova Scotia union and developing this into an all-Canadian organization. Many Cape Bretoners and Nova Scotians are employed in the western Canadian coal districts.

NEWFOUNDLAND IS ICEBOUND

St. John's, Nfld., May 18.—Unyielding before the warming climate of advancing spring, great fields of ice extend out from the shore of nearly every section of the Newfoundland coast, constituting in some places an impenetrable barrier and an active menace to ocean navigation. Within ten days nearly a dozen ocean liners have put in here or at nearby ports, badly damaged, and reporting narrow escapes from or serious imperilling of the lives of thousands of passengers.

Blows Off Finger In Church.

Ottawa, May 18.—Thomas Blondin, a Hull schoolboy, while toying with a dynamite cap during mass at the Church of the Holy Redeemer there, had part of his thumb and forefinger blown away by an explosion. The lad found the cap in a quarry and while seated in church boyishly decided to test it with a match. There were hundreds of children in church at the time but the injured lad was removed without the slightest interruption of the service.

Brakeman Killed.

Brantford, May 18.—Word was received here of the death of Fred Harper, a Brantford man, killed at Morristown, N.J., on the Pennsylvania and Reading Railroad, on which he was a brakeman. A clerk connected with the railroad withheld, through oversight, orders for Harper's promotion for four days, and was reminded of the same on the news of the unfortunate fatality. Harper was crushed between freight cars.

TO ENTERTAIN THE DELEGATES

Montreal, May 18.—A special service will be held in the cathedral in Montreal on Sunday, June 13th, in honor of the across-sea delegates to the Quinquennial Congress of the International Council of Women who will be the guests of the Montreal Local Council at that time. Such ladies as Lady Drummond, Lady Montague Allen, Lady Galt and Madame Dandurand are on the hospitality committee, and have arranged a series of entertainments for their stay. An invitation has been sent to have them visit Quebec also. The delegates leave for Ottawa by special train Tuesday, and while there will be entertained at Government House by Her Excellency the Countess Grey at a garden party. They will have luncheon at the Experimental Farm.

MR. LEMIEUX ENUNCIATES A STRANGE THEORY IN HOUSE

In Hot Debate Over Dismissal of Souris Official, Minister Declares That Postmaster Should Be Discharged on Assertion of Liberal Member That He Has Taken Part in Election.

London, May 18.—George Meredith, the English novelist, died at 3.35 this morning.

The immediate cause of death was heart failure, following grave symptoms that developed early in the evening. Mr. Meredith's illness began on May 15, and he steadily declined since that time. So serious was his condition Sunday night that the attending physician remained constantly at his bedside.

Mr. Meredith was out for his daily drive at his Boxhill retreat on Saturday in a little donkey chaise. He seemed then to be in his usual health. A keen east wind was blowing, and it appears to have given him a chill. He returned home in a state of collapse, with serious attacks of pain in the intestinal regions.

On Sunday the King's physicians, Sir Thomas Barlow, was called into consultation, and it was hoped that, despite his great age, the patient would rally, but internal inflammation developed rapidly. Mr. Meredith had been showing signs of weakness during the past week, having had periods of drowsiness, followed by marked signs of debility.

Following so closely on the death of Swinburne, the passing of George Meredith removes the very last of the great band of Victorians that gave the literature of England in the 19th century a place with that of such great eras as the Elizabethan or the Augustan. With many peculiarities of style, regarded by many critics as degenerating into vicious faults, and an obscurity that frequently rivalled Browning at his worst, Meredith remains as one of the great prose writers of the period. No reader can ever forget such books as "The Ordeal of Richard Feveral" or "Diana of the Crossways," and these are but two of a long list. As a poet Meredith also held a distinguished place, and his "Modern Love" touches very lofty heights.

George Meredith was born in Hampshire, Feb. 12, 1828. On the occasion of his 80th birthday he was showered with congratulations from all parts of the world and was waited on by a deputation headed by Anthony Hope and presented with an address signed by Algernon Charles Swinburne, Thos. Hardy, John Morley and more than a hundred leaders in art, letters and scholarship.

THE 57TH REGIMENT HAD LARGE TURNOUT LAST NIGHT

57th, 38th and 19th Regiment Will Attend Divine Service at St. Paul's Church May 23rd—57th Band Will Give Concert in Victoria Park, Monday Evening May 24

The 57th Regiment was 252 strong last night at the regular weekly drill. An informal march out was held, and the different companies showed up well. The bugle band had a good practice in the armories. Another drill will be held on Thursday night, and Lieut.-Col. Stevenson asked that there be a good turnout.

The orders for the week are as follows:

Headquarters,
Peterborough,
May 17th, 1909.

Orders by the officer commanding 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers.

No. 1.—Detail of duty for the week ending May 24, 1909.

Capt. for the week, Capt. Wilson, next for duty, Captain Watt; subaltern for the week, Lieut. Gemmell, next for duty, Lieut. J. D. Clarke.

No. 2.—The Regiment will parade in drill order for drill at the armories on Thursday, May 20th, 1909, at the usual hour.

No. 3.—Regiment will parade in divine service order with both bands, signallers and stretcher bearers, at the armories at 9 a.m. on Sunday, May 23rd, 1909. The regiment will then be brigaded with the 19th and 38th Regiments, and will be marched off at 9.15 a.m. to St. Paul's church there to attend divine service. The route of march will be south on George street, east on Hunter street, north on Water street to the church.

Orders for the church parade of the Roman Catholic party will be issued on Thursday evening.

No. 4.—The regiment will parade in review order at the armories at 9 a.m. on Monday, May 24th, 1909, and will then be brigaded with the 19th and 38th Regiments, and march at 9.30 a.m. to Riverside Park, there to be reviewed by the officer commanding the eastern Ontario command.

No. 5.—Weather permitting, the 57th Regimental Band will parade at 7.30 p.m. on Monday, May 24th, and give a band concert in Victoria Park until 9 p.m.

No. 6.—The following are taken on the strength of the regiment: A Company, Private Greg, May 10, 1909. The Signal Corps, Private B. Fisher, H. E. McGill, G. E. Coyle, A. P. Stark, A. P. Hall and C. E. Fox, May 10, 1909.

By order,

Capt. and Adjt.

LATEST NEWS AS TOLD IN DESPATCHES

New Steamer for Georgian Bay.

Collingwood, May 18.—A new steamer, the Waubic, will be the Northern Navigation Co.'s liner from Penetang and Midland, up the inside channel of the Georgian Bay to Parry Sound and Point aux Basil. The City of Toronto that for years ran from Penetang to Parry Sound, calling at Minnicog and Go-Home Bay, has been sold to a Cornwall firm.

Reichstag to Adjourn.

Berlin, May 18.—The Reichstag will adjourn to-day to June 15, to give the finance committee opportunity to make an effort to reach an agreement on a scheme for financial reform.

The Government decided to prepare bills during the Reichstag interval, raising the tax on matches and the import duty on coffee.

Famous Surgeon Dies.

New York, May 18.—Dr. Gerardus H. Wynkop, aged 65, an eminent New York surgeon and one of the first physicians in America to perform the operation of the removal of the veriform appendix, is dead. While the nature of his malady puzzled several physicians, he diagnosed the disease himself as appendicitis.

Sang Hymns on Scaffold.

Constantinople, May 18.—Five more men were hanged at 3.30 yesterday morning in front of the building of Parliament opposite the Mosque St. Sophia in Stamboul for complicity in the murder of their officers in the revolutionary outbreak of April 13. The five men sang hymns up to the moment of execution.

Dominion Coal Co. Extends.

Sydney, N.S., May 18.—A large tract of land at Little Bras d'Or, on the northern side of Sydney harbor, has been acquired by the Dominion Coal Co. This land is in close proximity to the company's submarine areas. The company may shortly begin the mining of coal on its northern areas.

Six Months for Threatening Mother.

Belleville, May 18.—John Moses, an Indian, was tried before Judge Deroche for threatening to shoot his mother and firing a shot at her. He was sent to the Central Prison for six months.

TRY A REVIEW "WANT" AD.

London Churches Failing.

London, May 18.—In spite of the strenuous efforts made by the Bishop of London both in preaching and in writing, the churches, both in and out of London, are growing emptier and emptier every Sunday. The week-end habit has grown not only upon the rich, who can afford to go to the seaside resorts in their motor-cars, but upon the great class composed of clerks and artisans, who may be seen every Sunday in endless procession on bicycles making their way out of town or hiring boats on the lower reaches of the Thames.

Children Lost In Swamp.

Kinloss, May 18.—On Friday morning the two youngest sons of J. H. Armstrong, Kinloss, aged 5 and 7, wandered from home, looking for flowers. They were seen entering Greenock Swamp. About forty men soon gathered and spent Friday afternoon and night looking for the children, and on Saturday the searchers numbered about one hundred. About 4.30 the children walked out on Lee's farm, four miles away, after spending thirty-three hours in the swamp. They are not much the worse for their adventure.

Jap Cruisers at Vancouver.

Vancouver, B.C., May 18.—Thousands of Japanese from all the lower mainland of British Columbia and in Vancouver are joining in the demonstration to the Japanese training cruisers Aso and Soya, which arrived yesterday afternoon from the Orient.

The white population is not taking great interest in the matter so far though an evening entertainment is being arranged.

There is no truth in a report that the Sixth Regiment refused to parade with the Japanese.

The Accident Record.

Ottawa, May 18.—During April, industrial accidents occurred to 250 people in Canada, of which 64 were fatal and 186 serious. The railway service headed the list with 13 killed and 20 injured.

Defaulting Treasurer Arrested.

Ottawa, May 19.—Dolor Parent, defaulting school treasurer of Hull, who got away, it is said, with about $500, is under arrest in Chicago.

MEMORY IS GONE AFTER BEING LOST

Youth Aged Fifteen Years Cannot Remember What Happened

Smith's Falls, May 18.—Stanley Hall, aged 15, a student of the high school, left home at noon on Saturday to go to the woods to look for a specimen of bird's egg. He did not return to supper, and search parties were organized. No trace of him was found until after midnight, when he was seen near the electric power station. He was saturated with mire from head to foot and was completely exhausted.

The strange part of the case is that he can give no account of what happened to himself. The supposition is that he wandered into a pool of water and the effort of trying to get out exhausted him to such an extent that his mind has become unbalanced for the time being. He is one of the brightest students in his class.

May Have Been Murdered.

Montreal, May 18.—Mystery surrounds the death of William Kyle, a C.P.R. messenger, who disappeared several weeks ago. Kyle's body was found in the canal on Saturday, with a terrible gash on the top of the head. His right eye had been knocked from its socket and the body was covered with bruises.

It is believed that he was held up by highwaymen, robbed and then thrown into the canal.

Fewer Canned Lobsters.

Sydney, N.S., May 18.—The Government has taken a hand in the dispute between the lobster fishermen and factory owners in the matter of prices. J. G. Morrison, M.P.P., of Inverness, at the request of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, has enquired into the difficulty, but was unable to bring about any settlement. The lobster packing establishments in eastern Nova Scotia closed yesterday.

Bank Sues Convict.

Ottawa, May 18.—The Bank of Ottawa, Hull branch, has entered suit in Hull Superior Court to recover $107 from Edward Bouchard of Buckingham Township, who a few days ago was sentenced to two years in penitentiary for forging a pay check for that amount. The check had been stolen by Bouchard from Aedee Thereaux. The bank had to stand good for the forgery.

Prison Farm for Women.

Albany, N.Y., May 18.—Proposals for a site for a state farm for women were received yesterday at a meeting of the state prison committee. The authorities hope to improve the physical condition of the prisoners as well as to endeavor to redeem them from the drink habit.

Accountant Prepared Statement.

Montreal, May 18.—Upon cross-examination yesterday afternoon, ex-Accountant Langlois of the Bank of St. Johns, admitted that he had prepared the monthly Government statement, which had been signed by the accused president, Hon. Mr. Roy.

To Reorganize Turkish Army.

Constantinople, May 18.—Hilmi Pasha, the grand vizier, in announcing to Parliament, in a few days the Cabinet's program, will ask for a special appropriation of $15,000,000 for the reorganization of the army under Gen. Von der Goltz.

GOLDEN WEDDING OF LORD ROBERTS

Field Marshal Celebrates Fiftieth Anniversary of His Marriage

London, May 18.—Lord Roberts yesterday celebrated the golden anniversary of his wedding and the event has assumed something of the character of an imperial festival. Except during the race meetings the telegraph office at Ascot never has known anything to compare with the rush of messages that have been arriving all day long from all parts of the Empire congratulating the field marshal. The King and Queen were among the earliest.

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

George Meredith, the English novelist, is seriously ill.

Heavy rains have done considerable damage to property in Porto Rico.

Trade returns for April show an increase of $4,028,267 over the same month last year.

The remains of Sir Allan MacNab were removed from Dundurn Park to the Hamilton cemetery.

A GREAT AUTHOR IS DEAD; GEO. MEREDITH PASSES AWAY

English Novelist and Poet, the Last of the Great Victorians, Succumbs to Heart Failure Induced by a Chill —Was in Usual Health Before Going Out for a Drive in His Chaise.

Ottawa, May 18.—One of the hottest debates of the session was precipitated by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux last evening when he propounded the extraordinary doctrine that a postmaster of Canada is charged by a Liberal member with participation in an election, that postmaster should be dismissed, and he will be so proceeded against without a trial.

The Opposition tried to get Mr. Lemieux to reconsider his statement and appealed to him to give British fair play to the man charged, but all to no purpose. The Postmaster-General was obdurate on the ground that Sir Wilfrid had affirmed and reaffirmed this doctrine.

The case around which the debate centered was that of Postmaster Dolmage of Souris, in the riding of Brandon, who, on the charge laid by Mr. Sifton of having taken part in that election, was dismissed without a chance to defend himself.

The subsequent attack on the Postmaster-General was vicious, many members of the Opposition taking part.

Dr. Schaffner had brought to the attention of the Government the dismissal of Dolmage. He did not hold the Postmaster-General directly responsible for the dismissal, yet the P.M.G. had allowed himself to be governed by an exceedingly hard-hearted man. More postmasters, he understood had been dismissed in Brandon and Souris than in any other district of Canada.

Dolmage was appointed in 1882, and four years ago he had sold out his store to give the office his whole time. He had rented a building and fitted it up. By the dismissal he lost over $2,000 per year and was practically stranded. Dolmage had asked for an investigation, declaring his ability to prove that he had taken no part in elections other than to vote, but had received no reply. The charge of partizanship was probably based on the fact that his sons had gone home to vote. In his own constituency of Souris, Mr. Sifton had gone around cutting heads off, and one postmaster who put up a stone building had been dismissed, though he had never voted even in a municipal election.

Mr. Lemieux in his reply, said that when a postmaster took part in elections he took his official life in his hands. "The hon. members word is accepted," he added.

Mr. Lennox asked if he would think it a sufficient cause for dismissal supposing a charge was laid by a non-supporter of the Government.

Mr. Lemieux said he had notified all the postmasters not to take an offensive part in elections.

Mr. Lennox renewed his question, and Mr. Lake, from his place, called upon Mr. Lemieux to reply, but the P.M.G. did not answer.

Mr. Middlebro said the doctrine propounded by the Postmaster-General was "extraordinary." Mr. Lake said "outrageous." It was practically decided that a man might take part in elections so long as he took part on the side of the Government.

Mr. Robb did not defend the doctrine of the Postmaster-General, but pointed out that in his riding of Huntingdon, the Conservatives had dismissed a postmaster for offensive partisanship.

Mr. Foster said that in 1896 the Premier had stated that no official should be dismissed without a trial, but Mr. Lemieux repeated that the Premier laid down in 1896 that a postmaster might be dismissed on the word of the member who complained. Dolmage had denied taking any offensive part in politics, but did not deny that he had taken part.

Col. Hughes asked if Mr. Sifton had specified any charge. Mr. Lemieux replied that he had been accused of canvassing and taking part generally.

Mr. Foster—"The member for Brandon owns the Government."

While the Marine estimates were under consideration, Mr. Foster asked Mr. Brodeur what he was going to do with the dredges he is getting when the St. Lawrence river channel is finished. Mr. Brodeur said that after they had dredged the channel 30 feet they would probably make it 35 feet, to accommodate larger vessels.

The insurance bill passed without amendment. Asked what the situation would be if a group of Canadian manufacturers joined with a group of American manufacturers to get certain insurance in outside companies, Mr. Fielding said it was possible that some difficulty of this nature would arise. If so, the question would be dealt with next session.

The Civil Service Bill to give a flat increase of $150 to civil servants was given its third reading, after an amendment by Mr. Foster to provide that no clerk be deprived of the full flat increase had been voted down.

MAY LOCATE PLANT IN CITY OF BUFFALO

And Also Build a New One in Peterborough—Canadian Chicle Co. Contemplating Doing Things on a Large Scale—A Big Demand.

The demand for the product of the Canadian Chicle Company, Peterborough's gum enterprise is increasing very rapidly. Last week four new coating pans and a motor were installed making a total of seven coating pans in the plant.

Owing to the popularity of Fruitlets and Spearmint the two varieties made by the firm a proposition to open an American factory in Buffalo in August is seriously considered and arrangements towards that end are being made now.

If the Buffalo branch is opened, it will mean the necessity of increased facilities for the local interests to such an extent that a new factory will have to be opened here with considerably increased accommodation for cleaning and drying chicle. The duty on manufactured gum being sent into the States is very high and that on raw material much less. For that reason the Chicle will be dried here if the Buffalo factory is opened and shipped there. This will of necessity greatly increase the staff employed here for that work.

INTERESTING PAPERS READ LAST NIGHT

There was a decidedly interesting meeting at the Young People's Guild of St. Paul's church last night, when the members were treated to two excellent papers dealing with the men in the mines and lumber camps. In her paper Miss M. Macdonald gave a vivid picture of the foothill country where the missionary may labor for years, in what seems fruitless toil, striving to bring sunshine into the darkened, seared life of the miner. The much improved and in some respects attractive life of the "lumberjack" was splendidly dealt with by Mr. J. C. Kingsboro, who has personally seen seen the camps in full operation. The most regrettable feature in a great many camps is the absence of religious services, a condition which should be speedily remedied.

"The Brontes" will be the subject for discussion at the next literary and social gathering on Friday evening, May 28th; Inspector Mowat in the chair.

HISTORIC CHURCH HAS BEEN USED FOR A CENTURY

Mr. C. H. McMullen, of Picton, was in the city on Saturday, completing arrangements to have the members of the Bay of Quinte Conference visit Conger's church, situated near Picton, on Saturday, 5th June. Some members of the Conference will assist in the Centennial celebration of that historic place of worship. The Conference will suspend its sessions for that day in order that all the members may avail themselves of the opportunity of visiting the church and taking part in the services. The ministers and laymen will be conveyed to Picton by boat.—Belleville Intelligencer.

NOTABLE BANQUET

Australians and New Zealanders Honored in Toronto Last Night.

Toronto, May 18.—"Germany must be made to understand that not only the Mother Country but Canada, Australia, New Zealand and Southern Africa must be reckoned with in any struggle affecting British supremacy upon the seas."

This was the big note sounded by many speakers at the banquet tendered last night in the National Club to the Australian and New Zealand delegates to the Imperial Press Conference in London. These words of his honor the Lieutenant-Governor, as chairman, lent all the grander significance to the sentiment.

In proposing the royal toast his honor was unusually loyal in his expressions and the Antipodeans appeared to be impressed with the heartiness with which the sentiment was honored.

The gathering included a large number of local newspaper and business men and Sir James Whitney sat beside his honor. Others at the guest table were Norman Clark, Ballard, Australia; W. K. George, Wm. Stitt, H. C. Osborne, Ed. S. Cunningham, Melbourne; J. S. Willison, R. S. Gourlay, Hon. C. E. Davies, Hobart, Tasmania; H. Berkeley, Newcastle, N.S.W.; Cy Warman, President R. A. Falconer, Toronto University; J. W. Kirwan, Kalgoorlie; Geo. Fenwick, Dunedin, N.Z.; Major J. F. Macdonald, W. J. Gage, Thomas Temperley, Bathurst; Gresley Lukin, Wellington, N.Z.; R. Kyffin-Thomas, Adelaide; C. L. Leng, Sheffield Daily Telegraph; W. J. Douglas and W. A. M. Goode.

Geo. H. Ham, Col. G. T. Denison, D. D. Mann and A. H. U. Colquhoun were also among the guests.

Queen Honored for Heroism.

Lisbon, May 18.—King Manuel has bestowed upon Queen Amelia, widow of King Carlos, the decoration of three orders for the heroism displayed by Her Majesty on the occasion of the assassination of her husband and son in February, 1908. These orders are the Order of Christ, the Order of Santiago, and the military Order of Saint Benoit D'Avize.

Brain Affected by the Moon.

Windsor, May 18.—Richard Kraft, who shot and wounded three men at the police station on May 7, was yesterday remanded until Saturday.

His mother was in court and stated her son was subject to "spells" at every change of the moon.

She will try to get the prisoner off on a plea of irresponsibility and mental incapacity.

Slums Causes Decadence.

London, May 18.—The Bishop of London, speaking on race decadence and the danger of the growth of the slum population in Britain, asked: "Does it not account to some extent for the fact that to-day in Canada no Englishman need apply in the case of almost any job going? If that goes on loyalty will soon be undermined."

Double Murder Over Fence.

Richmond, Ind., May 18.—Ech Mack and his son Raymond, were killed with a shot gun near here yesterday by Joseph Railsback in a quarrel over a line fence. Railsback was wounded in the leg.

ILLEGAL MARRIAGE HAS BEEN REVEALED

Detroit, Mich., May 18.—His secret revealed by his mother, Ward Aubrey of London, Ont., and Halifax, was arrested Sunday night on a charge of bigamy, and taken to Windsor, later to be taken back to London. According to his own story, he was married ten years ago, when 16 years old, to a girl in his home town, Halifax, and three children were born to them. He lived with her three years, then left her, but later returned and stayed two years longer. Two years ago he went with his parents to London to live, and there met Mary Kilpatrick, 21 years old. They were married, and have been living in Detroit since March.

RICH FARMER DEAD IN ESSEX COUNTY

Windsor, May 18.—Hypolite Milloux reported to be the richest farmer in Essex County, is dead from general breakdown, due to his advanced age and strain from overwork.

He was 79 years of age, but insisted on doing hard manual labor on his farm until he collapsed. He leaves an estate of one hundred thousand dollars, to be divided among eight children. His farm consisted of 900 acres of best farming land in the county with a good river frontage.

Deceased served over twenty years in municipal office, being six years reeve of Sandwich East. He was born on a farm where Windsor is now located.

Hello Girls Want to Marry.

Rome, May 18.—A strike movement has started among the telephone girls, who complain of the conditions of the work and the regulation forbidding them to marry. They have adopted a policy of obstruction, doing everything in their power to lessen the speed with which communications are given.

When the authorities noticed this the principal culprits were called before the council of discipline and were given various punishments. These may, perhaps, give rise to a more serious movement among the whole staff.

GRAND SUCCESS

Wonderful Growth in Sales During 1908.

The year just passed will long be remembered for the financial and commercial depression. Business houses all over Canada were affected. Most of them show a loss over 1907. Some did about as much business last year as in the preceding one. A few—a very few—show substantial gains. In spite of "hard times" and "financial depression" the sales of "Fruit-a-tives" doubled in 1908 over 1907.

The National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada Limited bought "Fruit-a-tives" in 100 gross lots (14,000 boxes). Lyman Sons & Company of Montreal, and Lyman Brothers in Toronto, also ordered "Fruit-a-tives" by the hundred gross lots. These big wholesalers bought such big orders simply because the retail dealers ordered so many boxes of "Fruit-a-tives"—and the dealers had to keep "Fruit-a-tives" always in stock to supply the constantly growing demand of people in every section of Canada.

To-day, "Fruit-a-tives" are the most popular family medicine in the Dominion. In the big cities, in the smaller towns, on farms and ranches, "Fruit-a-tives" are the standby in curing all forms of Stomach, Liver, Bowel, Skin and Kidney Trouble, Rheumatism, Headaches and Neuralgia.

Are you a sufferer from any of the diseases? Don't hesitate a moment. Get a box of "Fruit-a-tives" — take them according to directions—and they will cure without fail. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

RURAL MAIL DELIVERY

The County of Peterborough wants Rural Mail and Parcel Delivery and wants it now. Is that plain enough? When we set out the plan and platform of Mr Borden during the last campaign to the effect that rural mail and parcel delivery was even more necessary and important than good roads we were laughed to scorn by the Examiner and the Liberal candidate. Column after column of bold type was used up in that journal to show that such an experience as that in the United States where there was a postal deficit would ruin us. Yet they could excuse such a contingency in the case of a G.T.P. which further develops operations on the stock exchange and brings British Columbia timber limits and western speculative lands within easy reach of a market. Sure! But the idea of wasting money upon developing our poor selves here in Ontario was preposterous. We had been bled white before, hence there was no further speculation in us. That is the reason. But the scene was changed. Long before polling day the Examiner and the Liberal candidate had swung clear round to the rural mail and parcel idea. They made promises. But we haven't got any farther. The Grand Trunk Pacific got ten millions which would have equipped the Rural Mail and Parcel Delivery throughout Canada. The Canada Life Bill went through without a kick, except from the policy holders. Conmee got what he wanted although he had kindly and considerately asked for more and so on. But what did the farmers of the county of Peterborough get? What arrangements have been made for saving time and expense to the farmers of the townships by a parcel delivery and the conveyance of messages and requests, of orders and information? Not enough to hang a brag on. But keep your eye on the western wheat which pulls down the price of your own and will ultimately leave Ontario farms as bare as those of New England. Fifty years hence there will be a new west discovered in the east but the Ontario farmers of this generation will all be ruined and dead by that time. Meanwhile KEEP CALLING FOR THE RURAL MAIL AND PARCEL DELIVERY AND YOU WILL GET IT. The Review will help on all measures for local improvement with all its power. Surely no one will deny that we need them. Then why should not commonsense like charity begin at home? Are you to go in rags in order to build war ships and Georgian Bay Canals for somebody else to play with?

THE NAVY

The time for taking some action with regard to naval matters is nearer than many people think. While the newspapers and parliamentarians have been jockeying each other for position and otherwise failing to impress the casual reader with their candour or acuteness the naval officers of Britain have been discussing the matter with Canadians and amongst themselves, with all possible care and attention. Canadian anti-imperialists want Canada to start a navy of her own. They have not been slow to give Britishers the idea that this was the only measure Canadians would consent to. As a consequence, they have enlisted much British cooperation in the idea. What would this plan mean? It would mean that we would at once try to become a naval power with all the necessary equipment to the greatest extent possible. If, on the other hand, we contributed to the navy of the British Empire we would not need to distress ourselves further about the Dreadnaughts which we might contribute. The centre of control would remain as at present, and as it always must remain, viz: where the centre of the empire is. We should, under these circumstances, feel that while in domestic affairs we were preserving an household independence, in imperial affairs we were at last contributing our share to the empire's navy. With a burlesque navy of our own, some power, such as Brazil, might wipe us out over night, but as part of the imperial navy, it would be different. We should not be lightly interfered with. In other words a contribution to a navy under imperial control, and handled by experienced men would be worth discussing, while the Canadian navy idea is ridiculous and proportionately more expensive. There is nothing to prevent our having training ships galore, but a Canadian navy is the first step to independence, in which event the dream of a world-wide empire of noble traditions and high ideas would have vanished. Of course our French-Canadian compatriots are bitterly opposed to the imperial navy idea, or any other form of imperialism. It shuts them out as a factor in the future. At the present time, with the accession of Ungava, they control the Atlantic coast from the Arctic Circle all down the New England States to Boston. Their ancient pre-eminence is restored to where it was before 1763, with the addition of a preponderance in New England they never had before. This craze for racial recognition is a pity. It does more to keep separate the peoples of the world than aught else. It renders the brotherhood of man impossible. It precludes the possibility of a worldwide international public opinion which would rule the world as it now rules a state. However, there it is and there it will probably remain. In the meantime let there be no money wasted on a Canadian navy. The necessity of "doing something" is sad enough without adding absurdity to it. Finally, "Is there going to be an empire with home-rule in hearthside affairs and imperial rule in international affairs or not?" At present we appear to be hastening to the bow-wows. We must all see to it, at any rate, that Canadian feeling is not misrepresented in this matter. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is not an imperialist, and may be expected to act accordingly.

BRITISH METHODISM

"As I conclude this letter the returns for the last year are to hand, showing the membership of British Wesleyan Methodism. It is depressing reading. For the third year in succession we report a decrease. Comfort ourselves as we may—by reminding each other that there were three similar years of leanness thirty years ago; that it is due to the uncertainty concerning what is to be our ultimate test of membership; that figures are ever misleading, and cannot be the true criterion of the spiritual power of a Christian church—the sad facts remain, and we are humbled. May the humbling and heart-searching work out our ultimate salvation, in driving us as a church to more entire dependence upon God."

6 Eccleston Street, London, S.W.—London letter of the Christian Guardian.

We had supposed that the force of British Methodism, called in Britain non-conformity, was growing stronger, more aggressive and capable, gradually transforming England from the chosen home of the established church into an open hearth for all branches. Where are the people going to? Can it be that the loss of the old fire means the loss of those whose natures respond to that treatment. In the days of Punshon, that most melodious and perfect of orators it was different. British Methodism was increasing rapidly in force and numbers at that time. Unquestionably, as all "non-conformist" returns for years have shown, British Methodism is no longer a source of expanding energy. The depression referred to by Mr. Watkins is having a disastrous effect. But perhaps it is due to the fashion of the times, which prefers the old-fashioned, humble contrition of heart. If it is because the one is inconsistent with the other that British Methodism is on the decline, so much the more creditable, to some minds, will be the decline. Others, of course, think differently, not bearing in mind perhaps that since the first eleven chapters of Genesis had to yield to the light of science, so may the resurrection of our Lord which rests on no securer basis. If modern science and modern thought is to weigh against the plain, recorded statement of one part of the Bible, many are asking why not against the other? Of late there has been a sudden revulsion of feeling, part of which is exemplified in British Methodism and part in the new and more open scoffing of "the street." It is manifest in the life of the country at large. The idea that faith shall depend upon scholarship is a speculative one. It does not command itself to all.

FACES BIGAMY CHARGE AT 76

Aged Veteran, Deaf and Crippled Said to Have Had Seven Wives

Detroit, May 18th.—Bent under the weight of 76 years, one-eyed, toothless, part of his skull missing, baldheaded and deaf, Warran Allen, a negro, 69 Napoleon street, was arraigned before Judge Connolly this morning on a charge of bigamy.

Complaint was made by the woman who claims to be wife No. 7. She was Elizabeth Dunning, and she swears he married her Feb. 3 last, without going through the formality of a divorce from Myrtle Smith, whom he wedded Dec. 8 last. The names of the gay old darky's other alleged spouses do not appear in the court file.

When Allen hobbled into court spectators thought for a minute Uncle Tom was in their midst, so striking was the resemblance to the stage character. Allen could hear nothing said by the court or clerk, but managed to plead not guilty. He was released on his personal recognizance to appear for trial later.

Allen served throughout the civil war and part of his head was carried away by a rebel bullet. He now wears a silver plate in lieu of the absent bone.

Allen married his first wife 40 years ago. He draws a pension of $12 a month, and it is curious that he got spliced to all his other wives just about pension day.

The old man was a slave in antebellum days and went to Mexico with his master, who enlisted in the war with that country.

LAY FOR WEEKS AT DEATH'S DOOR

But Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Mrs. Thompson's Dropsy.

It Started With Backache and Grew Worse Till the Doctor Said She Must Die.

Holy, Ont., May 17.—(Special)—All the countryside here is ringing with the wonderful cure of Mrs. Samuel Thompson, who lay at the point of death for weeks, swollen with Dropsy so that the doctor five different times decided to tap her but desisted because as her husband said, "It might be better to let her die in peace." After the doctor had given her up Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her.

Mrs. Thompson's terrible trouble started with pain in the back. She grew worse and the doctor treated her for jaundice for eight weeks. Then her feet and legs began to swell and it was realized that Dropsy was the trouble. For seven months she suffered. The doctor said there was no hope; she must die.

As a last resort Dodd's Kidney Pills were tried. The improvement was slow but gradually her strength came back. To-day Mrs. Thompson is a well woman. She says, and the countryside knows, she owes her life to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

If the disease is of the Kidneys, or from the Kidneys, Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it.

GAMES OF CHANCE NOT ALLOWED HERE

No Fakirs Will be Allowed to Practise in This City on the 24th of May

Fakirs and those who run games of chance will not have an opportunity of sleeving up any change in the city this year. The gent who sells a large bottle of medicine for 50 cents and tells his audience they may find a $1.00 bill enclosed in the wrapper, or the man with a large assortment of canes and who gives you six throws for a nickle will have to pitch his paraphernalia in some other locality. The Chief of Police has received a communication from one of these knights of the canes, asking if he would be allowed to do business on the 24th of May, but was told that no games of chance would be allowed to take place in this city.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Hogs 5c Lower at Buffalo and Chicago.

LONDON, May 17.—London cables for cattle are steady, at 14¼c to 14¾c per lb. for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 10½c to 10¾c per lb.

Toronto Junction Live Stock.

TORONTO JUNCTION, May 17.—Receipts at the Union Stock Yards were 52 carloads, consisting of 1090 cattle, 25 hogs, 20 sheep and 67 calves.

Exporters.

Export steers sold from $5.65 to $6.40; export bulls, $4.50 to $5.25. The export steers selling under $6 per cwt. were generally of light weight, some of them being not any heavier than many of those bought for butchers' purposes. Export cows sold from $5 to $5.25.

Prime picked lots of butchers' steers and heifers sold at $5.45 to $5.65; loads of good, $5.25 to $5.40; medium, $5 to $5.20; common, $4.75 to $5; cows, $3.75 to $4.75.

About 100 veal calves sold from $3.50 to $5 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Few sheep and lambs were on sale. Export ewes $5 to $5.25 per cwt.; yearling lambs, $7 to $7.50 per cwt.

Hogs.

E. Puddy quotes hogs $7.65, f.o.b., cars, at country points, and the D. B. Martin Company quoted hogs, fed and watered, at the market at $7.75 per cwt.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, May 17.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards' West End Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending May 15 were 2000 cattle, 200 sheep and lambs, 2700 hogs and 2000 calves. The offerings for local consumption this morning amounted to 1000 cattle, 500 sheep and lambs, 1500 hogs and 100 calves. Owing to a smaller supply of cattle than a week ago the undertone to the market continues strong and prices are steadily rising. A feature was the fairly good demand from exporters on account of the strong cable advices from Liverpool, which noted an advance in prices of ½c to 1c per lb., as compared with those of a week ago, and stated that the market was decidedly firm, as supplies were very short. A few fancy Ontario stall-fed steers were sold to butchers at 6¼c to 6½c, while exporters paid from 5¾c to 6c per lb; choice steers brought 6c, good 5½c to 5¾c; fair, 5c to 5¼c; medium, 4½c to 4¾c; cows, 4½c to 5¼c; bulls, 4½c to 5c, and common stock, 3¾c to 4¼c per lb. There was a good enquiry for small meats, but owing to small offerings prices ruled very firm; yearling sheep sold at 6½c to 7c; old sheep, at 5½c to 6c per lb, and spring lambs, at from $3 to $5 each, as to size. The demand for calves was good and sales were made at from $2 to $6 each, as to size and quality. A strong feeling prevails in the market for hogs and prices have scored a further advance of 5c to 15c per cwt., since this day week, and the prospects are they will go still higher, as supplies coming forward are not equal to requirements; this, coupled with the strong cable advices, received on Canadian bacon last week, which noted a rise in prices of 2s to 5s per cwt., tends to greatly strengthen the situation. Demand from packers for supplies was keen and some sales of selected lots were made as high as $8.50, but the bulk were at $8.40 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, May 17.—Cattle—Receipts, 3000 head; active and 10c to 25c higher; prime steers, $6.50 to $7; shipping, $6.15 to $6.65; butchers, $5.50 to $6.50; heifers, $4.50 to $6.25; cows, $3.50 to $6.00; bulls, $3.75 to $5.50; stockers and feeders, $4.25 to $5.10; stock heifers, $3.50 to $4.25; fresh cows and springers, $25 to $68.

Veals—Receipts, 2300 head; active and steady; $6 to $7.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 9600 head; slow and steady to 5c lower; heavy, $7.65 to $7.70; mixed, $7.60 to $7.70; Yorkers, $7.35 to $7.60; pigs, $7.15 to $7.25; roughs, $6.40 to $6.65, stags, $5 to $5.75; dairies, $7.25 to $7.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 19,000 head; sheep, active and steady; lambs, slow and 5c lower; lambs, $4.50 to $8.85; yearlings, $7 to $7.25; wethers, $6.25 to $6.50; ewes, $5.50 to $5.75; sheep, mixed, $2 to $6.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Beeves—Receipts, 2836; steers, steady, but undergrades slow. Fat bulls and fat cows slow to 10c lower; medium and common grades, steady to shade lower; steers, $6 to $7.15; bulls, $4.25 to $5.50; cows, $2.35 to $5.10; tail ends, $2.25.

Calves—Receipts, 3750; market steady to 50c lower; veals, $4.50 to $7.75; culls, $4; buttermilks, $4 to $4.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 10,683; steady; sheep, $4.50 to $6; few, $6.50; culls, $3 to $4; lambs, $6.25 to $7.25; no choice here; culls, $6; Kentucky spring lambs, $9; common Indiana, do., $8.

Hogs—Receipts, 11,676. Market uneven; good medium hogs, $7.60; pigs, $7.50.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, May 17.—Cattle—Receipts, estimated at 22,000; market steady; beeves, $5.10 to $7.35; Texas steers, $4.60 to $6.10; western steers, $4.75 to $6; stockers and feeders, $3.60 to $5.65; cows and heifers, $2.50 to $6.35; calves, $5.25 to $7.50.

Hogs—Receipts, estimated at 44,000; market 5c lower; light, $6.85 to $7.27½; mixed, $7 to $7.45; heavy, $7.05 to $7.50; rough, $7.05 to $7.15; good to choice heavy, $7.15 to $7.50; pigs, $5.80 to $6.75; bulk of sales, $7.25 to $7.40.

Sheep—Receipts, estimated at 14,000; market steady; native, $4 to $6.50; western, $4.25 to $6.40; yearlings, $6.25 to $7.40; lambs, native, $6 to $8.60; western, $6.25 to $8.60.

CITY OF THE INSANE.

Happy and Honored "Guests" of the Inhabitants of Gheel.

One of the most remarkable places in Europe, of which no tourist on pleasure bent ever takes notice, says a writer in a Berlin paper, is the "City of the Insane," by which name Gheel, near Antwerp, has been known for generations. About 1,500 men and women afflicted with insanity in all its forms live there and have a happy being as the "guests" of the inhabitants, who know by experience how to treat the unfortunate ones. In the streets, in the places of amusement, the cafes and workshops these patients may be found, and nowhere is there the remotest suggestion of restraint apparent. The board ranges from 240 to 2,400 marks a year, and, no matter how small the amount may be, the patient is always the favored member of the family. He has the first right to the most comfortable chair, and the head of the table belongs to him. He receives the most attention, and this he learns to appreciate and to endeavor to maintain by living down his illness. Even the children know how to treat the demented people. The dangerous ones are sent to another settlement and to institutions. It is wonderful how considerate, careful and kind the simple people are toward their charges, and a peep into the community would probably terrify physicians who had never heard of and could not appreciate the good which is being done in this "City of the Insane."

The Three Primary Colors.

Avoiding technical terms, all colors are composed of the union of three simple colors—viz, red, blue and yellow. Every tint in the rainbow may be made from the combination of these colors. White is composed of a blending of all the colors.

Condemnation.

"What do you think of members of European aristocracy as sons-in-law?" asked the old time friend.

"Well," answered Mr. Cumrox, "the way their relatives boss them around indicates that they ought to make easy husbands."

The Idiotic Affair.

Irate Parent—Am I to understand there is some idiotic affair between you and that impecunious young ass, Lord Bilaris? Fair Daughter (very sweetly)—Only you, papa!

For Good.

It never seems to occur to persons who are getting married that they ought to take each other for good as well as for better or worse.

The tears of a penitent are the wine of angels.—Bernard.

Richard the Brazen

...By...
CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY,
Author of "For the Freedom of the Sea," "The Southerners," Etc.
AND
EDWARD PEPLE,
Author of "A Broken Rosary," "The Prince Chap," Etc.

Copyright, 1906, by Moffat, Yard & Company.

"I will enlighten you. They have a ministerial looking representative of the name of Fishcall, whose innocence can only be described as infantile. This precious old lamb called upon a firm of promoters, Hill & Eaton, who—in strict confidence—happen to be my agents, and asked their advice with regard to a location for a deep water harbor on the Texas gulf coast they intend to construct with the assistance of a hoped for legislative appropriation." Once more Mr. Renwyck was so overcome by amusement that he was forced to pause in his story. "Now, my company—I myself, you understand?" he began at length.

"Of course," said Richard, bowing.

—"has been saddled for a long time with an utterly worthless tract of land along the gulf—a miserable, sun baked little hole rejoicing in the name of Olivia, which lies midway between Matagorda City and Longinatt, by the way. Through Hill & Eaton we advised Brother Fishcall to buy this tract, which—bless my soul—he did at once and at our own price!"

The amused speculator glanced at Richard and, mistaking his gloom for phlegmatic British lack of humor, went on:

"It seems also that thereafter the Peace and Good Will Realty company went to Bill Williams and asked his advice. The old skinflint also owned a lot of land around Olivia, which he promptly worked off on his confiding benefactors. Now, look here, Croyland, you don't seem to appreciate the joke."

"But, my dear sir," began Richard, forgetting his role for a moment, "Olivia isn't such a bad—er—I mean—er"—

"Such a bad sale for me, eh?" laughed Mr. Renwyck, unconsciously helping his guest out of a hole. "I should say not! Why, my boy, we've sold a white elephant!"

Richard thought swiftly. Olivia, as he was about to tell Mr. Renwyck, was not such a bad site for a deep water harbor after all, and in fact he had always contended with his father that it was more advantageously located for that purpose than Matagorda City. Not only was the situation more central, but it offered shorter and more direct communication with freight routes and main lines. True, the country was sparsely populated in its vicinity, but settlers would come naturally with the development of such an enterprise. Perhaps the Peace and Good Will Realty company's representative was not such an egregious ass as the Renwyck and Williams factions supposed.

"Has the new company, in your opinion, any chance of success?" he asked his host.

"Chance!" laughed Mr. Renwyck, "Not a ghost of it! Now, listen. Here comes the cream of the joke. The time for taking a vote on these deep water harbor bills in the Texas legislature had been set for two weeks from now, but various circumstances have played directly into my hands. Senator Frank Kinwalt, president of the Texas state improvement committee of the legislature, was closeted with me for two hours this morning. He is now on his way to Austin, where my harbor bill will be passed by both houses immediately upon his arrival, and the legislature will at once adjourn."

"You—you mean," stammered Richard, "that you have bought Kinwalt—that"—

"Tut, tut!" protested the crafty old schemer. "True, I bought the gentleman a lunch at Sherry's, together with a few cigars, a couple of cold bottles, and there were some incidental expenses which ran the price of the meal up—well, up into six figures, but beyond this"— Mr. Renwyck paused and smiled. "No one in this enlightened age would dream of buying an entire legislature, my dear boy. Horrible!"

Richard rose from his seat, took a turn up and down the library, then faced his exultant host.

"Mr. Renwyck," he asked, "aren't you losing sight of one important factor in the game? From what I have heard of him, Bill Williams is scarcely the man to be lying around in a hammock while you are putting through your deep water harbor bill. In my humble opinion, you are going to have a fight on your hands that will make you sit up and get busy."

This was the most un-English language which the supposed nobleman had yet employed, but it did not attract the notice or awaken the suspicion of Mr. Renwyck at that time, owing to his deep interest in the matter immediately in hand.

"Ah," he cried, "now you've laid your finger on a beauty spot! Of course Williams will fight me with tooth and nail; but, by the Lord Harry, he can't!"

"Why not?"

"Simply because he will not be in Texas when my bill is passed."

Richard stared at his host in fear and wonder, while Mr. Renwyck continued jubilantly:

"I could not have had matters turn out better if I had arranged it all myself. It seems that Williams' fool of a son was up here in New York last week and got himself badly smashed up in an automobile accident."

"What, you don't mean"—

"Yes, it's true," added the speculator quickly without noticing Richard's look of astonishment. "Michael showed me a greatly exaggerated newspaper account yesterday morning."

"Is he—er—mortally or dangerously hurt?" began Richard, who had in truth forgotten all about the condition of the real Croyland, and he now began to fear that the man who had assumed his name really might be more seriously injured than any of them had imagined. Richard was neither heartless nor indifferent; but, not suspecting Croyland's injuries were serious and being fully occupied with his own engrossing situation, he had not given the wounded earl a thought for days.

"No, no; badly, but not fatally, of course," answered Mr. Renwyck. "I sent around to the hospital to see if there was anything I could do for the boy. I'm sorry for him. I've got no grudge against him, except his foolishness in selecting such a father."

"I'm glad to hear it's no worse," murmured Richard, much relieved. "Go on, sir."

"It struck me at once that things might happen which would serve my interests when the father heard of the sad affair."

Richard glared at his host and ground his teeth in impotent rage at this exhibition of a heartlessness that would make capital for itself in a business scheme out of such an accident. "I'll steal his daughter now without a twinge of conscience!" Aloud he asked with as much control as his thumping heart admitted, "Well, what then?"

The host, who, it may be admitted, had no feeling of hesitation at turning the incident to his advantage, however much he might and did deplore it, rubbed his hands and laughed once more in keen enjoyment of the unlooked for opportunity to get the better of his enemy. Mr. Renwyck was playing the game cold bloodedly, mercilessly, according to the rules of the street. He would do nothing dishonorable or underhand after the ethics of his kind, but he would have considered himself a fool if he had not availed himself of every opportunity or assistance that fate put at his disposal.

"What then?" he echoed. "Well, Williams did a thing which surprised even me. I have in my pocket a cipher report from one of my agents whose sole business is to watch the opposition. Do you know, Croyland, when the old fellow learned that his son had been desperately hurt, perhaps dying—that's what the dispatch said—he dropped everything, chartered a special train and started north immediately."

"The deuce you say!" cried Richard, springing to his feet.

"I do," nodded Mr. Renwyck, construing his companion's explosiveness as sudden appreciation of the master stroke of business. "He is heading for New York as fast as steam can bring him and is leaving his harbor scheme wide open to my attack—not but what I had him beaten anyway, but this makes it a little plainer sailing."

Richard's cheeks, which had turned a deep and angry red, now grew deathly pale as he sank back into his seat again. In a far shorter space of time than it takes to tell it he realized each detail of Mr. Renwyck's coup d'etat and its crushing effect upon his father's plans. Then, too, his father's grief was cutting him to the heart. It touched him to the quick; it gripped his conscience with a burning vise. He had come north on his father's business, although not primarily for this deep water harbor scheme, of which he had known little or nothing, and now he was masquerading under a false name and title for his own pleasure. He must perforce be a helpless onlooker while enemies forged a shaft out of parental love and with it pierced the heart and brought about the ruin of his dear old dad. It was unbearable, impossible, yet what could he do?

"These are foreign drafts. Draw on your bankers."

What would happen when Bill Williams arrived? He, the hapless son, seemed to be in some way responsible for the whole wretched tangle, yet honor barred him from interposing a hand to prevent the catastrophe. Seek it where he would, there seemed no loophole of escape to be found. Perhaps if he could see Mr. Corrigan he could get advice; but, no, that gentleman had already declined to help him, telling him he must brazen it out on his own account. Brazen it out? Yes, but how? Brass counted for nothing now, for Mr. Renwyck held all the cards. Reason did point to one possible course—to hedge on the winning side and save what he could for his father out of the wreck, and at this possibility the young man grasped as a drowning man reaches for a straw.

"Mr. Renwyck," he said, with a mighty effort to hide his agitation, "what you say convinces me. I have just $100,000"—his own private fortune from his mother—"in bank. I should like to place it in your enterprise."

The financier started.

"Well," he parleyed, "that is rather a larger amount than I had thought of handling for you. Still, a promise is a promise. Write me your check, Croyland, and I'll bring out your stock certificates tomorrow evening."

The name "Croyland" came to Richard like a blow between the eyes. In his intense excitement he had almost forgotten that he was another man. He could not use the earl's name for this purpose, of course, yet to sign Richard Williams to a check payable to Jacob Renwyck would be to confess all. As well wave a red flag in the face of a furious bull. Again he was experiencing the results of folly, but this time it contained no elements of humor whatever. He was in for it—a maverick surrounded on every side by whirling lariats, and soon a sizzling branding iron would burn its everlasting mark upon his hide.

"Mr. Renwyck," he faltered, desperately casting about for some practicable retreat from his dilemma, but in vain, "I fear, after all, that I won't be able to—to go on with you. My bankers—er"—

CROUP QUICKLY CURED

Don't Let the Child Choke to Death While Waiting For the Doctor.

Hyomei, the miraculous, antiseptic dry air treatment, will cure croup in either the first or second stages. Easily inhaled, even when the breathing is irregular, it reaches more promptly than any other remedy the terribly inflamed membrane of the windpipe. Its soothing balsams act immediately, the inflammation is allayed and the swelling reduced.

George H. King, of 22 Willington South Woodstock, says: "We would not think of keeping house without Hyomei. It has warded off colds, croup coughs and sore throats for all of our three children many and many a time. When a child breathes badly and through the mouth and the glands around the eyes and nose commence to swell, then is the time that we find the Hyomei quickly relieves the trouble and gets the bronchial tubes, lungs and throat cleared up."

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is guaranteed by Wm. Madill, druggist, Peterborough, to cure catarrh, colds, coughs, asthma, bronchitis and croup, or money back. A complete outfit, including a neat hard rubber pocket inhaler, costs only $1.00 An extra bottle of Hyomei, if afterwards needed, costs but 50 cents.

Boys Run Away From Home.

Guelph, May 18.—After riding on the bumpers of a freight train in a heavy rain for several hours, Willard Patten and Russell Farr of Toronto, arrived in Guelph and were taken in charge by the police. They are only 14 years of age and ran away from their home in Toronto Saturday night with no money and only a few articles, and with a small loaf of brown bread in a grip.

Woollen Mills Burned.

Dunnville, May 18.—The Erie Woollen Mills, owned by John Slingsby, were destroyed by fire Sunday evening, due probably to spontaneous combustion in some waste under a stairway. Loss $12,000, insured for $8,000.

Thewlis McCallum's barn was struck by lightning and destroyed; loss $3,000; insurance $1,600.

A Troublesome Mirror.

"Mamma," said Flossie, "this old looking glass isn't any good."

"Why, what's the matter with it, dear?" asked her mother.

"Every time I try to look in it," explained Flossie, "my face gets in the way."

A Woman's Sympathy

Are you discouraged? Is your doctor's bill a heavy financial load? Is your pain a heavy physical burden? I know what these mean to delicate women—I have been discouraged, too; but learned how to cure myself. I want to relieve your burdens. Why not end the pain and stop the doctor's bill? I can do this for you and will if you will assist me.

All you need do is to write for a free box of the remedy which has been placed in my hands to be given away. Perhaps this one box will cure you—it has done so for others. If so, I shall be happy and you will be cured for 2c (the cost of a postage stamp). Your letters held confidentially. Write to-day for my free treatment. MRS. F. E CURRAH, Windsor, Ont.

WANTED THEM SAVED.

Lincoln Stuck to His Selection of a Hospital Chaplain.

The nomination of a Mr. Shrigley of Philadelphia, a Universalist, for the position of chaplain for the hospital was not met with favor on all sides, and a delegation of protestants went to Washington to see President Lincoln on the subject. The following interview was the result:

"We have called, Mr. President, to confer with you regarding the appointment of Mr. Shrigley of Philadelphia as hospital chaplain."

"Oh, yes," replied the president. "I have sent his name to the senate, and he will no doubt be confirmed at an early date."

One of the young men replied. "We have not come to ask for the appointment, but to solicit you to withdraw the nomination."

"Ah," said Lincoln, "that alters the case. But on what grounds do you wish the nomination withdrawn?"

The answer was, "Mr. Shrigley is not sound in his theological opinions."

The president inquired, "On what questions is the gentleman unsound?"

"He does not believe in endless punishment. Not only so, sir, but he believes that even the rebels themselves will be finally saved," was the reply.

"Is that so?" inquired the president.

The members of the committee responded, "Yes, sir."

"Well, gentlemen, if that is so and there is any way under heaven whereby the rebels can be saved, then, for God's sake and their sakes, let the man be appointed."

Mr. Shrigley was appointed and served until the end of the war.

THE GREAT BOMBARDMENT.

A Constant Rain of Missiles Upon the World's Atmosphere.

The regions of space beyond our planet are filled with flying fragments. Some meet the earth in its onward rush; others, having attained inconceivable velocity, overtake and crash into the whirling sphere with loud detonation and ominous glare, finding destruction in its molecular armor or perhaps ricochetting from it again into the unknown. Some come singly, vagrant fragments from the infinity of space; others fall in showers, like golden rain, all constituting a bombardment appalling in its magnitude.

It has been estimated that every twenty-four hours the earth or its atmosphere is struck by 400,000,000 missiles of iron or stone, ranging from an ounce up to tons in weight. Every month there rush upon the flying globe at least 12,000,000,000 iron and stone fragments, which, with lurid accompaniment, crash into the circumambient atmosphere.

Owing to the resistance offered by the air few of these solid shots strike the earth. They move out of space with a possible velocity of thirty or forty miles per second and, like moths, plunge into the revolving globe, lured to their destruction by its fatal attraction. The moment they enter our atmosphere they ignite, and the air is piled up and compressed ahead of them with inconceivable force, the resultant friction producing an immediate rise in temperature, and the shooting star, the meteor of popular parlance, is the result.

When an Ostrich Kicks.

"The only safe place in the neighborhood of a kicking ostrich is just behind it," said a zoo keeper. "An ostrich can kick a mule to death, but its kicks are delivered at an angle of 45 degrees. Within those 45 degrees, right abaft the 'pope's nose' of the bird, there is absolute safety. On the ostrich farms of California, when the herds are being driven, you will always see the ostrich boys holding on to the tails of bad kickers. The kickers tear along, and their scaly legs shoot out like piston rods, but the boys in the shelter of the pope's nose are safe."

LIGHT AND POWER CO. WANTS 30 YEARS FRANCHISE OF STREETS

Mr. J. H. Larmonth Waited on Council Last Night — A Proposition of Importance—Will be Taken up by Manufacturers Committee.

A proposition of importance was taken up last night at a meeting of the city council and the matter discussed is one of great local moment. The Peterborough Light and Power Company want a franchise of 30 years for the use of the city streets, and the managing director, Mr J H Larmonth waited on the council last night in the interests of the company. The company's present franchise expires in five years.

The Manufacturers' Committee and the city solicitor have the matter in hand. Mr. Larmonth laid the plans in an informal way before the aldermen last night, and several subsequent meetings will be held before it is finally settled.

Mr. J. H. Larmonth, president of the Peterborough Light & Power Co., explained the reason he asked the mayor to call this meeting. He said that the company was proposing to make more extensions to their property and to improve their plant. He said that the company desired to consolidate their indebtedness and to issue bonds for the same. The bonds will be for 30 years. Everything had gone along well until they suddenly woke up to the fact that their franchise for a pole line on the streets only lasted for five years. This stopped all financial business, as it would be impossible to issue bonds for 30 years to a firm that had only a five-year franchise. He did not suppose that the city would turn them down at the end of the franchise period and he also said that the financial men had faith in the city and the company, but they asked that the city and company endeavor to arrive at an understanding. Mr. Larmonth asked that the company be given a 30-year franchise. He said that the company's pay roll ran up to $20,000 and $25,000 a year, and that they always employed a large force of men.

Ald. Phelan and Ald. Duncan moved that the matter be referred to the city solicitor to report on.

The motion was changed upon the suggestion of Ald. Hicks so that it was referred to the Manufacturers' Committee to consult with the city solicitor and then report to the committee of the whole.

Ald. Hicks said that this was the time when the council should frame up its future policy for the control of the pole line on the streets, and there were several other matters also to be settled upon. Ald. Hicks also said that a small committee could round this matter up better and quicker and then report to the committee of the whole where it could be threshed out and settled.

This motion was carried.

Ald. McIntyre stated that he did not think that the council should consider the Light & Power Company's application for a minute. The lighting contract would expire in five years.

Ald. McIntyre was assured that all these things would be looked after by the Manufacturers' Committee.

BURLEIGH FALLS PRICES SUBMITTED TO CITY COUNCIL

The Cost of Burleigh Power at City Limits Ready to Hook on to Local Distribution Will be $7.50 per h.p. for 24 Hours Run—Estimates by Mr. A. MacCallum, C.E.—Available h.p. 2,700

Mr. J. A. Culverwell, CE, the well known engineer and Mr R J McLaughlin, KC, of Toronto and Lindsay are in the city. They brought with them the figures asked for by the city council respecting the price, etc, of Burleigh power. The actual amount of the sale price is of course, out of courtesy to the city council, not yet to be made known to the public but the other items of information concerning it show whether or not the proposition is an acceptable one. The flow at Burleigh with a 27 ft head at ordinary low water means 2700 hp. on a 24 hours' run. By keeping back a little in the "mill pond," at night a 3500 hp. for day use can easily be developed. Allowing for all expenses, including sinking fund, rent and upkeep of dam, interest, transmission and transforming, etc, "laid down" at the city limits, the cost per hp. at the price named to the city, Mr. Culverwell says, will not exceed $7.50. For a portion of the year the available hp. will reach 4000 or even more, but 2700 hp. he says can be relied upon under all conditions.

DESPATCHING BY TELEPHONE TO BE INTRODUCED ON C.P.R.

Montreal, May 17.—So successful has been the experiment of despatching trains on the Farnham branch of the Canadian Pacific by telephone that it is announced the telephone system will, this summer, be installed over the whole of the Superior Division 250 miles, between White River and Fort William. Work on installing a copper wire circuit for this purpose will be commenced very shortly.

It is stated by Superintendent Murphy, of the Eastern Division, that the telephone despatching system is easily twice as efficacious as the old telegraph work, and that it is only a matter of time until the whole C. P. R. system adopts the telephone for train service despatching.

"LESSONS FROM BIRDS AND FLOWERS"—AN ABLE ADDRESS

The rally and social held last night in the Park street church was a grand success. Miss Maud Everson, president of the B.Y.P.U., occupied the chair, and after the devotional exercises, called upon Mr. Cornish, of the Normal School staff, to address the meeting.

Mr. Cornish gave a very interesting and profitable address, on "Lessons from Birds and Flowers," a very fitting address at this season of the year. It was enjoyed by all present. Light refreshments were served at the close. The gathering dismissed with the Mizpah benediction.

"My Aunt's Heiress" Pleased Large Audience Last Night

"My Aunt's Heiress," a dainty and cleverly written two act farce was the delightfully presented comedy given by the Young Ladies' Sodality of St Peter's Cathedral last night before a splendid audience. The play proved a particularly pleasing and entertaining one and those appearing on the programme played their parts in a capable and pleasing manner. The story of the piece while essentially not a heavy one was very interesting and the dialogue and repartee were bright and humorous. The offering was a most acceptable one for the occasion and judging from the applause and laughter of the audience it was very much enjoyed.

The first curtain rises on a scene in the home of Mrs John Smith who is in a fluster of anticipation of the arrival of her sister in law, and the aunt of her seven children, Mrs Alexander De Courcey Smith. The family is having at various moments distracting and almost irrepressible quarrels the trivial nature and absurdity of which provide much merriment. The arrival of the much-heralded aunt is the signal for great attention to the rich relative who has expressed her intention of choosing one of her neices as her adopted daughter and bestowing riches upon her. Mrs Betsy Brown, another aunt of lesser means also pays a visit to the consternation of Mrs Smith, who does not want Aunt Brown to appear on the scene in all the glory of the other aunt's visit.

To go into the play at length would occupy considerable space and to make the proverbial long story, short, Aunt Betsy turns out to be the lady of wealth and a lesson is taught the haughty Mrs. Smith for her pride and inconsiderate attitude. A strong comedy element is ever prevalent and the lines are really very witty and amusing and many of the situations are extremely ludicrous.

As Mrs John Smith, Miss M A. O'Connell showed herself to be a dignified character comedienne of ability. Her conception of the character was a splendid one and she took full advantage of all the opportunities it offered and aroused much laughter by her highly amusing delineation.

All of the seven young ladies who represented Mrs Smith's daughters were seen to the greatest of advantage and won the immediate favor of the audience. Miss Mabel Tanguey appeared as Anna Marian, Miss Aileen Sullivan, as Jemima; Miss Gertie Clancy, as Arabella; Miss Margaret, Derucher, as Matilda; and the two "littlest girls," Miss Vera Welsh and Miss Marion Hayes as Clementina and Janey. When their tender years are considered the two children deserve special mention for their interesting work.

Miss L. Hurley was admirable as Mrs Alexander de Courcey Smith, her voice and accent being especially good. As Mrs. Betsy Brown, Miss Nora Fitzgerald did clever acting, and Miss Margaret McGrath was superb as Sippets, the talkative and original servant.

During the evening several excellent special numbers were given. Before the first act the popular selection "Be Sweet to Me Kid," was played by the Mandolin club and drew forth appreciative applause. Later in the evening the club played another number and were warmly encored.

A young ladies' chorus sang in fine voice and balance of tone "Come and Join in the Merry Dance," and were cordially applauded. Miss Argue's recitation "Taking the Elevator," caught the fancy of the audience in a most emphatic way and she had to give an encore selection, reciting "Tommy" in a very taking and original manner. Miss Lavina Hallihan is always assured an encouraging welcome. Her beautiful singing of "Sing On" earned her a hearty recall and she gave "Terrance's Farewell" with pleasing expression.

Miss Doherty and Miss Mamie Connor acted as accompanists for the evening in a most satisfactory manner.

THE FRANCHISE

All propositions looking to the control of the streets should be looked at very narrowly. The control of the streets should remain in the hands of the city. It is possible to grant privileges to companies that are under municipal contract in such a way as to prevent what has happened so often before, the virtual control of the streets, not by the municipality, but by its lessees. The franchise granted to the Toronto street railway, instead of being restrictive of the railway, was restrictive of the city, so much so indeed, that it seemed as if it would have been better to have drawn up the agreement on the assumption that the railway, and not the municipality owned the streets. This mistake has had a very bad effect upon Toronto, and we must see to it that a franchise here does not mean that we shall have to yield or go to law. So far we have steered fairly clear of that sort of thing, and it is to be hoped that no complication will arise in the near or more remote future. A thirty years' franchise is a long one. It is true with regard to the street railway that it is more or less of a hazardous enterprise. It is so great a means of convenience and pleasure to the great body of the people that it should be allowed considerable latitude as an inducement to continue. But all this is separate from the Power Question and should be kept so. The city should have a power commission before it is too late. It is this possibility, perhaps, that is moving some people to a sudden consideration of a franchise. The city should acquire the power awaiting it, and it cannot do it too soon. The repression of private enterprise is never wise, but the convenience of a whole municipality is even more important, especially with regard to the ways and means of transmission and transportation.

RURAL FREE MAIL DELIVERY

The following clipping from the parliamentary record of debate, Hansard, of May 13, 1909, shows how the County of Peterborough has been neglected in respect of mail delivery. It is high time that Peterborough should be given its share. Who needs it more? Ninety-seven routes established and Peterborough not one of them is a scandal.

"Rural Free Mail Delivery.

Mr. Armstrong asked:

How many rural free mail delivery routes on which mail was delivered to patrons of said routes were in operation on May 1, 1909?

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Postmaster General.—Ninety-seven rural mail delivery routes were authorized for establishment up to May 1, but as sometimes slight delays occur in placing the same in operation, it is impossible until the inspectors' returns reach the department, to state whether all of the authorized routes are actually in operation."—Hansard.

A call was sent in to the fire brigade, which responded to the call and had no difficulty in putting out the blaze.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE MRS. R. J. MUNRO

Was Held This Afternoon to the Hillside Cemetery, Lakefield Was Largely Attended

The funeral of the late Mrs. R. J. Munro was held this afternoon to Hillside cemetery in Lakefield and was largely attended. The services, which were conducted by Rev. Canon Davidson, were very impressive, and the many beautiful floral tributes testified to the high esteem in which the deceased lady was held by a large circle of friends. The pall bearers were Messrs. R. A. Dutton, J. D. Craig, Robert Fair, W. H. Casement, C. S. McClelland and D. Hughes Charles.

WILL TALK ABOUT HATS OF THE LADIES

Ladies' hats will come in for consideration at the meeting of the Young Men's Guild of St. Andrew's church to-night. There will be an informal debate, the subject of which will be, "Is Modern Millinery a Detriment to Christianity?" The meeting will be of unusual interest.

CLEAN UP YOUR BACK YARDS

Health Inspector is Making His Rounds to See That the Law is Enforced in This Respect

The dog tag trouble has almost reached its end and now comes the cleaning up of the yards. The Health Inspector has started out on his rounds to remind those who have not taken away the piles of ashes that have accumulated during the winter that they should have had them removed by the 15th of May.

Citizens should be interested in the work of the health officials in which they attempt to guard against the outbreak of diseases, and they can now show just how much they appreciate such efforts by cleaning up their back yards.

CASE WAS SETTLED OUT OF COURT

Action to Recover $834 Was Arranged in Private

The case of C. H. Moore vs. A. H. Stratton, G. L. Hay and J. D. Clarke has been satisfactorily settled out of court. Mr. Moore claimed $834 as a third of his share in a certain transaction which was not forth-coming and a writ was served on the parties mentioned above to recover the amount.

The case was to have come up at the sittings of the High Court to-day, but the adjustment was made yesterday.

OWEN SOUND VOTED ON TWO BY-LAW

Owen Sound, May 16.—Yesterday four bylaws were voted upon and the results split even. A bylaw to raise $125,000 for the extension of the water works and the installation of a filtration plant above Inglis Falls, where it is proposed to secure the supply was carried by a majority of 50. An expenditure of $30,000 for the extension of the electric light plant was also ratified by a majority of 83.

The reverses were a bylaw to expend $7000 on remodeling the interior of the town hall and the erection of an isolation hospital at an expense of $5500. The former was defeated by 129 and the latter by 53 votes. The votes polled were very small and little interest was shown.

TWO SPLENDID NEW DWELLINGS

Construction permits have been taken out for two new houses as follows.—

A. Kidd, brick veneer dwelling, on Lock street, $2,250.

Wm. Taylor, dwelling on George St., cement blocks, $2100.

WILL TALK ABOUT HATS OF THE LADIES

"I think the ladies should take off their hats in church just the same as they do at concerts, or other public gatherings," was the remark today of a man who goes to church and likes to see the speaker. "You can not," said he, "take any interest in what a speaker is saying, if you can not see the speaker, and with the big hats which are the style now, it is simply impossible for the majority of people in church to do so. Some of the choirs of this city have adopted the hatless system, and it has worked splendidly why not extend it to the congregation as well?"

ST. CATHARINE'S REGIMENT HAS COMPLETED PLANS

The St. Catharines Standard says;—As to the Peterborough trip, Col. Campbell said that the regiment will entrain at the Welland station of the Grand Trunk Railway at 10.30 p.m., on Saturday, May 22nd, in drill order. Tunics and helmets will be carried in company boxes. Great coats will be put into kit bags, which will be used as pillows on the train. Sleeping cars will be provided, and all will be made as comfortable as possible on the train. Baggage must be reduced to the minimum, including officers' personal baggage, and all must be at the armories, and packed, by 8 o'clock that evening. Blankets will be issued for use on the train, two to each man. On arrival at Peterborough there will be a regimental march. Meals will be furnished in the market building, which will accommodate from 500 to 600 men, and will be all that can be desired. On Sunday morning there will be a church parade, and on Monday a review. The Fifty-seventh regiment have arranged for the entertainment of the Nineteenth and Thirty-Eighth, including a trip up the Otonabee river. He further said that the Secretary of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. had written him that the Association building will be open to all ranks during the stay in the city.

IS MEETING WITH SUCCESS

Mr. W. M. Fife Came First in All Subjects But One in Recent Examination in University of Alberta

Citizens of Peterborough will be pleased to hear of the success of Mr. W. M. Fife, son of Mr. James Fife, a former resident of this city, but now of Edmonton. In the recent examinations in applied science in the University of Alberta the young man came first in all subjects except surveying, and in this he was second. The subjects in which he came first were: Physics, plane trigonometry, disciplines geometry, Algebra, spherical drawing, lettering and English. Mr. Fife is only about nineteen years of age, and prospects in life appear to be very bright, and his friends in this city will extend congratulations.

LINDSAY TO HAVE CITIZENS' CLUB

A number of Lindsay's most prominent citizens will hold a meeting shortly for the purpose of organising a men's club. The question of organizing such a club has been given a great deal of consideration by the professional and business men of Lindsay for the past few weeks and it is thought advisable by many of them that they should have a club, as they have in most towns in Canada.

It is proposed to lease the house formerly occupied by the late Dr. Burrows on William St. now owned by Mr W H Simpson. The building has been remodelled recently, is very conveniently situated and it is thought that it would make a capital place. There will be no license in connection with the club and the fee will be a normal one.—Lindsay Warder.

MORNING TRAIN TWO HOURS LATE

C. P. R. Express From the East Did Not Arrive Here Till 7.30 O'clock

The CPR. train from the east was two hours late this morning, arriving here at 7.30 o'clock. The delay was due to a slight accident to the engine west of Smith's Falls. When the train reached Peterborough, sandwiches could be secured at the station, a big order having been given to Jacobi's restaurant by the CPR.

C.P.R. IS BEING DOUBLE TRACKED

Work is in Progress on Line East of Smith's Falls

Work on the double tracking of the CPR. is being proceeded with east of Smith's Falls. A considerable portion of the line in that district has now two sets of rails, but only one track is being used. It is expected that the Havelock-Toronto division will also be double tracked this year.

The steamer Kensington arrived at Point Edward, Saturday with the first load of ore for the Hamilton Steel Co.

SPORTING NEWS

A VERY ATTRACTIVE FIELD FOR THE WALK COMMENCING HERE ON MONDAY NEXT

Now that the Milwaukee walk is over the one that takes place here, commencing next Monday, is the heel and toe carnival that holds chief interest for the pedestrians. It is great interest by the successful walkers who took part in the Milwaukee race, for Peterborough got a great reputation as a walking town last year, when the highly successful six day event was held here.

Of course the leading men, both as star attractions and in all probability in th ematter of standing, will be Willard A. Hoagland, one of the most wonderful performers that athletic competitions has produced. Despite the fact that he was the oldest man in the walk at Milwaukee week, he won with lots to spare, but had to break his own record to do so. Brown, the boy wonder, who will also be here for the six day race, is worth going miles to see perform. He is only 18 years of age, but his fast and pretty walking has won him laurels from both the press and public.

Corey, West, and the other good ones are also expected here. A strong card is expected in H. Messier, the veteran ped who promoted the Milwaukee event last week, and is one of the best known walkers in America.

HARRISON WILL WALK QUALE IN A TWO HOUR CONTEST

On Thursday night Jim Harrison will walk Quale who was also in the Milwaukee walk in a two hour match. The race will take place at Quale's home town which is about eighty miles from the city that Schlitz beer made famous.

Quale can travel a short distance in good time but Harrison should be able to beat him when the two come together. The local ped will reach home on Saturday to take part in the walk here.

HOAGLAND HERE FOR WALK; SAYS HARRISON WALKED A WELL JUDGED RACE

Looking as fresh as if he had been spending a summer at the seaside instead of just having been smashing records in a heart breaking 7 day walk, W A Hoagland arrived in the city today and will remain here for the 6 day heel and toe contest which starts at the Brock street rink on May 24th.

"Was the pace hot," seemed an unnecessary question to ask the champion in view of his establishing a new mark for the time of the walk but nevertheless this conventional query was given and Hoagland replied that it was so hot that the scorer were kept constantly busy adjusting the lap tickets.

"For the first three nights the going was terrific," he stated "and I had to keep travelling at an awful clip to pull away from the field. Brown gave me a great race on the opening night and is a comer in the heel and toe game. He makes a good appearance on the track and is a very pretty walker.

Harrison walked a splendid race and finished strong in fourth place. He showed good judgment in not staying with the killing pace at the start and reserved himself gradually gaining on the others and crossing the line for the final lap with fourth money waiting for him."

Hoagland stated that all the walkers with the exception of Harrison, who gets here Saturday would arrive for the local walk by Thursday. A select field will provide the six day entertainment for the crowd.

BALL TOSSER'S CORNER

OVERRUNNING FIRST BASE

Section 17—The base runner in running to first base may overrun said base after touching it in passing without incurring liability to be out for being off said base, provided he return at once and retouch the base, after which he may be put out at any other base. If, after overrunning first base he turn in the direction of, or attempt to run to second base, before returning to first base, he shall forfeit such exemption from liabilito to be put out.

Section 18—If before two hands are out and while third base is occupied the coacher stationed near that base shall run in the direction of home base on or near the base line while a fielder is making or trying to make a play on a batted ball, not caught on the fly, or on a thrown ball, and thereby draws a throw to home base the base runner entitled to third base shall be declared out by the umpire for the coacher's interference with the prevention of legitimate play.

Section 19—If one or more members of the team at bat stand or collect at or around a base for which a base runner is trying, thereby confusing the fielding side and adding to the difficulty of making such play the base runner shall be declared out for the interference of his team mate or team mates.

Section 28—If he touch home base before a base runner perceding him in the batting order, if there be such preceding base runner lose his irght to third base.

The Red Sox are without "Jack" Thoney, known as the "Bullet" and recognized as one of the fastest outfielders in the country. He is suffering from a physical breakdown which is not unlike that of Elmer Flick, the Cleveland outfielder, who was forced from the game last season.

Thoney is missed. He has a wonderful throwing arm. In the old days when he was working for Bill Armour he did not always throw accurately, and sometimes the ball would go all the way from centre field into the grand stand and upstairs boxes.

A year or two in the minors brought accuracy to the arm that before had been chiefly famous for its strength, and when John I. Taylor went to Toronto to bring Thoney back into the majors, he is said to have paid about $13,500 for the little towhead.

Stanley Robinson owner of the St. Louis baseball club, has taken that a $50,000 insurance policy on his manager and leading catcher, Roger Bresnahan. The policy runs for five years and the annual premium is $1300. Bresnahan is known as a daring player and has been injured often.

The Giants shut out Cincinnatti yesterday 6—0. Covileski was knocked out of the box in the Philadelphia-Chicago game. The Pirates put it over Brooklyn 11—1, when Pastorious was smashed all over the lot.

Detroit beat Boston 5—3. Carrigan was indefinitely suspended just before the start of the game.

The Athletics again defeated Chicago in a 12-innings game by 1—0.

New York won from Cleveland 6—5, and the Highlanders used 14 men. Lajoie made two runs for Cleveland without a hit.

Toronto won again from Providence yesterday by 4—2, and were lucky in winning. Providence looked like winners right up to the ninth, but the luck all went with the Leafs.

Buffalo beat Newark 3—0 with an attendance of only 415.

Rochester fell before Baltimore as they could do nothing with Dessau's shoots. The score was 2—1.

Montreal and Jersey City did not play.

A Pudding In Distress.

By FANNIE MEDBURY PENDLETON.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Perhaps it was fate that belated Cartwright and caused him to rush across the station platform just as the last passenger climbed aboard the train. If so, then fate was materially assisted by a little old lady over whom he nearly stumbled and who wildly clutched his arm.

She was very much out of breath, and her hair had blown free from her bonnet until the stray locks stood out in the wintry winds like a silver halo.

"Oh," she cried breathlessly, "my granddaughter has forgotten the Christmas pudding! She's on the train. Will you please give it to her? Her name's on the wrapper."

Cartwright mechanically accepted the pudding thus thrust upon him.

"Promise to put it into her own hands," pleaded the little old lady anxiously.

Cartwright nodded as he clutched the railing of the last car and pulled himself up. As the train swept around the curve he caught a last glimpse of her face. Her eyes were fixed upon the package under his arm.

"I actually believe she thinks I want her old pudding," grinned Cartwright. "She doesn't trust me."

The train, which was the last local for the city, was crowded with would be shoppers, with homegoers and guests bound cityward. Every seat was occupied. At last Cartwright found a place beside a young woman who obligingly made room for him and immediately resumed the study of the snowy landscape through which the train was rushing.

Cartwright glanced casually at her voluminous brown veil; then his eyes fell to the traveling pudding, and he turned over the package to find the name.

It was written in a fine, old fashioned hand and read, "Mary Lang, 1019 Essex place."

A pucker appeared between his eyes and bade fair to develop into a scowl when he became conscious that the gaze of the girl was fixed likewise upon the package.

"Pardon me," he cried impulsively; "you don't happen to be Miss Mary Lang, do you?"

The girl turned a very pretty and astonished face toward him.

"You see," he continued eagerly, "I don't know a soul at the station where I got on—changed cars there and nearly got left. Just as I was making for the train a lady requested me to deliver this. It is a pudding," he explained impressively, "and from the evident value set upon it by the maker I judge that it is a good one and that my responsibility is vast."

There was a responsive twinkle in the girl's eye.

"Sorry I can't help you out," she said. "Why not ask the conductor? He will know who got on at that station. I did myself, but we had to hurry to catch the train, and I didn't cotice my fellow passengers."

"Tickets, please."

"Say, conductor," cried Cartwright, "can you tell me who got on at Alton Junction?" and he explained the problem of the pudding.

The conductor grinned.

"There was the lady two seats ahead," he answered, "the one with glasses."

Cartwright inspected her with comic dismay.

"I'm a shy man," he announced, "and if it be she perhaps you had better tackle her, conductor. I don't want the job."

"Well, there's the fat lady in the yellow waist with buttons, and the girl in the front seat, and the family just behind, and"—

"You don't know even if she's grown up, do you?" queried the girl, who had become quite interested in the proceedings.

"That's so," assented Cartwright ruefully. "But I feel by the pricking of my thumbs that she's homely as a hedge fence, cross eyed and at least fifty."

"That may not interfere with her appetite for plum pudding," suggested the girl mirthfully. She had put back the enveloping brown veil, and her dark eyes gazed straight into Cartwright's.

"I wish you were Mary Lang," he said, with decision.

"I'm very well satisfied as I am," she answered, dropping her eyes demurely.

The conductor had returned.

"Lend me the precious pudding," he suggested. "Guess I can help you out."

He walked to the front of the car and faced about.

"Is there a lady in this car by the name of Mary Lang?" he shouted above the roar of the train.

There was much turning of heads, but no response. The conductor disappeared into the car ahead, while Cartwright wiped imaginary drops of perspiration from his forehead.

"This suspense is awful," he observed. With hands clasped dramatically he awaited the outcome.

The door opened. A giggle came from the girl and a groan from Cartwright as the conductor returned, bearing before him the pudding, still unclaimed. He dropped it into Cartwright's hand.

"Sorry," he chuckled, "but there's nobody on the train who will own to being Mary Lang and thus become the proud possessor of the pudding."

"It is not a pudding," declared Cartwright resentfully. "It's an old man of the sea." And he leaned back, with the look of a martyr. The girl watched him with twitching lips.

"There is the address," she suggested. "You can send it when you reach the city."

"But I promised," said Cartwright wrathfully—"I promised the woman to see it delivered in person, and now it is my fate to go on a still hunt for this horrible woman, this gorgon. I'm very much afraid that Maud Cartwright's dinner will be late if she waits for me." He added the last wrathfully.

"Oh!" said the girl sympathetically. "Still," she continued, "the poor woman is probably mourning the loss of her pudding, and you can figure as the restorer of happiness. She is likely one of these timid souls and didn't dare own up to her name, or—I have it!—she is probably deaf and didn't hear the conductor."

The train pulled into the station, and the passengers gathered up their various belongings.

"Goodby," said the girl sweetly. "I hope you find her all right. May you enjoy as good a Christmas pudding as Mary Lang's."

Cartwright watched her ruefully as she disappeared in the crowd.

"I'd like to know that girl," was his mental ejaculation; then he walked into the waiting room, eagerly scanning the crowd for a woman who appeared to have lost something. At last, refreshing his memory by a glance at the address, he took an uptown car and started for 1019 Essex place.

The storm had increased, traffic was slow, and it was some time before he mounted the steps and rang the bell at his destination. He wondered if he should ask for Miss or Mrs. Lang, and when the door opened he slurred the prefix and laid emphasis upon the name. Miss Lang was at home, and he presently found himself comfortably seated and awaiting her advent. He glanced mechanically about the tastefully appointed room; then there was a step on the stair, and he turned to behold a tall girl in a black lace dinner gown and with a spray of holly caught in her dark hair.

"You!" he cried.

She came forward, a half shamed, wholly mischievous expression on her face.

"I suppose I owe you an apology," she said. "You see, I fully intended to own up before you reached the city—you were so deliciously funny that I simply couldn't before—and then you mentioned your cousin, Maud Cartwright, who is my best friend, and I knew that you must be Bobby's cousin, of whom I've heard all my life. And so"—she darted a mirthful glance at him from under her dark lashes—"and so, well, the temptation was too overwhelming. I have heard of you in a variety of roles, but never before as a restorer of puddings." She held out her hand. "Please try quite hard to forgive me," she finished in assumed contrition.

They looked at each other, and both broke into a merry peal of laughter.

"You," cried Cartwright when he could speak—"you led me this wild goose chase!" He tried to summon a reproachful air.

She raised one hand and plucked a tall rose from a vase on the mantel. Her mouth was drawn into demure lines, but her eyes danced wickedly. Then she held out to him the long stemmed rose.

"I had to punish you for calling me a gorgon and believing me to be such a dreadful looking creature. The score is not so uneven, is it?"

They looked at each other above the rose and laughed again.

"I will even it up, my Christmas lady," declared Cartwright. Then his voice fell into a humbler tone. "And with Cousin Maud to introduce me I may come again?"

"Are you sure that Bobby Cartwright is your cousin?"

"Positive."

"Well, I have invited Bobby and Maud and the cousin who was expected to Christmas dinner. We are to have the pudding, but perhaps it would not agree with you after what has happened."

"Food for the gods!" cried Cartwright. "Give me a chance at that pudding. It will afford a very excellent substitute for humble pie."

It was snowing heavily when Cartwright reached the street, but he plunged resolutely into the storm.

"Heavenly pudding," he cried with enthusiasm, "I must relinquish you, but I will not give you up so easily, my Christmas lady."

Breaking Up a Witness.

In no way can barristers better display their acuteness than by seeing at a glance the character of the witnesses they are about to examine and by treating them accordingly. Erskine was famous at this. In a case in which he was engaged a commercial traveler came into the witness box dressed in the height of fashion and wearing a starched white necktie folded in the Brummel fold. In an instant Erskine knew his man, though he had never seen him before, and said to him, with an air of careless amusement, "You were born and bred in Manchester, I perceive." Greatly astonished at this opening remark, the man admitted that he was. "Exactly," observed the great cross examiner in a conversational tone. "I knew it from the absurd tie of your neckcloth."

The roars of laughter, coming from every person in the court, with the single exception of the unfortunate witness, which followed this rejoinder completely effected Erskine's purpose, which was to put the witness in a state of agitation and confusion before touching on the facts concerning which he had come to give evidence.—London News.

PURITY WARE BY-LAW WILL BE DISCUSSED THIS EVENING

To-night a public meeting will be held in the City Council Chamber under the auspices of the Board of Trade to discuss the Purity Ware by-law. The chair will be taken by Ald. G. A. Gillespie, president of the Board of Trade, and arrangements have been made to have all phases of the proposition discussed thoroughly. The subject is one of great interest to the ratepayers of Peterborough and there should be a large attendance at the meeting. The public is heartily invited.

A FRIENDLY CIVIL CASE OF UNUSUAL INTEREST; JUDGMENT FOR PLAINTIFF

An unusual and interesting civil action was heard before Mr. Justice Clute at the sittings of the High Court to-day. It was the case of Parker vs. Parker and the action is an entirely friendly one brought by the direction of the official guardian of infants.

The widow of the late Mr. Alfred Parker, of Peterborough, wanted the arrangement completed as desired by her husband regarding a business in Hamilton, but the infant heirs of Mr. Parker had no authority to agree to this hence the action.

In 1906 the late Alfred Parker set up his son in business in Hamilton. After the son had been about a year in bubiness it was decided that increased accomodation was necessary and it was decided bo buy property and erect a suitable place for business thereon. Mr. Parker had been interested in the business prior to this.

The deed was taken out in the name of A. Parker at the request of the son, Robert, and after the erection of the building and about the time of entering into it it was seen that the business would be too much for one to handle in the busy season and Mr. Parker and son agreed to enter into partnership upon terms then arranged, one of which was that the survivor of the partnership should have all the property and the assets of the firm. Upon a subsequent visit of Robert to Peterborough he and his father called upon the father's solicitor, Mr. Bennet, of the firm of Roger, Bennet & Goodwill, and instructed him to prepare the necessary documents to carry out these proposals. The documents were duly approved of by both parties, but were unexecuted at the time of Mr. Alfred Parker's death, which the public will remember occurred after an hour's illness. Had there been no infants no action would have been necessary, because Mrs. Parker, the only other adult heir, knew perfectly well what the arrangement was and was convinced that any other course than that of Robert having the conveyance of the property would have been unjust.

However, the official guardian, before becoming a party to the conveyance on the infant's behalf, required that this friendly action should be brought to establish the facts beyond question.

The evidence of the son, Mr. Robt. Parker, and of Mr. Bennet settled the matter in the mind of the judge beyond question, and as a result a declaration was made that the Hamilton business and real estate be conveyed to Robert, upon conditions of the written memoranda of partnership.

Counsel for plaintiff, E. L. Goodwill; for administratrix, W. F. Johnston; for infants, L. M. Hayes, K.C.

INDIAN ACOOSE SHOWED THE WAY

Fred Appleby Defeated in 15 Indoor Race Last Night at Winnipeg

Winnipeg, May 17— Paul Acoose, the almost unknown runner from Grenfell, Sask, smashed all worlds indoor records for fifteen miles and incidentally defeated the holder, Fred Appleby of England, in a race here tonight in the arena rink when he finished in one hour 22 minutes, 22 seconds. The Indian boy from the prairie measured up the Englishman after the seventh mile and thence forth ran him off his legs.

Following are the best previous times for fifteen miles:

$10,000 OFFERED FOR THIS FIGHT

San Francisco, May 17—Fight Promoter James Coffroth has offered Billy Papke who defeated Hugh Kelly on Saturday $10,000 to meet Sam Langford in the Colma arena. The offer was made to Papke's brother and the date suggested was July 5. The offer was so unexpected that the Papkes were not ready to give a definite answer. Coffroth asserts he will offer $5,000 to Langford for his end of the purse and he is confident of landing the match.

HOW HANS WAGNER GETS HIS SALARY

What it Really Means to be a Great Ball Player

Here is another Pittsburg stogie that may be smoked after dinner sometime when there is nothing better to think about;

"Hans Wagner's salary is not all paid for by Dreyfus," said an old baseball magnate the other day in discussing the national game, "and most persons will think there is something "queer" when they know how it is paid."

He then went on to explain that Wagner receives $10,000 a year, $6000 of which is paid by the Pittsburg club, $2000 by the National League and $2000 by contribution from the other seven clubs.

"When the American League was started six years ago" he continued "an offer was made to Wagner to pay him $50,000 if he would join that organization. This sum was to be guaranteed by depositing the $50,000 in some bank and Wagner was to be allowed to draw $10,000 a year from the fund.

"Wagner went with this offer to Dreyfuss who demurred at meeting it but agreed to pay Wagner a smaller salary and guaranteed to pay him the difference in five years from the Pittsburg Club and the $50,000 guaranteed by the American League, should the American League be in existence.

"When this agreement was made there was present besides Wagner and Dreyfuss, Harry C Pullman now president of the National League, but then secretary of the Pittsburg club.

"At the expiration of five years, in the spring of 1908, Wagner went to Dreyfuss and demanded the difference The matter was taken to Pullman who at once remembered the agreement, and declared Wagner entitled to the money."

TENNIS

TENNIS OPENING, MAY 24

The Tennis club of St John's AYPA. will hold its formal opening on the Oval grounds, weather permitting, at three o'clock Monday afternoon. May 24th when a large attendance of club members is earnestly desired. Everything is in readiness for a bright opening session if the "weather man" can be induced to keep his best behavior for the occasion. The opening games will begin at three o'clock, and a club tea will be served at 5.30. All members of the club are asked to be present with their friends. All intending to join the club and who have not already done so, can avail themselves of this opportunity of so doing. Fees and memberships can be paid at the opening meeting. May 24 there will be a short executive meeting on the grounds immediately preceding, or after tea. A good time is assured all who are lovers of the game who attend the club's opening on Monday next.

Sea Air.

At a meeting of the French Therapeutical society M. Laumonier showed that the therapeutic effect of sea air on the coast is quite different from that of the open sea—i. e., twenty or thirty miles out. On the coast the effect tends toward excitement and congestion and, moreover, is irregular in its action. Out at sea it is tonic and regulating, and in addition the patient gets quiet, a regular life and a continuous bath of pure air. These advantages are not so patent on board great liners on account of the vibration and the smell from the engines, but on a sailing ship they are evident.

Chinese Idea of Government.

Here is a Chinese idea of prosperity in a nation: When the sword is rusty, the plow bright, the prisons empty, the granaries full, the steps of the temple worn down and those of the law courts grass grown, when doctors go afoot, the bakers on horseback and the men of letters drive in their own carriages, then the empire is well governed.

Getting Ready For Him.

"He didn't say anything, Harold; simply went over to the gymnasium and arranged for a course of boxing lessons."

A Musical Event

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—In your issues of this week appears an announcement that St. John's choir, under the direction of Mr. Richard J. Devey, are performing Sir John Stainer's composition, The Daughter of Jairus," with orchestral and organ accompaniments. It is many years since I had the pleasure of hearing this beautiful work—composed for the Worcester festival of 1878—which is written in Oratorio form, round the memorable page of the New Testament, telling of one of the great events in the early life of our blessed Lord. From previous work of this choir, an entirely voluntary body of singers, they will no doubt give a good performance of the work, and with Miss Helen Davies and Mr. Edward Barton assisting, success along that line is assured.

May I be allowed to urge all who love music to try to be present tomorrow night, (Wednesday) at eight o'clock in St. John's church and give this plucky body of musicians that support which is surely their due. Evidently no expense has been spared in the production, and as the only income will be from a silver collection towards a sum approaching $100, the offering should be substantial, so that no loss falls on the promoters.

Thanking you in anticipation for for inserting this letter, I am, sir,

Yours faithfully,
CHORALE.

BAD LEG FOR 60 YEARS

Zam-Buk Works a Complete Cure

Mrs. J. Minett, of 192, Thurbers avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, has been cured by Zam-Buk of a bad leg, which had defied all remedies for sixty long years. She says;—"When a child of eight, I was bitten on the leg by a dog. A doctor cauterised the place, but it never healed up soundly, and I have suffered with an ulcerated leg for over sixty years. This occurred in England, and many English doctors tried in vain to heal the sore. At one time I was an in-patient at the East Suffolk Hospital for a long period, and for three years I was in and out of hospitals. I was continually in pain, and the sore would not heal, but continued to discharge. Twelve months ago I came out here to my daughter, and during the voyabe I had to keep my bed. The ship's doctor examined my leg and gave me a plaster, which I had to take off again, as it made the pain so intense. When I reached my daughter's house she sent for a medical man, who said nothing could ever do it any good, and although I tried other American doctors, they did me no good. They said my leg would never be well.

"One day my youngest daughter brought home a box of Zam-Buk, and induced me to try it. With the first application I seemed to find ease, and further treatment with Zam-Buk did me so much good that I sent for a proper supply. I kept on with the Zam-Buk treatment, and soon saw the wound was getting better. The discharge was reduced, and the pain was eased. I persevered with the Zam-Buk and, to cut a long story short, it effected a cure. It is marvellous to think that, after suffering for sixty years, Zam-Buk has been able to make my leg perfectly sound."

Zam-Buk is a combination of power and purity. Purely herbal, it is superior to all known remedies for chronic sores and wounds, eczema, salt-rheum, ringworm, eruptions, varicose ulcers, cuts, burns, bruises skin diseases. It also cures piles. All Druggists and Stores sell at 50c. a box, or post-free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Three boxes for $1.25.

MOTHER ACCUSES DAUGHTER OF COMMITTING MURDER

Wealthy Merchant is Found With Head Crushed and Body Half Burned and Mother and Daughter Who Were Alone in House Plead Innocence—Former Finally Accuses Latter.

St. Paul, Minn., May 19.—A remarkable case, in some respects strangely resembling the Kinrade affair at Hamilton, Ont., is the present sensation of this state.

Louise Arbogast, twenty-three years old, tearless, but pitifully protesting her innocence, is in the hospital ward of the county jail, held for further hearing in the Police Court, charged with the slaying of her father, Louis Arbogast, a wealthy butcher, whose head was crushed with an axe as he lay in bed at his home, and whose body was saturated with gasoline and set on fire.

The girl's accuser is her mother, Mrs. Minnie Arbogast, who has herself been under arrest for three days at the city hospital.

Had the police not been able to connect circumstantial evidence with the mother's statement the charge of murder would have been preferred against the wife instead of the daughter of the slain man.

The story of the mother, the accusing story which brought Louise Arbogast to the bar, bears out the statements of the authorities as to the girl's mental condition. The very nature of the act, indeed, indicates maniacal frenzy, the cunningness of some of her alleged attempts to cover up the slaying is declared to establish the fact, and the asserted inconsistencies of her statements after the slaying are said to have been the lapses of cunning due to slip of judgment common to crimes committed by the insane.

Mrs. Arbogast defended her daughter by obstinate silence up to the moment when the police charged her with the murder and forced her to accuse Louise in self-defence.

The mother had been broken down and forced to make admissions which had grown into accusations. Louise, as she sat by her mother's bed with the police, a target of that battery of searching eyes, maintained an absolute denial when she was urged to confess her guilt. Finally the mother, in an outburst of desperate appeal, cried:

"Louise, it is either you or me. Tell the truth, tell the truth. You were outside father's door when I came from the bathroom. You must tell the truth."

The girl was silent. The mother persisted. She almost shouted, "You say you didn't do it, but I know you did."

But Louise professed to remember nothing and stared straight ahead in silence until the terrific strain was broken by their sobs and the two embraced, weeping bitterly, the girl kneeling by her mother's bedside.

The girl was arraigned in court and listened to the reading of the charge. She said she needed no attorney. A plea of not guilty was entered, and the prisoner taken to jail, the case being continued till Thursday.

It is declared at St. Luke's Hospital that Miss Arbogast, who is one of the most beautiful young women of Minnesota, is irresponsible and killed her father in a moment of demoniacal frenzy caused by hallucinations which have for months been pursuing her.

"She is plainly irresponsible," Chief of Police O'Connor said yesterday.

"According to hospital reports and other facts known to us," said County Attorney O'Brien, "the girl is insane and was not responsible for her action."

IS BACKING WRIGHT BROS.

Krupps and Other Big German Firms go in for Aeroplanes

Berlin, May 19.—The announcement that a corporation, the Wright Flying Machine Co., has been formed in Berlin, is perhaps more significant than it appears in print.

Several very wealthy corporations are back of the enterprise, and it may be taken for granted that aeroplanes will be built in Germany on an extended scale, attended by the ambition to bring the aeroplane branch of aeronautics up to the existing standard of airship construction.

Among the firms interested in the new company, which is called the Flug Machine Wright Gesellschaff are the Krupp Works at Essen, the Allgemeine Electricitats Gesellschaff and the Ludwig Loewe Co., the last named being one of the leading houses dealing in machinery and machine tools.

MANY BEQUESTS TO AID CHARITY

St. Catharines, May 19.—The will of the late Edward McArdle contains the following bequests to charity: General and Marine Hospital, St. Catharines, $500; Sunnyside Catholic Orphanage, Toronto, $5,000; House of Providence, Toronto, $5,000; local tuberculosis hospital, $2,000; St. Catharines' Roman Catholic Church, $1,000; local Roman Catholic Separate schools, $1,000; St. Joseph's Convent, this city, $1,000; Very Rev. Dean Morris, $500; Mrs. Wright, Lewiston, annuity, $1,000; Miss O'Neill, Winnipeg, $1,000. The balance of the estate is divided into quarters, one of which goes to a sister, Mrs. Larkin; one to each of his nephews, Hugh E. and James A. McSloy, and the fourth to T. J. and Miss Harris, Hamilton.

THE G.T.P. AND TWIN CITIES

Port Arthur, May 19.—General Manager Chamberlain of the G.T.P. will be here to-day to confer with the city regarding the matter of the Grand Trunk Pacific entry. The route is practically determined, except a small portion along the water front towards the Fort William boundary line, and all the parties will likely reach an agreement for ratification by the Dominion Railway Board.

In the meantime, temporary arrangements may be made for the company to use the C.N.R. tracks from Westfort, so that Port Arthur can be made the terminus of the Superior branch.

Ministers to Tour.

Ottawa, May 19.—Hon. Jacques Bureau, Solicitor-General, will, shortly after the closing of the session, make a tour of inspection of the Canadian penitentiaries from New Westminster in the west to Dorchester in the east.

Hon. Mr. Pugsley, Minister of Public Works, will make a tour of inspection of all important public works throughout the Dominion.

The Daylight Bill In U.S.

Washington, May 19.—The Cabinet yesterday discussed the proposition for more daylight in the work day of the Government departments, but it was decided that no executive action would be taken and that any progress the promoters of the plans made will have to be through Congress.

GOVERNMENT WORK IN MISSION RIVER

Ottawa, May 19.—In the House yesterday morning R. L. Borden enquired as to the nature of public works to be constructed at the mouth of the Mission River, for which tenders are being called. Mr. Pugsley said that it was proposed to do some dredging and build a revetment wall to improve the harbor, which would be developed at the terminal of the Lake Superior branch of the Grand Trunk Pacific. One result of the Government undertaking this work would be that it would have the control of the harbor tolls. The estimated cost was $350,000.

HEAVY LOSS BY SNOW IN WEST

Lethbridge, Alta., May 19.—The present snowstorm promises to be most serious yet in results. The calving and lambing season is on, and this weather means the loss of a large percentage of the calves and lambs, as well as the weaker ones of the older cattle and sheep. About one-third of the calves are already born, and the death rate will be high, especially if the weather turns cold to-day. It is estimated that sheep men who have not got sheds and corrals for their sheep will probably not save more than 25 per cent. of their lambs.

Petrosino's Friend Slain.

New York, May 19.—What the police believe may be another black hand assassination was perpetrated early yesterday when Pioggio Puccio, 66 years old, a cigar maker, tried to enter his flat on the fourth floor of the apartment house at 321 East 75th street. As he was fitting the key into the lock of his house a man leaned over the balustrade of the fifth floor and sent a bullet through Puccio's body. He was a friend of Detective Petrosino, who was murdered in Italy.

PURITY WARE BY-LAW CAUSED LIVELY BRAND OF DISCUSSION

At Meeting of Board of Trade Last Night Mr. Kendrey Said That "Men of Straw" Are Behind It---Several Speakers Strongly Support the Proposition--Adjournment for One Week.

The Board of Trade held a public meeting last night to discuss the Purity Ware bylaw. It was not a smooth session by any means, the proposed measure, the promoters and the city council all coming in for some criticism of a more or less strenuous kind. The bylaw was not without its supporters however, and there were more said good words for it than they who condemned the proposition. The city council chamber was crowded and the keenest interest was taken in the proceedings. The president of the Board, Ald G A Gillespie, who is chairman of the Manufacturer's committee was in the chair.

It was decided to take the last meeting's minutes as read and one matter came up before the by-law discussion.

On motion of Dr M A Morrison, seconded by Mr J H Larmonth, the sum of one hundred dollars will be placed in the hands of the executive committee to meet any expenses which may arise. The expense account of Ald W H Bradburn who represented the Board on a trip to New York in connection with the Purity Ware bylaw was confirmed. The amount was sixty dollars.

PRESIDENT'S REMARKS

In bringing up the Purity Ware bylaw question, the president, Ald. Gillespie outlined the bylaw that was to be voted on on June 1st. The chief points of the by-law were emphasized and as regards the proposed location the president said the one selected was the best suited for the company. There were only two sites available, the one selected and the Dickson Company property. An option on the other had been asked for but could not be secured. When the site chosen had been decided upon it was not known to the Manufacturer's committee that it belonged to the Mayor. Mr Rush and Mr Shook were giving the property to the city at a very reasonable figure, $3000.

A question as to a clause in the bylaw was asked by Mr W R Morris, and answered by Mr Gillespie after which Mr. Kendrey asked Ald W H. Bradburn to give a report of the trip to New York regarding the proposed new industry. Ald Bradburn said that the American concern had a large factory in Brooklyn, employing over 700 hands. They were selling their patent rights, their trade mark and the market for their goods, in Canada, to the Purity Ware, Limited, and to take stock in the new concern in payment for same. The city council considered this was good business. The manager of the New York concern stated he would not go into the matter unless the gentlemen in Toronto, who were behind the Canadian firm, could show him they had a working capital of $100,000. Ald. Bradburn considered it was a good stroke of business to give the American company $50,000 worth of stock in payment for what they were going to give the new concern.

ALD. HICKS.

Ald. Hicks looked on the by-law as an ordinary business proposition. Like any business enterprise there was a certain amount of risk entailed. The speaker believed, however, that it would be good business to pass the by-law and he intended voting for it. He believed the new concern would be a success.

MR. KENDREY.

Mr. James Kendrey said he did not come to the meeting to throw cold water on the by-law. He took an interest in Peterborough and its manufacturing interests and he would support the by-law if it could be shown to him that it would be good business for Peterborough. It had been said that he was opposed to the by-law. No one had the right to say that. He wanted full information about the proposition, and that was his reason for being present. Mr. Kendrey did not like the indefinite term, "fixed machinery," in the by-law. It was not definite enough. If trouble arose there would be a hard time to draw the line as to what was "fixed" and what was "moveable" machinery. It would be sure to cause trouble. Mr. Kendrey said the men behind the new concern had practically no capital. They were merely promoters.

The chairman said there were strong men behind the new company.

"Who is the manager?" asked Mr. Kendrey.

"I have not been informed yet," said Mr. Gillespie.

Mr. Kendrey said the whole trouble was the lack of information.

Mr. Kendrey asked if Mr. Baker was a practical man, and Mr. Gillespie said he was. Mr. Kendrey objected to this. He said Mr. Baker was a promoter, and a good promoter, too. Mr. Kendrey read a bill from a Mr. O'Brien, of Toronto, showing that the men behind the company had borrowed money from Mr O'Brien to finance their trips to Peterborough and New York, and for other expenses.

Mr. Kendrey—"I think the whole thing is unbusinesslike. Is there no one connected with this business who is a practical man?

Mr Gillespie—Yes. Mr. Baker.

Mr. Kendrey—He is a promoter. He is not a practical man.

Baker and another man went down to New York and this is the note of the expenses there. They borrowed the money from O'Brien.

Purity Ware Co	75 00
In answer to wire from New York	250.00
In answer to wire from New York	250.00
Reply to telegram	1.75
Noble	.50

Then Baker wired to O'Brien to send on another $100.

Then there were expenses of $18 entertaining the chairman and others in Toronto. I suppose whilst they were there; and salaries;

Hill, a week	25.00
Noble, two weeks	70.00
Other man, two weeks	70.00

I say we should have good responsible men in the company—not men of straw. Baker's name does not appear at all in the letter from the American company.

Mr. Gillespie—Baker has been representing the American Co.

Mr Kendrey—I did not know he was.

Mr. Bradburn—We have their letter.

Mr Gillespie—We went on the representations of the American Company. The agreement does not take effect until the $100,000 is subscribed and they have got this subscribed on one condition. I have the names of the people backing the Company but I cannot give them just yet.

Mr. Gillespie then read the letter

ACCIDENT LIKELY TO RESULT FATALLY

Miss Teressa McGrath Struck by Train at Maria Street Crossing Yesterday Afternoon--Lying Unconscious at Hospital.

An accident that will probably prove a fatality occurred yesterday afternoon about 4.30 o'clock at the Maria street crossing of the G.T.R. in Ashburnham. Miss Teresa McGrath an aged Ashburnham woman of 70 was crossing the track at this point or walking on the track nearby when she was struck by the 4.38 express and very seriously injured. She was thrown to the sidewalk and was lying there when the train was stopped about eighty-five yards from the place of the accident.

After the train had been stopped, the victim of the accident was taken on board and taken to the station. A call was sent for the Dan Sponce ambulance and Miss McGrath was removed to St Joseph's hospital where she now lies in a state of deep coma. She has been unconscious since the accident and Dr Gray, the physician in attendance, says her chances for recovery are slight.

TERRIBLY INJURED

When examination of the old lady's injuries had been made it was found that her left shoulder blade was broken also four ribs on the left side and the left elbow and she is suffering from concussion of the brain.

At the hospital she has been in practically the same condition since she entered it and it is feared that she will not rally.

TRAIN ALMOST STOPPED

The engineer on the train saw the danger the old lady was in as the train was approaching. The express had slowed down somewhat as the station is only about half a mile probably from the Maria St. crossing. The whistle was blown vigorously as a warning and the emergency brakes were applied. The train had almost stopped and Miss McGrath was on one side of the track when she was struck on the shoulder and hurled to the sidewalk.

Dominion Fair at St. John.

Peddling Fee Prohibitive.

Chatham, May 19.—Gasparre Favato, an Italian fruit peddler came up in the Police Court yesterday charged with peddling on the streets without a license. He was dismissed on the ground that the fee of $100 was prohibitive.

A new bylaw was passed by the council Monday night making the fee $50. Yesterday Favato refused to pay even the $50, and says he will continue to sell on the streets without a license, defying the City Council to stop him.

Abyssinia Wants Outlet.

Rome, May 19.—Some Italian papers notice a rumor about secret negotiations between the Mullah and Negus Menelik of Abyssinia.

The rumor states that the negotiations are being carried on through the German Legation in Abyssinia, and are to the effect that Abyssinia shall have an outlet on the Indian Ocean. How this can be, considering Italian supremacy on these shores, is not easily explained. The news has created an immense sensation in Italy.

$2,000,000 In Dividends.

New York, May 19.—What is said to be the largest dividend ever paid by a New York trust company was declared at the meeting of the trustees of the Central Trust Co., when a special dividend of $200 a share or $2,000,000 in all was made payable on June 15. The trustees also voted to recommend that the stockholders authorize an increase of the capital stock of the company from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000.

Effects of Winding Up.

Vancouver, B.C., May 19.—An order by a judge winding up a company in another province is not effective in this province until passed upon by local courts.

Chief Justice Hunter so held yesterday in an application to open up a judgment recently obtained in the suit by J. Aspey, now of London, England, against the Empire Accident and Security Co. of London, Ont.

Four Men Drowned.

Ottawa, May 19.—Four men have been drowned at a rapids on the Petawawa. They are Thomas Day of St. Regis, Que., John Jackson, a man named Lazore and a fourth name unknown. The three latter are of Ogdensburg, N.Y. Eight men were in a boat that upset. Three swam ashore and only one emerged alive from the rapids.

Big Canal Project.

Albany, N.Y., May 19.—Governor Hughes yesterday signed the Conger bill providing for an issue of bonds to the amount of $7,000,000 for the improvement of the Cayuga and Seneca Canals, so as to make them a part of the large canal system of the state. It goes to a vote of the people for ratification.

St. Catharines, May 19.—Chief of Police Richard Parnall has by request tendered his resignation to the police commissions. He has been on the force for twenty-two years and has been chief for five years.

Heir to Menelik.

Addis, Abeba, May 19.—Prince Lidj Jeassu, the 13-year-old grandson of King Menelik, was yesterday publicly proclaimed heir to the Abyssinian throne, in the presence of many chiefs and 20,000 soldiers.

Stoessel Is Freed.

St. Petersburg, May 19.—Lieut Anatole M. Stoessel and Rear Admiral Nebogatoff have been released from confinement in the fortress of St. Peters and St. Paul by order of Emperor Nicholas.

Earthquake Recorded at Heidelburg.

Heidelburg, May 19.—An earthquake was recorded here on the instrument at 9.28 yesterday morning. The shocks were of unusual violence and apparently at a distance of 5,500 miles. Minor shocks continued until near 11 o'clock.

Tip to British Investor.

London, May 19.—Obed Smith addressed the Royal Society of Arts on "Canada as a field for investment," laying stress on the tendency of the British investor to seek only official issues, while United States capitalists had a clear field in industrials.

Jap Warship for Behring Sea.

St. Petersburg, May 19.—A local newspaper yesterday publishes a despatch from Tokio saying Japan has decided to send a warship to the Behring Sea on account of repeated seizures there of Japanese vessels by American and Russian ships.

SENSATIONAL SCENE IN THE QUEBEC LEGISLATURE

Editor of La Patrie Hits Quebec Minister of Works—Charging Provincial Government Member With Having Lied About Him, Mr. Asselin Strikes Him Violently in Mouth Causing Blood to Flow.

Quebec, May 19.—Hon. A. Taschereau, Minister of Public Works, was attacked in the Legislative Assembly, just at the entrance to the Speaker's apartment, early this morning at adjournment of the House, by Mr. Asselin, editor of La Patrie, Montreal, and struck a violent blow on the mouth that his lips were cut and bled profusely.

Asselin was immediately turned over to the police and lodged in the station in the Parliament House by order of the Speaker and Attorney-General, with strict instructions that all bail was to be refused.

The incident has caused a big sensation, occurring in the Assembly chamber in the presenece of several members and following an exciting sitting of the House at which Henri Bourassa closed his long promised speech on the Abitibi land scandal.

Taschereau had just replied and had referred to the Nationalists campaign in the Abitibi affair, of which paper Asselin was then editor. He mentioned him as boarding at the Montreal address where a reply to a telegram forged with Premier Gouin's name was delivered.

At the adjournment Asselin called the Minister, and told him he had lied about him, at the same time striking him violently in the mouth.

Taschereau had a number of books under his arm and laid them down to strike back, but changed his mind and called a policeman instead.

BRODEUR ADMITS THAT HON. DR. REAUME DID NOT BREAK FAITH

Minister is Compelled to Allow That "Confidential" Document Given Out by Ontario Government Was Not the Fisheries Regulations, But Only a Draft.

Ottawa, May 19.—The dying days of the Parliamentary session have been fruitful of debate more than their wont, and this may be accounted for by the eagerness with which the young importations into the Opposition ranks enter into the lists with the veterans of the Government.

Yesterday Mr. Jamieson (Digby) initiated a cross-examination of Hon. L. P. Brodeur, which made of that gentleman a laughing stock after his charge of breach of confidence in publishing the regulations regarding fisheries in connection with the waterways treaty, which he had preferred against Hon. Dr. Reaume.

Mr. Brodeur was compelled to admit that the Ontario Government had not published the document he had forwarded and marked "confidential" but which was merely the draft regulations published by Dr. Starr Jordan all over the United States. Incidentally, the Minister read the following from Hon. Dr. Reaume, Ontario's Minister of Fisheries:

"I regret that it seems necessary for me to repeat that no document or statement or paper of any description received from you or from any Department of the Dominion Government referring to the proposed fisheries treaty, or to any other subject, was published by me, or by my direction, or by or through any member of the Ontario Government or any official thereof, and I ask you to read this denial to the House of Commons."

Last night Mr. Brodeur sent the following telegram to Hon. Dr. Reaume:

"I read your telegram in the House to-day. I do not contend that you published or sanctioned the publication of any tentative regulations confidentially communicated by me or by the Dominion Government to you. What I complain of is that you should have published what apparently was Jordan's draft, marked "confidential," and that you authoritatively published it, not as an ex-parte tentative suggestion, but as the regulations which had been agreed upon by the joint commissioners as the result of and in pursuance of the treaty. The final regulations have not yet been signed."

Mr. Brodeur told Mr. Jamieson that he had received a first draft from Prof. Jordan. It had been sent to various parts of the United States and some copies had reached Dr. Reaume, marked "Confidential." Yet the Ontario Government had published these regulations as having been adopted. It appeared that the document had created a bad impression in the country, but it was not likely that that document would be signed. In conducting treaty negotiations, secrecy must be maintained.

In committee in the Senate on the criminal code, Senator Lougheed, in referring to the amendment, declaring that a prize fight means an encounter with or without gloves, by previous arrangement, said this seemed to be going rather far. Under this clause any magistrate could put an absolute end to the manly art of self-defence. He did not know that this was altogether desirable.

Senator Power also declared himself out of sympathy with this clause. It was struck out.

Senator Power took exception to a provision restricting six months' imprisonment for any person found in a house of ill-fame. Senator Lougheed said it seemed that this legislation was indulging in maudlin sentiment in regard to matters which cannot be suppressed. Sir Richard Cartwright agreed that the penalties were so severe, he doubted if they would be successfully enforced. He thought there might result considerable blackmail.

LATEST NEWS AS TOLD IN DESPATCHES

Fell Forty Feet.

Tweed, May 19.—A stonecutter, John McDonald, while working in Murphy's quarry, north of the town, fell 40 feet and received very serious injuries. He was fixing the tackle at the top of the derrick when the structure collapsed. One leg is broken, his face is badly lacerated and his nose split open. He is semi-conscious and the doctors are unable to determine at present whether any injury to the brain has resulted.

Natural Gas Convention.

Columbus, Ohio, May 19.—Governor Harmon delivered the address of welcome yesterday which opened the third annual convention of the Natural Gas Association of North America here. The convention is bringing hundreds of delegates from all parts of the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Two Hundred Bakeries Closed.

New York, May 19.—The hardships which residents of the lower east side district have been suffering because of a strike of union bakers were increased yesterday by the closing of 200 bakeries owned by members of the Master Bakers' Association.

Three Years for Stealing $3.50.

Ottawa, May 19.—Wilfrid L. Bishop, a young postoffice employe, who pleaded guilty to stealing from the mails a letter containing $3.50 was sentenced yesterday by Deputy Magistrate Askwith to three years in Kingston Penitentiary.

Fatal Fall.

Watertown, N.Y., May 19.—Chas. York, aged 23, of Russell, Ont., was instantly killed by a fall from a railroad bridge, near Aldrich, in the Adirondacks.

Indian Co-respondent.

London, May 19.—A divorce was granted in this city yesterday in which White Cloud, a North American Indian, was cited as co-respondent.

Alaska's New Governor.

Washington, May 19.—President Taft yesterday sent to the Senate the nomination of Walter E. Clark, a Washington newspaper man attached to The New York Sun bureau, as governor of Alaska, to succeed Governor Heggatt, resigned. Mr. Clark also for years has been the Washington correspondent for The Seattle Post-Intelligencer, and is unusually well informed of Alaskan affairs.

Can Receive Sacrament.

London, May 19.—Judgment has been given in the Norwich communion case, in which Canon Thompson appealed against the decree issued by the Court of Arches that he cease denying the sacrament to Mr. and Mrs. Banister. The King's Bench Court yesterday found the refusal of Canon Thompson illegal. Mr. Banister married his deceased wife's sister in Montreal.

Hotelmen to Confer.

Brockville, May 19.—To be present in person or represented by proxy, at a meeting to be held to-night, is an agreement signed by every hotelkeeper in Brockville. The meeting is called to discuss matters of interest to the trade particularly the enforcement of the license law. The license inspector has been requested to attend.

Former Canadian Honored.

Spokane, Wash., May 19.—C. Herbert Moore, formerly of Toronto, retiring mayor of Spokane, was presented with a massive silver loving cup by the heads of the departments at the city hall, "as an evidence of the high regard in which he is held by those who have been associated with him during his administration."

$5,000 In Fines.

Cobalt, May 19.—Over fifty cases of illegal liquor selling, the result of the round-up by Provincial License Inspector Morrison, were dealt with by Magistrate Atkinson on Monday and yesterday and fines aggregating $5,000 imposed. Two men are in jail, in default of payment of fines.

LT. COL. H. C. ROGERS

Lt.-Col. H. C. Rogers, who has been postmaster of Peterborough for 36 years, has retired. He goes to England for the summer to visit members of his family and then to Victoria, B.C., where he will reside in future. He will be greatly missed in Peterborough! His kindly, genial manner and public-spiritedness through a long series of years, have won him the esteem and affection, we might say, of the public without exception. As an officer of the militia he followed the example of his father, Lt.-Col. James Rogers, J.P., of Grafton, one of the most prominent figures in the life and history of Eastern Ontario. It is but a few years since Lt.-Col. H. C. Rogers retired from the command of the 3rd Brigade of Cavalry, whose headquarters are at Cobourg. He succeeded Lt.-Col. D'Arcy Boulton. As president of the Peterborough Historical Society Col. Rogers has done much to develop the excellent work done by that society in Peterborough. For many years, also, he was superintendent of St. Luke's Sunday school. He is a very prominent Mason, and generally, since his coming to Peterborough, some fifty years ago, he has taken part in the life and doings of the community. He married, in the early sixties, Miss Burritt, eldest daughter of the late Dr. Burritt, sr., of Peterborough, a very prominent and successful physician. The people of Peterborough will wish him a long and happy life in that part of the world where he will go to spend the "evening of his days."

THE MINISTRY OF LABOUR

We are aware that there are men of all shades of political opinion who are opposed to this move on the part of the government as unnecessary since, they contend, the department exists under another name at the present time. We are unable to agree with this view. It seems entirely fitting that a department of human activity and industry so important as Labor should have a full representation at the seat of government. It is said to be a well known fact that capitalists, contractors and moneyed men generally have their individual representatives in parliament who, while elected by their constituencies nominally, are more keenly alive to the interests of their patrons than to those of the country. If such is the case and we believe it has some foundation in fact in all parliaments then it is necessary that other interests should be protected or else they will be despoiled and suffer. It is better too, that Labor should be a recognized department of government than that it should be represented by an agent or system of agents which would give to Labor a distinct and separate standing in the community which it is so undesirable to cultivate in any case or under any circumstances. The separate existence and standing of interests and classes is confessedly detrimental to the unity and power of the state and as a consequence should be avoided so far as possible. Governments, it is admitted should aim to bring together and harmonize the various interests that go to make up national industry and achievement hence to seek to circumscribe its aims in this respect is unwise and unjustifiable. We hope to see the Department of Labor broadened and amplified in its aims and grasps so that we shall never have again to raise a national riot in order to check Oriental immigration and to preserve the pay and status of the toilers employed on our great national undertakings. It should be at least as easy to act for Labor as in the interests of insurance and railway magnates. Mr. King seems to be much above the ordinary self-seeking, class legislation style of states-and we hope that he will give is department the full benefit is abilities and experience and be will under no consideration himself to be "influenced" or ed by the exigencies of govern- or party.

HE WOMEN'S "WITNESS"

Saturday edition of the Mon- Witness was got up and got out men in all departments. The printing-staff, of course, did the l work, but the character of per became for that day, femin- t gives women's idea of the ways world of to-day. The "object" enterprise was to provide playgrounds for the children of Montreal and no doubt a large sum was netted. A woman's name is signed at the end of each article. Caroline O. Cox observes in the editorial space allotted to her that "the neglect of children is one of the most startling things in our newly-awakened consciousness." This remark refers to the liberty allowed children to do pretty much as they please, with disastrous results. We rescue, punish and confine at the wrong end of a child's career. To allow waste and license to go on in our child-life from day to day and then to seek to remedy it by societies organized for the purpose, is delightfully philanthropic no doubt, but absurd and illogical to the last degree. A good life is very largely made up of discipline, and until the age of reason puts a no-longer child under its own control and on its own responsibility, it is manifestly absurd to let it "go" without any discipline at all. But as the Text declares, we are doing the deadly ridiculous in this respect to an alarming degree.

THE AGE OF REASON

Common-sense is coming in to its own. The conduct of a man, his fruits, as the Bible declares, is what he henceforth shall be known by. Dr. Grenfell is an instance. The U.S., fast awakening through its young Americanism to a sense of conscience and duty, is now asserting its true manhood, so long hidden in a night of crime, materialism and venality. The young American declines to submit to the degradation any longer. The youth of Princeton have given Dr. Grenfell a $5,000 "launch." The object appeals to them. It is good, honest, productive work, unhampered by narrowness which, after all, is only another name for meanness. Instead of preaching Dr. Grenfell "does". He appeals to the modern, practical style of imagination. There is no "rot" about it. It does not consist in learned discourses upon doctrine or higher criticism. In fact it is above even the "higher criticism," for it builds up. It is full of life, of fine, good, true vibrant life, such as Christ no doubt wished to develop. The age of rottenness is on the ebb, distinctly so in the U. S. We will learn, here in Canada, in time. Too much should not be expected of us, even of the clergy, but we will yet justify our occupying space in the world. The Jesuit missionaries, like Dr. Grenfell, were men of the highest and noblest type. They did not seek to sacrifice others, but always themselves for others. As Dr. Grenfell quietly remarked when here, "There is only one true life—that of self-sacrifice," and it is that in him which is appealing to the emancipated manhood of the U.S. In Peterborough the general public contribution to the work was $60, to which Murray street Baptist church people quietly added $40 more. We can remedy our neglect. It is not too late. But is $100 a fair index of our conception of the life and work done on the bleak coast of Labrador? Even if we have no shame let us at least follow the fashion.

CONCRETE ROADS

"It has been attempted to incorporate with paving materials various hard or resisting substances, such as crushed glass, corundum, and carborundum. An inventor has now devised a new combination—cement and 'iron-straw.' This substance is made by the entanglement of fine metallic shavings, and ordinarily appears in the form of masses, blocks, or sheets, more or less compact, offering great resistance to separation, owing to the kind of felting resulting from the entanglement of the constituent threads or shavings, and also offering a certain amount of elasticity to compression. To make a slab or block of ferro-cement, a mass of iron-straw is placed in the mold, and there is poured over it cement sufficiently fluid to penetrate into all the interstices of the iron and completely cover it. When the whole is set, the core of iron, thus intimately incorporated, gives to the block a great resistance to breakage and to traction, at the same time furnishing elasticity to compression which enables it to stand superficial shocks.

"A brick of ferro-cement 4 centimeters—1 3-5 inch—thick, has supported, during crushing tests, a pressure of 10,000 kilograms to the square centimeter—about 85 tons to the square inch. In breakage tests, the resistance was quadruple that of ordinary cement. Resistance to wear was no less remarkable.

"Used in paving streets, ferro-cement, according to Francis Laur, in Inventions Illustrées, would be incontestably superior because of the replacement of pavement, and especially because of the resistance of ferro-cement to wear—all qualities that present great economical advantages. . . . With ferro-cement a kilometer of national road would cost 36,000 francs—$7,200,—or exactly the price of ordinary macadam, dusty and jolty; and it would require no expense to upkeep for at least ten years. Thus it would combine healthfulness and economy.—Cosmos.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A loan of twenty-five millions of dollars would give Ontario a fine system of through roadways leading to and through all the chief country districts of the province. It would give us rural mail and parcel delivery, and raise the price of Ontario's farms by several per cent. But no! The loan for agriculture would give the speculator stock-gambler and contractor no huge profits, so the farmer's name is never mentioned. But we must have rural mail andp arcel delivery, have rural mail and parcel delivery in the county of Peterborough all the same.

"Mr Sam Hughes. I have the honour just as much as any man in this House, to class myself as French-Canadian.

Some hon. MEMBERS. Hear, hear.

Mr. HUGHES: I am proud to state to this House that French blood, just as good—just as good possibly as that which circulates in the veins of any gentleman in this House or in this country—flows in my veins.

Mr. HUGHES: I know the sympathies of the French people. They have from time immemorial stood for the principles of liberty, equality, and fraternity.

—Hansard.

Hear! Hear!

Mr. A. H. Stratton has been appointed to the position of postmaster of Peterborough, through the recommendation, no doubt, of his brother, Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P. He has been a business man of this city and will doubtless throw his accustomed energy into his new duties. The office, it is understood, will be raised to the status of a city office with a material increase in the postmaster's emoluments. That Mr. Stratton, M. P., should have indulged in family advancement will be a matter of surprise. Recommendations for office are usually made on behalf of life-long supporters. However, that is a matter of taste, and just now good taste is not a prominent characteristic of our public life. It is not our province to sympathize with those whose hopes have been blasted. Nevertheless we extend to them our assurance that there may be better luck for them next time. There is always something to be thankful for, and they will have no irksome duties to perform in connection with the toils of office. They will, therefore, be the better able to reflect upon the vicissitudes of fortune and upon the approaching dawn of the millenium, which it is said is not far off. If Mrs. Fay had been en tour here we might have anticipated the surprise and so have minimized the "shock" for them, but as it is there is only one thing to do, and that is to put up with it.

Mr. R. L. Borden. To the proposal to create a Minister of Labor whose duties shall be solely confined to the affairs of that department I have no special objection to offer, subject to certain considerations to which I shall call attention. In Canada as in every civilized country the relations of what are called the laboring classes with the rest of the community are of vital concern to all, and the ability of the people of Canada or of any other country to find a wise and just solution of the various social and economical problems which are pressing upon the attention of the civilized world, is one of the tests of their capacity for self-government. I realize that the questions—I might say the problems—attending labor conditions are worthy of the deepest and most earnest consideration of Canadians, of their representatives in parliament, and of the members of the cabinet. But there is another consideration to which I think attention might be called. We are a somewhat sparse population of about 7,000,000, covering a territory of great area, and we have already provision made in the statutes of Canada for 14 members of the cabinet and a solicitor general as well. Without making the slightest attempt to cut down the number of the existing cabinet ministers the government now propose to add another, so that in respect to the number of cabinet ministers, which this country enjoys we shall, I think, surpass the efforts of the whole civilized world.—Hansard.

INSURANCE RATE REDUCED AT LINDSAY

Lindsay, May 19.—Since the Water Commissioners have installed the new electric pump at the pump house the insurance companies have lowered their rates on the business places on Kent and William streets. The rate is lowered 15 per cent., and the result is that the business men of Lindsay will save at least $5,000 a year. One firm on Kent street alone will save $150 a year on their insurance. The reduction was made on May 1st, but it does not effect the manufacturing concerns and their rates remain the same as before.

The new pump cost the town $3,084, paid in installments, and the reduction in the insurance rates amount to almost that figure every year.

NEAR DEATH'S DOOR

Mi-o-na cures dyspepsia. If any of the readers of the Review are suffering from stomach trouble of any kind Wm. Madill, druggist, Peterborough, will sell you a box of Mi-o-na (for 50 cents with an absolute guarantee of relief or money back.

Neil Murray, of Huron Road, Goderich, Ont., says;—"I suffered with indigestion for over four years and had been given over as incurable by many doctors. I had become a nervous wreck through loss of sleep and whatever I did eat did not remain on my stomach for over two hours. I would suffer with vomiting spells that would almost kill me, perspiration as large as beads would break out all over my body and leave me in so weakened a condition that I would be unable to stand, not a night's rest in over six months and was so weakened and run down that my family thought I would die. My heart was greatly weakened, and would flutter and a sharp pain would come through me and cut off my breath. I was reduced in weight from 150 to less than 110 pounds. Doctors would give different causes for my trouble yet none of them gave me the slightest relief. I commenced treatment with Mi-o-na and when one-half of the first box was used I could eat my meals without suffering the dreadful vomiting spells. I used about ten boxes in all, and am entirely cured. My stomach is as strong as ever, and there is not the slightest trouble with digestion. I have gained about 40 pounds in weight, am strong and like a new man. I will always speak highly of Mi-o-na, as it cured and, I believe kept me from sure death when all else had failed."

For an Opinion Regarding the Penny Bank System —Good Work There

The Ottawa Public School Board will be asked for information by the supervision committee of the Public School Board, of Peterborough, Ont., regarding the penny bank system started here. Messrs. McMurchy and Mulholland, of Toronto, who introduced the system here, have been at Peterborough, and the trustees there decided to get details as to how the system is working here. They will be told it has been tried in five of the Ottawa Public schools and is working successfully. In a little over three months considerably more than $1,000 has been deposited in those five schools by Ottawa pupils, and there have been very few withdrawals, probably less than half a dozen. It is only a matter of a short time until it will be extended to the remaining public schools here. While there is no announcement from Peterborough yet, it is probable it will be tried there. At Peterborough all the members of the committee seemed to favor the idea, but they suggested it would be wiser to get information from Ottawa, Galt, Guelph and one or two other points where it has been tried.—Ottawa Journal.

APPEAL ENTERED IN THE CASE OF THE ONTARIO BANK

Relation of the Bank of Montreal and Royal Trust Company is Cited—Claim of the Bank is Disputed.

Toronto, May 18—Notices of Appeal from his judgment on the application of W. J. McFarland to have Referee Pappele direct the liquidator of the Ontario Bank to contest the claims of the Bank of Montreal have been served upon Mr. Kappele. The grounds for appeal set up are as follows:

1. The liquidator, the Royal Trust Co., is in the position of a trustee acting for all classes of persons interested in the winding up of the Ontario Bank as well as the shareholders and contributories thereof as the creditors thereof, and it is his duty to investigate impartially and carefully the claim of every creditor filed with him.

2. The liquidator did not carefully and impartially consider and investigate the claim of the Bank of Montreal, inasmuch as he did not consider the legal effects or validity of a certain alleged agreement purporting to be made between the Bank of Montreal and the Ontario Bank, upon which the said claim is based, but in considering and reporting upon the said claim the said liquidator assumed that the said agreement was a valid and binding one without taking the opinion of counsel impartial as between the creditors and the shareholders.

3. The said alleged agreement between the Bank of Montreal and the Ontario Bank, dated October 13, 1906, is prima facie of no force or effect, and it was the duty of the liquidator to put the bank to the proof of its said claims, which were made upon the basis of the agreement.

4. The Royal Trust Company is not a fit and proper person to be appointed or to act as liquidator of the Ontario Bank in view of its relations with the Bank of Montreal, and in view of the claim put forward by the Bank of Montreal to rank as a creditor of the said Ontario Bank.

5. With one exception every director of the liquidator, the Royal Trust Co., is either a director or an officer of the Bank of Montreal, which is claiming to rank as a creditor under the alleged agreement.

6. The said referee had no right to settle the list of contributories until it had been established that there would be a deficiency of the assets, thereby rendering the shareholders liable to contribute in respect of the double liability.

7. No sufficient proof of the said claim of the Bank of Montreal was made herein.

INDISTINCT MESSAGE WAS CAUSE OF A GREAT DEAL OF FIRE BRIGADE MANOEUVERING

The necessity of sending in an alarm to the fire station in a clear and deliberate way was shown yesterday in connection with the small fire at Hooper's lower confectionery store. The man at the 'phone was so excited, it is said, and to a certain extent pardonably so perhaps, that his dictations were not explicit and the brigade went to box 21, the nearest alarm box, in their endeavor to locate the fire. Some steam coming from the rear of the Peterborough Canoe factory on Water street was mistaken for smoke and the firemen went there with the intention of putting down a blaze. It was found out just after they arrived where the fire was.

Two representatives of the Fire Underwriters' Association were in the city at the time the alarm was sent in and locked up Ald Buller, that an investigation of the matter might be made to find out what the cause of the brigade not going directly to Hooper's store was.

Ald. Buller, Turner and Morgan sent in an alarm from box 21, as a test call stating that there was a fire at the E. Hamilton Co's foundry. In two minutes the brigade had arrived and had several lengths of hose laid. The time was taken with a stop watch and the Underwriters congratulated the city upon having such excellent fire fighting service.

But the real motto of it all is: Speak plainly and give clear directions over the 'phone when sending in an alarm of fire.

THE BREAD SITUATION AS IT IS IN THIS CITY

Although the price of wheat advanced to $1.30 on the local grain market this morning, the price of bread is not likely to be advanced for some time yet. Most of the local bakers laid in big stocks of flour at prices ranging from $6.20 to $6.50 per barrel when wheat started to go up, and they are still drawing on that stock. Another point is that flour is a steady commodity and the price usually remains fixed for a month at a time, even though the wheat market is fluctuating and then again there is keen competition between the bakers of this city who have no association and no one baker wants to raise the price of bread when he is not sure that his competitors will follow suit. While those using the bread are getting the benefit of this state of affairs, it can readily be seen that the manufacturers of the article are getting the small end of the deal.

THE HIGH COURT SAT UNTIL 10 O'CLOCK LAST NIGHT

Case Occupied Entire Day—Three Cases Settled Out of Court—Mr. Ruddy Called Within the Bar.

The second case in the sittings of the High Court, which was concluded last night at ten o'clock, opened at the commencement of the court yesterday morning. Particulars of the case have been given the Review.

Judgment was given the plaintiff for the amount of his mortgage and interest and for the defendant for $60, use and occupation rent and $175 on her counter claim. These amounts practically balance. Neither party got costs. R. Ruddy, K. C., for defendant, and S. T. Medd for plaintiff. This case concluded the sitting of the court.

The case of Taylor vs. Northey, Hall vs. Derocher, and Cooper vs. Edmison & Dixon, were all settled out of court.

At the commencement of court yesterday morning, Mr. R. Ruddy presented his patent as one of his Majesty's Counsel learned in the law and was called within the bar.

ENTIRE BOARD WAS TAKEN BY ONE BUYER THIS MORNING

At Opening Meeting This Season of Cheese Board—Twelve Cents the High Price—Suspension of Buyer Upheld.

It was not a sensation that was sprung at the opening meeting of the Cheese Board this morning at the Bank of Montreal Chambers for the matter of the suspension of Mr. Jas. Cook had been decided upon at the annual meeting of the Cheese Board. But it was the subject of a great deal of discussion, and Mr. Cook strenuously objected to the ruling passed at the annual meeting going into effect. He said he had not committed any greater infraction of the rules, nor as great as other buyers, and claimed he should not have been suspended for three months without being given a hearing. Mr. Cook bought 1,000 boxes of cheese and didn't take them when the price dropped.

This was, of course, an offence against the regulations of the board, but Mr. Cook explained that he was not financially in a position to fulfil his obligations, but that he bought the cheese legitimately and with honest intentions.

A motion of Mr. Buck, seconded by Mr. Moore, was made to the effect that the resolution adopted at the annual meeting of the board be rescinded.

Mr. John Riddel said the matter had been fully considered at the annual meeting.

Mr. Riddell's opening remarks were interrupted by Mr. Cook, who said that a buyer and salesman, according to the rules of the board, had no voice in the management of its affairs. Mr. Riddell resumed his seat, and the president decided that he should be allowed to express his opinion.

Mr. Cook and another buyer were referred to by Mr. Riddell as not having done their business in a thoroughly satisfactory way.

"Name him," said a voice in the audience. "He has as much right to be mentioned as anybody else."

Mr. Riddell referred to the buyer as Mr. Weir. He said the board would make a great mistake to change the rulings of the annual meeting on the spur of the moment.

Mr. Cook spoke in defence of his transactions.

Mr. Switzer said it would be a great mistake to overrule the decision of the annual meeting. In protection of other buyers he thought the motion should be confirmed. The matter has been threshed out in detail at the annual meeting.

Mr. Cook again spoke for himself, and said the annual meeting had done wrong in suspending him without giving him the opportunity to defend himself.

On general vote the suspension was upheld, an amendment to the motion that Mr. Cook be reinstated, the amendment being moved by Messrs. Anderson and Charlton, was carried over the motion to quash the suspension.

THE CHEESE BOARDED.

There were 1001 boxes of cheese boarded. This is only a medium offering, but the highest price of the morning's sale was a good one.

The cheese boarded was as follows:—

Keene	60
Warminster	[illegible]
Shearer	45
Central Smith	74
Selwyn	35
Villiers	32
Warsaw	55
Westwood	70
Oakdale	40
Daisy D.	25

Pine Grove	50
Maple Leaf	25
Myrtle	30
Ormond	70
Young's Point	[illegible]
Lang	55
North Dummer	[illegible]
East Emily	81
Trewern	70
Norwood	30
Fleetwood	30
Shamrock	[illegible]
Killarney	55
Total	1001

THE BIDDING.

The buyers present were Messrs. Fitzgerald, Gillespie, Watkin, Riddell, Weir, Morton, Cook, Kerr.

The opening price bid was 11 1-2 cents. It jumped to 11 9-16c. Mr. Fitzgerald made it 11 3-4; Mr. Morton offered 11 7-8, and Mr. Gillespie put on the closing price of 12 cents.

No advance on this price was made, and Mr. Gillespie named Keene, Central Smith, Villiers, Shearer, Ormonde, Trewern, Warminster, Warsaw, and Selwyn. All accepted.

He offered 11 15-16 cents for further selections. No buyer went higher, and he took Oakdale, Daisy D., Lakefield, Pine Grove, Maple Leaf, Myrtle, Young's Point, Lang, North Dummer—Montreal inspection; Norwood, Fleetwood, Shamrock, Killarney, making in all his selections the purchase of the entire amount of cheese boarded.

The Board adjourned for two weeks.

LARGE GROUP PHOTOGRAPH

Of Normal School Students and Teachers Will Soon be Ready

What is said to be the largest group photo ever made in this district is being turned out at the Roy studio. It consists of individual photos of the Normal school students, teachers and a picture of the building. There are 159 students and ten teachers, and the pictures are being mounted on a large card about eight by six feet. The grouping is done very artistically. The picture will be framed and hung in the Normal school.

AN ILLUSTRATED LECTURE ON THE OLYMPIC GAMES

Will be Given at the Y.M.C.A. Gymnasium on Thursday Evening May 27 by Mr. W. Tait of Toronto

On Thursday evening, May 27th, Mr. W. Tait, of Toronto, who was a spectator at the Olympic games at London, Eng., last summer, will give an illustrated lecture on the games.

Mr. Tait has one of the finest collection of pictures that were taken. He has fifty views in all. Among the most interesting pictures are Dorando's sensational finish in the Marathon, Hayes winning the Marathon, Simpson finishing sixth in the Marathon, Bobby Kerr winning the world's championship in the sprints, Jack Tait in the mile, also Billy Sherring the Marathon amateur champion of the world, winning that classic event at Athens, Greece.

The sport-loving public should not miss this opportunity of seeing the great olympic games in which so many notable athletes competed.

The pictures will be thrown life size on a screen and Mr. Tait will explain the pictures and tell a complete story of the games. A small admission fee will be charged.

ONE OF FOUNDERS OF STANDARD OIL

Death To-day of Henry H. Rogers at New York

Special to the Review.

New York, May 19—Henry H Rogers, one of the founders of the Standard Oil Company and the right hand man of John D Rockerfelled, died suddenly today at his residence, No. 5, East 78th street.

Mr. H. Rogers had just arrived when he was stricken. Heart disease is believed to have been the cause of his death. Mr Rogers, was at his office yesterday.

Mr. O'Brien Writes

Editor of the Review,

Dear Sir,—The question is asked by Mr J J Turner, jr, through the medium of the Times, who is this Mr. O'Brien? and I would esteem it a great favor if you will permit me to answer the question through the columns of your paper. I am the Mr. O'Brien referred to and have been a citizen of Toronto for the past 20 years. I am engaged in the wholesale trade in woollens. I am the man who paid for the entertainment of the gentlemen delegated by the council to visit Toronto and interview the promoters of Purity Ware Limited. I also paid further expenses in connection with the promotion of this company to the extent of cash, amounting to about $1200 and I am now interested to this extent. I might say that I am not concerned in the least whether the ratepayers are desirous of making a loan to the company or not. I trust that this is sufficient answer to the question asked. If not I will be happy to supply further information to those desirous of obtaining it. My address is 16 Rosehill Ave. Thanking you for space, I am.

Yours sincerely.
A. T. C. O'Brien.

THE BOARD OF TRADE

Last night's meeting of the Board of Trade was called a week too soon, since the announcement of the names of the solid financial backers of the "Purity Ware, Limited" cannot be made till then. The excitement generated last night was largely the result of misunderstandings, some of the speakers repeatedly speaking of the new industry as a "white wear" industry. The sum and substance of the conclusion reached was voiced by Mr. Kendrey and Mr. R. F. McWilliams, both of whom were of opinion that the one thing needed to secure a favorable verdict was the announcement of the real position of the American company, which is said to be behind this one. We think, therefore, that the question as it stands is a legal one, a matter of construction of the agreement between the city and the American company. As it stands the agreement is apparently not conclusive, Polling day is near at hand and it would therefore be advisable to wire the American company for a plain simple statement of their intentions. Any attack on Mayor Rush for being part owner of the property at the locks is unwarranted. Ald. Gillespie made that perfectly clear and Ald. Gillespie's word will be taken as a guarantee of the truth of his statements.

Mr. Kendrey did a great service to the city in paving the way for a better and more intelligent understanding of the situation. Last night's storm will probably help to clear the air. In the meantime the public will await the developments promised by the chairman.

Mr. O'Brien, one of the O'Briens in the mix-up, says that he will gladly retire, if the promoters will give him $400 more than they offer of the actual expenses alleged by him to have been advanced out of his own pocket when in answer to an advertisement, he first met the promoters. One, or two, of the promoters was present, but no attempt was made to deny the correctness of his bill, which was read by Mr. Kendrey.

So that it is possible that Mr. O'Brien is sincere in his desire "to be going." To Ald. Bradburn and Ald. Gillespie, Ald. Turner and City Clerk Armstrong too much praise cannot be given for their efforts to increase the number of our industries.

Box sale and concert under the auspices of St. Luke's Mission Band, on Friday, May 21st, in the Sunday school. Admission 10c.

PURITY WARE BY-LAW CAUSED MUCH DISCUSSION

from the American Co.

"We beg to state that we are favorably inclined to the formation of the company in Canada, etc, etc."

Mr. Kendrey—What is the arrangement with Mr Baker referred to in that letter, Mr Gillespie?

Mr Gillespie—I have not got it. I do not know what it was.

Mr Kendrey—There is a letter from Mr Baker to the New York Company referred to in that letter you read which you did not read.

Mr. Gillespie—I have not got it.

Mr. Kendrey here stated that Baker had been the manager of the Ontario Steel Ware Company and he read a letter from the company to its creditors—after they had been little more than a year in business—date December 22, 1907. The letter stated that if the company assigned for the benefit of their creditors the dividend would be small, and offered 50 cents on the $1.00. The shareholders lost their investment in this company and some suffered further losses. "This same gentleman, Baker, comes forwards as the promoter of this company. I would like to ask this meeting how many people in Peterborough will take stock in a company promoted by a gentleman like that. The fact is those promoters talked well to the council and they apparently have succeeded in talking them into the scheme," said Mr Kendrey.

I would like to ask if any one has seen the prospectus of this Purity Ware Company? I want to tell you that I do not believe that under the law of Ontario that these promoters can come forward and work this business without having issued a prospectus bearing the names of those behind the matter.

By an agreement between the promoters those people have put down $75,000 for patent rights on the secret of making this enamel ware. I know that this formula is not worth 75 cents. I suppose the $75,000 is to be divided amongst three of the promoters and then there is $50,000 to be paid for good will. $75,000 for formula and if the promoters sell this stock they are to get 10 per cent on $300,000,—that is $30,000—so that with a company capitalized at $400,000 there is $155,000 to go to the promoters and others for nothing practically—just water.

Mr. Bradburn—This agreement was handed to you by a man who has a grievance against the company.

Mr. Kendrey—So would you and so would I have a grievance against the company if you had loaned your money to them and could not get it.

Mr. Bradburn—I understand that Mr O'Brien has been offered his money.

Mr O'Brien—I have not got it.

Mr. Kendrey.—They offered to pay a part only of what they were loaned. I want to say that as a citizen of Peterborough and with nothing but the interests of Peterborough at heart. If any promoters come to the city and try to do us up I will speak out. If the New York people will come out and back this thing I will do all I can to carry the by-law.

There are no practical men connected with this scheme, and a good practical man is worth more than money. Would any business man care to take Baker as a manager of this concern. The people have a right to know all about the company at this stage before they can vote intelligently on the by-law. I am here to oppose this by-law on principle.

Another thing, this company in New York are not making enamel ware; they are making steam boilers, etc., and the enamel ware that they sell they buy from other manufacturers.

I would like to ask who are the company? The people are entitled to know. Why do they keep us in the dark? Let them show up their agreement.

Mr. Edwards.—The promoters are the strongest combination in Canada.

Mr. Kendrey.—Who are they?

Mr. Edwards.—I am not prepared to say.

Mr. Kendrey.—No, I thought not.

Mr. O'Brien rose to make an explanation, but Mr. J. H. Larmouth moved that he was out of order, as the matter for discussion was the Purity Ware By-law, and the purpose of the meeting was to get the views of the public, not of people from out of town.

Mr. Dumble did not quite understand why the promoters did not give the names of the people behind the scheme. He noticed that $50,000 was for formula which it was claimed was worthless, and $75,000 for goodwill of a concern that did not manufacture in Canada—the $75,000 represents goodwill of a going concern—but there is no going concern in Canada. There may be one in the States. This big company in the States did not manufacture enamel ware at all, then where did the goodwill come in? Mr. Kendrey, he considered, had done the right thing as a citizen of Peterborough, to come forward and ask that the ratepayers have full information before they vote on the by-law.

Mr. Meldrum moved, seconded by Mr. Kendry, that Mr. O'Brien be allowed to make a statement, but this was objected to.

Ald. Hicks said he was one of the committee that went to Toronto to go into the proposition. It did not look too good at first, however, it was decided not to let the matter drop, and negotiations were proceeded with and changes made until the City Council considered they had a satisfactory proposition.

Mr. F. D. Kerr said he was perfectly satisfied that the by-law was all right when businessmen like Mr. Gillespie, Mr. Hicks and Mr. Bradburn were sure the scheme was all right. Mr. Kerr wanted to know, however, why it was necessary to keep the name of the financial institution secret.

"Will the names of those men be made public before the by-law is voted on?" asked Mr. Larmouth.

"They will," said Mr. Gillespie.

"That's all right, then," said Mr. Larmouth.

Mr. A. P. Pousette discussed the subject. The question was, did the by-law sufficiently protect the interests of the citizens of Peterborough? He believed it did. This being the case it mattered not who was behind the company.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams said Peterborough needed factories but there were some undesirable features about the present by-law. He cited several objections to the site, among other things that it was the property of Mayor Rush and it was not legal for the mayor to sell it to the city. Furthermore there was no road to the property and the location was very undesirable.

Ald. Buller said it was not right for Mr. McWilliams to attack the Mayor. The people had confidence in Mr. Rush and had elected him by a large majority.

Mayor Rush said there was a road to the property and he had acted in entire good faith. He knew why Mr. McWilliams was attacking him. It was quite natural that he should. He (Mr. Rush) was not trying to hold up the city.

Dr. M. A. Morrison said there were four parties interested, the Brooklyn concern, the Montreal financiers, the City of Peterborough and the promoters. Taking everything into consideration he believed the ratepayers would not make a mistake in passing the law.

Mr. Morrison said Mr. Kendrey had made a mistake in going to Mr. Kemp for information. He should have gone to the Brooklyn concern and not to a rival manufacturer.

Mr. Kendrey objected to this statement, saying that Dr. Morrison was making a personal charge that he had some motive in opposing the by-law other than that of protecting the interests of the city. This was not true.

Continuing Dr. Morrison said that if the company will erect a factory install machinery at $150,000, and put into the bank as working capital $100,000, then it was pretty safe for the city to make a $50,000 loan.

Mr. D. Hughes-Charles supported the by-law. He considered the city's interests well guarded.

On motion of Mr. Larmonth and Mr. Meldrum, it was decided to adjourn the discussion for one week.

COACHING RULES

Rule 53—The coacher shall be restricted to coaching the base runner only, and shall not address anyone except the base runner and then only in words of assistance and direction in running bases. He shall not by words or sign, incite or try to incite the spectators to demonstration; and shall not use language which will in any manner refer to or reflect upon a player of the opposite club, the umpire or the spectators. Not more than two coachers who must be players in the uniform of the team at bat, shall be allowed to occupy the space between the players' and the coachers' lines, one near first base and the other near third base, to coach base-runners. If there be more than the legal number of coachers or this rule be violated in any respect, the captain of the opposite side may call the attention of the umpire to the offence and thereupon the umpire must order the illegal coacher or coachers to the bench, and if his order be not obeyed within one minute, the umpire shall assess a fine of $5 against each offending player and upon a repetition of the offence, the offending player or players shall be declared from further participation in the game and shall leave the playing field forthwith.

Iron Man Joe McGinnity, of Newark, has taken part in four games so far this season, and has figured in one victory. He started in to pitch in three games, finished two of them, was taken out of the box in one and was substituted for Parkioons in another.

Brandon and Winnipeg are having trouble over Pitcher Monnette, a colored wonder. Winnipeg claims he jumped to Brandon and the president says he will not be allowed to play until the matter is settled. Brandon kicks against this ruling and will leave the league if it is enforced.

The Strathconas will begin to practice next week. West ends take notice.

According to reports, the P. A. C. team look like winners in the intermediate league.

The awful suspense will be over next week when Bill Metheral trots out his dark horses.

"Will you sign to play for me," is the latest base-ball song hit in this city, and is being sung in an appealing manner by the intermediate baseball managers.

The Y.M.C.A. intermediate baseball team had a good practice last evening. The players are showing good form and may be depended upon to give a good account of themselves in the league this season.

The record of the Eastern League teams is interesting. Rochester is on top with a percentage of .616. Montreal is next with .600 and Toronto third with .588. Providence and Newark are tied for the cellar position with .400. Jersey City, Baltimore and Buffalo are close together, liable to go either up or down. Toronto, Buffalo, Rochester and Montreal are all playing at home, but when they start out on another trip, there will likely be a big change in the percentage column.

A POISON EPISODE.

When a Famous Chemist Was Silenced In Court by a Judge.

There was a famous poisoning case in England many years ago in which the strong point of the defense was to show that the accused, who was an expert chemist, would not have used a poison which could be so easily found after it had been taken into the human system. Sir Robert Christeson, professor in Edinburgh university, a famous expert on toxicology, whose works are still standard on that subject, was put on the stand to prove this point. When he declared that a chemist would certainly use some poison which would leave no trace, the prosecuting attorney asked him if he meant to say that there were such poisons.

Sir Robert replied in the affirmative. The prosecutor asked, "Name them!"

"No!" shouted the judge. "I forbid you to answer that question!"

In spite of the protests of the prosecutor the judge would not allow the expert publicly to give the name of a poison which would leave no trace, and the question remained unanswered.

Now comes the curious part of the story. During the next two years Sir Robert received more than 4,000 letters from all parts of the world asking, begging, offering to buy, the name of the untraceable poison alluded to in his testimony. Many of these he kept as curiosities, showing them to his friends as evidence of the depravity of human nature. Some of the excuses for wanting the name of the poison were very ingenious. One man was writing a novel based on a poison plot and wanted to make use of the untraceable poison idea. He did not want to give the name of the poison in his book, but just wanted to have it by him in case any scientific critic should deny the possibility of such poisons, when he could send him the name in a private letter and quote the "distinguished authority" from whom it came, etc. Several persons professed to be studying chemistry and asked for the information on the ground of professional courtesy. To all such Sir Robert would send the advice to pursue their studies and they would soon know as much about it as he did. Many offered large sums of money for the secret, usually pretending they had bet still larger amounts that they could find it out in a given time and were willing to share their profits liberally with Sir Robert.

The thing which most impressed Sir Robert was the number of persons all over the world who seemed desirous of possessing the secret of an agent that would kill, but leave no trace, and the amazing falsehoods to which they would subscribe their names in order to obtain the information. It is said that whatever poison Sir Robert had in mind at the trial he never mentioned it, not even to his classes, so strongly was he impressed with the danger of letting such a thing become matter of public knowledge.

BEWARE OF OINTMENTS FOR CATARRH THAT CONTAIN MERCURY

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. The speculator looked puzzled.

"Ah," he exclaimed, "I think I can appreciate your difficulty. You doubtless bank in England, but that will not trouble us, I imagine." He opened a desk drawer and produced a pad of blank forms. "These are foreign drafts. Draw on your bankers at sight, and I will negotiate the paper through my own account and let you know the amount of exchange. You see," he laughed, "I am forcing you into a fortune, as it were. Really, I ought to charge you a commission."

The Texan took the blank draft handed to him, held it a moment, then slowly tore it down its length.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Renwyck, but—but I can't go in."

His companion eyed him critically for a full half minute. A moment ago he had volunteered to embark $100,000 in the enterprise, and now he would fain back out. What had changed him? The financier determined to probe this suspicious circumstance to the bottom.

"Why this sudden change?" he asked directly.

"Well, you see," began Richard, writhing inwardly at the falsity of his position, "I've been bitten in deals before, and while"—

"Nonsense!" interrupted the old gentleman shortly. "You can't lose on this. Why, my dear sir, it's a dead certainty. What more do you want?"

"True," agreed Richard sadly, "and yet"—

"There are no yets," interrupted Mr. Renwyck. "It is not a question of my needing money, for I have plenty of my own. I made you the proposition simply and solely out of friendship, and"—

"And for that very reason," Richard cut in, "I must decline. I appreciate the spirit in which you have tried to help me, but circumstances render my acceptance impossible."

Again the financier regarded his extraordinary young friend critically through half closed eyes.

"Come, come!" he said bluntly at last. "Don't let's beat about the bush. What is your real reason?"

"Do you mean that?" asked Richard, rising to his feet.

"I do."

"Mr. Renwyck," he said in a clear, level tone which was now free from any deception, a brilliant idea coming to him, the more acceptable in that it was strictly true, "you are right. There are several reasons which we need not discuss. I shall mention one which is sufficient, and that is this: You are about to take advantage of a father's love for his son, which has removed an antagonist from the field. Pardon my speaking plainly, but it strikes me as being a rather unfair business method. I prefer to have nothing more to do with it."

Richard wanted a good slap at the unscrupulous old man and rejoiced in its delivery. It was Mr. Renwyck's turn to flush, though the condition was brought about by anger rather than shame. He was about to make a sharp retort, but checked himself and asked coldly:

"Why didn't you think of that when you offered to take $100,000 worth of shares?"

"I—I don't know."

"Ah!"

"It is sufficient that I did think of it before the money was paid, isn't it?" queried Richard, angry at this monosyllable comment on his irresolution and vacillation.

"Quite," answered Mr. Renwyck in his most frigid manner. "Yet I think if you understood the circumstances better, Lord Croyland, perhaps you would view the matter in a different light. But every man has a right to his own opinion, and so, if you please, we will say no more about it."

He rose as he spoke to intimate that the interview was at an end.

"Thank you," shortly returned the Texan, "and now, if I may, I will say good night. I regret that I have taken up so much of your valuable time."

He crossed the library, unlocked the door and went upstairs without a backward glance, while the financier sat looking after him moodily. For many moments Mr. Renwyck did not move. His cigar went out and was held unheeded between his silent lips till at last he dropped it into a silver ash tray and, rising, sighed.

"Something surprising there. I don't quite understand. Who would have thought he would have taken it that way? I wonder if that was his real reason. I don't see that I'm to blame. I didn't run over the boy. Well, I'd be a fool not to take advantage of his father's absence. Besides, what difference does it make? He was a goner anyway. It's a life and death struggle between us. We used to be good friends. Is the Englishman right? I wish that—here, here, this won't do! I must go to bed at once. I can't make out that Lord Croyland. Seems as if I'd met him—er—what could be the matter?"

The millionaire paced the floor of his library for a quarter of an hour, then set his burglar alarms and went to bed.

Richard was equally uneasy. He looked at the little pile of Croyland mail that had accumulated, including several telegrams, which of course he had not opened, and decided to take it to the hospital the first thing tomorrow. It was criminal for him to have neglected it and his friend as well. And there were other things he would do on the morrow.

CHAPTER XV.

THE following day was an eventful one for the various members of the Renwyck household. Mr. Renwyck went earlier than usual to the city and in spite of a somewhat uneasy conscience worked ceaselessly to the furtherance of his harbor scheme. His triggers were set, and he only waited now for the trap to spring and catch Bill Williams in its fall and incidentally the Peace and Good Will gullibility—no, Realty company. Mr. Michael Corrigan was also quite busy during the day, though his occupation was a pleasant one. At least he seemed to derive intense amusement from the receipt of a number of lengthy telegrams from various points.

Richard, too, had occasion to use the wires, but in a different manner. Immediately after breakfast he made his excuses to the ladies and took a train for New York. At the telegraph office he sent out the following dispatch:

Mr. William J. Williams:
Mistake. Am all right and unhurt. Return to Austin at once and watch harbor deal. RICHARD WILLIAMS.

The young man made a number of copies of the telegram and had them sent to various junction points along all possible routes between Texas and New York, in the hope that his father might be intercepted on whatsoever train he might be a passenger and receive one of them. And in order to make assurance doubly sure he gave orders that the telegrams were to be repeated regardless of expense until the sendee had been reached. Richard had a perfect right to say that he was well and unhurt, and in consideration of Mr. Renwyck's method of doing business he persuaded himself that he was also right in adding his noncommittal warning. By this he hoped to put the cattle king on his guard, in which case he trusted to his father's shrewdness to circumvent the enemy.

This duly discharged, Richard called at St. Luke's hospital and was much distressed to learn that Lord Croyland was not doing well at all. He had developed a high fever, and in his present condition could receive no visitors. Richard therefore could only leave the earl's mail, securely done up in a package addressed to Mr. Richard Williams, with the message that Mr. Peter Wilson had called and would come again within a day or two. Then, having nothing else to keep him in the city, after a stop at a flower shop he returned to Irvington.

In the meantime the final rehearsal of "The Man and the Bird" was materially interfered with by an upheaval of conflicting emotions on the part of Miss Imogene Chittendon. By the morning post that young lady received a letter, which she read through several times, then ran to her room, flung herself upon the bed and expressed her emotion in tears and hysterics.

Miss Renwyck, in passing through the hall, caught the sound of weeping and went in to comfort her. She found Miss Imogene in a truly pitiable state, and the better part of an hour elapsed before an intelligent explanation of the trouble could be obtained. Miss Chittendon told her story in jerky, disjointed sentences, so interspersed with sobs and gasps that to quote her in detail would be an utter impossibility. The thread of the romance ran in this wise:

Several months previous to the opening of this narrative Miss Imogene had been a pupil in a fashionable young ladies' school in Morristown, N. J. Like many of her mates, she had carried on innocent flirtations beneath the very noses of certain stately gray headed wardens of propriety harmlessly enough. In her last and most violent affaire du coeur, however, she suddenly found cause bitterly to regret her rashness.

Mr. Roderick Fitzgeorge—the last Morristown object of Miss Imogene's transient affections—posed as a lieutenant in the United States army on a leave of absence, spending a furlough at the quiet little Jersey town. He was of a romantic disposition and appeared a very dashing blade, bewilderingly good looking to a pent-up schoolgirl in spite of a certain physical defect. The lieutenant was possessed of many other accomplishments, known and unknown to Miss Imogene, among which, according to the young lady's own statement, "he could make love just beautifully in the moonlight over a garden wall that was just covered with broken glass and a horrid wire with stickers all over it."

Be that as it may, this Romeo was untowardly discovered in the midst of a most poetical speech across the aforesaid wall one spring night about 10 o'clock, and the touching love scene then in progress came to an abrupt, not to say painful, end. This was caused by the pulling of Roderick Fitzgeorge's ladder from under him by the villain in the piece—the night watchman—who had treacherously crept along the garden wall at the instigation of the protagonist of the drama, the principal of the school, who, splendidly served by her intelligence department, had ruthlessly interrupted the course of true love.

400,000 Logs Loose.

Montreal, May 19.—Word has reached Montreal from Grand Piles, on the River St. Maurice, north of Three Rivers, of the opening of log booms and the loss of 400,000 logs as the result of high water. The river is ten feet above normal, owing to recent rains, and the melting of snow. An attempt will be made to recover as many as possible at Shawingan Falls or Three Rivers. The loss to the Laurentide Paper & Pulp Co. and the lumbermen will be considerable.

Program on Defence Problem.

Ottawa, May 19.—R. L. Borden asked what action the Government intended to take on the resolution passed on March 29, relating to a scheme of defence.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said there had been some correspondence with the Imperial authorities, which he would bring down to-morrow, when he would state what action the Government proposed to take.

DAVID HARTLEY THE PIONEER PAINTER PED. WILL ALSO WALK

So David Hartley will walk in the six day fixture here after all. Last night he said he would and thinks he still has a chance to land some of the necessary.

"They think I'm down and out," said Davy, "but I may show them their mistake."

James A Graham the comedy star of the heel and toe game will also be here. James is a cheerful kidder and keeps the crowd in good mood by his bits of con.

Jim Dixon of Philadelphia, the fast colored ped will also be in the game, and will lend a color to the surroundings. No excuse is offered for this remark.

Brown, Blake and West will arrive in the city tomorrow.

MEETING OF ST. PETER'S BALL CLUB TO-MORROW NIGHT

There will be a meeting tomorrow night of St. Peter's Baseball Club in the T.A.S. rooms for the purpose of organizing for the season. As this club plays its first game in the church league next week it is important that all the members and those ball players of the city under nineteen, who are desirous of joining this year, should attend.

The blank certificates for the season have been issued and the process of signing up will begin immediately.

FOOTBALL

The Y.M.C.A. football team had a good workout at Riverside Park last evening, and the different players showed up well. Bethany comes here next Saturday to play the local team and a good contest should result.

The game in Bethany resulted in a tie, but the "Y" boys intend to get away with the big end of the score on Saturday, and are practicing faithfully. It is not settled yet as to where the contest will take place, but it is safe to say that both teams will work for all that is in them.

The Y.M.C.A. football team with uniform, will practice at 7.15 at Riverside Park to-morrow night. The game on Saturday with Bethany will take place at two o'clock at Riverside Park, providing the grounds in that park are dry.

RUNNING

The Hamilton Spectator says: All arrangements were completed this morning for a fifteen-mile race at Buffalo on Saturday, May 29th, between Billy Sherring and Alfred Shrubb. Ever since Sherring signed articles to run in the pro Marathon at Montreal on May 24, Shrubb has been after him for a race, and finally landed the Hamilton chap, when several Buffalo promoters came forward yesterday and made a reasonable proposition to the hero of Athens. Shrubb meets St. Yves in Montreal on Thursday at 20 miles, and on May 24th has a twenty-mile race with Longboat carded for Toronto. Sherring has his Marathon in Montreal ahead of him, and both should be in good trim on the following Saturday for a fifteen-mile battle. Sherring's real distance is the fifteen-mile route and his many Hamilton friends are confident that he will give the little Englishman a great argument at the shorter distance.

Acoose is a full-blooded Indian. He was born and has lived on the reserve in Saskatchewan all his life. He is just twenty-three years old, and prior to May 25th of last year had never entered in a long distance race. He has practically swept everything before him since, and appears to have an excellent chance of making his name famous throughout the athletic world, should he take care of himself.

Y.M.C.A. RELAY RACE TRIAL

Will Take Place at Oval To-morrow Afternoon at 2.30 O'clock

The trial race for school boys for the Y.M.C.A. relay race from Lakefield to Peterborough, will be run at Nicholl's Oval to-morrow afternoon at 2.30. The track has been accurately measured for one mile.

There are a large number of entries for the trial, and an exciting race is expected. All boys are asked to be ready to run at 2.15.

BASEBALL

Buffalo and Newark put up 14 innings at Buffalo. Both teams played errorless ball, each having forty-two put outs.

A Bad Spot

To the Editor of the Review:

Sir,—I see by the evening papers of the 18th inst. a notice "Must clean yards, and that the sanitary inspector is making his rounds of the city. I beg to say that I hope when that officer is making his rounds of inspection that he will not neglect to inspect the place where our city fathers have allowed all the filth of the city to be deposited, that is, the so-called Goose Pond, opposite Water street. Now, why in the name of common sense, is this allowed? If the authorities are solicitous of having all the yards cleaned up and the filthy matter removed therefrom, why have they allowed it to be dumped right at the doors of the residents of that part of the city. Is it because they wish to sacrifice the few for the many? Why, let anyone take a walk up Water street on any afternoon and they can see many of our rag and junk gatherers hauling out from the deposited matter old rags, old pants, old coats, and no doubt these have been taken from places where the families have been affected with contagious diseases and dumped over the embankment, and when most of this matter is exposed to the sun, and weather, it becomes quite dry, and the first eastern wind blows all the germs and microbes that may be contained there right into the doors of those who may live in that neighborhood. Again, the city is taking great chances of having actions for damages brought against them as the street there is very narrow, in fact in places so narrow that two rigs can scarcely pass, and should a runaway accident ever occur there, dear knows what might happen, as the embankment is fully 20 feet high, and no protection in the shape of a railing or fence. I might say, in conclusion, that if the authorities do not take immediate action and stop the nuisance, and have the filthy matter which is already deposited covered over with a coat of gravel, that the matter be referred to the Provincial Board of Health.

BRISK BUSINESS ON THE GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY

Grain From the West is Passing Through the City in Large Quanties

Business is picking up considerably on the Grand Trunk Railway the past few days and much freight is being carried over the road through this city. Eight freight trains passed through last night and six more again this morning. The grain from the west is being shipped through as fast as the grain boats, the rolling stock and power of the G.T.R. can handle it, and hurried forward to the seaboard for export. Last week was a record one for the road, when almost one million bushels of wheat were handled and during the present week it is expected that the two million bushel mark will be reached.

TENTS FOR 38TH REGIMENT HAVE ARRIVED HERE

Will be Erected in Central Park at Once—19th Regiment Will Use Large Marquee

The tents which will be used by the 38th Regiment of Brantford during their visit to this city, arrived to-day and were taken to Central Park, where they will be put up at once. They are the regular bell-shaped military tent, and number about forty-five. The whole regiment will sleep and eat in these tents which will, no doubt, present a unique appearance.

LADIES AID HELD "AT HOME"

Enjoyable Affair Held Last Evening at Residence of Mrs. Thistlewaite's Sherbrooke Street

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. James Methodist church held an "at home" at the residence of Mrs. Thistlewaite, Sherbrook street, last evening, and an enjoyable time was spent by the large number present. A musical programme was rendered, after which refreshments were served. As a result of the "at home" the Ladies' Aid have received a handsome sum, which will go towards the building fund of the church.

The programme was as follows:

Solo—Miss Howell.
Reading—Miss Thomas.
Duet—Mr. Downey and Miss Pringle.
Solo—Miss Rebell.
Recitation—Miss Greta LeBatt.
Solo—Miss Maud Titterson.
Recitation—Miss Viola Talmer.

RATHER HARD ON THE IRISH

Potatoes Have Been Scarce in Peterborough for Several Weeks

There has been a shortage of potatoes in Peterborough for several weeks, but the situation was relieved somewhat yesterday by the arrival of a cargo of the "murphies" from Rice Lake. A restaurant man informed the Review yesterday that he had been having difficulty in securing potatoes for some time.

PERSONAL

MR. BIRCHARD BRIGHT STUDENT

Mr. E. R. Birchard, well-known locally and purser two years ago in the "Ogema," passed his third year examination at the School of Practical Science, Toronto, in Mechanical Engineering. After writing on the examination he at once started for Cobalt, where he will doubtless find ample scope for his energies. Mr. Birchard was in Haileybury on the night of May 5th, and was one of the inmates of an hotel that was consumed by the big fire. He escaped with his grip in one hand and his clothes in the other. Mr. Birchard is a son of Jas. T. Birchard, Linden Valley.

YOUNG LADY IS BEREAVED AGAIN

Miss L. Lockhead Received News of the Death of Her Father in Centreville Yesterday

Miss Laura Lockhead on the teaching staff of the Queen Alexandra school, received the sad intelligence yesterday of the death of her father in Centreville, and she has gone to attend the obsequies. This is the second bereavement Miss Lockhead has been called upon to bear within a short time as her mother met with an accident some time ago, which resulted fatally.

Sincere sympathy will be extended to the young lady by her many friends in the city.

Expect Big Demand

Local dealers in souvenir post cards are making preparations for big business on Monday, May 24th. One photographer informed the Review today that he was making 1500 cards of the armories.

HAIR SLAUGHTER

Killed by Negligence

Hair must have nourishment or die. If it does not have proper nourishment it will lose its vitality, grow weak and become an easy prey to the ravages of the vicious and destructive germs of dandruff.

Parisian Sage is a hair nourisher; it is the result of sincere study and experience by one of the world's leading scientists.

It should be used regularly as a hair dressing by everyone with healthy hair, because it never fails to prevent dandruff, falling hair, or any scalp disease.

But Parisian Sage is not only a preventitive, it is a certain cure for dandruff; it stops itching of the scalp instantly; it makes hair grow thick and luxuriant. It is especially in demand by ladies, because it makes the hair beautiful, soft and fluffy. Wm. Madill, the druggist, Peterborough, sells it under a positive guarantee to do all that is claimed for it, or money back, 50 cents a large bottle.

Fifty packages of liquor were seized in a Chinese laundry in London.

WHO WEAR GLASSES?

About 25 per cent of Students, Professional men and women, Musicians, Artists, Journalists, Literary People, etc.

WHY? A large amount of reading and close work exposure to artificial light and late hours in our modern city life. All these make severe demands upon the organ of vision and produce or manifest troubles such as can frequently be best relieved by proper spectacles.

ALLAN LINER MONGOLIAN IN DANGEROUS JAM AT ST. JOHN'S

Attempt is Made to Transfer the Passengers But Without Success and Some Anxiety is Felt Lest Big Vessel Be Driven Ashore in Gale of Wind—Steamer Prospero, Sent to the Rescue, is Also Caught.

St. John's, Nfld., May 20.—The Allan Line steamer Mongolian, bound from Glasgow and Liverpool for St. John's, Nfld., Halifax and Philadelphia with hundreds of passengers on board, was caught in a dangerous ice jam one mile off this harbor late yesterday, and last night was in a hazardous position.

It is feared that if the wind increases before daylight the Mongolian will be driven ashore and become a total wreck.

Should such an accident occur, it is thought that the passenger can escape by walking over the densely packed ice floes.

Just returned from the ice-packed waters of Belle Isle Strait, where she had been abandoned by her crew and later rescued, the coast steamer Prospero, also lies wedged in ice between the Mongolian and the shore.

The Prospero had been despatched by the agents of the Mongolian here when the plight of the Mongolian became known, to attempt to reach the big vessel and take off the passengers and mails.

The little steamer had just passed the harbor mouth, after a continuous battle for every foot of progress, when the ice barrier became impregnable and further headway was impossible. There she kept company during the night with the greater steamer Mongolian, which was equally helpless in the unrelenting grip of the surrounding ice.

The Mongolian left Glasgow on May 5 and Liverpool a few days later with nearly 500 passengers aboard for this port, Halifax and Philadelphia. Even before Cape Race had been sighted the combat between steamer and ice had become a reality.

About a mile off the narrow harbor opening the Mongolian stopped the power of the engines unable to successfully cope with the great, irregular stretches of ice. The steamer's efforts to run the blockade are believed have injured some of the bow plates.

Last night, the combined action of wind and the tide strengthened the grip of the floes and the Mongolian was completely surrounded, unable to advance or recede.

Although assured that they were in no immediate danger, the passengers on board the Mongolian crowded the decks to witness with anxious interest, the combat which resulted in the enthralment of the steamer.

The hardy fisher folk, undaunted by danger, traversed the ice floes last night and reached the side of the Mongolian, where they conversed with officers and passengers.

The fishermen reported to people ashore that the steamer was not seriously injured.

The proximity of the Mongolian to the shore, however, made her position a dangerous one.

EXPRESS TRAIN LEFT THE TRACK

North Bay, May 20.—No. 97 westbound C.P.R. express, with a big passenger list, met with an accident at Red Sucker, near Jackfish, 434 miles west of North Bay, at 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

From some unknown cause the baggage car and express car jumped the rails and plunged down the steep embankment, the engine and other cars fortunately staying on the rails. The express car was demolished and Messenger Demere, of Montreal, was severely injured, but will recover. Engineer Ben Ward of White River was injured, but not seriously. Passengers were severely shaken up. Traffic was delayed eight hours.

AMERICAN FLAG WAS DISPLAYED

In Parliament Buildings at Ottawa —Head to be Removed

Ottawa, May 19.—Actually within the Canadian Parliament building itself a large American flag was displayed this morning. The individual in charge of the decorations of the hall where the Australian press delegates were entertained to lunch by the Hon. Frank Oliver, draped the Stars and Stripes over the entrance in the most prominent place. Some of the members of Parliament, in their peregrinations through the building, sighted the invader and the flag was removed forthwith.

AYLESWORTH FOR ENGLAND

Ottawa, May 20.—At two o'clock yesterday morning Hon. A. B. Aylesworth announced that he would proceed to England next week to prepare Canada's case in the fisheries dispute which has been referred to The Hague tribunal, and that Sir Robert B. Finlay would be the leading counsel for Canada and Newfoundland.

Mr. Foster forcibly objected to J. S. Ewart, K.C., being sent to assist, he having constantly given expression to anti-British views.

Norman B. Wormith, M.A., of Kingston, employed in the Archives Department, will also be one of the party.

NAVAL CORRESPONDENCE IS DISCUSSED IN COMMONS

Hon. Mr. Foster Points Out That Policy Determined Upon by Canadian Government Will Take a Long Time to Carry Out and Will Be of Little Use in Case of an Emergency—Ministers Go to London.

Ottawa, May 20.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier yesterday morning presented to the House the correspondence in regard to naval defence, as passed between the Imperial and Federal authorities. The Premier announced that the invitation to the conference in London had been accepted and that two Ministers would go to London when the time arrived.

The correspondence shows that on March 30 Earl Grey forwarded to Lord Crewe particulars of the debate on imperial defence of March 29. On April 28 Lord Crewe acknowledged this despatch, and stated that the Imperial Government noted with much satisfaction the action of the Imperial House.

On April 30 Lord Crewe wrote again, and, after once more expressing satisfaction, he continued:

"I desire to commend to your the following suggestion, namely, that a conference of representatives of the self-governing dominions, convened under the terms of resolution one of the conference of 1907, which provides for such subsidiary conferences, should be held in London early in July.

"The object of the conference would be to discuss the general question of naval and military defence of the Empire, with special reference to the Canadian resolution and to the proposals from Australia and New Zealand, to which I have referred."

In transmitting this message Lord Crewe added:

"I am strongly of the opinion that an early confidential exchange of views between His Majesty's Government and the Governments of His Majesty's self-governing dominions beyond the seas would be of great mutual advantage, and I therefore trust that your Prime Minister and his colleagues will see their way to adopt the proposal."

On May 3 Lord Grey replied:

"The views of the Canadian House of Commons on the question of naval defence have already been expressed.

"In pursuance of the resolution of that body, two of the Ministers, as already announced, will shortly go to London to discuss with the Admiralty the best method of carrying out that resolution. Their visit will probably take place in June, but there will be no objection to postponing it until July if the Imperial authorities prefer such delay."

On May 12 Lord Crewe telegraphed to Lord Grey:

"Your telegram of May 5, I desire in the name of the Prime Minister of His Majesty's Government, to express their gratification at the readiness of the Dominion Government to take part in the conference. I hope that as a result of the communications now proceeding it will be possibly shortly to fix definitely the date for its meeting convenient to all Governments."

After supply had been concurred in, Mr. Foster referred to the resolution passed by the House on March 29, pointing out that the policy therein contained would require some years to carry out, and would be of little avail in the event of an emergency. In this respect, the resolution did not meet the more advanced public opinion on the subject, and was not altogether acceptable to a section of the community. In view of this, would the Premier be disposed to make a fuller statement?

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that he was aware that the resolution did not suit a certain section of the public opinion To meet that opinion it would be necessary to make an immediate grant of money or perhaps to build a Dreadnought. While not inclined to agree with that view, he would state that in this matter it was the duty of Canada to act squarely as to her own defence. Just how far we should go, he would not say.

The Government had considered that the best way to give effect to the terms of the resolution was to send Ministers immediately to confer with the Imperial authorities. At this stage the Imperial authorities suggested a conference. Sir Wilfrid then quoted the reply sent to the request of the Imperial authorities. In reply to a question by Mr. Monk the Premier said the conference would not have power to make a binding agreement. It would be but consultative and advisory.

HOTELKEEPERS TO OBSERVE LAW

Brockville, May 20.—Believing that observance of the liquor license laws of this province will stem the tide of local option so far as Brockville is concerned, the hotelkeepers met last night and not only bound themselves by hard and fast resolutions to strictly keep hotel, but decided to support the hands of the inspector in maintaining the law.

If they prove as good as their word, there will be no whisky sold during prohibited hours, neither will the bartenders be permitted to serve up the hot stuff to intoxicated persons, or those on the "Indian list," on pain of dismissal.

Hon. J. W. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, was requested to have a law passed providing that photographs of persons on the prohibited list be furnished every license holder in Ontario, to ensure the better observance of the law in that respect.

Mrs. Annis Goes on Stage.

New York, May 20.—That stage of sensational murder trial which has become so familiar — the vaudeville stage—has reached the Hains-Annis tragedy when announcement is made that Mrs. Annis has signed a contract with the United Booking offices to play piano accompaniment in a sketch.

Mrs. Annis is quoted as saying that since she has been thrown on her own resources, it is necessary for her to adopt some means of livelihood.

WELLAND HAS SERIOUS FIRE

Welland, Ont., May 20.—Fire from an unknown cause broke out in the barns of the Whaley House at 2.30 yesterday afternoon and did damage of about $6,000. The barn and contents, including a valuable carriage horse owned by Harvey Dawdy, were destroyed. The Twentieth Century Rink adjoining caught fire and the flames carried along the bunting in the walls and ceiling to the opposite end and burned down the half remote from the barn. The warerooms and offices of the Builders' Lumber & Supply Co. were gutted and $3,000 worth of flooring and paint destroyed. The loss on the rink, which is almost total, is $3,000. The rink is owned by A. Griffiths, and is uninsured. The lumber company are protected by insurance, and on the barn there was $8,000 in the London Mutual.

HELD UP IN THE DAYLIGHT

Daring Robbers Loot Express Office at Truro, N. S.—Got Large Sum

Truro, N.S., May 20.—There was great excitement in Truro yesterday afternoon when it became known that the clerk employed by the Canadian Express Co. had been held up at 1 o'clock by two strange men while alone in his office, and the safe robbed of cash and valuables amounting to $1,500.

Agent Linton was away to dinner at the time, and Burgess, his assistant, had charge of the office which is situated in the I.C.R. baggage building. Burgess was washing ink bottles when the men entered and proceeded to go through the safe. Burgess remonstrated, when one of the men drew a revolver, put it to his head, and told him to keep quiet or he'd shoot. Burgess shut up.

The other desperado swiftly went through the safe, taking everything in sight, hurriedly left the building and crossed the railway yards in the direction of Victoria Park, the other continuing to hold up the messenger till his pal was out of sight, when he left, going quickly in the same direction.

PROROGATION COMES AFTER UNUSUALLY SHORT SESSION

His Excellency Earl Grey in Speech From the Throne Refers to Work of Parliament Regarding Railway Act, G.T.P. Loan, Ministry of Labor, New Secretaryship of External Affairs and Plans for Navy.

Ottawa, May 20.—After an unusually short session of four months, Parliament prorogued yesterday, to meet again probably towards the end of October.

The formal ceremony was brilliant, the gay uniforms of the officers in the train of the Governor-General, the court dress of the state officials, and the brilliant costumes of the ladies adding dignity to the event.

In the Senate Chamber were the Australian delegates to the forthcoming press conference in London, as well as several of the Western Canadian representatives.

The Commons met at 3 o'clock, and on being summoned by the usher of the Black Rod, filed into the Senate Chamber and there listened to the proceedings.

Royal assent was given to a number of bills, and the speech from the throne was read by Earl Grey.

His Excellency said in part:

I am pleased to notice that your attention has been engaged in some measures of great importance.

In the first rank of such measures is to be noted the amendment of the railway act, under which by the joint action of the national Government, provincial and municipal authorities, together with the railway companies, level railway crossings are to be gradually removed, and a constant menace to life and property thereby effectually done away with.

The loan of ten million dollars to the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway company will no doubt ensure the completion during the coming season of the prairie section of the National Transcontinental Railway, and will secure to the fast developing western provinces for this year's crop a new and competitive outlet towards the sea.

The act to place the Department of Labor, which has been in existence for some years, under the direct responsibility of a Minister of the crown, exclusively entrusted with its management, is in accordance with the oft-expressed wishes of labor organizations, and is a further step in a field of legislation wherein Canada has already taken a not unimportant part.

The act charging the Secretary of State with special responsibility in regard to the external affairs of Canada will facilitate the transaction of business in connection with that most important branch of the public service.

The resolution adopted by the House of Commons for the organization of a Canadian naval service, in co-operation to the Imperial navy, is a proper acknowledgment of the duties now appertaining to Canada, as a nation, and as a member of the British Empire.

The financial conditions throughout the world seem to be more hopeful than they were four months ago when I opened this session, and whilst in Canada we have undoubtedly suffered less than other countries during this period of universal depression, it will still be the part of prudence to exercise care and economy in all branches of the service.

LATEST NEWS AS TOLD IN DESPATCHES

Death Was Accidental.

St. Thomas, May 20.—Detective Greer, who has been back this week making further enquiries as to the death of William Tomlinson, whose body was found under the M.C.R. bridge, will return to Toronto to-day.

He made the emphatic statement that the man's death was accidental, and he could not understand how the coroner ever thought it was a case of murder.

POWER COMPANY DEPUTATION WAITED ON THE COMMITTEE

Seymour Power and Electric Company Representatives Heard by Power Committee--Were Asked to Submit Pro Rata Prices—No Arrangement Made.

No definite terms were come to at the meeting last night of the Power Committee and the deputation from the Seymour Power and Electric Company, of Campbellford. At the request of the Power Committee the Water Commissioners were also in attendance.

The deputation was composed of Messrs. J. G. G. Kerry, manager of the Seymour Power and Electric Company; A. B. Colville, secretary-treasurer, and A. A. Mulholland, of the Board of Directors.

Ald. McIntyre, chairman of the Power Committee, was in the chair.

Mr. Kerry, who acted as chief spokesman for the deputation, stated it was looking for information concerning the Committee's attitude in the matter to be discussed, and the first point, as he understood it, was that the company understood quite clearly that they could not come into Peterborough without the consent of the city.

In reply to a query from Mr. Kerry, Ald. Phelan stated that the city was prepared to buy power and stated that if a satisfactory rate could be arranged the city would enter into an arrangement to take the power.

"With regard to the rate at which we could sell the power it would depend upon the business for us, and the conditions upon which we could sell the power," said Mr. Kerry.

The question of two power companies using the same poles was dealt with. Mr. Kerry said under certain conditions there would be a complication in tracing the loss of power if this were done, and the question would be which company were responsible for the loss. Under certain conditions it would work out all right, however.

The company wouldn't be ready to deliver power until some time in August and would develop 4000 h.p at the first installation, and had a head of twenty-three feet. What was required before definite figures could be given were conditions sufficient upon which to make a calculation.

Five thousand horse power could be supplied, but the company wasn't prepared to give this at the present time.

Ald. Morrow—What information do you want from the town?

Mr. Kerry—Provided we can make reasonable prices we can agree that you would be able to do business with us. We would like to have an estimate of what the probable demands and cost of distribution in the city would be and the permanence of the arrangement for the distribution. To come to Peterborough would probably mean an expenditure of $100,000.00, and we are going to look very seriously into the arrangement before we consider that expenditure."

The main difficulty in building a line would be that of securing poles The construction of a line would probably be a four months' job, and the chief work would be the construction of a sub-station in Peterborough. If the committee could advise the deputation in any way what the requirements would be a proposition could be made.

Ald. Gillespie stated it would be hard for the council to estimate what would be used, as several new industries might locate here in a comparatively short space of time. The idea was for the council to get away from building more poles than could possibly be helped.

It was explained that it was not the intention of the company to establish a local distribution centre here, and that would lessen the necessity of pole lines. It was also explained that the prices were, of course subject to the regulations of of the Dominion Government in that regard, and in making the prices the the company were not altogether free agents. The company wanted to be reasonably sure of a long term to warrant the investment that would be made. A contract for a thirty-year period would be most desirable The leases with the Government were for a twenty-one year period, but these were renewable indefinitely.

It was decided that before any arrangement could be made that the company should submit the price, based on different amounts of power, at which the company could deliver the power.

NATIONAL THRIFT

National thrift is even more important than individual thrift. It is the means whereby France became the financial master of the world. It has kept Germany alive. Her tremendous exertions in the war-centre of Europe could not be kept up otherwise. Canada however spends with a lavish hand not earned but borrowed money, however. We shudder to think of the national disaster awaiting us if this is not stopped. Forty-six million added to the public debt in one year ought to excite caution.

THE BOARD OF TRADE

The President of the local Board of Trade will have to keep meetings more to the rules of order than he did on Tuesday night if the Board and the public are to get the best out of the meetings. There is a disposition also on the part of one or two who cannot fairly be considered as more interested in the city than in their employers to interfere with the freedom of legitimate discussion when it is not in their favor. This will lead to some pretty sharp and probably unseemly talk some of these days. All these things a wise, firm and fair-minded chairman chairman, such as no doubt Ald. Gillespie is, can correct. The public does not want pertinent and legitimate information suppressed when it is at all relevant. Moreover, if such meetings as that of Tuesday night are not open to the public, then the public should be informed. Formerly the public was invited always and whenever a citizen had anything worth saying he was allowed to say it. Any attempt, therefore, to shut out information in order that the Board of Trade may be made use of for private purposes and not solely for the public good will speedily result in the downfall of a useful institution. People are not so easily duped as they sometimes appear to be.

DOGS

The dog is man's most constant and intimate animal friend. Not that he excels the horse in any of the nobler qualities. But since he can follow his master into the house and the horse cannot very well do so he is regarded as even more of a pal than the king of the mews. The prevalence of dog-poisoning has excited wide-spread irritation. It has now been traced to the latterday method of exposing poison for rats against which a general popular assault has been declared. In a few cases dread or spite may have caused the death of dogs, but as a rule poison placed for rats has been the true cause. That it must be some such cause, the general prevalence of poisoning everywhere necessarily suggested and that has been found to be the fact. At the same time the heart-rending cases of attacks by dogs on children have crystallised popular sentiment to the extent of demanding vengeance upon the owners of these un-doglike brutes, who knowing their pets to be savage take no means to protect children. Such conduct is not only selfish. It is simply hideous and cannot for a moment be tolerated. In future we may look for a severe punishment for the owners who disregard the principles of human pity.

EDITORIAL NOTES

"The Daughter of Jairus," as given under the direction of Mr. Devey at St. John's last night was a very successful and gratifying attempt to place before the people of Peterborough, music of a serious character. The appreciation of the work was general and there is no doubt that choral work of a style suited to a small city would succeed here in more ways than one.

"Let me say it as plainly as I can The popular notion of religion as it exists in the minds of most members of the churches does not exist in the world. The men in the bar-room, if you ask them, have so lofty ideals that they don't go to church because they do not think they could live up to them and, because they know the people in the church don't. The low ideals exist in the pews and they exist to excuse the low living."—Gypsy Smith. It is often said that people are human and cannot be perfect, that we must do the best we can, &c. These are reals, not ideals and it is to them no doubt that Gypsy Smith refers.

Hon. L. P. Brodeur, of the Laurier Cabinet, and Hon. Dr. Reaume, of the Whitney Cabinet, have locked horns with a vengeance. The last carte de compliment reads as follows:

In view of the fact that the Hon. L. P. Brodeur, in the House of Commons, for the second time alleged that the Waterways Treaty was made public by the Hon. Dr. Reaume, that gentleman yesterday sent the following telegram to Ottawa—

"Hon. L. P. Brodeur,—I regret that it seems necessary for me to repeat that no document or statement or paper of any description received from you or from any department of the Dominion Government referring to the proposed Waterways Treaty, or to any other subject, was published by me, or by my direction, or by or through any member of the Ontario Government or any official thereof, and I ask you to read this denial to the House of Commons.

At 9 o'clock Mr. Bourassa started his Abitibi speech when a motion was made for the House to go into committee of supply.

"I want to draw the attention of the Government and of the House," began the Nationalist leader, "to an important, although not a new, subject. I am referring to the Abitibi question; in other words, to the correspondence between the Government and Belgian capitalists, represented here by the Baron de l'Epine. The investigation into this matter was not completed. I do not say that the commissioners suppressed anything, but they did not hear all the witnesses and did not examine the principal witnesses."

Mr. Bourassa remarked that he did not wish to sketch the transaction in any spirit of party hatred. He, however, referred to the significant disappearance of the principal party in the affair (Hon. Mr. Turgeon) from the Cabinet and the Legislative Assembly. For more than two hours Mr. Bourassa proceeded to read documents exchanged between Mr. Turgeon and the representatives of the Belgian syndicate concerned in the famous Crown Lands transactions which was to have taken place. His object in doing this was to prove inconsistencies between the correspondence and the sworn declarations of Hon. Mr. Turgeon. Another object was to prove Premier Gouin's knowledge of the details of the transaction.

"Not once, not five times, not ten times, but at least fifteen times," declared Mr. Bourassa, in the course of his speech, "did Mr. Turgeon say under oath the contrary of what is written in twenty letters bearing his signature."

The Liberal Government, of Quebec, seems to have got into as rotten a state as ever the old Ross Government in Ontario did or the present Government at Ottawa. The fate of governments, like that of individuals, is to die of decay.

BEWARE OF OINTMENTS FOR CATARRH THAT CONTAIN MERCURY

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, May 19.—(Special.)—At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market this morning, offerings were 450 cattle, 200 sheep and lambs, 400 hogs and 1800 calves. There was no actual change in the condition of the market for cattle since Monday, prices being firmly maintained at the advance, owing to the condition, good demand from local butchers and the buying for export account, coupled with the fact that supplies were limited for the latter. On the whole a good trade was done and the market was fairly active. Sales of steers were made at from 5½c to 6¼c; good cows at 4c to 5c. Common cows, at 3c to 3¾c, and bulls, at 3½c to 4½c per lb. A stronger feeling developed in the market for spring lambs and prices show an advance of from $1 to $2 per head, due to condition, small offerings and the good demand for the same, and sales were made at $4 to $8 each, as to size and quality. Sheep were firm, under a fair demand and yearlings sold at 6½c to 7c, and old sheep, at 5½c per lb. There was also a stronger undertone to the market for calves, and prices for good to choice stock ruled higher at $7 to $9 for the latter, and at $5 to $6 for the former, while the common brought from $1.50 to $4 each. The demand for hogs was good and as the offerings were small, prices ruled strong, with sales of selected lots at $8.40 and straight lots at $8.25 per cwt., weighed off cars.

At the Montreal Stock Yard, West End Market, this morning, the supply of livestock consisted of 300 cattle, 50 sheep and lambs, 300 hogs and 600 calves. A good trade was done in cattle, there being a steady demand from butchers for small lots in order to complete the week's requirements with at firm prices. Choice beeves sold at 6¼c, good at 5¾c to 5⅞c, fair at 5c to 5½c, medium at 4½c to 4⅞c, and lower grades at 3½c to 4½c per lb.; demand for lambs was good and sales were made from $4 to $8 each, as to size. Yearling sheep brought 6½c to 7c per lb. An active trade was done in calves at prices ranging from $1.50 to $8 each. Live hogs were strong under a good demand and light offerings and sales of selected lots were made at $8.50 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

LITTLE INTEREST IN THE MEETING

Called at Lindsay to Discuss Public School Accommodation.

Lindsay, May 19.—The turnout of ratepayers last evening to the public meeting called for the consideration of improved school accommodation for the town was disappointingly small.

At 8.28 o'clock there were hardly sixty citizens present, and Mr. Thos. Stewart, chairman of the School Board, in addressing the gathering, emphasized the necessity of a larger attendance of the ratepayers when such an important matter as the building of new schools was to be discussed. It would be better, he thought, to call another meeting at an early date.

Thursday night of next week was the date decided upon for the meeting, and it is to be hoped that every ratepayer will paste this date in his hat and be on hand.

An advertising committee consisting of Dr. White and Messrs. J. W. Anderson and J. E. Adams were appointed to advertise the meeting in as judicious and thorough a manner as possible.

THURSDAY, MAY 20, 1909.

KEENE NEWS

Special to the Review.

Keene, May 19—The Keene Gun club have arranged for a match on May 24th with the Peterborough club at Peterborough.

Mr. David Eason of Peterborough is visiting friends in Keene this week.

The farmers in this vicinity are complaining greatly of being behind with the spring work owing to the extremely backward weather.

Mr. and Mrs Alan Wilson visited friends in Keene on Sunday.

Mr. David Armstrong has begun the work of building a new dwelling house in the upper part of the village where he intends to live.

Mrs J. Soucies' house on Bridge St. has been lwoered and undergone a considerable amount of repairs which have made it great improvement to the property.

Mr. G H Howson of Peterborough spent a couple of days in the village on business last week.

We regret to announce the death which occurred on Saturday of Miss Sadie Waters. The deceased, who had undergone an operation at Toronto General hospital, succumbed to heart failure after the operation. The news of her death came as a great shock to her many friends in Keene, where she was very popular and highlyr espected. She was in her 18th year and has spent over nine years in the village, living with Mrs W. Carter. The funeral was held on Monday at Toronto, the remains being interred in the Barnardo Home cemetery here.

The following are the minutes of the annual meeting of the Keene village improvement association held in the council chamber Tuesday night:

The president, Mr James McNeil, occupied the chair.

The minutes of the last annual meeting, also of the meeting of the executive committee held October 29 last year, were read and on motion of S A Smithson, seconded by Wm Drummond, were adopted.

The treasurer then read the financial statement showing a balance on hand of $8.04. This statement on motion was received and adopted.

Moved by W Drummond, seconded by W Moore, that James McNeil and Andrew Shearer be reappointed president and secretary-treasurer respectively.—Carried.

Moved by J R McIntyre, seconded by W Campbell, that the executive committee be re-appointed—Carried.

On motion of S A Smithson, seconded by W Drummond, J R McIntyre, J Moore and R J McCamus, were appointed an entertainment committee, and the thanks of the association were tendered the committee for their valuable services to the society during the past year.

Mr J R McIntyre replied, thanking the association for their expression of appreciation and expressing the hope that the committee would be able to add as great a sum to the treasury in the coming year.

It was decided that the executive committee be requested to extend the sidewalk east on Bridge street from the post office to Messrs Anderson and Skinner's store, to grade the hill on Bridge street and put in culverts across Bridge street from the drains on Church street.

Moved by J R McIntyre, seconded by R J Brown, that the executive committee wait on the council at the meeting on May 27th to request a grant of tile for a drain from T. Wedlock's shop, north on Main St.

Also to request that the body reappoint Mr Thomas McIntyre to the position of road overseer.

During the year the society has spent $337.23 and it finishes the year begun with a heavy overdraft with a small balance on hand.

The society's receipts for the year totalled $345.27, about half of which represents commutation of statute labor and township grants, the balance having been raised by concerts, excursions and private subscriptions.

There has during the year been the usual amount of voluntary labor expended on the roads and sidewalks of the village of which no account is kept and also Arbor day was well celebrated.

Special to the Review.

Douro, May 19—"Paint and paper" is the common house word in the village, while "Rake and Shovel" echoes from the garden.

Mr. and Mrs John Kearn, of Peterborough who have been visiting friends here returned home on Wednesday last.

Mr P. Whibbs of Peterborough will spend the summer on his farm in Douro.

Mr. Mitchell, implement agent, was in this vicinity last week, selling cream separators.

Mr Green, horse buyer, was in Douro on Friday. He bought up a fine lot of horses and shipped them to Toronto on Monday.

Mr. Henry Fitzhenry, of Ottawa, and Mr John Sullivan of Peterborough were in Douro on Friday.

Mr. Wm Parr, sent a splendid drove ofc attle to Dummer on pasture last week. There were about thirty head in the drove.

Mr. Thomas Dalton and Mr Percy Dalton of Norowod, were visiting in this neighborhood on Sunday.

Mr. Edward Leahy was in Downeyville last week.

Miss Mollie Walsh of Peterborough is home on a visit to her parents for a few days.

Mrs. Patrick O'Brien and Miss Mary O'Brien spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs John Maher.

Mr. Jas Andrews, proprietor of the Indian River cheesef actory was in the village on Friday. He reports good prospects for a pury season.

Onf riday morning, Mr. Joe Towns, had a narrow escape from getting a broken leg. Mr Towns was jumpingf rom his waggon, when his foot caught under the box causing him to fall with his leg across the wheel, while his foot was caught under the box. However we are pleased to say he escaped with no other serious injuries than a stiff knee and he is able to go to work again.

Mr James Martin has planted some fine maple trees on the boundary in front of his farm. If they groww they will make beautiful shade trees on the road.

Mr. Dennis McFadden, of Peterborough, was renewing old acquaintances in this vicinity on Sunday.

Mr. Daniel Sheehan, who has been attending High school at Norwood, was home on a visit for two or three days during the past week.

Miss Loretta Dalton, of Norwood, is visiting her sister, Mrs. F. Leahy.

Mrs. M. McCann, Miss Anna McCann and Master Clayton were the guests of Mrs. B. Condon on Sunday.

Mr. Gilbert Thompson, of Peterborough, was in this neighborhood, buying lambs and calves. Mr. Thompson reports beef cattle scarce in this district, owing to the scarcity of feed. However, this scarcity does not effect Mr. Thompson, as he bought a car load of choice fat cattle at Toronto last week.

Mr. Julian Fife, of Otonabee, was in the village one day last week. Mr. Fife was on his way to Ennismore, where he will remain a few weeks.

Mr. Bart. Leahy, who has been studying for the medical profession, at Toronto, is home for the holidays.

Miss Essie Cranley is home from Rochester on a visit. She will spend two weeks with her sister, Miss Kathleen Cranley.

Mr. Thomas O'Brien, of Peterborough, is visiting his nephew, Mr. Wm. O'Brien. "Tom" is enjoying himself fine, and says he thinks he would like to live in the country.

On Saturday, as the children were free from school, Miss Kathleen Condon invited all her little playmates to a party. The little crowd assembled, and being free from care and worry and full of life and happiness, they spent the afternoon in childish play and merriment. The day passed rapidly in games, songs, and childish chat and laughter, and as night came on they left for their respective homes, regretting that the time had passed so quickly.

Barrie voted to loan the Weber Foundry Company $10,000 for 20 years to establish a gas engine plant.

Illuminated Canoe Parade—E. R. Tate, H. S. Simpson, Col. Greenwood, N. Nichols, C. Bravender, J. M. Duck, O. S. Tanner, Rev. A. W. McKenzie.

It was decided that the Executive Committee meet Thursday evening.

The meeting then adjourned.

Miss Davis, of Peterborough, is visiting friends in the village.

The many friends of Mrs. J. Pedd will learn with regret of her illness.

Mr. B. Kidd, of Peterborough, was in the village Sunday.

The I.O.O.F. attended service in the Methodist church on Sunday evening. An able address was delivered by Rev. Mr. Liggott.

The King's Daughters and Home Mission Band of the Presbyterian church will hold a concert and social in the Town Hall, Lakefield, Monday, 24th. A good time is expected.

Mr. H. Soanes of Peterborough, was in town Wednesday.

Lakefield is to have a few gala hours on Monday next, Victoria Day, when the Minister of Public Works is to be present from Ottawa and formally open the new Government wharf here. It is expected that the Minister will arrive by steamer from Peterborough about 4.30 p.m., and will be met by the leading citizens and representatives of village, Council and Board of Trade. The Lakefield band will be on hand to enliven the proceedings with music. The Ministerial party will leave by rail about 6 p.m. for Ottawa.

PARK WILL BE OPENED SATURDAY

Should Make a Good Impression on the Visitors to the City

On Saturday, May 22nd, the parks in the city will be formally opened to the public. Those who have had charge of getting these places in shape for the season are to be congratulated on the beautiful appearance they now present. The seats and band stands have been repainted and repaired, the flower beds have been rearranged, and the plants transplanted. Bare spots on the lawns have been carefully attended to, and if the fine weather continues the parks, of which the citizens may well feel proud, will not do otherwise than impress the visitors to the city in the near future.

TRUANCY CASE AT POLICE COURT

Boy and Girl do Not go to School Regularly — Case Enlarged Until To-morrow Morning

At the police court this morning the mother of three children was asked to explain why two of them were not going to school. The offenders are a boy and a girl and according to the report of the school inspector the boy has not attended school very regularly since January.

The mother stated that as her husband was away in the country most of the time she had to support the family and she did not have very good control over the boy, but since being notified he had started to school again. It appears that the girl has to stay home to look after the one year old baby during the absence of the mother. The Magistrate enlarged the case until tomorrow morning.

Percy M. Stinson of London, was killed on the Grand Trunk Railway, near Dorchester.

A RAILWAY COMPANY TO LOSE CHARTER

The Campbellford Herald says;—Mr. C. L. Owen, M.P., informs us that he, along with other representatives from this locality, desire an interview with Sir Thomas Shaughnessy in reference to the proposed Campbellford, Lake Ontario and Western Railway. A communication was sent to Sir Thomas asking for an interview on a certain date, but in reply the president of the C.P.R. stated that owing to the need of so many other lines throughout the whole system the construction of the branch referred to is an absolute impossibility.

Evidently we must wait for a decade or so longer for a competing line of railroad. The charter for the proposed line runs out this year.

Until we can supply freight and transportation enough from Campbellford to make another railroad a paying proposition there is little liklihood of our getting one.

The increase in the capacity of the Trent Valley Woollen Mill, together with the establishment of the new pulp mill will do much towards furthering the cause which is not only of deep concern to the people of Campbellford but the township of Seymour and adjacent municipalities.

In the meantime what is being done by the Electric Railway Company at Port Hope?

ASCENSION DAY SERVICE HELD

This is Ascension Day, and is religiously observed by the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches when special devotions are held in observance of the ascension of our blessed Lord.

There were four masses celebrated at St. Peter's Cathedral this morning, at 6, 8, 9 and 10 o'clock.

At St. John's, St. Luke's, and All Saints' churches the Holy Communion was celebrated this morning.

WEST PETERBORO' ELECTION PROTEST; RUMIORS DENIED

From time to time electrifying despatches usually from Ottawa, concerning the West Peterborough election protest are furnished by telegram to the press throughout the Dominion. Mr. Burnham has felt called upon to deny some of these. The despatches of recent date quoted below, contain further incorrect and wholly unwarranted statements regarding this protest. One is contained in the Ottawa Journal of May 19th;

> "It is asserted on reliable authority that all Federal election protests in Quebec and Manitoba will be dropped, as will also protests in Ontario, with two exceptions. These are North Lanark, for which Mr Thoburn is sitting member and West Peterborough, which is represented by Hon J R. Stratton. These would have been included in the arrangement but for some local difficulties It seems to be generally understood on both sides here that all the petitions will be dropped."

and the other is from The Globe of the same date;

> 'Ottawa, May 18— Special —It is understood that the only election protests out of many entered after the elections last October are those of West Peterborough against Hon. J R Stratton and North Lanark against Mr. Thoburn. Even in this case a saw-off may yet be arranged, as the Conservative leaders are seeking to induce Mr Stratton's opponent in West Peterborough to waive the protest.'

Mr. Burnham, the petitioner, expresses himself as surprised at the continued attempts of apparently interested parties to mislead public opinion throughout the Dominion regarding the West Peterborough election protest. No step in the process has been avoidably delayed by the petitioner or his solicitors by one moment. The time of trial has been secured at the earliest possible date, September 7th. Mr Stratton's examination for discovery will take place on June 10th. No Conservative leader has expressed anything but a very strong opinion that saw-offs should be made impossible, that no saw-off should be considered in this or any other case, and that corruption, if shown to exist, should be punished accordingly. It is true that some parties personally interested, have sought to induce Mr. Burnham to agree to a general adjustment but the proposal has not been considered for one moment nor will it be. Mr. Burnham wired The Globe once more in an attempt to head off further fake despatches and the associated press correspondent has been furnished with a short interview for general distribution by telegraph. This has been done to, if possible, counteract the tenor of the despatches referred to. His message to the Globe appears in that journal today and is as follows;

> "Mr J H Burnham, Mr Stratton's opponent in West Peterborough, telegraphs the Globe as follows;
>
> "Your despatch alleging that the Conservative leaders are seeking to get Mr Stratton's opponent to withdraw the West Peterborough protest is false in every particular. The Conservative leaders do not wish saw-offs at any time. Please state that West Peterborough will be fought to a finish."

THE MONGOLIAN IN GREAT PERIL CAUGHT IN IMMENSE FLOES

Special to the Review.

St. Johns, Nfld. May 20—An attempt to take off the mail and 5000 passengers of the Allan Liner Mongolian failed today. Surrounded on every side by great masses of ice and icebergs gripped firmly in the tightening ice floes with the wind blowing almost a gale toward the land, the liner, unless the wind dies out is liable to be crushed by the irresistable pressure of the ice against her sides. While the passengers are in peril it is possible for them to escape over the ice floes, should it be necessary to abandon the ship.

COUNTY MASTER ARMSTRONG WILL LEAVE FOR THE WEST

On Friday night a meeting will be held at the Orange Hall to say farewell to County Master W. H. G. Armstrong, who is leaving for Saskatchewan to take up the work in connection with sister organizations. Addresses will be delivered and a programme will be given.

County Master Armstrong is one of the most prominent Orangemen in the district, and has always taken a very active and useful interest in Orange affairs. He has been county master for the past three years, and came to Peterborough about nineteen years ago.

SPLENDID PRESENTATION OF "THE DAUGHTER OF JAIRUS"

A splendid presentation of Sir John Stainer's sacred cantata, "The Daughter of Jairus," by the choir of St. John's church, assisted by Mr. Edward Barton, of Toronto, and Miss Helen Davies, of Peterborough, was given in St. John's church last evening. The church was crowded and the rendition of the famous oratorio was thoroughly enjoyed. Many were heard to remark that they had never heard "The Daughter of Jairus" produced in a superior manner. Mr. Barton, of Toronto, stated that he was surprised at the excellent work of the choir. He doubted if it could be given better, number for number, in Toronto. The principals were excellent and the chorus work was of a high standard of excellence.

Miss Helen Davies was in excellent voice, and her solos were superbly given. Mr. Barton is a basso of great ability and appeared to splendid advantage last night.

Mr. Chandler took full advantage of the opportunities at his disposal in his solo, "My hope is in the everlasting."

Mr. Herbert Morphet in his duet with Miss Davies, "Love Divine," was also heard to good advantage.

The great brunt of the work of conducting and accompanying fell on the organist and choirmaster, Mr. R. J. Devey, whose skilful work was the feature of the evening. He was assisted at the organ by Miss Maggie Flowers and Mr. Martin Kilpack, of St. Luke's.

The orchestra played splendidly and added much to the success of the rendition of the oratorio.

The offertory amounted to $56

It is gratifying to think work of this character is appreciated to its true value in Peterborough. Rev. Canon Davidson most impressively read the story of the miracle of the raising of the daughter of Jairus, from St. Mark's Gospel, and closed the service with the benediction.

The programme and those taking part were;—

PART I.

Introduction, the Orchestra.

"RAINBOW" MADE SPLENDID TIME

The steamer Rainbow left George street wharf, Peterborough, on Saturday last at 4 p.m. and arrived at Harwood at 5.55. As 15 minutes was lost making a landing at Wallace's Point bridge, the time for the trip was 1 hour and 40 minutes, the distance is about 26 miles. This is, we understand, the fastest time ever made by a passenger steamboat on these waters.—Hastings Star.

That Sign

Visitors to this great industrial and educational city will likely be astounded at the facilities we have here for the education of the young, but they will receive quite a shock if they are sufficiently interested to read the sign at the north-west corner of Central Park, on which some very erratic spelling is shown. The word "trespass" is spelt "Trees-pass" and "Horticultural reads this way, "Hortocuicultural."

1.30.—Special—Somebody got wise and took the sign down.

Manitoba sold $762,000 four per cent bonds for 99.51.

POLE LINES

The age of pole lines is past. That of underground conduit trenches has succeeded. No doubt the next move on the part of our city fathers will be to make arrangements for an underground municipal distributing plant. The energy displayed by our aldermen in their desire to provide Peterborough with all the power necessary for a rapid expansion of the city both in population and extent, will commend itself to everybody. Reconciling rival interests and preserving public safety and control will be best attained by considering the question now. Electric power has suddenly become the philosopher's stone, which is transforming the whole scheme of manufacturing. It would be suicidal to neglect our present opportunities to secure it and it is gratifying to find that our civic representatives are fully alive to the situation. The idea that it is possible to have us guarantee by contracts for power the bonds of any company in the open market is not a new one. The difficulty of developing ought to be solved by the direct method however and not by the indirect.

CONTRACT HAS BEEN COMPLETED

The F. R. J. McPherson Co. Have Finished the Plumbing, Wiring and Installing of the Electric Fixtures at the Armouries

The F R J. McPherson Co. have completed their contract for the plumbing, wiring and installing the electric fixtures in the new armories which will be formally opened on May 24th. All the work has been thoroughly inspected by a Government official and he reports everything from the most important down to the smallest detail of the work has been attended to in an efficient and capable manner.

This should be pleasing news to the members of the firm and citizens alike. To undertake such a large enterprise and carry it through successfully reflects great credit on those who have had charge of the work and the city should feel justly proud of this young and flourishing firm.

THE FIRST FOR MONTHS. Friday night at the Conservatory Music Hall, the opportunity will be afforded to hear the 57th Band in a well selected and varied programme, the first of the season, assisted by Miss Julia Choate, the brilliant young violiniste. The repertoire of the band has been extended and all the selections will be new. It is hoped that a large audience will be present. Concert begins at 8 o'clock. Admission 25 cents.

H. LEES WON SCHOOL BOYS' TRIAL RACE AT THE OVAL

The school boys' trial race for the Lakefield-Peterborough relay race, which takes place on May 29th, took place at Nicholls Oval this afternoon and was won by Harold Lees. The distance was one mile, and the time was remarkably fast, 5 min. 1 3-5 sec. As far as is known this is a record for the track. W. Eastwood was second, and H. Hill third. The others finished in the following order: Fourth, F. Halpany; fifth, B. Lees; sixth, R. Laing; seventh, N. Phelan; eighth, V. Miller. There were eleven starters.

Eastwood set a fast clip in the first lap and gained about fifty yards on the field. H. Lees then cut loose and took the lead for the rest of the race, winning by 100 yards. Eastwood finished 25 yards ahead of Hill. Halpany beat out B. Lees for fifth place by inches.

The Collegiate Institute record for one mile is 5 min. 9 sec.

JOHNSON AND O'BRIEN DRAW; O'BRIEN HAD ADVANTAGE

Philadelphia, May 19. — Sporting men from New York, Boston, Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburg and Chicago saw Jack Johnson and Jack O'Brien go six rounds to an even break to-night. No gloved fight ever held at the National A.C. in this city attracted so much interest, with the result that at seven o'clock only a handful of reserved seats held by speculators, could be purchased. The arena seats more than 4,0000 persons. The box seats sold at $10 each, reserved chairs on the floor behind them sold at $5 a throw, while $3 secured a lofty perch in the gallery, which surrounded the inside of the big building, once a market place.

Outside of the clubhouse, when the supply of tickets was exhausted were many disappointed fans, who came to see the fight.

Johnson gave a display of nerve this afternoon when he rode up to the arena in a big automobile and notified the managers that he had to have his $5,000 guarantee then and therefor there could be no fight.

The managers at first demurred, but finally handed over the coin. Johnson declared he was in prime condition. He said he intended to force the fight and give O'Brien no chance to do any fancy boxing stunts. By eight o'clock everry seat was sold and the gross receipts amounted to $22,000. While Johnson received cash, O'Brien's share was 30 per cent. of the gross, which netted a handsome sum for the club.

Three tiresome preliminaries prolonged the wait until 10.20 before Johnson, the first to appear, shouldered his way through the crowd in the aisles and climbed into the ring. His reception was cordial, but not enthusiastic, and there was even some hooting by the galleries. O'Brien came on a minute later and sprang nimbly upon the platform. The crowd cheered him frantically. He grasped Johnson's hands perfunctorily and took his corner.

There was little or no public betting on the fight at the ring side. The fact that no decision is allowed on six round bouts in this state was responsible for this. There was some private wagering, however, that O'Brien would have the advantage on points. On this he was favorite at odds of 5 to 4.

"I weigh 162 pounds," said O'Brien, as he sat in his corner while the gloves were being drawn on. Johnson looked 40 pounds heavier as he dropped his big bathrobe.

Stanley Ketchel came forward to be introduced. He shook O'Brien's hand and wished him success, and then crossed and greeted Johnson. The big black fellow eyed Ketchel up carefully, smiling broadly as he acknowledged the greeting.

O'Brien looked to be in splendid shape as he took off the bathrobe. Johnson appeared rather bulky about the waistline, but his splendid muscles stood out in arms and shoulders.

FIRST ROUND.

It was 10.35 when the gong sounded and Johnson rushed O'Brien to the ropes. O'Brien came back with a left to the face, and in the clinch Johnson rushed O'Brien off his feet. O'Brien put a left to the face lightly, but Johnson only grinned and forced O'Brien to the ropes, shoving him to his knees. They feinted and fiddled carefully, O'Brien trying to draw Johnson. Johnson put left on O'Brien's face without damage, and O'Brien landed left to face in return. O'Brien was in and out like a flash, and Johnson set himself for a counter, but it was smothered. O'Brien's quickness of foot stood him in good stead against Johnson. The round was even.

SECOND ROUND.

O'Brien led for the face, but was blocked, and Johnson lifted him off the floor in the clinch that followed. The crowd hooted Johnson, but he only smiled and rushed O'Brien to the ropes. Marvellous ducking saved O'Brien from damage, and they sparred cautiously. O'Brien caught Johnson with a stiff left on the face and the crowd cheered frantically. Johnson rushed him to the ropes, landing left on the body lightly. Both appeared winded, and Johnson waited for O'Brien to lead. Johnson went after O'Brien like a whirlwind, but quick footwork took the Philadelphia man out of harm's way. O'Brien did the cleaner work in this round.

THIRD ROUND.

Johnson missed left and took a light stab in the face in return. O'Brien was in and out like a flash, landing left on the face, but took a stiff left to the stomach at close range. Johnson forced O'Brien, shambling after him rather slowly, and awkwardly missed two lefts and a right for the head. Johnson set himself for O'Brien's head, but was slow in countering and took a left stab on the nose. Johnson went after him viciously, and a left had O'Brien's mouth bleeding. Johnson appeared somewhat winded at the end of the round, which was about even, with O'Brien's work showing cleaner.

FOURTH ROUND.

O'Brien put left to face and took right on body, and they sparred cautiously. O'Brien caught Johnson a jarring smash on the face with his left, and Johnson's mouth showed the effects. Johnson slowed up and waited for O'Brien to lead. The crowd yelled for O'Brien to "come and show him up," but Johnson only grinned and walked in. He caught O'Brien a glancing right on the head and a left on the body, but O'Brien was going away and the blows lacked steam. O'Brien feinted and missed a left swing, going to his knees from the impetus of the blow. Johnson appeared slow and had no advantage in the round. If anything it was to O'Brien's advantage.

FIFTH ROUND.

Johnson caught O'Brien on the face and O'Brien went down, but was up like a flash and fighting strong. Johnson tried to send in his right uppercut that proved so effective with Tommy Burns, but was blocked. A right to the face cut O'Brien's right eye badly, but he came back with a left flush on Johnson's mouth. Johnson rushed viciously, pinned O'Brien to the ropes and weighing him down. O'Brien did most of the leading at this stage, and just as the gong sounded sent a hard left to Johnson's face.

SIXTH ROUND.

They shook hands gingerly for the windup and sparred cautiously. O'Brien led a left, which landed on the body good and hard. Johnson only smiled and held up his hand to indicate he had blocked it. O'Brien rushed in and tried to land on the face and body, but was blocked in his efforts. Finally he sent a stiff left to the face and took a hard right counter on the head in return. Johnson met O'Brien with a left to the face as he stepped in, and the round ended in a clinch.

CAMPBELLFORD WANTED GAME

Campbellford telephoned Manager Art Johnston of last year's Petes, and wanted a game here for the 24th. He replied that the game could not be given as there was no team here.

The Campbellford nine then desired a game with a city league team but the time to make arrangements was too short and no grounds were available.

FATHER TIME HAS DEALT KINDLY WITH CHAMPION WALKER W. A. HOAGLAND

Was 47 Years Old Yesterday and Beat His Own 12 Hour Record in His Last Race—Has Lost Only a Dozen Races in Thirty Years Walking—A Wonderful Career.

Forty-seven years of age yesterday, May 19th. In the walking game for 30 years, he has taken part in over 300 walks, has only 12 defeats registered against him. That in a nutshell is the wonderful record of one of the most phenomenal performers the world has ever known, W. A. Hoagland, who is regarded as the champion heel and toe walker of the world. He started walking when he was three months of seventeen years of age, and the most remarkable feature of his career is that he is better now than ever.

The champion showed this at his last walk in Milwaukee, when he broke his own record for twelve hours at three hours a night, making an average of over 6 1-2 miles an hour. He established the previous record for the time at Trenton, N.J., armories last spring.

The longest races Hoagland ever took part in were two 6 day and 6 night events. He walked them within ten days of each other, and won first place in both these 144 hour grinds. There were about 20 entries in each of them. He has lost only one race over 15 miles and he got second in that. It was a six day 12 hour a day go, and Frank Hart won it by a quarter of a mile, Hoagland taking second place.

In the state record books the celebrated Auburn pedestrian is credited as the holder of the 100 mile record. He negotiated the distance in 18 hours 11 minutes continuous walking, defeating C. A. Harriman, who was then the champion long distance walker of the world.

Distance races have been the champion's long suit and he has walked but one one mile race of importance. He obtained second place in that at Stafford Springs, Conn. to W. H. Merk, who stepped the mile in 6.40. Hoagland's time in that race was 6.44, but he has since done a trial mile in 6.33.

In the early 80's in Auburn, N.Y., on a half mile track at the Auburn Driving Park, the "old man," as he is familiarly called on the other side, did 3 miles in 20 minutes and 5 seconds and that is the fastest time it has been covered in, according to the times recorded.

During the thirty years he has been walking Hoagland has probably won more events in his department of athletics than any other man in the world in any other branch of sport. In all his career he has only quit once and that was when Tom Slater beat him in a ten mile race in Syracuse two and a half years ago.

Hoagland walked six miles in this race and was forced to drop out owing to the pain he was suffering from a large blood blister on his heel, which he became inflicted with in a walk a short time before.

The king pin tramper of them all has only had a doctor once in his life and that was when a caught a cold on one occasion when he was out hunting.

"Walking is the most beneficial and natural exercise there is," said the champion, "and it has kept me in magnificent condition all my life. I still feel good for a few more battles before I put my shoes away in the dark closet."

BALL TOSSER'S CORNER

BALL NOT IN PLAY

Rule 36—In case of a foul strike, foul hit ball not legally caught, dead ball, interference with the fielder, or batsman or a fair hit ball, touching a base runner, the ball shall not be considered in play until it be held by the pitcher, standing in his position and the umpire shall have called "play."

BLOCK BALLS

Rule 37, section 1—A block is a batted or thrown ball that is touched stopped or handled by a person not engaged in the game.

Section 2—Whenever a block ball occurs the umpire shall declare it, and base runners may run the bases without liability to be put out until the ball has been returned and held by the pitcher in his box.

Section 3—If the person not engaged in the game should retain possession of a blocked ball or throw or kick it beyond the reach of the fielders, the umpire shall call time, and require each base runner to stop at the base last touched by him until the ball be returned to the pitcher in his position and the umpire shall have called play.

THAT BOY WITH HIS FIRE CRACKERS

Annual Warning Against the Practice of Letting off Firecrackers

The small boy with his bunch of fire crackers is warned not to fall under the eagle eye of the officers of the law, now that the time for using these explosives is at hand. The larger cannon crackers are a source of danger in many ways and while there is very little objection to the boy using the smaller kind, as long as he does not try to scare pedestrians, and throw his crackers at the horses, the practice of letting off the large ones with the big noise will not be allowed. This warning applies to the feminine sex as well.

The little drama ended in two more acts, the first a severe curtain lecture and a strict quarantine until graduation day for the fair Juliet and the second a brief hospital scene for the disturbed Romeo, who had encountered the watchman's club at the foot of the ladder.

Miss Imogene of course was furious. Therefore she wrote quite a dozen letters to the afflicted martyr, which she succeeded in smuggling to him, expressing her sentiments in far warmer phrases than otherwise might have been dictated by discretion or were justified by the facts of the case. She felt that her youthful heart—the dear Roderick's leg, to say nothing of his head—was broken irremediably, though the human heart requires a longer time to heal than fractured limb or cranium. But time cured both afflictions, and it came about in this wise:

A few days following his recovery Mr. Fitzgeorge left town between two trains. Many whisperings went around as to the cause of this precipitate departure, and many strange coincidences were noted. Among them was the somewhat prominent mention of a merchant's safe discovered the morning after his departure in a condition resembling Miss Imogene's broken heart. Of all this, however, Miss Chittendon knew nothing, and for many days she mourned. Of course dear Roderick knew nothing about the affair and only left Morristown because his leave of absence had expired or because he was angry at the residents or—but, whatever his reason, Miss Imogene was sure it was a good one. However that might be, from Mr. Fitzgeorge's point of view it was an imperative one.

With the lapse of time and with the advent of other objets d'affection—as her Cornelius Van der Awe, for instance—this love passage was dropped from Miss Chittenden's memory, especially as she had never heard from the recreant Roderick until he was brought rudely to her recollection by the receipt that morning of a fateful letter.

In this document Mr. Roderick Fitzgeorge advised her briefly that, owing to several unhappy circumstances, he was forced to leave for the far west and, being lightly supplied with funds, would be grateful if she could spare her devoted lover a hundred dollars for the journey.

In case she found it inconvenient he still had in his possession a dozen letters which would not look well if printed in the newspapers. In case she did find it convenient to make the loan, which, knowing her generous nature, her correspondent did not doubt, she was first to tie a piece of white string on the left post of the Renwycks' front gate as a signal of assent, then open the library window at 8 o'clock on Friday night, when Mr. Fitzgeorge would enter, exchange her letters for the sum above mentioned and bid her an eternal farewell. If Miss Chittendon played him false—of which perish the thought—a friend had copies of said correspondence which would immediately be published, together with the garbled details of the former romance, a condition undesirable for a lady so widely known in the social world. The letter ended with the hope that Miss Chittendon was enjoying good health and spirits and that she might persuade herself to meet him on Friday, as requested.

To say that Miss Imogene was terrified would be putting it mildly. Her resulting condition bordered upon complete collapse, mental and physical.

"Oh, Harriet, Harriet!" she sobbed. "Whatever shall I do?"

"My dear," returned her friend as she bathed the sufferer's temples with cologne, "it is perfectly simple. You need give yourself no uneasiness. Father will quietly put the matter in the hands of the police. We will then tie the white string on the gatepost, and when this wretch enters the library window he will find himself in the arms of our officers, and we will not only have the letters, but the man."

Miss Renwyck's plan was based upon wisdom and sound common sense, yet to the frightened Miss Imogene it was the worst possible thing to do. She felt certain that if caught the man would put his threat into execution and expose the copies of her letters to the eager gaze of society. To prevent such a happening she would gladly pay five times the sum demanded. Therefore she decided hysterically that Harriet's plan was out of the question.

"Oh, Harriet, dear," she wailed, "you don't know how silly my letters were, and I'd go through anything to get them back again. Why, the pet names I called that creature—good gracious, Harriet—they were positively mushy!"

"What did you call him?" asked Miss Renwyck, humorously interested in this phase of the romance.

"'Roddy-poddykins' was one," confessed the debutante, with a vivid blush. "Then there were a whole lot more like that and worse—really, darling, I'd rather not tell them even to you. I should die of shame if Mr. Van der Awe or Lord Croyland or any one knew."

Miss Renwyck smiled, while the indiscreet Juliet went on tying her handkerchief into hard, wet knots.

"I've just got to see him, Harriet. I know I shall be just scared to death; but, no matter what you say, I'll not allow you to tell a single solitary soul, and if I'm found dead on the library floor in the morning nobody will care anyway—so there!"

The sufferer's state now became so alarming that her friend was forced to suggest another plan. It was against her better judgment, but something had to be done at once, for otherwise Miss Imogene would never be in a condition to act the part of the bird in the play that evening.

"Imogene," she said sternly, "stop crying this instant and listen to me. I believe you will do a very wrong thing in seeing Mr. Fitzgeorge in the middle of the night, but of course I have no right to interfere against your wishes. I am older than you, and I tell you candidly I don't like it. How much money have you with you?"

"Fifty dollars, and I'll give him jewelry enough to make up the balance."

"That won't be necessary. I'll lend you whatever you need, and if you still insist upon seeing the man I will go down with you."

In an instant more two very shaky little arms were twined about Miss Renwyck's neck and a sobby voice was pouring delirious thanks into her ears.

When the fear of creeping down a flight of dark stairs alone was eased by the thought of companionship the sentimental young lady began to view the affair in an entirely different light. It would be an adventure which appealed to her strongly. There would be no earthly danger, she argued, as each could be a protection to the other, while if the worst came to the worst their screams would quickly summon aid.

The more Miss Imogene thought of it the more excited she became, declaring finally that she would gladly pay $100—which somebody else had earned for her, by the way—just for the fun of the thing. She felt now that she had exaggerated the possibility of danger, as the wretched, disgraceful man was after money only and would go away instantly he had received it.

"You see," she explained, "he shows his intentions are not bad by his very letter. If he had asked me to meet him outside in the dark somewhere I shouldn't have dared, but coming here into the library, where we can call for assistance, shows that he means no harm."

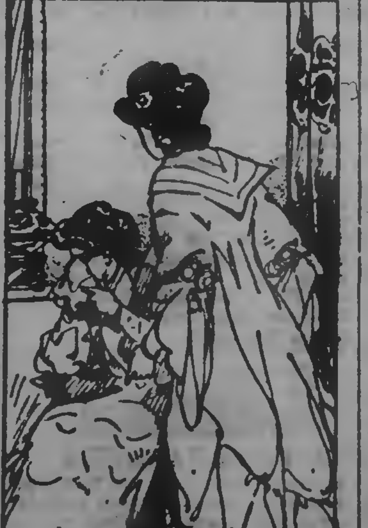
"But suppose he should not come alone?" suggested Miss Harriet.

"But he will," the other continued. "Besides, you and I will stand in the door on the opposite side of the room, and the moment we see two men instead of one, why, then, dear, we'll just begin to scream 'Fire!' or something like that, and then we can say we heard a noise and came down. Oh, Harriet, precious, do go and find a piece of white string!"

Miss Renwyck was not convinced. She did not lack courage for a woman, nor had she any actual fear of this man, who was clearly an ordinary petty blackmailer who tried to make profit out of an innocent schoolgirl's foolish correspondence. She could not imagine any other motive for his coming, inasmuch as the library window would be opened by an inmate of the house and closed and locked again immediately after his departure. Yes, clearly it was blackmail, and if Imogene had her letters returned intact perhaps it was the easiest solution after all.

"What sort of a looking person is this Mr.—er—Roddy-poddykins?" she asked, with a smile.

"Now, please do not call him that," begged Miss Imogene. "It makes me feel like such a silly. Side face he is very handsome, you know, but full face—well, there is something the matter with one of his eyes."



"Stop crying this instant and listen to me."

"How do you mean?"

"Oh, I don't know!" she answered doubtfully. "He is looking at you all the time, you understand, but his eye seems to be pointing somewhere else. I think they call it a cast."

"Oh," said Miss Renwyck. "Uncle Michael told me never to trust a person with—with a cast in his eye!"

"Did he?" asked the debutante. "I wonder why. Oh, well, I'll never trust one—never again. Now, come on, precious, and let's tie the string on the gatepost!"

CHAPTER XVI.

UPON this eventful Friday, which might justly be termed "black" by the various persons connected with this narrative, two more gentlemen mentioned herein had occasion to use the telegraph lines vigorously.

The first was the Hon. Mr. Frank Kinwalt, member of the upper house of the Texas legislature and chairman of the state improvement committee thereof. Contrary to Mr. Renwyck's positive statement, the distinguished legislator had not gone back to Austin. Instead he had quietly stopped over in Washington, held close communication with several mighty officials, then wired frantically to his most trusted lieutenant, the vice chairman of the state improvement committee at Austin, in a cipher code. These communications were imperative orders concerning the passage of a certain deep water harbor bill.

The Hon. Mr. Kinwalt while in New York had held several conferences of a delicate nature, including that luncheon at Sherry's and other meals of a similar character elsewhere, and now deemed it expedient to be far away from the capital of Texas during the passage of the said harbor bill; therefore he gave the matter absent treatment, so to speak, though his meek associates on the committee carried out their leader's instructions to the letter. They had enjoyed no dinners in New York, but they were confident in a certain hope of at least partaking of the dessert vicariously through Mr. Kinwalt.

The other person interested in telegraphy was the heavy hearted Mr. Bill Williams, himself en route for New York. Half a day before he reached Buffalo he received a dispatch from his son Richard, and for a quarter of an hour he was radiantly happy; then he received a second one couched in the same words, and it puzzled him, especially in the earnest warning to return to Texas at once and watch his harbor scheme. At Buffalo he received a sheaf of yellow envelopes which resembled a fine poker hand, in that there were four of them—all of the same kind.

In highly ornate language the cattle king expressed his belief that a trick was being played on him by his enemies, so he left the train and sought the nearest telegraph office. His friend, Mr. Loger, had failed to state the name of the hospital in which the son lay dying, and Mr. Bill Williams had not seen in the San Antonio papers the dispatch about his son, so the father wired all the hospitals in New York for information and lost three hours' time in waiting for answers. He received a number of replies from various institutions, eight of which disclaimed all knowledge of the patient, while the ninth advised him that Mr. Richard Williams of San Antonio, Tex., was truly confined in St. Luke's hospital and that his condition was not so favorable, owing to an increase of fever. Bill Williams was convinced some crafty trick was being hatched, but he hoped later on to settle with the hen. Meanwhile, whatever happened, he must go to his boy. He sent one more telegram and then hastened on to New York by the next train.

This telegram, addressed to Mr. Richard Williams, was received at St. Luke's hospital, and a pretty, fresh checked nurse took it to Lord Croyland's room.

"A telegram, Mr. Williams. Shall I open it for you?"

"Please," said the earl, with the listless indifference of a very sick man. "I dare say it is some beastly business matter. Read it."

The girl complied, reading as follows:

Buffalo, N. Y.
Mr. Richard Williams, St. Luke's Hospital, New York:
Cheer up, Dickie. Will be with you tomorrow morning. DAD.

Lord Croyland stared at the uniformed young lady while he fumbled fruitlessly for his monocle among the folds of his nightshirt.

"Rot!" he observed in languid disgust. "Haven't got a dad, you know. Some silly ass is trying to come a cropper."

The nobleman then turned on his pillow and closed his eyes, while the fair attendant looked thoughtful, took the patient's temperature and made a memorandum to the effect that his mind had begun to wander.

Meanwhile matters at Irvington were dragging along unsatisfactorily. The last rehearsal of the play had resulted in a spirited quarrel between Miss Imogene and her dismal fiance. Mr. Van der Awe was a champion of realism, even on the stage. He considered it the height of absurdity for a passionate lover to imprint kisses upon his adored one's theatrical wig near the region of her left ear.

"But, good gracious me," stormed the indignant bird, with a dangerous snap in her big blue eyes, "don't you have enough realism when we are alone? If you think I'm going to let you kiss me before all those people you are very much mistaken. Now, one more word and we'll leave out that part altogether, sir! No, don't speak to me! Don't come near me! I think you are perfectly hateful and ridiculous. How I was ever weakminded enough to engage myself to you at all is more than I can understand. So don't tempt me!"

The argument had become somewhat one sided, so the dismal one retreated from the field of action, crestfallen, but unconvinced on matters pertaining to realism. He was a practical young man, however, and decided to kiss the wig in the region of its wearer's left ear for the present. Later—ah!

Richard had made several desperate attempts at a tete-a-tete with Miss Harriet, but found her nervous, distrait and unsympathetic to his advances. She acted as though some shadow of impending trouble lay upon her mind, so the Texan gave up in despair, took a short lesson in British etiquette from the much subdued Bills and then went for a solitary horseback ride.

His deception could not be kept up much longer, for troubles were gathering above him like Longfellow's soaring vultures, and he fancied he knew one sick and wounded bison that would shortly be pecked to pieces, hoof and hide. And yet, no matter what happened, he would brazen it out to the bitter end. If he could only win the girl before the inevitable crash, then nothing else would matter—nothing!

Shortly after dinner the final preparations were made for the evening's entertainment. A tiny stage had been constructed at one end of the double drawing room and was provided with handsome plush curtains designed to slide upon a wire—when they worked properly, which was infrequent—which when opened revealed a dainty interior scene. The drawing room was arranged with chairs to accommodate the guests, who began to arrive shortly after dinner, and Restmore soon became a sparkle of lights and laughter. A gong announced the opening of the theater doors, and the audience crowded in, took their seats and waited with a flutter of excitement.

Mrs. Renwyck had agreed to speak the prologue, but at the last moment her courage forsook her, and she vowed she would sink through the floor if forced to face her guests. Arguments and encouragements were alike in vain, so Richard was prevailed upon to take her place, which he did, scrambling through somehow, assisted by a British drawl and his ever faithful monocle. To judge by a flattering chorus of feminine approval, he made the hit of the evening, though in describing his stage fright afterward he used a most un-English simile.

"'Pon my word," he confessed. "I felt as if I had swallowed a live jack rabbit that was trying to bolt eleven ways at once. Fancy!"

The play went off without a hitch, except for one trifling incident which came near spoiling it altogether. The dismal Mr. Van der Awe, true to his principles on realism, forgot about the wig and committed the indiscretion of kissing the bird plump upon her tempting lips, whereupon the ruffled ingenue gave him a most realistic box on the ears, forgot her lines and started in on an inpromptu but spontaneous denunciation. This, in a measure, made Miss Renwyck's subsequent part fall flat, but no one in the audience seemed to know the difference, while both the man and bird agreed afterward that it improved the play.

If Miss Renwyck failed to be impressive in the great denunciation scene, the same could not be said of her personal appearance. She was dressed in an evening gown of soft, dull black, which brought out the snowy whiteness of her throat and arms. In her thick dark tresses a great tiara glowed and sparkled, rivaling, it seemed, the riviere of splendid gems about her neck, while at her breast blazed a mammoth brooch. Fashioned in the form of an eagle with outstretched wings, a shimmering blaze of light, the proud bird stood as an emblem of its country's wealth and daring, perched on the bosom of a princess of the free.

To Richard, in his present state of mind, Harriet seemed the most radiantly perfect creature yet produced since the world began. As she bowed behind the footlights for the second time to an enthusiastic encore a large bouquet of American Beauties was tossed upon the stage, and Miss Harriet blushed as she stooped for this most apposite tribute to her own charms. When safely behind the curtains she glanced at a card attached, which bore two words, "An American." This signature was vague, yet somehow Miss Renwyck picked the donor out from myriads of gentlemen who might better have claimed the title, and again she blushed as she buried her face among the fragrant buds.

"How splendid of him!" she whispered to her roses. "If only he had been my cowboy perhaps—perhaps"—

But the rest was a secret which the roses never told.

One by one the guests departed, but not till the last of them was driven away on the gravel road did Richard find an opportunity for a word alone with his ladylove. He was seated in a darkened nook on the front veranda, sheltered from the light by thick wistaria vines. He had lighted a cigar and was dreaming, as he smoked, of how beautiful she was, when suddenly he caught the swishing sound of skirts, and she took a wicker rocker by his side.

"Lord Croyland," she murmured softly. "I knew it was you by the smell of your cigar."

Richard was not a connoisseur as regards tobacco, and he wondered idly if the real Lord Croyland's favorite brand was up to the standard of this doubtful compliment. Miss Harriet continued:

"I'm glad I found you alone, for I want to thank you for these." She held her sheaf of roses toward him. "It was dear of you to send them, and it pleased me more than I can say."

"Nonsense," he laughed. "No flower that ever grew is worthy of you. That sounds foolish, I suppose, for many people must have said the same before, but I mean it simply, honestly."

"Thank you," she said softly, and both for a time were silent.

"Miss Harriet," he ventured presently, "you are beautiful tonight." He checked her pleased laugh and continued earnestly, "I don't mean that you are not beautiful always, but I have never seen you in black before, and"—

"How absurd!" she smiled. "I shall soon begin to think you like all the rest, a flatterer—just a flatterer"—

"No, no," he protested warmly; "it is more than that, believe me. I want to carry away with me forever the memory of you as you looked tonight. I must leave soon. I'm going home."

"Back to England?" she asked, a tremor in her voice.

"No, to Texas."

"What?"

Richard caught himself just in time.

"Well—er—well, you see," he stammered, "you have turned me into such a good American that I think of your country now as being quite my own. I lived down there for nearly a year, you know, and now—and now business calls me back again."

Once more they were silent for a little space.

"And are you not coming north again?" she asked him nervously.

"It depends," said Richard the Brazen, smiling into the wistaria vine. "Listen, Miss Harriet. I want to ask you something. No, it isn't a question. It is only a flower. I would like to take just one of those roses to a cowboy down in Texas. I will find him if I can, and I know it will make him happier than anything else in all the world. May I have the rose?"

His tone was sad and low, but Harriet's tone was lower still when she answered haltingly:

"No; you need not take it to my hero of the plains. No doubt he has forgotten me—if he ever thought of me—as I shall cease to think of him. What should a cowboy do with a flower? And yet—I will not be ungenerous. To me you have given all these. Take one and keep it for yourself."

With a trembling hand she laid a rose upon his lap, but Richard forgot the flower and caught the hand.

"You mean," he whispered eagerly, "that I might one day take his place; that I"—

"No, no," she protested, striving for release; "I—I gave a flower, no more!"

"No more!" he echoed. "Only that when I ask for—all?"

"Don't, please," she faltered.

"I must speak! I will!" he cried, swept away by the hour and the chance. "I had hoped to teach you to love me for myself—to realize that we do not belong to different lands and climes—for I am not"—

"Harriet!"

Under authority of an Order-in-Council dated 22nd April, 1909, the northerly portion of that tract of land generally known as the Gillies Limit, situated in the District of Nipissing, and Province of Ontario, containing about 800 acres, is offered for sale by tender in parcels containing 20 acres or thereabouts, such tenders to be addressed to the undersigned at the Department of Lands, Forests and Mines, Toronto, marked on the envelope "Tender, Gillies Limit," and to be receivable at the said Department up to one o'clock p.m. on Tuesday, the 15th day of June, 1909.

Tenders are to be for each parcel separately, and to name a lump sum or bonus therefore. An accepted cheque for ten per cent. of this amount to accompany the tender, and the remainder to be paid in full within twenty days of acceptance of the same.

A royalty of ten per cent. on the gross proceeds (less freight and smelting charges) of all ores, minerals or concentrates taken from the land will be payable to the Crown, and purchasers will be required to enter into a satisfactory agreement with regard to the same.

Working conditions will be attached to the sale, and certain lands and rights will be reserved, full particulars of which, together with a map or plan showing the said tract, and the subdivisions thereof, may be obtained on application to the Department.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

F. COCHRANE,
Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines.

SLASHED THE GIRL'S TRESSES IN DARK OF THE THEATRE

A Despicable Piece of Vandalism in The Theatre at Toronto Which Robbed Little Girl of Her Hair.

One of the most despicable acts for which vandalism could be responsible was committed on Saturday afternoon, when the twelve-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Frankenberger, seated at a moving picture show, found that five inches of her hair had been scissored from her head by an unknown person in the seat behind.

The young girl, a very pretty child, and the daughter of highly respected parents, was allowed to attend the afternoon performance at the Majestic Theatre unaccompanied.

Her beautiful mass of hair was hanging loose across her shoulders and down to her waist. In the course of the entertainment a thrilling picture film was thrown on the screen, which necessitated the lights in the house being dimmed. Suddenly Miss Frankenberger tossed her head to one side in the fashion of a child, and noticed that the lower half of the silken hair had been cut from her head. In alarm, she hurried home and told the story to her parents. In company with the manager of the Majestic, Mr. Frankenberger made a thorough examination of the seats near the one held by his daughter, but no trace of hair was visible. Nor was there any mark across the back of the child's seat which would hint at the work of a boy's knife. The conclusion reached was that a pair of sharp scissors had been brought to the theatre deliberately by a young girl, who had committed the offence either from jealousy or the belief that the hair could be sold.

The parents of the child have visited the theatre several times in the hope of getting some clue to the vandal's identity, and yesterday Mr. Frankenberger stated that the name of the guilty party was known to him. Owing to the hurried slashing across the child's head, it has necessitated the further cutting of the hair, until fully five or six inches have been removed.

In no way is the Majestic Theatre management to blame for the act, and every aid has been given Mr. Frankenberger to trace the offender.

CITY AND COUNTY TEACHERS ARE IN CONVENTION HERE

City Institute Meeting at Collegiate Institute and County Pedagogues at Normal School — Joint Session This Afternoon—Penny Bank System Discussed.

The annual convention of the City Teachers' Institute began this morning in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute and was well attended. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted, and a notice of motion to appoint a paid secretary was introduced. The treasurer's report showed a substantial balance on hand. The President of the Teachers' Institute, Mr. W. J. Dunlop, gave a very interesting address in which the matter of the education of the dull pupil was the principal feature. In the discussion which followed tending to the development of slow and dull pupils, several schemes were suggested. There is a possibility that the near future will be either a system of separate instruction of these pupils or more individual instruction. The appointment of the nominating committee was the next order of business, and one representative from each of the city schools, was selected. Mr. H. A. Yenny read a very instructive paper on the treatment of English grammar. He also introduced a special question, namely, the teaching of the subjects not required for entrance examinations. History, he thought, should not have been dropped from the lists of necessary subjects. An interesting discussion led by Messrs. S. J. Stubbs and W. O'Brien followed. The introduction of the penny bank was discussed by the Principals of the different schools, and a committee composed of the above, assisted by the Inspector of the local Public schools, and the Superintendent of the Separate schools, was appointed to meet the representatives of the Penny Bank System and look into the matter.

A joint meeting of the city and county teachers is being held at the Normal school this afternoon.

COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The County Teachers' Association assembled in the Normal School hall this morning at 10 o'clock, with the president, Mr. Joseph Frappy, in the chair.

The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting which were confirmed.

Miss McGregor reported the proceedings of the OEA. She gave a full report of the resolutions adopted by the Public School Department, dealing with; a, A new curriculum; b. New public school readers; c, Public school leaving examinations; d, Teachers' certificates; e, The advisory council; f, Public school regulations, g, Superannuation of teachers; h, The local associations; i, The public press. Miss McGregor gave an excellent account of the proceedings. Her paper showed preparation and thought.

Inspectors Brown and Lees made some well chosen remarks on the report. Mr Brown spoke briefly on promotion examinations and urged teachers not to promote pupils before they were fit for promotion.

PETERBORO' MAN THINKS WELL OF WESTERN CANADA

Mr. Fred A. MacFadden, formerly of Peterborough, and now of Abernethy, Sask., who has been in the city on a visit, will leave in a short time for the west and will take up farming with his brother, Mr. E. C. MacFadden, also a former resident of Peterborough. Their farm is situated southwest of Moosejaw, and each has half a section, 320 acres. For some time Mr. MacFadden has resided in Abernethy, Sask.

Mr. MacFadden in discussing the west with the Review took an optimistic view of that part of Canada which he pronounced the best of the Dominion.

"A man in business out there," he stated, "has twice the opportunity to make good that he would have in the east."

He states that the crop prospects excellent and the general consternation caused by the poor season two years ago has all vanished.

ST. CATHARINES REGIMENT ALL READY FOR PETERBORO' TRIP

St. Catharines, May 20—The regiment will entrain for Peterborough on Saturday, 22nd inst, at 10.15 pm, leave at 10.30. Baggage must be on the train by 8.30 pm. Capt Cozzens will be transport officer. Parade states must be in the hands of the adjutant ten minutes before entraining. Each unit will arrange to take helmets and tunics in company boxes. Great coats will be carried slung on the right shoulder in kit bags. Officers commanding companies will post bayonet sentries. Requisitions for blankets—two per man—corresponding exactly with the parade states must also be in the adjutant's hands ten minutes before entraining. Officers commanding companies will be held strictly responsible for stores and blankets issued to their respective commands going and returning and until the same are returned to the quartermaster. The adjutant will sign requisition for stores issued to the Bands, Signalling Corps and to the Medical Officer for the Bearer section.

Six recruits were taken on by the Bands, for going to the Bugle Band. The Signalling Corps and the Bearer Corps took on one new man each; A company took two; B company two; C company six; D company one; E company one; F company two.

The last drill before the Peterborough trip will take place on Thursday evening when all members of the regiment must be on hand.

Most satisfactory arrangements have been made for the comfort of the men in Peterborough and the most enjoyable trip in the history of the regiment is assured for Victoria Day.

THE Y.M.C.A. AT WORK IN MONTANA; AN OBJECT LESSON

A year ago the "toughest place in the world," was said to be Taft, Mont. It had one store, twenty-six saloons and an undertaking establishment. Two years ago it did not even exist; but the construction of a great tunnel on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad called it into existence with a population of a thousand men. "With the men came all those vicious institutions which prey upon them—saloons, houses of ill-fame, and gambling dens." The story of its redemption which is said to read "like a passage from the Gospels," is given in The Home Herald, of Chicago, and runs in this wise:

"The YMCA. has attacked similar problems in other places with success but even those who knew its work discouraged any attempt at Taft. The town, they said, was too tough. In the face of this well meant advice, Mr Morrison, a secretary of the association, went onto the ground, and with the help of the company established a pleasant and attractive Y.M.C.A. room. Up to this time the men had been cashing their pay checks in saloons, there being no other place to cash them. Mr Morrison arranged with a banker in a near-by town to undertake this business. On the next day the money was shipped into Taft, and Mr Morrison, armed with a revolver, rode with it from the train to the camp. There he cashed the checks, encouraging the men to leave over all surplus funds with him for deposit in the bank. The result was that over $2000 was left with him all of which, in the regular course of events, would have gone over the bars. Opposition grew hot against him, of course, and on two occasions the saloonkeepers caused his arrest on the charge of carrying concealed weapons. At other times they threatened his life, and a threat is no idle thing in Taft where the melting of the snow each spring discloses the skeletons of men killed during the winter. None of these things deterred him, however; he continued to fight the liquor element and urge the strict enforcement of the laws. With the aid of the sheriff, who stood at his side with drawn revolver, he gathered a company and held meetings before the most notorious resort. In spite of the piano inside and the jeering crowds in the windows, the Gospel finally conquered; men and women were drawn out of the houses to gather about the cart which served as a pulpit, and more than one found eternal life.

"The great test came on Christmas of last year, when the camp was given its first birthday. So certain was the foreman that the majority of his workmen would be incapacitated for labor through drink, that he took the precaution of ordering 200 extra men to start work on the twenty-sixth. Gamblers, prostitutes and bootleggers flocked into town in anticipation of the day. But Mr. Morrison was ready for them. On the night before Christmas he held a meeting in the camp and talked the matter over with the boys. There, after prayer and a brief speech, they pledged themselves to fool the whole crowd of devils by boycotting the town on Christmas. A tree was arranged in the camp, a phonograph played during the day and Mr Morrison showed pictures in the afternoon and evening. The result—wonderful to every one from the superintendent down—was that only two men out of the whole number were unable to report for work next day and the gamblers in disgust declared that 'there was not enough money spent in Taft to pay for calling a quorum.'

"Those who approved the experiment said, 'Don't preach religion; just make yourselves useful to the men.' But it was preaching which the men wanted. They said to Mr Morrison time and again, 'Don't close your meeting, partner, until you pray for us.' It was the distinctly religious element in the work which made its success possible. Taft has proved again what needed no proof, and there is 'no other name under heaven by which men can be saved.'"

The success of the work in Taft and in other construction camps has encouraged the international committee of the YMCA. to extend this work to all the camps in the country; and contractors and railroads are said to be contributing generously to this end "recognizing that no sum is too large to pay in return for sobriety and steadiness in the men."

DRIVER WAS INJURED

Thrown Out of Delivery Wagon—Auto Frightened Horse

About 9 o'clock this morning a horse attached to a delivery wagon became frightened at an automobile on Aylmer street. The animal immediately cut loose and ran away, narrowly missing an old lady who was crossing the road.

Chief Howard, who was passing, carried the driver into a nearby house, where his injuries were attended to by a physician.

Is Active in the Interests of His Constituents.

Special to the Review.

Keene, May 19—Through Mr. J. A. Sexsmith, M.P., Keene Public school has been presented with an up-to-date map of Canada. The map is issued by the direction of the Minister of the Interior, and is a very neat production, being well adapted for Public school use.

Mr. Sexsmith has forwarded to each family attending school an Atlas of Canada. This is a modern geography of the Dominion, being amply illustrated and containing a map of each province, as well as the British Isles and Canada. This is also issued by the direction of Hon. Frank Oliver.

Of course these things are in reality the property of the people, but it speaks well for the live representative of East Peterborough, who has been successful in supplying a large number of the schools of his riding with this valuable literature of the department.

FOUR BOYS PERISH IN FIRE AT TORONTO

Sons of Edward Oldfield of Wychwood, Aged Two, Three, Five and Seven Years, Die in Fire Caused by Explosion of Lamp.

Toronto, May 21.—Four young children of Edward Oldfield, harness maker, in the employ of Samuel Tress & Co., were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the home of the Oldfields at the corner of Wychwood avenue and Vaughan road, Wychwood, about 10 o'clock last night.

The wife of Mr. Oldfield and her eldest son Ernest, were also slightly burned and cut with glass, but will recover. They were taken to the house of a neighbor, Mr Hudson, where they were given medical treatment.

The mother was putting her five children to bed when a lamp exploded in her hand. She threw it downstairs, and in the excitement of the moment put her eldest boy, Ernest, out of a storey and a half window and jumped out after him. The blazing lamp started a conflagration, which spread rapidly and the distracted mother was unable to get back into the house after her little ones.

Four boys, Eddie, aged 2; Fred, aged 3; Willie, aged 5, and Charles, aged 7, were in bed, and before any of the neighbors arrived, the house had been almost completely destroyed. Two hours afterwards the charred bodies were taken from the ruins by the firemen and held for the arrival of Coroner Gilmour of West Toronto.

John Hilton, Wesley Moore and Mr. Rigby, made several vain efforts to reach the bedroom where the four Oldfield boys were asleep, but were forced out of the house by the consuming flames.

MONGOLIAN IS STILL FAST BUT UNINJURED AT ST. JOHN'S

Sealing Steamer Diana is Working Hard to Get to Big Vessel's Assistance in Order to Cut Her Free, But is Still Three Miles Off—Five Persons Make Their Way to Shore Over Hummocks of Ice.

St. John's, Nfld., May 21. A party of passengers from the Allan Line steamship Mongolian landed last evening. They reported that the ship is safe and uninjured. The sealing steamer Diana, bound for St. John's, was diverted from her course last night to try and cut out the Mongolian, but was unable to get within two or three miles of her.

During the evening a heavy swell caused the Mongolian to rise and fall, but no damage was caused. It is thought that an attempt of the steamer Diana to open a lane between the Mongolian and the narrow harbor opening will be successful by to-night, thus freeing the great steamer from her bondage of many hours. That this will be possible was apparently indicated in the release of the coastal steamer Prospero, which yesterday managed, unassisted, to extricate herself from the ice-field.

The experiences of the five passengers of the Mongolian who successfully crossed the uneven ice-field between the ocean liner and the shore, assured the others that a ready, and fairly safe avenue of escape was available. The Diana will resume her attempt to force a passage to the Allan boat to-day.

Under the impulse of the steady southward trend of the Labrador current the Mongolian last night was a considerable distance farther from the entrance to the harbor than the position which she occupied the night before. On all sides of the steamer stretched an almost compact, although irregular covering of ice, which to the east, in the direction of the sea, was in some places twenty-five miles off shore.

One of the most interesting of the many features which have marked the detention of the big steamer, was the walk across the ice from the steamer yesterday of five passengers, among them two women. They were Dr. McPherson and wife, Dr. Hunt, Miss McPherson, and a Mr. Stephenson, hand-in-hand, with the men ever watchful for the safety of their women companions, the little party mounted hummock after hummock, and on particularly smooth ice cakes, even slid with the abandon of their childhood days. They were anxiously watched from both the steamer and from the shore. When they reached the borders of the ice-fields at the harbor mouth, where Wednesday the Prospero was held up, a tug was awaiting them. So far as Dr. McPherson had observed, the steamer had sustained no serious damage, and was not leaking.

DEATH ENDS A LONG JOURNEY

Walkerton, May 21.—C. E. Kilmer, electrical engineer, of Toronto and Southampton, aged 40, and brother of George Kilmer, K.C., in alighting from a train Wednesday night fell under the wheels. One leg was mangled and he died from shock. He was returning from Sweden, where he had been on a business trip for his firm, Kilmer, Pullen & Burnham, and was on his way to Southampton to his wife. He intended to stop over night here with his father. He leaves a wife and three small children, one a month old baby. According to one account, Kilmer, in his eagerness to meet his father, went to step off the train before it stopped.

WOULD SETTLE THE CONTROVERSY

Montreal, May 21.—The proceedings of the Montreal Methodist district meeting yesterday were enlivened by a discussion which arose concerning the controversy existing between Rev. Dr. Workman and the authorities of the Wesleyan Theological College, resulting in a lawsuit. A resolution was carried unanimously: "That with a view to attain a satisfactory termination of the question at issue, out of court, the chairman appoint a committee to do what it can under the circumstances."

Dr. Workman promised meanwhile to leave the legal proceedings in abeyance.

FRANCE STIRRED BY NEW SCANDAL

Paris, May 21.—What is becoming known as l'affaire Marix threatens to involve statesmen, judicial authorities and lawyers in a grave scandal. Marix is a captain of artillery and rapporteur of the council of war at Cherchemidi Prison, the highest military tribunal of the nation. He was arrested on Saturday last on charges of selling pardons. A broker was arrested as his accomplice.

It develops that Marix's office in the council chamber at Cherchemidi Prison was transformed into a kind of office for all manner of illegal transactions, such as traffic in decorations, the purchase of pardons by military delinquents and other operations of a similar nature.

The palace of King Apries of Egypt, a contemporary of the Prophet Jeremiah, has been unearthed at Memphis.

Dr. James M. Barkley of Detroit was elected moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly in the United States.

The Allan steamer Tunisian, which had her bow plates injured in the ice near Newfoundland, has arrived at Quebec with 1,200 passengers.

Reports from different sections of the province indicate that crops are in better condition than was supposed, after the long spell of wet, cold weather.

Fifteen thousand workmen in Paris pretended to be strikers and caused a riot, in which numbers were injured by the police and soldiers who attempted to quell the disturbance.

In lessening danger in navigation and delay in transportation, the submarine bell has become an effective agent and is being adopted by maritime interests generally, according to the hydrographic officers of the U S. navy.

PETERBOROUGH LAWYER ACTING

In Motion for Stated Case for Maurice Ryan Sentenced to be Hanged

Toronto, May 20—Before Mr. Justice Latchford at Osgoode Hall this morning, a motion was made for a stated case for Maurice Ryan, who was sentenced to be hanged for the murder of his brother, F. J Ryan.

The motion was made by Mr D. O'Connell of Peterborough on the ground of imrpoper admission of evidence and misdirection of the jury by the Judge. Mr Ed. Bayly, KC. of the Attorney-General's Department opposed the motion.

Ryan was tried at North Bay by Mr. Justice Latchford.

24TH BATTERY WILL GO TO COBOURG CAMP ON JUNE 21

Has Moved into its Fine New Quarters at the Armouries—Orders Issued by Major T. W. H. Young, Officer Commanding—Other News of the Battery.

The 24th FBCA. has all its stores and equipment moved into its handsome and commodious quarters at the armories and active preparations are being made for the annual camp at Cobourg which will be held commencing June 21st. The officers and men are highly pleased with the battery's quarters at the armories and the increased accommodation and general facilities afforded.

The Government is furnishing the rooms of the Officer Commanding, the orderly room, the quartermaster's stores room and the harness room.

The combined mess rooms will be furnished by the garrison which consists of the Third Dragoons, cavalry, the 24th Field Battery, artillery, and the 57th Regimental Rangers, infantry

A preliminary drill was held by the battery on Tuesday evening. There was a good turnout and the prospects are that several recruits will be added to the battery's strength this year. All recruits wishing to join should call on the officer in command, Major Young, at his residence, 305 Stewart street for the purpose of signing the service roll.

The next drill will be held Thursday evening, May 27th when Quartermaster Sergt. Collins will issue the new uniforms.

SHOULD STABLEMEN KNOW WHO IS ON THE BLACKLIST

Stableman Employed at Hotel Secured Lager and Whiskey From the Barroom for a Person Who is Not Allowed by Law to be Served With Intoxicating Liquor.

A blacklist man was fined $12 60 by Magistrate Dumble this morning at the police court for securing liquor when he had been notified not to do so. The liquor had been secured for him by a stableman employed at a local hotel and although the stableman had been working at the hotel, in the yard and stables and also in the bar room where the blacklist was hung in a conspicuous place, the case against him was dismissed.

Neither party in the case was represented by counsel. Mr W H Moore, KC, conducted the prosecution.

The defendant who received the liquor was first called to the witness box and stated that last Friday he had driven into the yards of the hotel and asked the stableman to get him two bottles of lager and a flask of whiskey and gave him 50 cents to pay for same. He had procured liquor from the same man on a previous occasion and knew he was breaking the law in so doing. The stableman had not drank any of the lager or whiskey nor did the witness know if the stableman knew he was blacklisted. The liquor had been supplied willingly and he had not been asked why he did not get it himself.

The stableman was next called and stated that he had been employed at the hotel for three months. He knew that the person to whom he supplied the liquor had previously been on the blacklist but did not know he was barred from drinking at the present time. He had got the two bottles of lager from the bartender but had gone to a liquor store for the whiskey. The blacklist names were hung up in the barroom but he had never bothered to find out who the persons were.

The Magistrate was willing to give the stableman the benefit of the doubt as to whether he knew of the person to whom he supplied the liquor being on the blacklist and the case was dismissed.

EMPIRE UNION

Earl Grey Says Canadians Will Fight for Britain if Necessary.

Ottawa, May 21.—At a dinner at Government House in honor of the delegates to the Imperial Press Conference, significant references were made by Lord Grey to the naval situation. One passage of his speech read:

"The two great political parties in this Dominion are united in their readiness to spend the last Canadian dollar and shed the last drop of Canadian blood, should such sacrifice be necessary to secure the continuance of the naval supremacy to which Canada and every part of the Empire owe their present fortunate position, and on the maintenance of which they depend for the realization of their splendid hopes.

"The fact that a Labor Ministry should require, under the compulsion of the law, all young men to undergo a military training until they reach the age of 20, has proclaimed to the whole world that the honor of the crown will be as safe in the keeping of the humblest sons of toil as it has been in the hands of the proudest nobles of the land.

"At present we grow up in ignorance of each other. That ignorance is a weakness and a danger to the Empire and consequently ought to be removed. The necessities of Imperial defence also require important development in our system of cables."

In proposing the toast of "Sister Dominions," Sir Wilfrid Laurier said:

"I am not concerned about the future of the Empire. Not that I am indifferent, but because I am confident I do not believe in sudden evolution, but I believe that in the following on of precedent to precedent the destiny of the Empire will be evolved."

OVERCROWDED BOAT UPSETS

Quebec, May 21.—A report received here yesterday afternoon from Ste. Anne des Monts, some 250 miles east of this city, states that a party of about 15 people, who were returning from church, were upset while crossing the river and out of the number six adults and two children only were saved.

So far only three bodies have been recovered, those of Mrs. Lessvauer, Mrs. Gervais and a little daughter of Napoleon Vaillancour. Arthur Deroy and Phillippe Sinard are among the others.

Overcrowding of the boat caused the accident.

Tanners Driven to Canada.

Washington, May 21.—Offering an amendment to further reduce the duty on quebracho, a chestnut bark extract used in tanning, to a quarter of a cent a pound, Senator Lafollette yesterday declared that the tanning industry was being driven to Canada, where quebracho is admitted free of duty. He declared that the oak and hemlock have been killed off so that now only the inferior chestnut is left, which could be used successfully to make an extract to mix with the imported quebracho. By a vote of 29 to 38 the Lafollette amendment was rejected and the duty recommended by the committee, of half of one cent a pound, agreed to.

BOY DROWNED IN DON RIVER

Toronto, May 21.—Harold White, aged five, son of William White of 13 Napier street, was drowned in the Don, about 300 yards north of Queen street, at 7 o'clock last night.

Harold was playing with a lad named Francis Baker, on the piling along the edge of the water, and in attempting to reach an object in the water tumbled in. His companion summoned Frank Corish, 72 Hamilton street, who jumped into the water and after a short period of diving brought the body to shore.

PLANS FOR NEW QUEBEC BRIDGE

Will Soon be Ready — Retain Cantilever Design

Ottawa, May 21.—Plans for the new Quebec bridge are so far advanced that the completed plans may be laid before the Government within a short time.

The new bridge will have a span almost as great as the 1,800-foot span of the first bridge. This means that the present piers, which cost a million and a half dollars, will be made use of. However, the new bridge will avoid the old weakness of the single tower, so the present plans will probably have to be duplicated on the river side. This will mean some shortening of the centre span and the length may be reduced to 1,600 feet. The cantilever design will be retained and the structure will be built of nickel steel, which has vastly greater strength than the carbon steel of which the first bridge was built.

The new bridge will not only carry itself safely, but will carry any load that can be transported over 80-pound rails. The height of the bridge has been definitely fixed at 150 feet above water at high tide. The cost should be between six and seven millions.

PRESIDENT TAFT WILL BE URGED TO WORK FOR PEACE

Resolution is Passed Requesting Him to Take Initiative in Reduction of Armaments—J. Allen Baker, British M.P., Speaks—Many Canadian Bodies Are Represented at the International Congress.

Mohonk Lake, May 21.—Business men, representing 58 Chambers of Commerce, from 19 states and Canada, who are attending the conference, yesterday adopted a resolution urging President Taft "to take the initiative in leading the nations to a concurrent limitation or reduction in the armies and navies of the world."

The most emphatic address of the day was given by J. Allen Baker, a Canadian-born member of the British Parliament, who emphasized the continuous neighborliness and good-fellowship of the United States and Canada as an example for the nations of what the absence of armaments and fortifications on an international boundary will do to promote peace.

"I largely endorse," said Mr. Baker, "what President Butler has said as to the emotional insanity of the present mad race for battleships in Great Britain and Germany. Our House of Commons is the chief sinner in having started the crazy competition in building Dreadnoughts, but you must remember that we have a yellow press in Great Britain, and you must not believe all that it says regarding the so-called German war scare."

The amicable relations between the United States and Canada, were also described by Justice J. J. Maclaren of Toronto, who said that while individuals in a measure have become Christianized, "we still remain as nations and collectively largely barbarian and heathen."

Rev. Frederick Lynch, pastor of the Pilgrim Church, New York, declared that "it is the shame of the age that every church in Germany, England and America is not protesting against these great pagan, overwhelming armaments."

Last night Charles Richardson of Philadelphia presented a report of a special committee, showing that nearly 200 leading chambers of commerce and boards of trade, in all the large cities of the country, were co-operating with the conference in promoting international arbitration.

Mr Richardson said: "It is within the power of business men to do more than any other class to create in our own and other great nations, a public sentiment which no modern Government could afford to ignore. It should be said, moreover, that the present is a most propitious time for efforts of this kind. There is a growing tendency toward that mental attitude which led Lord Salisbury, the English Prime Minister, to write to the representative of Great Britain in Egypt, that if their military friends could have their way they would want to garrison the moon, in order to prevent an invasion from Mars.

"The enormous recent and prospective increase in national armaments is probably the most effective of all possible agencies for arresting the attention of the plain people and forcing them to realise that ruinous outlays and rates of taxation that will paralyze the industries of the world, will be the inevitable results if they fail to demand and insist that their Governments shall unite in establishing and forever maintaining better methods than those of war for securing justice and fairness in the settlement of all international differences."

Among the 50 and more bodies represented by delegates were the National Association of Manufacturers, the National Board of Trade, the National Association of Clothiers, the National Business League of America, the National League of Commission Merchants, the Chambers of Commerce of a number of American cities, and the Boards of Trade of Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg; the Business Men's Associations or Commercial Clubs of New Haven, Battle Creek and Seattle; the Manufacturers Association and the Merchants' Association of New York and the Trades' League of Philadelphia.

LATEST NEWS AS TOLD IN DESPATCHES

Insists on Trial.

Winnipeg, May 21.—H. J. Ingram, barrister, of Brandon, returning officer there in the last election, who was one of the victims selected by Attorney-General Campbell's department for persecution, and against whom a stay of proceedings was made to prevent him from proving his innocence, has undertaken to force the courts to proceed with the charge. He refuses to be sacrificed, and is determined to show up the methods of political persecution, which have become the custom here.

Photos of Indian Listers.

London, Ont., May 21.—The difficulty of recognising those who are on the prohibited liquor list in this city, the number being nearly 200, has aroused an agitation on the part of the hotelmen to be supplied with photos of all Indian listers. License Inspector Galpin favors it and the agitation is likely to end in all the thirst emporiums being supplied with a picture gallery annex.

Strike In Nova Scotia Mine.

Truro, N.S., May 21.—The boys, drivers and trappers of the Acadia Pit of the Drummond colliery at Westville are out on strike and the mine is closed down. They are demanding an increase of wages of 25 cents a day. It is reported that unless the boys return to work the mine will close down indefinitely. Several hundred men are employed in these mines.

Will Hoist Black Flag.

Rome, May 21.—The Giordano Bruno Club, an anti-clerical club, which is noted for its active propaganda against the Vatican, has purchased a house opposite the Vatican, on which the club purposes to hoist a black flag and to permanently burn a red beacon on the roof to symbolize the burning of the apostate priest, after which the club is named.

Brandy Chocolates Again.

London, Ont., May 21.—Peter Mandas, who runs a Greek candy store here, will appear on Saturday to answer a charge of selling brandy chocolates. Government Inspector Ayearst and Provincial Detectives Champagne and Coorian will give evidence in the case.

Canada's Attitude.

London, May 21.—"If the Senate insists on the Smith rider of the waterways treaty," says The Standard, "the treaty may be regarded as dead. The Canadian nation is determined to prevent the international compact arranged in the interest of the two nations concerned in the interests of one individual and one small local industry."

Customs Officers Lax.

Windsor, May 21.—Crown Attorney Rodd has decided to go after the Canadian customs authorities at Niagara Falls, Ont., charging them with lapse of duty in allowing the freight car in which a man's body was found to pass through their hands without proper inspection. It is likely the body came from Hoboken.

Labor Exchanges.

London, May 21.—The Government's scheme for labor exchanges and insurance provides for the opening of about 230 exchanges throughout the country, with advisory committees representing employers, and employes. The estimated cost of working this scheme is £200,000 yearly for the first ten years and thereafter 170,000 pounds.

The insurance scheme will make necessary the raising of between 5 pence and 6 pence a man a week, the fund to be contributed jointly by the workman, the employer and the state.

Seven Years For Horse Thief.

Edmonton, May 21.—William Oscar King, arrested a year ago for horse-stealing, subsequently escaping from the mounted police, was sentenced yesterday afternoon to seven years after pleading guilty to ten counts.

He seemingly became penitent after his arrest a year ago and offered to show the police where a number of murdered men were buried. He made his escape in the dusk through a broken window. A few weeks ago King foolhardily ventured back into the city and was recognized.

New Power Secret.

New York May 21.—Following the incorporation of the Tesla Propulsion Co., with $1,000,000 capital stock, at Albany, to exploit one of Nikola Tesla's inventions, Mr. Tesla announces the adoption of the device by the Alabama Consolidated Coal & Iron Co.

"I have discovered a mechanical principle, entirely new and of the greatest economic value," Mr. Tesla said. "It is a principle which minimizes the size of the power producing plant and increases to a maximum the power produced."

Lieut.-Col. Rankin Dead.

Chatham, May 21.—Lieut.-Col. John Brown Rankin, K.C., provincial drainage referee, died yesterday in Cleveland, following an operation for gall-stones. Col. Rankin was one of the foremost barristers in Ontario. He was prominent in military matters, becoming lieutenant-colonel of the 24th Kent Regiment on its reorganization in 1901, an office he held until his retirement last winter. He was over 60 years of age, and leaves a wife and several children.

Not Heading East.

Montreal, May 21.—D. D. Mann left yesterday for Quebec. He sails today on the Empress of Britain. William Mackenzie will also be a passenger on the same boat.

Mr. Mann stated yesterday that the C.N.R. would not build to the Atlantic seaboard, as there are already too many roads down there.

THE LAURIER NAVAL POLICY

It cannot be said that Conservatives developed opposition to the policy of building a Canadian navy only after Sir Wilfrid Laurier had enunciated that policy. Long before Sir Wilfrid showed his hand, Mr. Borden and his followers together with the whole Conservative press demanded a Canadian contribution to an imperial navy and not the laying of the foundation of a purely Canadian navy. The reason is obvious. An imperial navy must be a homogeneous affair. To have it composed of a lot of disintegrated units would be folly of the first magnitude and yet that is the Liberal policy as outlined by Sir Wilfrid. French Canada is opposed to the creation of an imperial navy. The French-Canadians are loyal, but not to the idea of an empire. They want to remain as they are. They want the army and the navy to remain as they are also. If therefore the creation or beginning of an imperial army or navy is desirable it should be discussed at once. It is a live issue. We have no hesitation in saying that the people of this district, without distinction of party and we hope without any other distinction, that will interfere with the harmony and good will of Canadians one towards another, will not favor the starting of a Canadian navy. It is overwhelmingly expensive, unnecessary and unreasonable. Let us contribute our ships, but not a navy that would on occasion fit into the British navy about as well as a square plug in a round hole. Whichever policy is adopted the minority will no doubt fall in gracefully.

A NEW CANADIAN EXODUS

Canadians are again flocking to the United States. Returns show, that tens of thousands have emigrated so far this year and the fact is giving the government serious concern. The closing of so many woollen mills and the influence of the preference have done much to check the legitimate growth of Canadian industrial centres. The untrained cockney cannot take the place of these exodising artisans and skilled mechanics. Settling the western lands will not make Canada prosperous. Protection with a preference is the only true policy.

DULL PUPILS

The case of dull pupils was argued at the Teachers' Convention yesterday. It is presumed that reference is made to pupils below the average intelligence. It is a difficult question and involves not only the feelings of the pupils, but those of the parents as well. To ask a teacher to give more of his time to dull pupils is to wreck the chances of the others. It would be better to provide for them in a special room with a special teacher. Institutionalizing them is bad, and to ignore them is impossible. It is useless, moreover, to attempt the technical education of those intellectually unfit. It is better to turn them to manual labour.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A sporting friend wishes us to state that the practice of calling game birds, "ducks, quails," etc. instead of duck and quail is reprehensible. It is all right with the domestic variety.

Anglican—Don't you think Gipsy Smith is a fakir and sensationalist?

Oh, no, not at all; he has said not several times since he came among us—unless you wish to use the argument about the lady who protested too much about her purity.—The Catholic Register.

We do not think that our contemporary is living up to its profession. There is no evidence of a convincing character that Mr Smith is not sincere. To call him sensational is one thing, but to call him a "fakir" is another.

In what does the Greek Church differ from the Catholic Church?

In points of doctrine the Greek church denies the primacy and infallibility of the Pope, the procession of the Holy Spirit from the Father and the Son, the Immaculate Conception, and allows divorce in case of adultery. There are also some differences of discipline, e.g., the use of leavened bread in the Eucharist, the permission of priests to marry. The Greek church, therefore, is guilty of both heresy and schism.—The Catholic Register.

OF INTEREST

Those of us who have had the opportunity to hear the stars of the opera will enjoy a novel picture of these personalities which is sketched by George Middleton in the May Bookman. "Top Notes and Bank Notes" is his caption, and he goes on to prove that usually those who have the first are well able, despite temperamental eccentricities, to obtain the second. The writer tells Jenny Lind's story thus:—

Chance discovered Jenny Lind's voice; as is not generally known, she was a successful child actress. Her real future, however, was marked out for her from the first song interpolated by accident in a play. She was soon cast in operatic roles, and at the Royal theatre, Stockholm, in 1840, for sixty-nine performances received about one hundred pounds a year. In 1841 she studied with Signor Garcia, a brother of Malibran, and it is instructive to note she paid twenty francs an hour. In 1844 she refused an annual salary of about one thousand pounds, "with benefits" to stay permanently in Germany. She knew her voice belonged to the world. She sang five times in Vienna in 1846 for fifty pounds a performance with extra benefit. It was in 1847 she made her second contract to appear in London, the first one with Bunn, having caused her endless legal complications.

The Lumley contract was substantially as follows:

1 An honorarium of one hundred and twenty thousand francs for the season, reckoned from April 14th to August 20th, 1847.

2 A furnished house, a carriage and a pair of horses, free of charge for the season.

3 A further sum of twenty thousand francs if Mlle Lind wished to spend a month in Italy before her debut, for the purpose of studying the language or for rest.

4 Liberty to cancel the engagement if, after her first appearance, she felt dissatisfied at the measure of its success and wished to discontinue her performances.

5 Mlle. Lind was not to sing at concerts, public or private, for her own emolument.

In 1846 the now famous diva refused an unparalleled offer from the Czar to sing five months at St Petersburg for a salary of fifty-six thousand francs per month, a sum equaling eleven thousand pounds. It was her appearance in this country under P T Barnum's management, however, which brought Jenny Lind's name near to us. She was to receive one thousand dollars a performance, and all expenses for one hundred and fifty concerts to be given within one year. This was eventually changed, so that she received a half share of the profits whenever the receipts were above five thousand five hundred dollars. As the returns sometimes equalled fifteen thousand dollars, her share on the first six concerts alone was thirty thousand dollars. Incidentally it is recorded she gave away that sum in New York for charities. At the expiration of her contract with Barnum, she sang forty additional recitals on her own speculation. She appeared little after this and lived a retired life for nearly forty years.

Adeline Patti was even a greater financial genius than Jenny Lind. The writer quotes Colonel Mapleson as saying that "no one ever approached Patti of the art of obtaining from a manager the greatest possible sum he could by any possibility contrive to pay." We read further:

The musical miracle was the spoiled darling of her day, and she never failed to obtain exactly what she wanted. She was first engaged in London in 1861 by Mapleson, to sing four nights on "approval," and in case of success, to obtain forty pounds a week. This contract was not fulfilled, however, for being hard pressed financially she had borrowed fifty pounds from a rival manager, and her receipt proved practically a contract. This was the beginning of a career so dazzling that its successive steps are simply a series of increasing banknotes. A few statements suffice. In the year 1872 she obtained in London two hundred guineas a night, since she insisted on having more than Christine Nilsson, who was receiving two hundred pounds. She sang twice a week. Ten years later she was given five thousand dollars a night! Her famous contract to sing in America provided that the money should be paid her at two o'clock on the day she sang also a drawing-room and sleeping car to be especially built for her, th conservatory an fernery, etc. Further, there was to be deposited to her credit fifty thousand dollars for payment of the last ten performances—Patti's favorite device. She thus received about 20 times what Mario and Grisi got. Her private car, incidentally, cost sixty thousand dollars and contained a silver bath and gold keys to the doors—to say nothing of a two thousand dollar piano. Patti gave to the manager only her voice and her costumes. Her drawing capacity justifies this. "Lucia," as an example, was sung to an average of fourteen thousand dollars. "Traviata" drew more since she sang more notes. It was a frequent occurrence among the poorer music-lovers to buy a stall ticket and each take turns at hearing her for twenty minutes; if one overstayed his time he paid for the entire ticket. Some mathematicians computed, by dividing numbers of notes by sum paid, that in "Semiramide" Patti received 42 5-8 cents for each note. This was found to be just 7 11-16 cents per note more than Rossini got for writing the whole opera. Interpretative art has always earned more than the creative, as this illustrates. During the "Patti epidemic" in San Francisco, she often sang to twenty-five thousand dollars. She herself received at about this time eight thousand dollars for each performance at the Cincinnati Musical Festival. In forming some estimate of the fortune she has earned it must be remembered, too, that she enjoyed over forty years of actual career. Her famous and habitual series of successive farewells alone were unparalleled money-makers, and that her last disastrous visit to our shores was humiliating to a degree, she still draws whenever she sings in London; for her English people are always loyal to personality—witness Albani also—no matter what substance remains of a golden memory.—Literary Digest.

THIRD OPERATION PREVENTED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill. — "I want to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I was so sick that two of the best doctors in Chicago said I would die if I did not have an operation. I had already had two operations, and they wanted me to go through a third one. I suffered day and night from inflammation and a small tumor, and never thought of seeing a well day again. A friend told me how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped her, and I tried it, and after the third bottle was cured." — Mrs. ALVENA SPERLING, 11 Langdon Street, Chicago, Ill.

If you are ill do not drag along at home or in your place of employment until an operation is necessary, but build up the feminine system, and remove the cause of those distressing aches and pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

HEART PIERCED BY WAGGON SHAFT

Postal Clerk Impaled When Turning Bend of Road at 50 Miles an Hour on Motor Cycle

Newburg, N. Y., May 17.—John K. McLaughlin never knew what killed him. His heart was pierced by the shaft of a waggon into which he ran this afternoon while going fifty miles an hour on a motorcycle.

The tragedy happened on a country road leading back from the town through the hills. McLaughlin, who was a clerk in the Newburg postoffice and a friend of ex-Gov. Odell, had gone out to try the speed of his new machine, on which he was planning to take a long vacation ride across country this summer. This was his day off, and the roads and weather were perfect for speeding.

A test of several hours, in which many miles were covered, had convinced McLaughlin his motorcycle was all it ought to be, and he was whizzing along home at top speed, one of the happiest young men in Orange County. Then came the fatal bend in the road.

A farm waggon was going in the opposite direction. The farmer saw McLaughlin, but he might as well have tried to sheer off to make room for a cannon ball or to dodge a stroke of lightning as to avoid the fifty mile an hour machine in the wink of an eye that elapsed between the time he saw McLaughlin alive and when he saw his lifeless body impaled on the waggon shaft.

As the dead rider hung on the shaft his machine spun out from under him and, with the power still on, crashed into a tree at the other side of the road.

So cleanly and squarely had the shaft pierced the body that the shaft was not even injured by the impact. With the help of a farmer whom he called from a neighboring field the driver removed the body and drove back to town with it.

MAMMOTH MINERS.

The Experts Who Prospect and Dig For Prehistoric Creatures.

Mammoth miners are experts who know where to prospect for mammoths and how to dig them out, even as the mining engineer knows where to prospect for silver and how to extract it.

In the west, in Alaska and in Siberia mammoth miners are always at work. They are always unearthing creatures that died 100,000 years ago.

Siberia was the mammoth's true home. Siberia 100,000 years ago was one luxuriant forest. Here the fur covered beasts, with their ten foot trunks and their fifteen foot stature, swarmed. Then an earthquake removed a barrier range between Siberia and the Arctic ocean, and those low lying forests were inundated. All their animal and vegetable life was killed.

The first of the drowned Siberian mammoths was found in 1799 by an Eskimo villager on the banks of the Lena. It was imbedded in a vast cake of ice. The villagers melted the ice, they feasted on the 100,000-year-old flesh, and then they sold the tusks.

Only the bones remained when Zlotover of the Petersburg Imperial museum reached that outlandish village after a journey of 7,500 miles. He took the bones back to the museum, where you may see them mounted today. He bought the tusks from the ivory traders and fixed them on the skeleton, and the book he wrote about his find is still a text book among the mammoth miners of our day.

Safeguarding Crime.

It is inexplicable how those pessimistic carpers who are accustomed to hit all the minor chords with the loud pedal on can fail to see all about them the unmistakable signs of progress and the reddening dawn of a new day in the social yeast. And especially is this true in matters pertaining to crime. There is no doubt that the general standards of crime have been immeasurably raised of late. Nowadays a man can do almost anything and get away with it, provided he can arouse the sympathy of the special lady writers and pay the experts. Ah, brothers, who can say that all this does not make for the general uplift? How can we hope to realize the better things of life until crime has been made perfectly safe?—Life.

Commencing Saturday, May 22nd the Round Trip Cars will run every afternoon and evening during summer months —60 minutes of fresh air for 5c

EVERY ADVERTISER

Needs the New Canadian Newspaper Directory

We have just received from the publishers, A. McKim, Limited, of Montreal and Toronto, a copy of the 1909 Edition of the Canadian Newspaper Directory.

This is the sixth edition of this valuable work, which fills a very real need in Canada, and deserves a place on the desk of every business man, whether he is an advertiser or not.

The Canadian Newspaper Directory lists and describes 1,426 periodicals in Canada and Newfoundland. Of these 135 are daily, 1,015 weekly or semi-weekly, 262 monthly or semi-monthly, and 14 are published less frequently. This is a considerable increase over the last edition.

In addition to this, the Directory supplies a comprehensive Gazetteer giving the population, the chief industries, the railway, telegraph and banking facilities and other interesting features of every newspaper, city, town and village in Canada. The price is $2.00.

LACROSSE

The Peterborough Lacrosse team will hold a practice at Riverside Park to-morrow afternoon. Every player is requested to be out at three o'clock.

PERSONAL

Miss Florence Garden, of Hamilton, is spending the holiday with her brother, Mr. Fred. F. Gardem, 660 George street.

Six Criminal Charges Now.

St. Catharines, May 19.—Arthur E. Bull, who recently abandoned a libel suit against George Crain, proprietor of the Beamsville Brick Co., where Bull was at one time employed as bookkeeper, has had no less than six criminal charges preferred against him by Crain before Magistrate Kidd of Grimsby. Bull is now accused of two cases of forgery and four of making false entries with intent to defraud. Hearing of the cases has been set for to-morrow.

Whisky Dearer.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 19.—Announcement was made on the Chamber of Commerce yesterday that the basis price of whisky has been advanced two cents, or from $1.35 to $1.37 a gallon. The advance is due to the high price of grains.

Control of Soo Corporation.

New York, May 19.—The control of the Lake Superior Corporation will be turned over to Robert Fleming and his English syndicate at a special stockholders' meeting to be held here.

CITY AND COUNTY TEACHERS HELD A JOINT SESSION

Interesting Address on Nature Study by Mr. Cornish of Normal School Staff—Miss Weir Spoke on "The Teacher's Life Outside the School."

The city and county teachers held a joint meeting in the Normal School yesterday afternoon. Mr. Cornish, of the Normal School staff, spoke on "Nature Study." He began his address by telling why Nature Study should be taught. Mr. Cornish gave a definition of culture. He gave in his opinion what a cultured man is. He classified the subjects of the public school curriculum, mentioning those which have a cultured mind. Nature Study is a delight that gives a delight in the objects of nature. He urged the teachers to keep this idea before their pupils. If pupils take an interest in the work of nature, the pupils reap a great benefit. If boys and girls are to be interested in birds, stars, rocks, etc., they must study them for themselves. Teachers should direct, let the pupils do the work.

The speaker took the dandelion. Have the pupils bring specimens to school, examine them. But do not stop here. Have them keep records of the plants. Have them examine plants grown on different soils and note the difference.

The speaker took the sparrow. Have pupils make a thorough examination of a specimen, but do not allow your labours to rest with this. Assign little questions for pupils to solve themselves, for instance the difference in colour between the male and females, and where they are found. This will create an interest in the pupils to make observations. Pupils like to find out things for themselves. Do not make your questions too general. Make the pupil clearly understand what you want him to do. Create an interest in pupils to preserve animal life to refrain from killing the birds, and impress on them the place these feathered creatures have in nature. Mr. Cornish closed with a reference to the use of books. Get the best books, read the facts and find them out for yourselves.

Miss A. Weir, B.A., of the Collegiate Institute, spoke on "The Teachers' Life Outside the School." Let the young teacher have a definite plan, perhaps to prepare for a higher examination. The language, French, Latin and German, are a great assistance to the study of English. Good books are a valuable asset. Every teacher should be versed in current events. No teacher can afford to rush. Special preparation for the next day's work is very necessary. Teachers should cultivate the social element. Miss Weir gave a very interesting paper which was well received by the teachers.

Principal Walker, of the Normal School, spoke on "Elementary Number Work." Begin by giving the pupils something to do. See that the pupils makes the combinations. How far should the pupils count before beginning at actual number work? A child should be able to count by 1's up to 100. Are pupils before coming to school the same notion of number. Teachers should give tests to see they are not taking too much for granted. Mr. Walker gave an interesting paper, using black-board examples.

BASEBALL

A HOME FOR R. C. STUDENTS AT TORONTO

The Knights of Columbus in the province of Ontario have decided to bear the cost of the erection of a home for Roman Catholic students attending the University of Toronto. The State Council of the order have approved of the project and adopted it as their own special work. The sum of $25,000 will be raised for the purpose and a committee has been appointed by the State Council to work out the details of the scheme by which this fund may be raised and also to bring before the subordinate councils the reasons for speedy and generous action.

PORT HOPE IS DEAD SAYS NEWSPAPER

The action of the council in memorializing the local government in order to stir them up to establish a government license inspector in Port Hope while a little late in view of the local option campaign is, nevertheless a move in the right direction.

The Times makes bold to presume that nothing will come of it; any more than will come of the move to secure an agricultural branch of educational activity for Port Hope. In some ways the town is dead. In matters political the town is very much alive, but when it comes right down to the last analysis and money is to be spent, offices handed out, buildings erected and anything of that kind the old town is not on the map.

In the meantime, the reply to the council's memorial will make good reading. We again presume to guess that the reply will duly come to hand, typewritten in nice green type, on heavy department paper to the effect that the memorial has been received and in course of business will be laid before the proper parties for their due consideration. It will be signed by a deputy or chief clerk of some kind. Later on another letter will appear in which a minister will say that the matter will receive his due consideration.

And that we again venture to assert will be about all for Port Hope. —Port Hope Times.

Commencing Saturday, May 22nd the Round Trip Cars will run every afternoon and evening during summer months—60 minutes of fresh air for 5c

NEW SECRETARY FOR Y.M.C.A. AT TORONTO

Mr. George A. Warburton, M. A., New York, will be the new General Secretary of the Toronto Young Men's Christian Association in succession to Mr. Frank M. Pratt, who resigned about six months ago on account of ill health. Mr Warburton will take over his new duties on June 15th. Mr C J Hicks, secretary of the New York YMCA. stated that the appointee of the Toronto position is among the first ten men in the world in association work.

Mr. Warburton was born in Somersetshire, England and was the son of a village blacksmith. At 19 years of age he was a junior preacher on a Neww York circuit. He went into YMCA work first in Newburgh, NY. and later in Watertown and Syracuse.

It was however in New York City that his greatest success was reached as secretary of the Railroad Branch. The growth of the association in New York was very great during the 25 years Mr. Warburton was connected with the railroad work. Starting with rooms in the basement of the Grand Central station it has grown to an organisation 2,500 strong and possessing four large buildings.

Mr. Warburton was very often associated with the late Cornelius Vanderbilt in association work while connected with the Railroad Branch. Mr. Warburton is about fifty years of age. —Toronto Star

MINOR CASES AT POLICE COURT

Drunk and Disorderlies—Dog Owners Didn't Procure Tags and Drayman Allowed Sawdust to Fall on the Streets

Two drunk and disorderlies were fined by the Magistrate this morning. Both were fighting yesterday. The one who started the scrap was assessed $2.00 and costs and the other $2.00 without costs. Neither were present in court as they had previously pleaded guilty.

OWNS A PUP.

Robert Howden did not think he should be made secure a license for a six months old pup. He told the Magistrate that a party from Toronto was coming here to take the animal away. The case was enlarged until Saturday and if the pup goes on its journey there will be no further trouble.

DIDN'T OWN THIS DOG

Samuel Newell, and by the way, this is not the police officer, has a dog but he claims it wanders around from place to place and has no fixed abode. He didn't really own the dog and for this reason had not secured a tag. Defendant told the Magistrate that he had been offered $6 for the animal but did not like to take the chance of selling property belonging to somebody else. He was fined $1 and also told to secure a tag.

SAWDUST FELL ON STREET

Luke Maloney, a stranger in the city was drawing sawdust and in some unaccountable manner, quantities of it fell out of his conveyance and as a result the street on which he was travelling became littered with it. He explained to the Magistrate that he had stopped his waggon as soon as he noticed that he was losing part of his load, and was now willing to go and clean the sawdust off the street.

The case was enlarged for one week to allow the accused to make good his promise.

COUNTY WARDEN SCOTT SAYS THAT CROPS MAY BE SHORT

In speaking with the Review yesterday, Warden R. N. Scott, of Smith, said that about one-third of the seeding had been done in that township. Near Lakefield some of the farmers had not been able to get on the land, which is full of water in some places. What seeding is done after next week will not be of much use. It is an extraordinarily backward spring. Many farmers will have to sow buckwheat later on, as getting in wheat, etc., appears to be impossible. Of course the pasture is good and farmers may pull out on the "mixed farming" basis, but hardly on any other.

SOME NOTES ABOUT THE HOLIDAY FESTIVITIES

Decorate for the 24th.

The 19th regiment band is one of the best in Canada.

The Brantford regiment has a big bugle band.

The local YMCA. is being thrown open to the visiting soldiers.

St. Catharines lacrosse team will play the locals at Riverside park on Monday afternoon.

The St. Catharines regiment is coming Grand Trunk and the Brantford on the C.P.R.

Both visiting regiments will arrive here early Sunday morning, likely about five o'clock.

The band concerts are being looked forward to with pleasure by Peterborough citizens.

Hundreds of people from surrounding towns and villages will spend the holiday in Peterborough.

The steamer "Rainbow" is running an excursion from Hastings to Peterborough on the 24th.

If the weather remains like it is at present everybody will be happy.

There will be an immense crowd at Riverside park to see the review and the "trooping of the colors."

The formal opening of the armouries takes place at 11.30 o'clock on Monday.

A citizen remarked today that the city should do something towards decorating George street for the holiday. A few flags and streamers would have a great effect.

WAS FORMER RESIDENT OF PETERBORO'

Lt. Col. Rankin Dead at Chatham — Taught School in Peterboro' at One Time

Chatham, Ont., May 20.—Lieut.-Col. J. B. Rankin, K.C., retiring commander of the 24th Kent Regiment, and official drainage referee for the Province of Ontario, passed away this morning in Cleveland, Ohio, where he had gone to undergo an operation for kidney trouble. He had been suffering for some time, but it was not thought that his illness was as serious as it was. He was 63 years of age.

The late Col. Rankin was for many years principal of the Collegiate Institute here. He afterwards studied law, and for many years enjoyed a lucrative practice in Chatham. He was appointed drainage referee, which position he held until his death. He was for years a member of the Collegiate Institute Board, and also a member of the Board of Education. In military circles he was known all over the province, having practically founded the 24th Regiment there. His term of office recently expired, and he was appointed honorary colonel of the regiment. Deceased was also a prominent Mason, having been Master of Parthenon Lodge, this city, for three years. He was also a past district deputy grand master of Erie district No. 1. The funeral will be held on Sunday, and will be conducted by the Masonic Order, assisted by the regiment.

The late Lieut.-Col. Rankin was a former resident of Peterborough, having taught school here at one time. He will be remembered by many of the older residents.

Noble and Woodhouse are latest additions to towns of Sunny Alberta.

Half of Vancouver isn't speaking to the other half over the question of Sunday ball.

FORMER PASTOR HERE ON VISIT

Mr. and Mrs. Steurernagel Will Conduct Services at Bethany Tabernacle

The many friends in Peterborough of Mr. and Mrs. Steuernagle will be pleased to know they are in the city again on a short visit. They are the guests of Mrs. Reid, Smith street.

Since he resigned the pastorate of Bethany Tabernacle here he and Mrs. Steuernagle have been conducting splendid evangelistic meetings in New York State.

In the absence of the pastor of Bethany Tabernacle they will conduct both services there on Sunday.

Commencing Saturday, May 22nd the Round Trip Cars will run every afternoon and evening during summer months —60 minutes of fresh air for 5c

21 APPLICATIONS WERE PRESENT

At Special Review of Peterboro' Tent No. 69, K.O.T.M. Held Last Evening

Peterborough Tent No. 69, KOTM, held a special review last evening at their rooms on Simcoe street. Twenty-one applications for membership were presented and a large class was initiated. Dr L. E Sisler, Supreme Record Keeper of Port Huron, Mich, and Mr S W Trusler, Provincial Commander, of Camlackie, Ontario, were present as were also a large number of members of the order. An address by Dr. Sisler was much appreciated by those present as he spoke of the work of the organization in an interesting manner and those who were not present missed a thoroughly enjoyable evening.

The City's Duty

(To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—What is the city going to do towards decorating some of the leading streets for the holiday? While it is hoped that the merchants and citizens generally will decorate profusely, it is the city's duty to hang up a few "Welcome" banners along George and some of the other thoroughfares. I hope some one will look after this matter.

Yours, etc.,

SPORTING NEWS

ST. CATHARINES LACROSSE TEAM WILL PLAY LOCALS HERE ON MAY THE 24TH

A game of lacrosse worthy of the big day here generally is promised for May 24th when the crack St Catharines intermediate lacrosse team will play the local twelve at Riverside park. As the regiment and several citizens are coming with the St. Kitts' outfit the team will have plenty of supporters and a fine exhibition of the national game should take place here. The visitors are looked upon as having one of the fastest and best balanced aggregations in the intermediate series.

The Peterborough Indians will present a formidable line-up in which a number of the reliable old regulars will have places. Parnell, Dillon, Mein, Dobbin, Glover, Dobbin and many other good ones will be out and in addition to these, Neil Brandt, a new juggler to Peterborough and one of the smoothest that has turned out with the locals will take a hand in opposing the brilliant visitors.

TEN HORSES WILL LIKELY START IN KING'S PLATE

After the various works of the King's platers this morning at the Woodbine had been completed, after the experts had digested everything in the shape of public performances, the critical ones came to the conclusion that Hendrie's Shimonese has the 1909 King's Plate at her mercy on Saturday afternoon.

After these self- same critics observed the "wind-opener" of Dyment's Fort Garry this morning a mile and an eighth in 2.04 breezing, they came to the conclusion that the only horse Shimonese has to beat to gather the guineas is Forty Garry.

These conclusions come naturally after the poor showings made by the Seagram platers in their trials on Wednesday. But that there is a certain element who are staunch in their belief that Courtier in his trial didn't show his calibre, and that Barry Littlefield put a work under his belt prior to sending him along with Tollendal, Mendip, and Seismic. So there you are!

THE FIELD IN THE PLATE.

You can take your pick of the big field, which will in all probability be made up as follows;—

Shimonese (C. Gilbert.)
Fort Garry (Menty.)
Courtier (Musgrave.)
Tollendal (Goldstein.)
Mendip.
Dog-of-War.
Desert Star (Preston.)
Shore Lark (Trueman.)
Generous Major (E. Walsh.)
Sauce of Gold (Foley.)

One or two others may face the barrier, but they do not have to be figured upon.

Fort Garry's "breeze" this morning was accomplished in 2.04 for a mile and an eighth with the quarters as follows;—0.26 2-5, 0.51, 1.19, 1.51. Jockey Menty, who will ride Saturday, was up.

Maclean's Sauce of Gold was given a very impressive workout under Jockey Foley. The plate distance was covered in 2.17, the fractional time being as follows;—1.35 2-5, 1.49¼ 2.02 3-5, 2.17. Sauce of Gold was tiring at the end ,but Foley kept him at the task. "Maclean to peep" at a long price may claim some attention.

Cook's plater Desert Star was given an easy mile, the quarters as follows;—0.24 3-5, 0.35 3-5, 1.18 3-5, 1.50.

Adam Beck's plater Generous Moor worked the distance with Temargo, Walsh in the saddle, but all in in 2.18 1-5.

OTHER TRIALS TO-DAY.

Thomas' grand two-year-old Flying Squirrel was sent an impressive half mile in 50 flat, and won a host of admirers.

Other impressive works of the morning were as follows;—

Economy and Carroll, 1 1-4 in 2.15.
Stromland ,mile in 1.49.
Zipango, mile in 1 44 2-5.
Lyndhurst, 3-8 in 38 seconds.
Juggler, 3-8 in 38 seconds.
Better Half, mile in 1.47.
Marksman, mile in 1.48.
Uncle Toby, mile in 1.47 3-5.
Carthage, 3-4 in 1.22.
Ellicott, mile in 1.55.
Desperado, 5 8 in 1.06.
Sandy Corbett, 3 8 in 38 seconds

King's Holiday ran away four miles, but pulled up sound.

Jockey Shilling is still in Texas, and apparently is not anxious to report to his employer's stable here. Trainer McDanie, has notified him to come on.

The three horses that arrived at the Woodbine last night were Detective, Vox Populi, and King of the Mist. Detective is the Meddler—Admiration 3-year-old just bought by the Woodstock Stable ,and Vox Populi and King of the Mist, owned by T. S. Childs, were raced in California last winter, and the former was particularly successful.

DON'T OVERLOOK BLATCHFORD

Don't overlook Blatchford. This paper is not in the habit of giving tips on sporting events—its a bad and highly speculative practise —but don't overlook Blatchford in the big walk at Brock street rink next week. St. Yves was the dark horse that started the big sensation when he won the Marathon Derby, and although the bookmakers haven't rated Blatchford very highly he may do the same as the Frenchman did in New York and snatch the laurels and the money from the hitherto invincible Hoagland. The newcomer is an Englishman and has been working out every day. He has a smooth, attractive stride and should win if he has the speed.

Its Munyon's finger of advice held up to the public (to not overlook Blatchford.

ANOTHER WALKER WILL START

J. Richards of the Peter Hamilton Company is the latest entry for the walk. He thinks he has a chance against any of the local entries but in his calculations for a money getting place he shouldn't overlook Blatchford

NEW WESMINSTER BY 6 GOALS TO 4

Regina Showed Class and Gave Champions a Hard Run

New Westminster, B.C., May 20.—Westminster defeated the Regina Capitals, challengers for the Minto Cup, in the first championship game here this afternoon by 6 goals to 4.

The champions had no snap, however, and early in the first quarter it seemed a fairly even break. About 8,000 people attended the match. The crowd was a unit in support of the home team. Rain fell early in the morning but later the sun shone brightly.

Regina was the aggressor in the first and last quarters. Westminster showing to advantage in the second and third. There were many stops owing to minor accidents, but no one was badly injured. The defenders had better combination work, but the clever individual play of the Reginas surprised the "Salmon Bellies." "Bun" Clark, the Regina goalkeeper, played the best game on the field. Other Regina stars were Gorman, Murton and Ollie Davidson. Howard, about whom much mystery was made by the challengers was not by any means brilliant. For Westminster the Gifford and Rennie brothers, and old Alex. Turnbull were the stars. Bryson, W. Turnbull, Fenny and Spring have all played better on many occasions.

Only five men were penalized, four from Regina, and Tommy Gifford. Shea was fenced for talking back to the referee, Archie McNaughton. The challengers delayed getting back on the field after each interval. After waiting five minutes for them at the commencement of the last quarter, McNaughton ordered the game to proceed. Westminster scored a goal with only two Regina men on the field, but Welsh, Westminster's manager, declined to count the tally. The teams were;

Westminster — Gray, Galbraith, T. Gifford, J. Gifford, T. Rennie, G. Rennie, Feeney, Spring, Turnbull, A. Turnbull, L. Turnbull and Bryson.

Regina — Clark, Howard, Lalonde, West, Shea, Davidson, Warwick, Murton, McGregor, Allen, Gorman and McDougall.

Summary:—First quarter—Regina 2. Westminster 1.
Second quarter—Westminster 3.
Third quarter—Regina 1.
Fourth quarter—Regina 1.

THISTLES BEAT THE NATIONALS

Last night the Young Thistles and the Nationals played on the Central Park school grounds, the Thistles winning by 12—9. The Nationals looked likely winners in the 7th with the score 9-6 in their favor.

The winners battery was Fred Sharp Lester Pearson and Alex. Darling and for the Nationals E. Morrow, M. Morrow and Rollie Smith.

ST. YVES LOST TO SHRUBB IN THEIR 20 MILE RACE

Special to the Review.

Montreal, May 20—Alfred Shrubb the English middle distance crack, furnished a surprise in his 20-mile race tonight against Henri St. Yves, of France, by defeating the Marathon champion by 680 yards in the fast time of 1 hour 54 minutes and 25 seconds. Shrubb was always in front In the first twenty yards he jumped into the lead, which he steadily increased until at the end of the seventh mile he had gained a lap on his opponent, a lap on the course laid out on the grass for the runners tonight being equal to 5-16th of a mile. After running side by side with St Yves through the eighth mile, Shrubb again started to sprint away, and gaining steadily, was at the end of the twelfth mile just a lap and a half in front. The Englishman added a few yards to his lead through the 13th, 14th and 15th miles, but in the 16th he began to come backward. In the last five miles St. Yves won back about a quarter of a lap of the lap and a half that he had lost. St Yves was practically a 2 to 1 favorite for the race, most of the experts figuring it out that Shrubb would gain a good lead in the first fifteen miles and then fade away and gradually be overhauled by the Frenchman before the twentieth mile was reached.

Reports that Shrubb's leg had been in poor shape since the 15 mile race against Longboat strengthened the belief that at 20 miles there would be nothing to the race but the French champion. Shrubb surprised most of the 5000 spectators by hanging on gamely to the finish and retaining more of the early lead he had gained than his best friends expected. Both runners were in distress at the finish, though they finished with strong sprints. Shrubb limped painfully through the last mile and at intervals throughout the race had appeared to be bothered by that right leg of his. His heel was in pretty bad shape when he left the track and St Yves was also in trouble. The big toe and the ankle of his right foot were almost raw from friction with his running shoe Physically, St Yves was the fresher man at the finish and looked as if he could have gone another seven miles or so without changing his pace very much. Shrubb had about reached his limit. While Shrubb won in fairly easy style, there were few in the big crowd who realized just how close popular prediction came to proving right. In the 16th mile the Englishman told some of his friends as they ran alongside him in front of the stand that he was suffering intense pain with his feet and would drop out in the nextx lap. He was told to stick it out that he was going well and with so big a lead, could win even if he had to slacken his pace considerably. Under the encouragement Shrubb decided he would keep on and make a big effort to win.

LACROSSE GAME WILL BE BIG ATTRACTION MONDAY

There will be many new faces on the lacrosse team to meet St. Catharines at Riverside Park on Monday afternoon. There will be a number of the old-timers on deck to steady down the team, but a number of new men will be tried out. The boys have been handicapped by lack of practise, but they should be able to make a good showing against the St. Kitts dozen. The visitors will have a strong team and the game should be one of the fastest seen here in years. It will start at 3 o'clock, and it is likely that there will be a band in attendance. The grounds are in good shape.

The locals will practise to-night at seven o'clock at Riverside Park, and every player should be out. Everything of practise that can be had is needed.

The lacrosse match will be the stellar attraction Monday and should draw an immense crowd. The visiting team will have a big crowd of supporters, as the visiting soldiers will put for the boys from the Garden City.

BALL TOSSER'S CORNER

A FOUL TIP.

Rule 46.—A foul tip is a ball batted by the batsman while standing within the lines of his position, that goes sharp and direct from the bat to the catcher's hands and is legally caught.

A BUNT HIT.

Rule 47.—A bunt hit is a legally batted ball, not swung at, but met with the bat, and tapped slowly within the infield by the batsman. If the attempt to bunt results in a foul not legally caught, a strike shall be called by the umpire.

BALLS BATTED OUTSIDE GROUNDS

Rule 48, sec. 1.—When a batted ball passes outside the ground or into a stand, the umpire shall decide it fair or foul, according to where it disappears from the umpire's view.

Sec. 2.—A fair batted ball that goes over the fence or into a stand shall entitle the batsman to a home run, unless it should pass out of the ground or into a stand at a less distance than 235 feet from the home base, in which case the batsman shall be entitled to two bases only. The point at which which a fence or stand is less than 235 feet from the home base shall be plainly indicated by a white or black sign or mark for the umpire's guidance.

The Strathconas had a good workout at the Central school grounds last night. Another practice will be held at the oval Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock and all players of this club are asked to be on hand.

The Y.M.C.A. baseball team will play an exhibition game with the Park Nine at the exhibition grounds, Saturday afternoon.

All league teams are taking advantage of the fine weather and nightly workouts are in order.

Representatives of the church league teams are asked to be present at the final meeting to be held in the YMCA. this evening at 7.45. All teams must pay their fees tonight and arrangements will be made for the opening game Tuesday evening.

Toronto secured 15 hits off Cronin yesterday and won easily, 8—3. Kellogg was wild as a hawk, but the luck broke his way.

Dessau and Dr. Adkins, for Baltimore, were knocked out of the box by Rochester. Stanley finished the game, but the Broncos won easily. The score was 5—3

Newark had a narrow escape from a beating at the hands of the Bisons. Nattress' error and hits by Larry Schafly and Meyers allowed the only run of the game.

Jersey City stopped Montreal's winning streak and defeated the Royals 4—2.

Newark begins a series of four games in Toronto to-day. McGinley will pitch this afternoon

Dr. Smith won a game yesterday for Chicago against Boston by 12—3.

Miller was too much for the Athletics, and Detroit won 5—3. Philadelphia used three pitchers.

Cleveland lost to Washington in a well played game. Walter Johnston struck out 10 men, while Joss was hit freely. The score was 3—2.

A home run secured off Rube Waddell won the game for New York against St. Louis. Score 2—1.

Brigs Raymond won the game for New York with Pittsburg by his hit in the fifth, which scored the winning run.

Chicago Cubs took another from Boston by hard batting in the eighth. Score 6—2.

Phillies beat the Cardinals 5—1 and Brooklyn won from Cincinnati 3—2.

A local ball magnate has brought a ball player all the way from Texas for the season.

Instead of the running game dying out, as some predict, the sport ought to become more popular, if the great work of Marsh, St. Yves, Longboat, Shrubb and Acoose is taken into consideration.

Jerome D. Travers, the American amateur golf champion, and T. G. Stevenson, of Boston, lost a foursome at Muirhead Tuesday, by one up. Their opponents were Edward Breckett and A. R. Atkin, Scotch amateurs.

Montreal bumped Skeeter Merritt for nine hits and won 3—1.

Buffalo took two games from Newark 4—2 and 5—3, McGinnity pitched the first game, but apparently should be back with the Giants to help them stay around the bottom of the heap in the National league.

BETHANY PLAYS HERE TO-MORROW

Will Meet Y. M. C. A. Team at Riverside Park — Fast Game Expected

Bethany and YMCA. football teams meet at Riverside park tomorrow afternoon in a Midland League game, and a hard struggle is looked forward to. These teams played a tie at Bethany two weeks ago but the "Y" team has been greatly strengthed since then and they should pull out a victory tomorrow. The game will start at two o clock and the YMCA. team will be as follows;

Fleming, Barr, McNeil, Evans, Sutcliffe, Moore, McPherson, Archibald, Coleman, French, Canniff, Castor.

FOOTBALL

A MARMORA VIEW.

Either the Havelock football team a very wise or very foolish, and most people here are at a loss to know which. If they came over to the village on Monday last, through the heavy rain with the idea of playing the scheduled game of football they are about as foolish as they make them. On the other hand, if they took advantage of the fact they were not notified that there would be no game, thus expecting to win by default, they were pretty wise or sharp at any rate. They went to the grounds, and after lining up, took the ball down the field and scored, claiming a victory by a score of 1—0. The sports of that town have certainly changed since the hockey season—Marmora Herald.

GOOD SPORTS

Although the local team won from Marmora by default last week, yet they have proved themselves to be true sports by offering to play the game in that town if the Marmore team will guarantee their expenses.—Havelock Standard.

Mr. Renwyck was calling from the doorway, and Richard swore bitterly beneath his breath. It was outrageous to be interrupted just then!

"Oh, there you are!" laughed the financier. "Do you know, my dear, your tiara shines out in the darkness like a constellation on a moonless night? Come; it's time for little actresses to be in bed."

The Texan was given no more chances with Miss Harriet, for the rest of the ladies now came out, and his final good night was spoken only by a pressure of the hand, but a pressure which left him happy, for the girl did not fail to return it with something more than mere courtesy.

Richard watched in silence while she took the jewels from her hair and throat and breast and handed them to her father, and somehow she seemed more beautiful still when unadorned, for to him she was a gem more precious than her weight in glittering diamonds. With a heart more buoyant than his steps he bounded up the stairs, for tomorrow would decide his fate. Tomorrow! She had given a rose—no more—but she had not refused when he asked for all. Tomorrow!

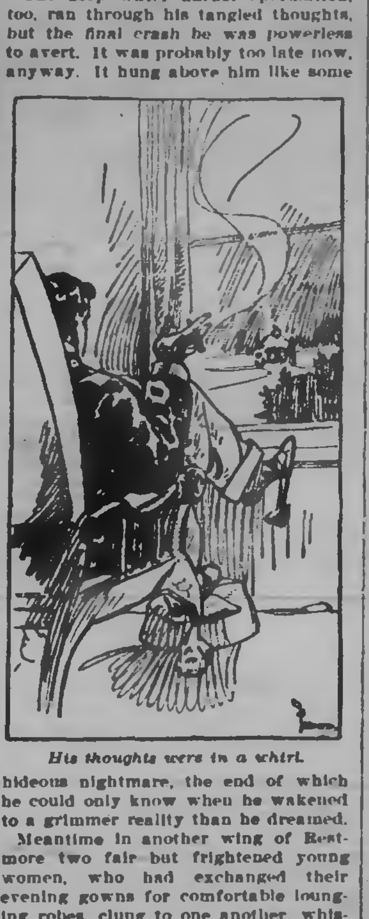
CHAPTER XVII.

MR. JACOB RENWYCK, dismissing the new butler who had waited for his master, after having assured himself that all the other inmates of the house had retired for the night, carefully placed the family diamonds in his private safe, which stood in a corner of the library, set the burglar alarm and went into his room. For years he had attended in person to the closing of the house, except upon rare occasions when business called him from the city, at which times he left elaborate instructions with the trusted and time tried major domo, whose position on account of illness was being temporarily filled by the new man. The alarm once set, not a door or a window could be opened without a clamorous uproar from a big brass gong in the upper hall, and therefore Restmore might repose in peace and earn its name. Had Mr. Renwyck known, however, that one Woolsey Bills had departed earlier in the evening without consulting his master, perhaps his nightly prayers might not have been put forth in such a spirit of pharisaic complacency.

Therefore for an hour in the Renwyck home reigned heavy silence, which was broken only by the ticking of the great antique clock in the hall or its soft melodious chime as it struck the quarter hours. Outside a night wind sang faintly as it tossed a scudding rack of clouds across the moonlit sky and the ancient elms of Restmore swayed and nodded to its soft caress.

When Richard reached his room he found himself in no mood for sleep. He laid aside his dress coat, donned a house jacket, extinguished his lights and seated himself in the morris chair before an open window. His thoughts were in a whirl. Tomorrow, which promised to be a busy day for him—just how busy even he fortunately did not realize—would find him disgraced—or blessed, according to the manner in which Miss Harriet would accept his confession. That she had already begun to suspect his real identity he was morally sure, and no time must be lost in revealing it himself before her doubt was changed to a certainty. In the morning he would make a clean breast of everything to her—the deception and its righteous cause—his love, which had stooped to subterfuge to win her heart, in despair of other means and under the stress of sudden suggestion. Then he would hasten back to the St. Regis, where he knew his dad would seek for him, tell him the whole truth and run the gantlet of parental ire. After that a third confession must follow—to Jacob Renwyck. This, he felt, would be harder than the other two, for, since the episode of the foreign draft, the manner of his host, while still polite, had undergone a decided change. A certain coolness, not to say a certain suspicion, had been engendered in the mind of the financier. It was unnoticed by the balance of the household, yet to Richard far more perturbing than an open, honest avowal of dislike.

The deep water harbor speculation, too, ran through his tangled thoughts, but the final crash he was powerless to avert. It was probably too late now, anyway. It hung above him like some hideous nightmare, the end of which he could only know when he wakened to a grimmer reality than he dreamed.



His thoughts were in a whirl.

Meantime in another wing of Restmore two fair but frightened young women, who had exchanged their evening gowns for comfortable lounging robes, clung to one another, whispering in the dark. As the hands of a tiny bedroom clock slowly crept around toward the hour of 3 they began to realize the rashness of their undertaking. Miss Harriet, the more courageous of the two, was less inclined than ever to meet this unknown man and but for her promise to her younger friend would have declined point blank to take the risk.

"Imogene," she murmured earnestly, "it is not too late to change our plans. We still have ten minutes left. Why not let me call father and tell him everything? He and Lord Croyland and Mr. Van der Awe could meet the man, overpower him and get your letters back, and nothing would ever come of it."

At this sensible suggestion Miss Imogene again exhibited symptoms of hysteria.

"Oh, Harriet, darling, please," she quavered, "you've promised me! And you can't refuse when it's nearly time. I'm not going to faint or scream or anything like that. I'll be just as brave as a—a—lion—no, not a lion, maybe, but some other kind of animal that isn't so terribly afraid. You needn't be scared. I'll take care of you, Hattie, dear. Now, do be sensible. Isn't it time to go?"

Miss Harriet looked at the timepiece, nodded, sighed and took the other's hand. They opened the bedroom door, peeped out and listened. Nothing could be heard but the ticking of the hall clock, the sound of the wind outside and a mellow snore that oozed from Mr. Renwyck's room across the hall.

"I—I wish he'd stop it," whispered Imogene; "it makes one's hair rise up. Don't let go my hand, darling—please."

"Hush," breathed Harriet and led the way along the silent upper hall.

Slowly the two gentle conspirators tipped down the gloomy stairs, starting at a cracking step beneath their feet, fearful of dangers unknown, but menacing, that seemed to lurk at every turn. In safety they reached the lower hall at last, paused, then drew aside the heavy portieres which masked the entrance to the library.

If the hall outside was gloomy, the room which they entered was darker still. By a sickly light which filtered through the draperies of the window opposite they could see the shadowy outlines of the desk, the top of a silver inkstand and a ghostly high backed chair, while in an angle of the wall they descried the metal disk of the combination lock on Mr. Renwyck's safe.

They waited in silence till the clock in the hall behind them boomed out the hour of 3 in solemn, measured cadence, and as the last echo died away they heard a cautious tapping on the window pane.

"Oh, Lord, it's him!" gasped Imogene, forgetting grammar and all else, indeed, except her human terror in the situation, while she clung to Harriet's arm and shook from head to heel. "Don't tremble so, Harriet, darling. You—you make me want to scream."

"S-s-s-h!" her friend admonished. "Don't speak above a whisper now. Leave it to me. There; I'm not afraid."

Miss Renwyck, having once keyed her nerves to the point of meeting a stranger in the dark, was not a woman to falter in the crucial moment. A sense of calm was settling upon her, and, though her heart beat faster than was its wont, she was now in possession of her every faculty and could face the danger without a tremor of her voice or hand.

"You keep the purse," she whispered to Imogene. "Stand where you are and don't speak a single word. Really, dear, there isn't much danger, after all. Yet remember," she smiled, "you have promised to be a little lion, and the man is only 'Roddy-poddykins.'"

She wondered afterward at this flash of humor, yet it chanced to be the saving grace, for the terrified Miss Imogene was crouched in the library doorway, striving at once to be the king of beasts and to keep her teeth from chattering. In both efforts, alas, she failed.

Miss Renwyck crossed the room, fumbled an instant for the electric switch, then turned off the burglar alarm. She dared not make a light, lest it be noticed if any one came into the upper hall. Then, breathing an inward prayer, she unlatched the window, raised the sash and stepped backward to a point of vantage beside the desk.

At first she saw nothing, but presently found herself enveloped for an instant in a flash of light from a small bullseye lantern and heard a low exclamation of surprise from the darkness outside. Harriet rose to the emergency.

"Mr. Fitzgeorge," she began in a guarded undertone, "I am Miss Renwyck. Besides Miss Chittendon and myself, there is no one here."

There was silence for a moment.

"Do you give me your word on that?" asked the voice.

"I do."

"On your honor as a lady?"

"On my honor."

The light flashed out, and the head and shoulders of a man appeared above the window sill.

"Wait!" commanded Harriet. "Are you alone?"

"Sure," said the man; "you can see for yourself, Miss Renwyck," and thereupon he climbed cautiously into the room.

He turned his bullseye carefully about, cursorily inspected the hall outside, appeared satisfied and slipped his lantern into his pocket.

"Ah!" said the visitor as he caught sight of Miss Imogene's bloodless face. "You didn't go back on me, my dear. I didn't think you would, and I am much obliged to you."

"Stop!" said Harriet. "You must conduct this transaction with me. Imogene, is this Mr.—Fitzgeorge?"

"Y-e-s!" faltered the shivering young lady. "It's—it's he."

"Very well," Miss Renwyck began again. "Then we needn't waste further time. If you have the letters you spoke of"—

"Wait a minute," the man interrupted. "We can't talk in here. It's too near the front of the stairs, and I don't want to run any unnecessary risks either for you ladies or for myself. What room does that door lead to?"

He pointed to the left, while Harriet, following his shadowy gesture, wondered if he were up to some crafty trick.

"Mr. Fitzgeorge," she said, "I prefer to transact this matter where we are. I see no reason"—

Again the man interrupted her.

"All right," he answered carelessly; "it isn't my risk, you know. If your father came down those stairs suddenly I might have to shoot; that's all. I don't want to injure him, of course, but"—

"Oh, Harriet, please!" moaned a shrinking voice at her elbow, and Harriet, seeing the wisdom of the move, gave in.

"That is the billiard room," she answered, "but it also connects with the hall. Stand where you are, and when you hear me call you may follow me. Come, Imogene."

A Nervous Wreck

Now in Robust Health.

Mrs. M. E. Harron, of Newton, Ont., writes: "I must say our son would have been in a consumptive's grave long ago had it not been for PSYCHINE. He was taken down with La Grippe and a severe cold. His whole system was weak, including his lungs, which were seriously affected, as is always the case after La Grippe.

"After taking several remedies and treatments we procured PSYCHINE, and tongue cannot tell the marvellous results brought about in two months. He gained over twenty pounds in weight, and strength and appetite returned."

Mr. Harron himself is most emphatic as to the beneficial result of using PSYCHINE. He declares, "To-day I am in splendid health and have never been sick a day since I took PSYCHINE."

PSYCHINE is the greatest tonic known to medical science. It builds up the system and tones up every organ of the body, enabling it to resist and throw off disease. Weak nerves cannot exist where PSYCHINE is used consistently. Send for a trial bottle and prove the truth of these statements.

PSYCHINE is sold by all druggists and dealers, 50 cents and $1.00 a bottle.

Fishery Schooner Burns.

Halifax, May 21.—The French fishing schooner Revenue was burned while fishing on the Grand Banks at an early hour. The crew of 20 had to scramble for the dories, and after rowing about for ten hours sighted a schooner, which brought them to St. Pierre. Three other vessels have been lost so far this season.

The Theatrical Warfare.

Chicago, May 21.—The Western Theatre Managers' Association has decided to throw the gauntlet into the face of the theatrical syndicate and demand that the New York men agree to the "open door" policy.

Six Years for Bank President.

New Orleans, May 21.—William Adler, convicted of misappropriating funds of the now defunct State National Bank of New Orleans, of which he was president, was sentenced to six years in the federal prison at Atlanta, Georgia.

Want Conciliation Boards.

Sydney, N.S., May 21.—Employes of both the Nova Scotia Steel & Coal Co. and the Cumberland Railway & Coal Co. have asked for boards of conciliation.

Drowned at Sea.

London, May 21.—The captain of the Allan Liner Ionian reports that a steerage passenger named William Richards, belonging to Toronto, was lost overboard on the night of the 14th.

Fall Breaks Neck.

Stratford, May 21.—Mrs. John Rehberg, aged 77 years, fell downstairs at 3.30 o'clock yesterday morning and broke her neck.

C.P.R. Tunnel.

Field, B.C., May 20.—In a few weeks the famous Big Hill at Field, with its terrific grade, its safety switches, and its banks of half-charred cinders, will be a thing of the past as far as the C.P.R. is concerned.

For twenty-five years it has been a bugbear to the company. On Wednesday last the separating rock of the second of the spiral tunnels between Field and Hector was broken through. The two bores met within a fraction of an inch. Nothing much now remains to be done except to lay the steel through the tunnelling over the new roadbed in connection with it.

Will Ask Abdul to Disgorge.

Constantinople, May 20.—The grand vizier has chosen a small committee to visit Abdul Hamid, the deposed Sultan, and ask him to give up to the present Government the various sums of money he has on deposit in foreign countries. This committee will remind Abdul Hamid that his life was spared and will be spared; that the Government allows him $5,000 a month for his maintenance, and that it is only just that he should return the money drawn from the country. It is expected that Abdul Hamid will consent.

Manslaughter Charged.

Chesterville, May 20.—Isaac Garlough, farmer, aged 40, must stand trial on a charge of manslaughter, resulting from the shooting of Ross Backstead, aged 18, last Thursday night.

A coroner's jury Tuesday night found that the youth "came to his death from a gunshot wound" at the hands of the accused. Yesterday afternoon Magistrate Clement committed him for trial at the next assizes at Cornwall.

Abbey Bars Meredith.

London, May 20.—The Westminster authorities have declined permission to places the ashes of George Meredith in the abbey. An appeal to the dean to this end was strongly supported by the Society of Authors, representing all the leading writers, by Premier Asquith, Lord Morley, Rudyard Kipling and James M. Barrie. Mr. Barrie made a personal appeal to the dean, but in vain.

Threw Messenger In Chest.

Augusta, Ga., May 20.—Two robbers boarded southern passenger train No. 17 at Warrenville, S.C., ten miles east of here, knocked the express messenger senseless with a piece of rubber hose and ransacked the car, after throwing the messenger in an empty express chest.

An Undesirable.

Brockville, May 20.—Victor Jackson, a young Englishman, just out, who had been convicted of theft, was deported from here yesterday, Inspector Devlin of Kingston taking him in charge.

Port Union.

Port Union, May 20.—The old historical place known as Laskey's Hotel will be sold by public auction on Friday, on the premises, at 2 p.m. The late Thomas J. Laskey died a few months ago and his estate is to be sold. This place is quite historic, as at the time the Grand Trunk used wood for firing, thousands of cords of wood would be piled here at times.

Want Canadian Securities.

London, May 19.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Treasurer Coady of Toronto, speaking to the Canadian Associated Press, denied that there was the slightest truth in the statement, as claimed by Mr. Lawson of The Financial Times, that the British investor was fighting shy of Canadian securities. On the contrary, Mr. Coady had been besieged by financial people anxious to secure business.

Regarding the hydro-electric scheme Mr. Coady said he had scarcely heard it mentioned in financial circles, let alone adversely so.

Colony for Jews.

New York, May 19.—Information has been received from London by The Jewish Daily News concerning organizations striving to ameliorate the condition of the Jews into one body for the purpose of inaugurating a Jewish colonization on a large scale in Mesopotamia.

Jacob N. Schiff, the New York banker and philanthropist, is the leader of the movement which is described as the largest Jewish movement since the dispersion. Mr. Schiff is now traveling through Europe.

THREW CARBOLIC ACID ON HIS FACE

Young Man Was Badly Burned About the Face and Neck

Havelock, May 20.—Mr. M. J. Anderson, of Preneveau, was severely burned about the face and neck on Sunday evening about 8.30, when a lady threw carbolic acid in his face as he was walking along Quebec street with a young lady of the town. Mr. Anderson says he recognized the acid thrower, and a summons has been issued for her appearance in court on Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock to answer to the charge, which is a most serious one. The case has caused great interest and comment, and its conclusion will be anxiously awaited by many.

THE TEACHERS' CONVENTION CLOSES SUCCESSFUL SESSION

It was a very profitable and interesting session that the members of the convention enjoyed this morning. The Teachers' Institute has never before had a more instructive or well-balanced programme, and the interest shown by the many members increases with the presentation of each subject.

Miss J. A. Jackson opened the morning session with a paper on elementary reading. This subject, always an interesting one, was presented on a most elaborate but practical scale. A small class of pupils satisfied the most critical observer that the various and useful methods employed by the above teacher, are productive of the best results. Mr. J. M. Roszel followed with a paper on advanced reading, and the favorable discussion lead by Misses Morrow, Sloan and Brown, which followed, showed in a measure the general appreciation of the speaker's efforts.

Mr. L. J. Pettit, in a masterly treatment of the subject history, dealt principally with the teaching of same in the public schools. A few well outlined plans, showing the value of connected biographical lesson, and the things that pupils should master in the elementary schools were the chief features of the address. Mr. W. L. Richardson and Miss A. S. Staples were the leaders of discussion, and the comment on the paper read showed that the principles urged by the speaker were of a value most beneficial to the teachers present. The officers for the coming year were elected and routine business, including considerable discussion on the matter of the purchase of a pedagogical library was transacted.

ELOQUENT ADDRESS ON THE STRENGTH AND WEAKNESS OF OUR NATIONAL STRUCTURE

Rev. Canon Cody, D.D., LL.D., of Toronto, Spoke to a Large and Appreciative Audience in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute Last Night —An Appealing Discourse.

The assembly hall of the Collegiate Institute was filled last evening by school teachers attending the convention here, and also a number of citizens who are interested in our educational work, who listened to a stirring and eloquent address on "The strength and weakness of our national structure," by the Rev. Canon Cody, D.D., LL.D., of Toronto. The chair was occupied by Principal Dunlop of Queen Alexandra school, and Miss Helen Davies and Prof Park greatly pleased the audience with vocal and violin selections respectively.

On being introduced, the Rev. Canon Cody received an enthusiastic reception. He said he regretted that, owing to having officiated at a wedding previous to coming to the city, he had misplaced his notes, and, to use a "shooting term," would have to speak without a rest. The first important feature of this Dominion of ours is its connection with the Empire and Motherland. We could say with love and pride, that we are of the national blood, and belong to an empire which can boast of its national freedom and religious liberty. All of the best that the world knows has had a beginning in that little island known as Great Britain or the Motherland. Sir John A. Macdonald had used the words "A Briton I have lived; a Briton I will die," and for us to say that we too are of the British Empire meant something. There are to-day 400,000,000 people looking to King Edward as their sovereign, and his golden crown is what binds them together. There was no definitely defined colonial policy in England, and when Australia and Canada were discovered it looked only like a happy chance that they should come under the wing of the Empire, so when we say empire we should feel that we have a noble heritage. To-day we are in the third period of colonial policy and the colonies are bound to Britain by a bond of love and sympathy. The second element of our strength is in our own romantic past. In the first there was the regime of France and next the formation period from 1760, when Montreal fell under the line of confederation, which period saw the long fight for constitutional government. The next period was that of the building up of Canada, and the speaker gave an interesting account from the time Upper Canada was set apart until the completion of the Dominion. The third element of our strength is our natural resources, which we, as Canadians, know too little about. Canada is a country worth working for, and not as the French king had said, when he gave the country away, "a few acres of snow." We have rich minerals, timber, grain and water power, all of which are only in the first stages of infancy. In Ontario, Quebec and Nova Scotia we are just beginning to understand what is in the surface. But there are rivals we have to contend with, and we should take this into consideration. The fourth element of our strength is our national life. We come from a stock of nation builders. Canada is face to face with a serious problem, caused by the large number of foreigners now in our land. One-third of the population of Winnipeg is composed of foreigners, and they have settled in other places in large numbers. The fifth element of our strength is our constitution. We have as perfect a democracy as we might wish to have. We commenced without a heritage of pauperism and crime, and have received a fair start. But it is not what Canada has done in the past, but what she will do in the future, and all these elements of strength summarized spell opportunity. We are now beginning to feel the responsibility attached to us. We owe a lot to the motherland and loans amounting to one billion of dollars is only one of the many things that we should be grateful for.

We receive a great deal of outside criticism but we should not resent anything that is fair, but endeavor to become more perfect.

Several other weaknesses of our Dominion were dealt with by the speaker, and if Canada is going to be in the future what is should be, it was up to us as individuals, to do our part in building up this great and glorious Dominion.

At the conclusion of the address a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Rev. Canon Cody.

EXPLANATION OF FAILURE OF ONTARIO STEEL WARE CO.

Editorial in Toronto Star of Local Interest in Connection With Purity Ware By-law—How the Firm Was Forced to Assign.

The article that is given herewith should be of interest to the ratepayers who are following the Purity Ware, Limited. It appears as a special industrial editorial in the Toronto Star on Wednesday, January 20th, last. The heading is "What Tinware Makers Did to a New Factory," etc. The company referred to has been spoken of recently in connection with the Purity Ware concern. Mr. Baker, one of the gentlemen interested in the new company, was connected with the Ontario Steel Ware Co. as stated by Mr. Kendry a few evenings ago and the following article is purposed to show that the failure was not due to lack of ability on Mr. Baker's part as it was to the action of the company's competitors. The editorial is as follows:

There is sufficient excuse for turning once more to a discussion of the conditions governing the manufacture and sale of tinned and enameled ware in this country. This excuse is based on the fact that conditions governing this particular line of trade seem to be typical of those governing many other lines, and on the further fact that the letter from Mr. McClary, published in the issue of Friday last, did not contain all the facts in regard to the closing of the factory of the Ontario Steel Ware, Limited.

The Story Behind the Closing

There is an exceedingly interesting story in connection with the closing of the factory in question. Mr McClary's statement that the closing was due to the limited market afforded for the factory's output is in a measure true, but the statement does not tell the whole truth. The market for the output of the Ontario Steel Ware Company was artificially limited. When the managers of the company came to sell their product they found that a combination of other factories had arrangements with dealers in enameled ware under which these dealers were entitled to a certain rebate if they sold $1,500 worth of the goods produced by the combine in a year; where sales of combine goods aggregated $4,000 the rebate was greater. These dealers were anxious enough to buy some of the offerings of Ontario Steel Ware, but they were met by this practical difficulty: The Ontario Steel Ware Co. could not supply all the lines dealers required, and if the dealers bought partly from the independent company and partly from the combine their sales of combine goods in a year would not be sufficient to entitle them to the promised rebate in the latter.

Made Progress Despite Handicap

Still, despite this handicap, the new company began to build up a trade. Finding the avenue first sought partially closed, it secured large orders from departmental stores in the lines which it was in a position to manufacture. Business was being steadily pushed along this and other lines, when the money stringency began in October, 1907. When the financial situation became acute the Ontario Steel Ware Company found itself in the same position in regard to its bank as many other industries found themselves in at the same time.

Prices Cut at an Opportune Time

Measures were, however, taken to secure from other sources the funds necessary to carry on the business, but just as arrangements to this end were about completed there was a sudden drop in the price at which the combine had been selling pails. Instead of allowing dealers a discount of 45 per cent. from list price the combine made the discount 60 per cent, to dealers buying from it. This action alarmed the men who were preparing to come to the assistance of Ontario Steel Ware. They saw that if, in addition to facing a commercial depression, they to face a war in prices with a powerful combination, the capital they proposed investing in the industry would be jeopardized.

AN OFFER OF TERMS.

Then something else happened. While those behind the independent company were halting between two opinions—while they were debating whether to let the business go or risk more money in building it up in the face of still stronger competition than had been met in the past—a new proposition came under review. This was nothing less than an offer from the combine to take over the entire plant and stock of the company at a little less than inventory prices, but still at a figure which was practically equivalent to one hundred cents on the dollar. The offer was accepted and the deal closed.

WHERE THE 33 CENTS ON THE DOLLAR CAME IN.

How does the statement as to the price at which the plant of the Ontario Steel Ware was sold square with the statement in Mr. McClary's letter about disposing of the same at thirty-three cents on the dollar? In this way: After the combine had obtained possession of the plant, it sold the same in a way calculated, not to make money out of the plant, but to prevent it from being again used to manufacture goods which would compete with the output of the combination.

The plant was, it appears, broken up into sections—a little disposed of here and a little there—while some of the principal machines were sent back to the United States, whence they came. It is quite likely the combine did not, when selling in this way, realize over a third of the price it had paid for the plant. But it was well worth the other two-thirds to have a dangerous rival out of the way, particularly since the heads of the rival concern were individually bound, as part of the conditions of sale, not to embark in a similar line of manufacturing for a term of years.

A PECULIAR SUCCESSION OF EVENTS.

But mark the sequence of events. A new manufacturing company finds itself partially shut out of the ordinary retail market by an arrangement as to rebates, under which an existing combine has these retail dealers bound to buy only from itself; the new factory gets into a financial corner; just as a way is being opened out of the difficulty; the combine, against which it has been struggling, cuts prices on one of the leading lines; while the capitalists who had been coming to the rescue of the endangered industry, are suffering from cold feet as a result of this latest development, an offer is made to buy their plant at a sum equivalent to its actual value; the offer is accepted; the equipment of the independent factory on passing into the hands of the combine is broken up, and scattered far and wide, and then—the combine in undisputed control of the field—prices are restored to the old level.

COMBINATION AND INEFFICIENCY.

There is something still to come in this story of the combination in enameled ware. There is, of course, a price list by which all parties to the combination are bound. All the factories in the association are not equally efficient. In some the cost of production is much lower than it is in others. But the combine price list is fixed at a figure high enough to allow a profit even on the output of the most inefficient plant. On the output of the best equipped factory here is a magnificent profit.

If we had free competition the public would get the benefit of the low cost of production in the well equipped factory, and the poorly equipped ones would be forced to come up to date. Competition would make for improved quality in output, and a lowered cost to the consumer. With combination, under protection of the tariff, consumers are forced to pay prices high enough to show a profit even on the running of an antiquated plant.

The story of the combination in enameled ware is the story, with trifling variations as to details, of scores of other combinations. The tariff is so arranged as to prevent foreign competition, and a domestic combination fixes prices at a level sufficiently high to ensure a profit even on the output of factories with obsolete plants operated by antiquated methods.

Combines hamper enterprise, destroy individuality, and compel the consumer to pay unduly high prices for the necessities of life.

LORD BERESFORD GIVES SOME ADVICE TO AUSTRALASIANS

British Admiral Says Contributing Dreadnoughts Will Not Prove so Valuable as to Build Cruisers to Protect the National Trade Routes—United Empire Could Laugh at the World

London, May 22.—Addressing a gathering of Australians here last night on the naval question, Admiral Lord Charles Beresford urged that the colonies, instead of contributing toward the building of a Dreadnought, should build cruisers to protect their trade and commerce, and to form the nucleus of a navy of their own, after the example of Japan, which a half century ago was fighting with tortoiseshell armor and bows and arrows.

This, he said, should not be difficult for the colonies. What the British Empire wanted was a navy that was able to go out and attack and protect trade routes.

He considered that "our insane advertising of Dreadnoughts" offended other nations and involved Europe in terribly expensive naval competition.

"The only way the colonies can help us is by protecting their own trade routes. The idea of having destroyers and submarines in their home waters would not carry out the object at all. If the dominions would begin with cruisers they would eventually go in for a larger growth, but to meet the difficulty and gain the object they have in view, namely, to help the Mother Country, the investment of money in cruisers will most likely meet the object desired."

Beresford advocated the occasional interchange of ships and declared that if the nations of Canada, South Africa, Australia and Britain cemented together for defence they could laugh at the rest of the world.

He considered it absolutely necessary to lay down a Dreadnough in 1909.

It is stated in reference to the unofficial announcement that the Government will order the four contingent Dreadnoughts in 1909 that Asquith is anxious to meet the colonial statesmen before deciding the question.

Bryce Defends the Press.

Mohonk Lake, N.Y., May 22.—With an imposing array of speakers, the fifteenth annual meeting of the Lake Mohonk Conference on international arbitration concluded its deliberations last night.

The speakers included Right Hon. James Bryce, British Ambassador; Alfred Mossley of London; Representatives Richard Barthold of Missouri; Edward J. Wheeler, editor of Current Literature; Frank Chaplin Bray, editor of the Chautauquan; and Dr. Richard Watson Gilder, editor of The Century. Mr. Bryce said in part:

"Why is the practice of nations regarding peace so much worse than the theory? One of the answers most often given is that ill-feeling between nations leading up to war is due to the newspapers, which, when a dispute arises between two peoples, are accused of misrepresenting the purposes and the sentiments of the other people, and so leading each people to believe itself wholly in the right and the other wholly in the wrong.

"It is not my business to defend the newspapers, but in the interests of truth and justice it must be asked whether it is really they that are to blame. In every country the newspapers reflect the wishes of the people, that is, to ourselves, the ordinary citizens, who are the ultimate masters both of the Government and the press."

BIG BLAZE AT MONTREAL

Canada Lead Works Destroyed—Loss is Quarter of Million Dollars.

Special to the Review.

Montreal, May 22.—The Canada Lead Works of the Jas Robertson Co. Ltd, William street made a spectacular blaze this morning when the extensive plant was completely destroyed. The loss was a quarter of a million dollars. The fire is supposed to have originated in the packing room in the centre of the plant and spread to all sides before being discovered.

As a result a large portion of the property was in flames when the firemen arrived. Fortunately there was no wind and the firemen were able to prevent the fire from spreading to adjoining property. The company is understood to be well insured.

DEAD AT AGE OF HUNDRED AND SIX

Smith's Falls, May 22.—Thomas Smith, the oldest person in Ontario, if not in the Dominion, is dead at his home in Burgess, Lanark County, at the remarkable age of 106 years. Up to the very end of his life he was in possession of all his faculties. Until two weeks ago he was in the enjoyment of excellent health, and last fall he chopped wood and did a great deal of other work about the farm.

He was a native of Ireland and came to Canada in 1838, and settled in Lanark County. He was noted for his feats of strength and his prowess in wrestling.

LOGGERS DROWNED

Four Meet Death in Rouge River, Quebec — Three Were Brothers.

Montreal, May 22.—Word reached the city late last night that four men in the employ of the Riordan Paper Co. had been drowned on the upper waters of the Rouge River in Quebec. Details of the disaster are very meagre, but as far as can be learned the men were in a boat which capsized in the swift current, and they were carried away. They were engaged in log-driving, and it is thought they were crossing from one side of the river to the other when the accident occurred. A sad feature of the accident is that three of the men were brothers, named Grenier, living in the village of Ascension. The fourth victim is unknown, but his home is said to be at Avoca, Que. The accident occurred about 125 miles from Calumet, which is at the mouth of the Rouge.

67,000 Men Stop Work.

New York, May 22.—Throughout the country wherever the Standard Oil has a station or a branch there was a pause yesterday during the hours of the funeral of H. H. Rogers to mark the passing of the first vice-president of the company. Orders were issued that all operations of the company should cease between 10 and 12 o'clock, and these applied to every one of the 67,000 employes—a condition which had not existed in the giant corporation since its foundation more than 35 years ago. John D. Rockefeller did not attend the funeral as he is in Hot Springs, Va., with Mrs. Rockefeller, whose convalescence from a severe illness would not permit him to leave her.

MONGOLIAN IS OUT OF DANGER

Vessel Escapes From Jam and Anchors in Open Water

St. John's, Nfld., May 22.—The Allan Line steamer Mongolian early yesterday freed herself from the ice pack off the entrance to St. John's harbor, in which she had been imprisoned for two days.

Unable to enter Bay Bulls harbor, 18 miles from here on account of ice, she will anchor in open water beyond Cape Race until the wind clears the ice.

When the Mongolian reached Cape Race the agents of the Allan Line here signalled instructions to Captain Williams to proceed to Halifax and land the few passengers originally destined for St. John's, together with the 200 tons of cargo consigned to this port.

Comprehensive Patriotism Wanted.

London, May 22.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—A brilliant gathering attended the annual dinner of the Royal Colonial Institute. Alfred Lyttleton, presiding, said the true way to get a great Imperial navy was to foster a national spirit in the Dominions. What needed to be developed was not merely a sense of nationality, but a comprehensive patriotism, embracing the Empire as a whole. He emphasized the splendid audacity of New Zealand in announcing to the world the unity of the Empire. Patriotic speeches were also delivered by Hall Jones, representative of New Zealand, Earl Jersey and Sir Gilbert Parker.

FRENCH STRIKE IS OVER NOW

Paris, May 22.—Following the vote of the builders and masons yesterday afternoon favoring a return to work, the federal committee of the general federation of labor decided officially to announce the end of the strike.

The strikers in Paris made several attempts yesterday to invade the factories and buildings where the men had refused to quit work. This resulted in minor riots and a number of arrests.

Thursday night a valve in the air reservoir of the subway under the Seine was unscrewed. Fortunately this was discovered, else the workmen entering the caisson would have been subjected to great danger.

OTTAWA RIVER IS OVERFLOWING

Ottawa, May 22.—Fifteen hundred men are thrown out of employment as a result of some of the mills and factories at the Chaudiere having had to close down because of unprecedented high water.

Many of the lumber piles on the Ottawa are floating. Aylmer road bridge is covered with two feet of water, and the Hull Electric Railway is engaged in raising its tracks.

At Gatineau Point, fifty houses are surrounded by water and people are living in the second storeys. Gatineau Bridge has been closed and labelled dangerous.

The high water situation is as grave as in 1893, with the river 25 feet deep at Rideau Locks, and it is feared that the record of 29 feet 6 inches made 33 years ago may be reached.

Whitefish are being rapidly exterminated in Lake Winnipeg as result of non-observance of close season.

BABY'S BODY IN NEW MADE GRAVE

Owen Sound, May 22.—The discovery of a new grave in the Lutheran cemetery at Williamsford on March 18, for which no burial certificate had been issued, when opened was found to contain the body of a new-born baby. The coroner's jury found death was due to a fall or a blow inflicted by some person or persons unknown.

Maggie Bleich, a German girl, 16 years old, of Williamsford, is the mother of the infant. She admitted that her brother had placed it in the cemetery.

The father of the girl has preferred a serious charge against Arthur Dargavel of Dornick, who will appear before the magistrate on May 27.

BANK STATEMENT FOR LAST MONTH

Ottawa, May 22.—The bank statement for April, just issued, does not indicate any marked change in business conditions as compared with March.

Deposits payable on demand totalled $207,039,031, as compared with $200,843,984 in March, while notice deposits amounted to $50,450,722 as against $455,626,844. The revenue stood at $75,607,676, which was practically same as in March, while note circulation was something over one million dollars less.

On the credit side of the account, variations between March and April figures are slight. Short loans in Canada total $50,213,950, as against $48,911,738, while call loans elsewhere stood at $114,493,570, against $117,850,605. Current loans totalled $584,388,988, as against $580,100,398. Total assets for April stood at $1,025,015,618, as against $1,018,390,211, while total liabilities were $841,095,530, as against $833,461,465.

A GRAND KIDNEY MEDICINE

"Fruit-a-tives" Cured Him When Everything Else Failed.

Ulverton, Que., March 17th, 1908.

I wish to place on record, for the sake of others who may be suffering in the same way that I suffered, that no medicine I ever took did me so much real good as "Fruit-a-tives" did.

I suffered for many years with Kidney Trouble, with bad pain in the back.

I took every known kidney remedy and kidney pill, but nothing gave me any relief, and I was getting discouraged.

I was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives" and did so—and this medicine cured me when everything else failed.

I used altogether fifteen boxes of "Fruit-a-tives," and from the outset they gave me relief and I am now practically well again; no pain, no distress, and all symptoms of kidney disease have entirely left me. I am very thankful to be once more well, and I freely make this statement for the sake of others who may suffer as I did. To them, I say try "Fruit-a-tives," as they are a grand kidney medicine.

CITY ASSISTING IN DECORATING

George Street Looks Much Better as a Result

At last night's meeting of the council it was decided to spend some money on decorating the streets for the holiday and the work was done today by J. J. Turner and Sons. Streamers and flags have been put up at the street intersections on George St. from Dalhousie to Murray street, and the appearance of the thoroughfare has been greatly improved as a result.

Ald. Bradburn brought up the matter at the meeting and all the aldermen were in favor of the suggestion.

SPECIAL DEVOTIONS AT ST. JOSEPH.S

Sepcial devotions will be held in St Joseph's church, Douro, for 10 days beginning Sunday May 23rd. There will be a mission which will last for a week followed by forty hours devotion. Special sermons will be delivered by the Missionary. Further regulations will be made known on Sunday next.

DATES OF LOCAL WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

THE LOCAL OPTION MOVEMENT IN THE CITY

The Matter Appearing in This Department is Furnished by the Peterboroug Temperance and Moral Reform League Which Has Arranged for its Publication.

THE TRUTH ABOUT WINE AND BEER DRINKING

At every turn the advocate of temperance legislation is met with the argument that the drinking of wine and beer is not injurious. We are told that if men would abstain from the use of whisky, gin, brandy and other stronger liquors and drink only wine or beer, it would be a benefit and not an injury to them. In support of this contention we are told that in the wine-producing countries of Southern Europe, where people drink wine freely from childhood to old age, they are never intoxicated and never injured by it. Everyone has heard that old fable, and most of us have believed that there is a good deal of truth in it.

A recent article in this column, giving the results of a long series of scientifically conducted experiments, showed that for either physical or mental work the efficiency of the human system is decreased by the smallest quantities of alcohol. That it makes no difference under what circumstances it is taken the result is still the same. There now appears an article by Mr. M. Woods, of Philadelphia, who has carried on a thorough investigation as to the actual condition of affairs in the wine and beer drinking countries. Dr. Woods is chairman of a committee charged with the preparation of certain textbooks on the effects of alcohol, and in connection with that work carried on the investigation referred to.

Fighting the Scourge

Dr. Woods' first conclusion is based on the fact that at the present time there exists in France, Italy, Germany, Belgium and other continental countries of Southern and Central Europe, just as vigorous a crusade against drink as among the people of Britain or America. At a recent anti-alcohol congress in Stockholm, there were on exhibition over 1,200 periodicals entirely devoted to fighting the evil, and less than 200 of them were in English.

The governments of nearly all the countries of Europe are at present concerned with legislation dealing in some way or other with the liquor traffic. It is the same awful curse everywhere calling for the same drastic measures of reform.

Effects of "Light" Drinking

Another line of argument is based on the statistics dealing with crime and insanity in these countries. It is pointed out that at Rome, 28 out of every 100 insane have been made mad through alcoholism; at Lucca 35, and at Genoa 30 in every 100. Authorities are quoted to show that in Germany 41 per cent. of all recorded crimes are due to drink, in Belgium 75 per cent., and in France and Italy probably even a higher percentage. Special attention is called to the fact that in the last mentioned countries the proportion of juvenile criminals is exceedingly high, and that it is attributed to the free use of wine in the homes and on the tables of the people when it is partaken of freely by the children.

Dr. Gordon Sharp writes in the Medical Temperance Review: "For many years it has been taught that slightly intoxicating beverages are not detrimental to the tissues, but we can, in truth, teach our patients to-day that the continual soaking with dilute alcohol in the shape of beers, ales and wines is harmful to the tissues, and often originate permanent damage to the liver, the brain and the spinal cord. It is often deplored by a certain class of people that we have not the light wines of France and Switzerland, or the light beers of Germany and Austria. They imagine that if we could introduce these and get the people to drink than, the whole difficulty would disappear and drunkenness would cease. There can be no greater mistake. One cannot live in any one of these countries without seeing the ravages of alcohol, but I will go farther and say that alcohol produces greater havoc among the people of France, Switzerland and Austria, than it does in Great Britain. The intelligent medical men and sociologists of continental Europe are fully alive to the danger and are doing all they can to call serious attention to it. Thus, the man who holds up continental practices to our emulation is lacking in knowledge of the actual state of things."

The truth about alcoholism in wine-drinking countries is a subject of tragic interest; but perhaps enough has been said to convince the reader that general sobriety in these regions is a popular fallacy.

LOCAL OPTION IN STIRLING

Stirling, with which many people in Peterborough are well acquainted, and which at one time was somewhat noted for the amount of liquor that was consumed there, has been under local option for slightly over a year. According to the leading merchants of Stirling, including its chief municipal officer, Reeve W. R. Mather, local option is proving a great success. This week, a member of the press committee of the Peterborough Temperance League, while in Stirling, took occasion to interview some of the leading merchants on the question of local option.

"Local option," said Reeve W. R. Mather, who conducts the largest general store in Stirling, "is proving a great success. Where there used to be cart loads of liquor consumed here, there are not wheelbarrows full now. It is true that some people will tell you, that more liquor is drunk now than before, but such is not the case, as any one who investigates the conditions can easily ascertain. Those who want to drink now, have to drive 16 miles to such points as Madoc, Trenton or Belleville to get it, and few of them care to do that. Where drunken crowds used to hang around the bar rooms, we now never see any signs of heavy drinking.

"We were told before we carried local option that it would kill the town and that it would drive away business. It has not done anything of the kind. In spite of a disastrous fire that wiped out a considerable portion of the business section of the town our citizens have erected new and more costly buildings than than those they have replaced, and business generally has been good. Many who used to spend their earnings in the saloon are now giving the money to their families, and our merchants feel the benefit. We have been very strict in exacting penalties when we have caught any person under the influence of liquor with the result that we now see little evidence of drinking. Local option has proved such a success in Stirling that I advise other municipalities to adopt it if they get the chance."

Another Enthusiast

All that had been said in favor of local option by Reeve Mather was endorsed by Mr. L. Meiklejohn, who conducts a large hardware store. "It has benefitted business; it has reduced drunkenness, crime; it has improved the position of many families, that formerly were in want through the wage earners spending their money on drink. While there is still a little liquor consumed, it is not to be compared in quantity to what was drunk when we had the open bar. Practically every person in Stirling will admit this, although there is an occasional odd one who contends that the contrary is the case. At one of our lodge meetings recently a member made the statement that more liquor is being consumed under local option that there was formerly. Although he was hooted down by practically everyone present, he held his ground. As a business man I willingly bear testimony to the fact that local option is benefitting Stirling."

The proprietor of one of the chief stationery stores in Stirling was asked for his views. "I do not see how any intelligent person can ask us if local option is proving a success," he replied. "Before we had local option thousands of dollars were spent for liquor. Since the bars have been closed, this money has been free for other purposes, and our merchants are reaping the benefit. Men who used to drink heavily are now reforming, and their families are being benefitted."

Another merchant said that he had been opposed to local option, but that during the past year he had seen so many families that had been benefitted by it, he had changed his views and would be willing to vote for local option should the question ever again be raised.

SPORTING NEWS

THERE WILL BE LOTS OF CLASS TO THIS FIELD OF WALKERS

"You'll see some walking," said Blake, the colored ped in referring to the six day race, which starts at the Brock street rink on Monday.

"Last year the race was a dead one in spite of the excitement it caused but this year there is a field of live starters and the spectators will see some real walking."

The race will be for two and a half hours nightly, with seven and a half hours on Saturday and will commence on Monday evening at eight o'clock.

The list of entries is as follows:

W. A. Hoagland, Auburn, N.Y.
James Harrison, Peterborough.
Geo. N. Brown, Auburn, N.Y.
Louis West, New York City.
John E. Blake, Syracuse, N.Y.
W. Spenceley, Peterborough.
Ray Fenton, Auburn, N.Y.
James A. Graham, Buffalo, N.Y.
Jim Dixon, (colored), Philadelphia, Pa.
Thomas Allen, Buffalo, N.Y.
John Blatchford, Peterborough.
J. Richards, Peterborough.
David Hartley, Peterborough.

SOME CANADIAN ATHLETES WHO HAVE WON FAME

At the Olympic games held last May at Shepherd's Bush, London, England, the Canadian athletes demonstrated that they are as good as the world's best. If, for nothing else, the Canadian representatives won the praise and admiration from all with whom they came in contact by their gentlemanly conduct. Of the Canadians who were most conspicuous Bobby Kerr, Canada's premier sprinter, came in for the largest share of the honors by winning the world's championship in the 200 meters from a field of the fastest runners of the present day. Kerr started in the 100 meters, but was defeated by Walker and Rector. Kerr also won the 100 and 200 meters English championships, and goes to England again this year to defend the title.

Wood, of Brantford, did exceedingly well, finishing fifth in the Marathon race of 26 miles, 385 yards. He was the first of the Canadian runners to finish.

Fred Simpson, the Peterborough wonder, finished next to Wood. Simpson was thought to be the best Canadian in the race, but was affected by the weather conditions.

Ed. Archibald, the pole vaulter, did not win first place in the Olympic games, but carried off the championship of England. Archibald's Canadian record is 12 feet 5 inches.

Jack Tait, Canada's entry in the 1,500 meters, did exceedingly well. Tait is a promising young runner, and looks like the best man in the middle distances in Canada.

Geo. Goulding was well up in the walk and since retiring from the game has broken several world records. Goulding holds the Canadian walking records from one to ten miles.

Billy Sherring, of Hamilton, won glory for himself and Canada by winning the classic Marathon race held at Athens, Greece, in 1906, Sherring won from the pick of the Canadians, demonstrating that they need not take a back seat to any of the world's best.

Mr. W. Tait, brother of Jack Tait, was a spectator at the Olympic games and got one of the finest collections of photos that were taken. Mr. Tait has been travelling around the country giving an illustrated lecture on the games, and the local Y.M.C.A. has secured him to lecture in the gymnasium on Thursday evening, May 27th. Tait has fifty life-size views, which will be thrown on a canvas and he will tell a complete story of the games. In his collection he has Dorando's sensational finish in the Marathon, Simpson finishing the Marathon. Hayes winning the Marathon. Bobby Kerr winning the world's championship in the sprints. Jack Tait on the mile. Bill Sherring winning the Athens Marathon. Archibald Goulding and many others. A small admission fee will be charged.

BICYCLE ROAD HANDICAP WILL BE HELD IN PETERBORO'

A big handicap bicycle race under the sanction of the CWA. is being arranged to take place in Peterborough. It will be held from a starting point in the city to be decided later, to Goose's Neck; Lakefield and return.

A local committee of which Mr. F. R J. Macpherson is chairman and Mr. Chas Banks is secretary, has charge of the arrangements.

The provisional committee appointed is composed of Messrs A. T Millard and M Miller. All particulars of the race may be had from any of the above.

The race will be one of a series to be held in Canada on that date and it is proposed to hold the finals for the Canadian road championship in Montreal or Toronto.

LACROSSE MATCH WILL BE BIG ATTRACTION MONDAY

St. Catharines and Peterborough Will Play at Riverside Park—Interesting Relay Between Walkers and "Red Thunderbolt"—Hoagland Will Face the Ball.

One of the biggest holiday sporting events will be the lacrosse match on Monday afternoon at Riverside Park between St. Catharines and Peterborough. There promises to be a record attendance of both St. Catharines enthusiasts and townspeople and the game should be an exceptionally fast one.

The local team will be chosen from Dobbin, Gilman, Dillon, Mein, Judd, Dobson, Glover, McCabe, Meagher, Bradt, Seymour, McCoy, Burns, Parnell, Donovan, Saunders and others.

The game will afford the first opportunity for a long time of the public seeing an interesting exhibition and both teams should give a good account of themselves. St. Kitts has one of the best twelves in the intermediate series and the locals have rounded into good shape by their practices at Riverside. The visitors will bring their strongest lineup with them. The ball will be faced by W. A. Hoagland, the champion walker.

The enterprising committee have secured a special feature which is of more than ordinary interest. It will be a relay race between Fred Simpson, the Red Thunderbolt, and Brown and West, the star American heel and toe performers. West and Brown will endeavor to walk two miles, each doing a mile, while Simpson is doing three. The handicap terms puts the competitors on an even footing and the most exciting kind of struggle should result.

The race will take place at three o'clock sharp, before the commencement of the lacrosse match.

The game will be played rain or shine.

BALL TOSSER'S CORNER

BALKING.

Rule 34.—A balk shall be;—Sec. 1—Any motion made by the pitcher while in position to deliver the ball to the bat without delivering it, or to throw to first base when occupied by a baserunner without completing the throw.

Sec. 2—Throwing the ball by the pitcher to any base to catch the baserunner without stepping directly toward such base, in the making such throw.

Sec. 3—Any delivery of the ball to the bat by the pitcher while either foot is not in contact with the pitcher's plate.

Sec. 4—Any delivery of the ball to the bat by the pitcher while he is not facing the batsman.

Sec. 5—Any motion in delivering the ball to the bat by the pitcher while not in the position defined by Rule 30.

Sec. 6—Holding of the ball by the pitcher so long as, in the opinion of the umpire, to unnecessarily delay the game.

Sec. 7.—Making any motion to pitcher while standing in his position without having the ball in his possession.

Sec. 8.—Making any motion of the arm, shoulder, hip or body the pitcher habitually makes in his method of delivering without immediately delivering the ball to the bat.

Sec. 9.—Delivery of the ball to the bat when the catcher is standing outside the lines of the catcher's position as defined in Rule 3.

If the pitcher shall fail to comply with the requirements of any section of this rule, the umpire shall call a "balk."

Only one game was played in the Eastern League yesterday. Rochester won from the Skeeters although the Bronchos put up a phoney exhibition of baseball. Score 4-3.

The Chicago Cubs won the only game in the National League, trimming Boston 7-0.

BETHANY VICTORS

Defeated Y.M.C.A. Football Team To-day, 1 Goal to 0

Bethany defeated the Y.M.C.A. in a Midland League football game this afternoon at Riverside Park by 1—0, and incidentally carry the honors of winning the first game in the league. The contest was a good exhibition, and both teams had many opportunities to score, but close checking prevented. The Bethany boys had the best of the argument in the second half and played strong all the time, while the local team appeared to be lagging.

Dr. McPherson and Ira Moore, backed effectually for the Y.M.C.A., while every man on the Bethany team starred on different occasions. The only score was notched by Sisson in a mixup in front of the Y. goal.

Geo. Skilding refereed. The teams were;—

Y.M.C.A.—Fleming, McNeil, Evans, Moore, Archibald, McPherson, Milburn, Coleman, French, Caniff, Castor, Bethany—Price, Morton. Breaton, Hamilton, Price, Staples, Sherin, Delong, Roberts, Coulter, Sisson.

BOWLING GREEN WILL BE OPENED ON THE HOLIDAY

Pres. and Vice President Will Play the Opening Game

The Peterborough Lawn Bowling green will be formally opened on May 24th at two o'clock when a game between the President and Vice-President will be played. All former and prospective members of the club are requested to be on hand.

The tennis courts will not be opened until the first of June. On account of the weather conditions which have prevailed the courts could not be put in shape as soon as was expected. The ground will be sodded instead of seeded as was the previous intention and as a result the courts will not be ready until the above mentioned date.

GOLF

The Golf Club will hold its mixed foursomes on Monday afternoon.

LEWIS BLAKE

DON'T OVERLOOK BLATCHFORD

A Review of Field Shows No More Promising Walker

With the big walk commencing on Monday it would be well for those interested to take Blatchford into account in figuring out how the men will finish within the money. Blatchford looks to be in the pink of condition and acts with a confidence which would give the impression that he is afraid of no competitor and has kept the clock busy trying to keep pace with him.

The Review's confidential sporting man is right on the inside as far as Blatchford's form is concerned and the information published is exclusive. On the advice of his friends Blatchford will drop in behind Hoagland at the start and hold the place. He thinks this will be the wisest course.

"Hoagland tells me I have nothing to fear," said Blatchford. He hasn't—it's a race, not a fight.

His Worship Mayor Rush has very kindly consented to start the walkers on their six night contest.

The rule that none but officials wearing badges will be strictly adhered to by the management.

All the walkers will be at the lacrosse game at Riverside Park in the afternoon. Champion Hoagland will face the ball and Brown and West will compete in a race against Fred Simpson. they to walk one mile each while Simpson runs three miles. There be a good afternoon's sport in the Park on Monday. The large new grandstand is large enough to hold all who wish to sit down.

The game will be played rain or shine.

PORT HOPERS COMING

Three rinks of lawn bowlers from Port Hope will be here on Monday arriving on the early train. They will meet three rinks of the local bowlers at Brookside green at nine o'clock. The green is in fine shape.

RAY FENTON HAS ARRIVED

Ray Fenton, the tireless toiler, arrived in the city last night from Auburn. Fenton will be there again with the pink tights and a brand new pair of cork grips.

Fenton has improved wonderfully since he was here last. and walked fourth in a race at Oswego, N. Y., last winter, getting a collection of over $27 that was contributed by the spectators.

The boy artist also won a suit of clothes for the most popular man on the track in a walk in Auburn, N.Y., recently.

PATRIOTIC SERVICE AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

Tomorrow the Holy Communion will be administered in St John's at 8 am. instead of at the usual hour.

At 11 am the sermon will be preached by Rev Dr Ker, of St Catharines, chaplain of the 19th regiment.

The service at 7 pm will be of a bright and patriotic character. An address appropriate to the occasion will be delivered by the Chaplain of the 57th regiment.

A special invitation is offered to officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the home and visiting regiments in uniform for whom seats will be reserved.

The tea you buy may be good but you may be quite sure it is if it is "Salada." It is infinitely more delicious and decidedly more economical than other teas because it goes farther.

MOST SUCCESSFUL TEACHERS' CONVENTION EVER HELD HERE

City School Inspector Mowat Speaks Highly of Peterboro's Schools and Educational System—Dr. Eastwood's Splendid Address "The Necessity of Med. Inspection in Public Schools"

The closing session yesterday afternoon of the best convention ever held in the city provided papers of unusual merit. Dr. J. H. Eastwood delivered an instructive address on "The Necessity of Medical Inspection in Public Schools". An outline of the diseases most prevalent among school children, the methods of detection of the symptoms of same, and in general the most effective plans to ensure protection from contagious diseases to children was given. A vote of thanks was tendered the speaker at the conclusion of his interesting address. A motion to bring the matter of medical inspection before the Board of Education was passed at the meeting.

Principal Downey, of the Central School staff, gave a most complete address on "Moral Instruction." In the selecting of Mr. Downey to handle this very difficult, but important subject, the committee made a very wise choice. The speaker at the close of the reading was very favorably criticized by the leaders of discussion.

Mr. Hodgson and Miss M. A. O'Connell and Inspector Mowat brought the convention to a close by a short talk on "A Visit to the Ottawa Public Schools." A comparison between the buildings, teachers and work of the Capital City and Peterborough was made. And as Ottawa is generally considered to have schools of the very best type, and a very high standard of proficiency of instruction, particularly in the manual subjects, the speaker said that Peterborough compared very favorably with the former city. He congratulated the teachers on the success of the convention, and gave the retiring officers considerable credit for the same. The inspector also remarked that he was greatly pleased with the High School staff for their great interest and helpful advice given during the convention.

MR. BOWMAN ASKS FOR BETTER TERMS FOR THE "STREET CORNER WORKERS"

Mr. William Bowman waited on the city council last night and asked that the "street corner workers" be permitted to carry on their business in Peterborough provided they keep a specified distance off the main thoroughfares. Mr Bowman produced a Review and read a statement by the Chief of Police to the effect that "fakirs,' 'cane men,' and others of that ilk would not be permitted to operate in Peterborough. Mr Bowman said this would be a hardship as the Ontario government permitted certain games of skill in the province and such games should not be prohibited in Peterborough. The "street corner men" Mr Bowman said, should be allowed to make a living. He suggested that they be licensed. "And remember I have a vote," said Mr. Bowman as he departed.

No action was taken in the matter.

WANTS TO BUY LOTS.

Ald. Bradburn said he had been asked what the city would take for a lot on Caddy street, east ward, and one on Water street, back of the Colonial Weaving Co's. property.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Metheral that the matter be left with the property committee to report back to the council. This was carried.

MR. W. H. G. ARMSTRONG WAS HONORED BY FELLOW ORANGEMEN LAST NIGHT

A large number of Orangemen and their friends gathered last night at the Orange Hall, Simcoe street to say farewell to Mr W H G Armstrong, who leaves in a few days for Western Canada to accept the important position of Organizer for the Grand Orange Lodge of Saskatchewan. Mr Armstrong has taken a prominent part in Orange circles, throughout the county of Peterborough during the past eighteen years. He was formerly a member of Cabra LOL No. 203, of Tandragee, Ireland, and on coming to Peterborough became affiliated with LOL No 80. About a year ago, however, Mr Armstrong organized Duke of Manchester LOL No 50 largely a young man's Lodge, and became its first Worshipful Master.

He has also occupied the offices of W P. of RBP. No 261, W C in C of Royal Scarlet Chater, and was held Royal Scarlet Chapter and has held the position of County Master of West Peterborough for the past three years At the meeting of the Royal Black Knights of Ireland at Midland last year, Mr Armstrong was elected Grand Standard Bearer.

Mr. R H Juby, District Master of the city of Peterborough occupied the chair and fulfilled his duties in his usual efficient manner. He referred to Mr Armstrong's work in the Orange Lodge in Peterborough and felt that although the Orangemen of Peterborough would be the loser, Saskatchewan would gain materially.

Miss Wiley then rendered a musical selection which was greatly appreciated by the audience.

At this period Mr R N Hopkins read a farewell address from the members of Duke of Manchester LOL No 50, and Mr George Godfrey presented him with a Past Master's Jewel.

Worshipful Bro. W H G Armstrong,
County Master West Peterborough
Dear Sir and Bro.—

We, the members of Duke of Manchester Lodge No 50, in the District of the city of Peterborough, County of West Peterborough, desire to take this opportunity of extending to you our most hearty congratulations on your appointment to the most responsible position of Organizer of our honored order for the province of Saskatchewan.

We congratulate you, sir, on this signal mark of the esteem and confidence which the leaders of our order have in you, and we congratulate our own lodge in having produced from their ranks a member worthy of such an important position.

We look over your record of eighteen years' service in the lodges of this city and we remember that you have always been most faithful and efficient in every capacity, a stimulus and an example to the many young men who have joined our ranks in recent years.

We feel confident that you will take into your new and higher position the same energy and faithfulness which has marked your career here and we shall confidently anticipate a great work in the new province in which has so largely the future of the Dominion. We shall hope to see the Order which stands as a guardian of civil and religious liberty flourish abundantly in the splendid provinces of the West.

We wish you God-speed in your work, and health and prosperity to yourself and family in the land of promise. We trust that your interest in the lodges of this city will never grow less and that we shall at intervals have the pleasure of welcoming you again in our meetings. We realize the utter impossibility of repaying you for the time and ability that you have so willingly given to further the interests of our lodge, but we ask you to accept this Past Master's jewel with the hope that you may be long spared to wear it in Orange Circles and that it shall ever serve to remind you of the high esteem in which you are held by the members of LOL No 50.

Signed on behalf of LOL No 50;
R N Hopkins, W.M.
R Mitchell, D.M.
P Johnston, Treas.

Dated at Peterborough this 21st day of May 1909

On behalf of the Peterborough district Orange Lodge Mr. Henry Patterson read the following address, and Mr C E Wiley made the presentation;

Bro W. H. G. Armstrong.
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir and Bro—We, the members and friends of the District Orange Lodge of the city of Peterborough, having learned of your intended departure from our midst into a field of higher prospects, have gathered here this evening to say farewell, and to impress in some manner our feeling of regret in having to sever your connection with the brethren of this city.

While we regret the loss we are sustaining, we are pleased to know that your appointment as grand organizer for the province of Saskatchewan is one that is commendable.

While in our midst you have made many friends, both in the association and with those who have had the pleasure of your acquaintance. Your untiring efforts to advance the cause of civil and religious liberty in this city have been crowned with success, and we have only to point with pride to your own primary lodge, which you have recently organized, for proof of the fact that you are capable of discharging your duties in the west in such a manner as will do credit to the association.

We feel we cannot in mere words or actions repay you for the many kind acts done and words of encouragement and advice which have come from you, not only as from a superior officer, but from the brotherly standpoint you so nobly uphold. We, therefore, ask you to accept this suit-case, not for its intrinsic value, but as a slight token of the esteem in which you are held by the brethren of Peterborough.

As time passes by you will have formed new acquaintances, and this as a gift, will have passed from view, but we trust your thoughts may often bring you sweet recollections of the many pleasant hours spent with the Orangemen of this city.

Signed on behalf of the Orangemen Peterborough.

ROBERT JUBY,
District M.
CHAS. E. WILEY,
Dist. D.M.
R. N. HOPKINS,
Dist. Lect.
HENRY PATTERSON,
Dist. Fin. Sec'y.

Speeches were given by Messrs. Col. J. W. Miller, P.C.M.; Jos. Jones, P.C.M.; D. Hamilton, P. Com. in C. of Royal Scarlet Chapter; J. A. Carscadden, C. in C. R. S. Chapter; Robt. Wilson, P.D.M.; R. Baker, P.M., No. 80; N. A. Howard Moore, Fin. Sec'y No 50; Henry Patterson, D.M., No. 1175; J. Braggs, Nassau L.O.L.; Mr. Lawson, L.O.L. No. 321, and others. All emphasized Mr. Armstrong's services to Orangemen of Peterborough, and wished him every success in his new field of labor.

In replying Mr. Armstrong appreciated the kindness shown him, and the eulogy by the several brethren who had spoken. He had always tried to do what he could to help the order in the city, and elsewhere, and was glad that they appreciated what he had done, and he would always look back upon the time spent in Peterborough with pleasant recollections. Despite the fact that it was necessary to leave the city and the many friends he made in it, he felt he could be of more service in Western Canada. Though he was severing active connection with the city Orangemen, if there was anything he could do to help them it would be a pleasure to do so.

Refreshments were served and the meeting broke up by singing the National Anthem.

PRESENTED WITH A FOUNTAIN PEN

W.H.G. Armstrong Honored by Employees of Buff and Dip Department

Mr. W. H. G. Armstrong, who leaves in a few days for the west, was presented with a handsome fountain pen by the employees of the buffing and dipping department of the C.G.E. today at noon.

In connection with the presentation the following address was read;

We, your fellow-workmen of the buffing and dipping departments of the Canadian General Electric Company, Limited, desire to extend to you our hearty congratulations on your appointment to the important position of organizer of the Province of Saskatchewan, and our good wishes for your prosperity and success in your new situation.

We trust you will find the work congenial and find your condition improved in many ways and now that the time has come when we must say farewell, it recalls to our mind the many pleasant hours we have been permitted to enjoy in each others company. The years you have spent with us as the head of this department have always been marked with justice and kindness, and our acquaintance has been ripened into a friendship which time or absence cannot destroy.

We desire to present you with this fountain pen, which we trust you will receive as a small token of the esteem in which you are held, trusting it shall ever serve to keep in remembrance your fellow workmen of the buff and dip departments;—P. J. Fuller, W. G. Thorne, P. J. Gorham, Geo. Lynch, R. Jubby, J. J. Hickey.

EXCEPTIONALLY LARGE LAMB

Mr. Wm. Braden, of Smith, reports that a ewe lamb which weighed 16 1-2 pounds, was born on his farm on Wednesday. This is an exceptional weight, the average being less than half that.

THE NEW POWER POLICY

The price at which the Burleigh power privilege in its entirety is offered to the city is not yet to be made public, by request of the owners. It would appear however, as if with all charges of whatsoever kind, including sinking-fund, paid, electric power could be hooked on to the motors in Peterborough at a rental of say $11 or $12 per horse power, per annum for a fairly large order. This price or anything near it would put Peterborough in a very favorable position in comparison with those western towns now being supplied with Niagara power. In fact if Peterborough adopts a forward policy and acquires powers within easy reach and develops them it will not be necessary to lend public money as an inducement to industries looking for a desirable place to settle in. One thing about Burleigh and some of the other powers spoken of is that their natural and best market is Peterborough. So soon as they seek to go further afield line charges and charges of operation lessen their advantage in price to the consumer and therefore to the owner. But even then the price to Cobourg, Port Hope, &c. would place the latter in a good position with regard to competition from western places. Then we must consider how much power would it be necessary for us to rent in order to pay all charges. Otherwise we should have to take the question of non-rent bearing property into consideration. At the cheap rate per h.p. quoted, nearly all the power would have to be let. That is a chance however, which we must take. The next question is "Are there any other powers good enough to acquire and at an equally or more desirable rate to all concerned?" If so, our city fathers will no doubt look to that feature of the new policy. At any rate the forward movement is a good one and the council is deserving of every commendation for looking to the best interests of the city in the future. While private enterprise should be guarded with all care there are certain things which form the "key to the situation" that must be kept in hand to prevent the squeezing of the public by the private interests. Farther than this it is not perhaps wise to go since public operation does not look to even a fair profit and if carried too far will stamp out individual enterprise altogether. There is no sound principle, however, to oppose dealing with a municipality when it comes forward as an individual. Where a municipality is the "person" asking or acting, then it stands on the same basis as other persons. This distinction it is well to keep in view. In any event the new policy is of such vast importance that it is not well to hamper it by any lesser consideration that may cause the ratepayers to shy when the total amount is brought vividly before them. This error is never possible however, where the principle underlying transactions is sound. It is only departures from the true line of business policy that, we submit, entail blame when they do not work out. We have not heard what position the Burleigh power owners will be in at end of 60 year lease. This may affect the price.

LIQUOR CASES THIS MORNING

Indian Secured Liquor and Was Arrested Yesterday — Black-list Man, Secured Whiskey

Alexander Knott, from the Chemong reserve, was arrested yesterday in an intoxicated condition. He appeared before the magistrate this morning and pleaded guilty.

The accused imparted some important information to the court, and the case was enlarged until Wednesday morning.

COULD'T GIVE NAME

A blacklisted man pleaded guilty to having secured intoxicating liquor last Thursday, but on being asked who supplied the drink, could not say very much.

He gave a good description of the man, but did not know his name.

By the statements of several witnesses, sufficient information was secured to lead to the arrest of the suspected party and the case was enlarged until next Wednesday morning.

COL. ROGERS WAS HONORED BY HIS FELLOWS MASONS

Corinthian Lodge, No 101, A.F. and A.M., honored Worshipful Brother Col. H. C. Rogers last night, when they presented him with a past-master's jewel and gave hearty recognition of his long and useful membership. Col. Rogers has been chaplain of the lodge for many years, and is one of its oldest members.

He is leaving on Thursday for a visit to his sons, Walter and Harold, in England, and will take up his residence in Victoria, B.C., on his return.

The presentation last night was made on behalf of the lodge officers and members by Worshipful Brother H. R. H. Kenner, and general regret was expressed that Col. Rogers was leaving.

SUCCESSFUL CONVENTION WAS CLOSED YESTERDAY

Stirring Address on "Patriotism" by Rev. J. . Webb—Election of Officers—Other Business of Importance.

The County School Teachers' Convention concluded yesterday afternoon at four o'clock. The convention has been a most successful and instructive one. About 100 teachers were in attendance.

The opening exercises yesterday afternoon were conducted by the Normal School pupils.

Rev. Mr. Webb gave a very stirring address on "Patriotism." He spoke of the greatness of the Empire, and dwelt on the fitness of King Edward for his exalted position. The speaker dwelt on the South African war. He spoke of the greatness of Canadian fisheries, her grand scenery, her magnificent resources, her great area of arable land, and last, but by no means least, her great love for the Motherland. He closed by urging the teachers to have for their motto, "I owe my country a life."

Mr. Keys, of the Normal School staff, gave a very interesting programme, followed by teachers on observing "Empire Day."

President Frappy gave a few opening remarks, thanking the convention for electing them for the past year. He spoke on the aims of the teachers and urged them to make the school work practical, pleasant and profitable.

Mr. J. L. Garvin, of Lakefield, next gave an address on "Grammar." The noun is based upon its meaning, so that it is neither function or relation. The speaker gave the following basis of classification:—1, form; 2, meaning; 3, function; 4, relation. The function of the verb is to form a predicate, the participle and infinitive have verb meaning, but not verb function.

Mr. Bruder of Norwood, spoke on "Art." He began by saying: Drawing is the basis of art. We learn to draw for different objects, such as amusement, or to assist the meaning or to obtain perceptions. Pupils who are good writers are generally quick at drawing. Pupils who draw well become accurate; they note and see objects others cannot see. Mr. Bruder showed by blackboard illustrations how the three primary colors, yellow, red and blue, may be combined to produce green, orange and violet. He outlined a programme in art for pupils in the different classes. He closed by an appeal to the teachers to not forget the subject of art in their schools.

At the close of this address, the teachers adjourned to the assembly hall, where lunch was served by the Normal School students.

Inspector Lees spoke on "Charles Darwin." He divided his paper into the following divisions;—

I—DARWINIAN EVOLUTION.

1. Biological—Buffon, Erasmus, Darwin.
2. Geological—Lyell, Uniformitarianism; Principles of Geology; 1830.
3. Astronomical, "Nebular Theory," Kant, Sir William Herschel.

II—DARWIN.

1. Parentage—Inherited Characteristics.
2. Education—Prof. Henslow; a Naturalist's Voyage Around the World, 1831-1836.

III.—DARWINISM.

1. Incubation period, 1836-1859.
2. Origin of species, 1859.
3. Natural Selection, "Survival of the Fittest."

IV—EFFECTS

1. Popularity of the origin of species.
2. Extension of allied sciences.
3. Influence of the thought of to-day

At the close of Mr. Lees' address, President Frappy called on Mr. Barton Earle, who was present, to make a few remarks. He spoke of Mr. Earle as a former teacher, and assured him that he was always welcome to our conventions. Mr. Earle replied briefly, thanking the president for his kind invitation and assuring him of his great interest in school work.

Mr. P. O. Nelson, of Havelock, spoke on "Geography." He began by giving a short outline of the programme followed by ancient teachers. Mr. Nelson gave a very concise and well-thought-out plan for the teaching of the Continents. His paper was very interesting and was much appreciated by the convention.

Mr. Lees chairman of the Nominating Committee, reported as follows;—

President—S. A. Smitheon, Keene.

Vice-President—P. O. Nelson, Havelock.

Secretary-Treasurer—Miss M. Kirkpatrick, Norwood.

Executive Committee—Jas. L. Garvin, Miss Hamilton, Miss Ward.

Auditors—Miss Waters, Miss McLachlan.

On motion of Inspector Lees, seconded by Inspector Brown, the report was adopted.

It was moved by P. O. Nelson, seconded by J. L. Garvin, that the thanks of the convention be tendered to the management of the Normal School for the use of the Assembly Hall, and also for the kindness and courtesy of the staff during the convention.—Carried.

85c to $1.25 ASKED FOR POTATOES

Small Number of Farmers on the Market Square—They Have a Grievance

Only a small number of farmers were on the market square this morning and potatoes which was the principal offering brought from 85c to $1.25 a bag. Up in the market hall there was a good supply of eggs, butter and fowl and not much change was noticed in the prices.

Those farmers using the east side of the market square have a grievance. They complain that they are unable to back their waggons close up to the sidewalk on account of the miniature hill which extends out about two feet from the pavement.

This is a great inconvenience to the farmers and to intending purchaser and as this is a small matter which could easily be remedied it should be attended to at once.

MISSION BAND ENTERTAINMENT

Held at St. Luke's Church Last Night---Good Programme

The inclement weather last night interfered somewhat with the attendance at the annual Mission Band entertainment, yet the pleasantness and success of it was nevertheless all that could be desired. The first part of the evening was spent in the sale of the boxes containing useful articles, and the sale of candy, after which the following programme was given:

Instrumental, Mr. Kilpack.

Trip Through Our Pledge, Mission Band.

Vocal solo, Miss Quartermaine.

Instrumental, Miss Alice Neil.

Vocal solo, Miss Florence Scott.

Instrumental duet, Misses Elsie and Phyllis Dawson.

Vocal duet, Miss Georgie and Prudence Long.

The rector acted as chairman.

A pleasant feature of the evening was the presentation of a prize to Miss Greta Pakenham by the Diocesan Board, for attending every meeting during the year.

BEWARE OF OINTMENTS FOR CATARRH THAT CONTAIN MERCURY

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

ECZEMA LODGES IN THE SKIN

Not a Blood Disease -- Cured by Oil of Wintergreen Compound

For many years eczema was supposed to be a blood disease and was erroneously treated as such, but now the best authorities agree that eczema is only a skin disease and must be cured through the skin. The eminent skin specialist, Dr. D. D. Dennis, first discovered the eczema germ, and his discovery was quickly taken up in both Germany and France.

To kill the eczema germ and at the same time heal the skin, Dr Dennis compounded oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc. The remedy is a liquid, not a mere salve, hence it sinks right into the pores of the skin. Washing with this oil of wintergreen compound seems to take the itch away at once; soon the scales drop away and the disease disappears. The prescription has now been used so long as to have proven its absolute merit.

For free sample bottle write to The D.D.D. Laboratory, department P.R., 23 Jordan St., Toronto. For sale by all druggists.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

A military service will be held in St. Paul's church, at 9.30 to-morrow morning, and will be conducted by resident and visiting company chaplains. At eleven o'clock the regular church service will be held, when Rev. M.P. Talling, Ph.D., will preach on "God's Call to a Nation." At the evening service Dr. Talling will preach on "Sin and its Secrets."

NOT TO RETIRE

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Please insert the following:

"Dr. Sproule, grand master of the Orange Grand Lodge of British North America, writes to the Sentinel stating that the rumors that he has refused to stand for re-election have not emanated from him.

"While I have never sought the position, and do not now wish to be understood by this as seeking it, I would regard myself as unworthy of the position and ungrateful as well, did I not both to the society and those who placed me at its head, regard it as my duty, even though at my own personal inconvenience and discomfort, to place myself unreservedly in their hands and serve in any capacity the society chooses to place me—either in or out of the office. I have nothing but gratitude in my heart to our brethren who compose it, and a desire to aid in making it what I am sure we all wish it to be, one of the first and most important fraternal societies of the twentieth and succeeding centuries, and a great power for good in the world."

Yours, etc.,
CITIZEN.

PETERBOROUGH, ONT., CANADA, SATUDRAY, MAY 22, 1909.

PETERBOROUGH TO BE INVADED ON SUNDAY AND ON VICTORIA DAY

CITY WILL BE IN HANDS OF VISITING SOLDIERS WHO ARRIVE IN MORNING

Do not be alarmed if to-morrow morning before you are out of bed you hear the harmonious sounds of a brass or the shrill music of a bugle band, for at an early hour on the Sabbath Peterborough will be invaded. The invading party will consist of two regiments, the 19th Regiment, of St. Catharines, and the 38th Regiment of Brantford. They come of a peaceful mission, in fact they have been invited to come and the people of Peterborough intend making them heartily welcome while they are here. The visitors will be the guests of the 57th Regiment, and will take part in the ceremony of opening the new armouries. The officers of the 57th Regiment have made complete arrangements for the entertainment of the visitors, and they will not have a dull moment in Peterborough.

The Brantford regiment, about 400 strong, will arrive at the C. P. R. station about five o'clock to-morrow morning. They leave Brantford on a special train at 10.30 o'clock this evening.

The 19th Regiment comes in on the Grand Trunk and will arrive here about the same hour as the Brantford soldiers.

The 19th Regiment of St. Catharines is composed of six companies, and will be accompanied by its splendid brass and bugle bands. The total strength will be about 300.

The 38th Regiment of Brantford consists of eight companies, and it has also an excellent brass and bugle band.

On arrival the regiments will march to Victoria Park, where they will be camped during their stay here.

SOME PLACES OF INTEREST IN AND AROUND PETERBORO

Visitors Will Have Plenty to See—Some Interesting Information About the Lift Lock

While Peterborough has many places worthy of inspection by a visitor, the celebrated Lift Lock at the eastern extremity of Hunter street claims chief attention. The height of lift is 65 feet. This style of lock does away with the number and delay of a system of locks. The principle involved is that of an ordinary hydraulic elevator, the weight of one loaded pontoon or chamber being counter-balanced by the undisplaced water in the other, the load weight of each chamber in action being 1,300 tons. The view from the lift lock is one of the finest and most extensive in Peterborough. One mile north of the lock are the golf links, which will repay a visit from which the walk or drive towards the city, leading through the East Nicholls Park on each side of the river, is very pleasant. After a visit to the interesting collection in the Victoria museum in the park the street cars may be taken through the full length of the city to the southern end of the railway at the river, where boats and canoes are available for an hour or two. Returning, the street cars may be taken to Jackson Park, which is a picturesque spot, especially at night, when lighted up. The street railway runs to the Canadian General Electric Works, which are the largest of that description in Canada. A half-mile walk directly east will place the visitor in touch with the Peterborough canoe industry—the Canadian Canoe, the English and the Peterborough Canoe workshops being near together. The public buildings of Peterborough are not its chief attraction, but those worthy of a visit are the Collegiate Institute, at Central Park, the Normal School at the north end, reachable by street cars; St. Peter's Cathedral, George St. Methodist, St. Paul's Presbyterian and St. John's (Anglican), the view from the main door of the latter being exceedingly beautiful. After St. John's, a visit, if time allows, to the immense American Cereal (Quaker Oats) works in Hunter street would be of interest.

Victoria Gardens in the middle of the city is a pretty and pleasant spot for a rest.

There are many other points and places of interest, but they will appear in the course of the itinerary outlined above. For the young men the Y.M.C.A. and the T.A.S. rooms will no doubt prove centres of attraction.

Pleasant Memories Recalled

The coming of the 19th regiment of St. Catharines and the 38th regiment of Brantford to Peterborough recalls the splendid outings of the 57th regiment to the "Garden City" and the "Telephone City." The 57th visited Brantford on July 1st, 1906, and St. Catharines on July 1st, 1907. On both occasions the Peterborough officers and men were royally entertained and carried away with them the pleasantest memories of the hours spent in and around the two cities referred to.

The local officers and men will do their best on Sunday and Monday to repay the kindnesses shown them when they were the guests of the 19th and 38th regiments.

ATHLETIC EVENTS IN THE CITY ON VICTORIA DAY

There are many sporting events billed to take place in the city on May 24th and there will be such a varied assortment that every enthusiast of athletics will be able to witness his or her own particular branch of sport.

WALKING RACE

The big event for which everybody has been awaiting with great interest will be the walking race at the Brock street rink, which starts at 8 o'clock Monday evening. There is every indication that this affair will be as popular if not more so, than it was last year. The best peds. in the business headed by Willard A. Hoagland, will take part and there will be many local entries who should show up prominently.

HORSE RACES

For those who like the excitement of horse races a good programme has been secured and the matinee at the Exhibition grounds should be well patronized, as many fast steppers will compete in the numerous races.

LACROSSE GAME

The lacrosse match at Riverside between St. Catharines and Peterborough should result in a good exhibition of the national game. The St. Kitts outfit will bring a fast team and the contest will be well worth witnessing. The local team have been practising faithfully during the past few weeks and may be relied upon to do their utmost to get the big end of the score.

YMCA. TRIAL RACES

The trial races for the Business boys of the YMCA. will be held at the Oval at 9.30 am, and as some classy runners will compete the trials will be worth seeing. There will also be a 5 mile handicap, on a course which will be mapped out through the city. Many entries have been entered in this race which promises to be a fast one.

TENNIS

The tennis season will be inaugurated at the Nicholls Oval in the afternoon. This department of sport is becoming very popular among the young people of the city, and there will be many games played during the holiday.

BASEBALL

Several baseball games have been arranged for by the Intermediate and Junior League teams, and with such a big programme of sports there is no excuse why everybody should not enjoy themselves on the holiday.

MAJOR KER.
The Chaplain of the 19th Regiment And His Pet Dog "Bobs."

The Chaplain of the 19th Regiment is well and favorably known both in Eastern and Western Canada. The St. Catharines Standard of the 6th of April last had the following editorial comment:—

'A good deal has been heard recently in literary circles of our popular fellow citizen, the Rector of St. George's Church. His brilliant review work has attracted considerable attention from men of letters, and the St. Johns News, P.Q., of the 2nd inst., concludes a eulogistic article by saying that "it may be remembered that the Rev. Robert Ker, who is a brother of the Ven. Archdeacon Ker, of Montreal, was several years ago a resident of St. Johns. He afterwards went to Quebec, subsequently accepting the Rectorship of St. George's Church, St. Catharines, Ont. The Rev. Mr. Ker has long been recognized as a brilliant writer and an eloquent preacher.

PROGRAMME IN CONNECTION WITH VISIT OF REGIMENTS

The Events for Sunday and Monday—All the Regiments Will Take an Active Part.

On Sunday at 9 a.m. the 57th and visiting regiments will attend church at St. Paul's. At 4.30 in the afternoon the 38th regimental band of Brantford will give a sacred concert in Victoria Park and in the evening at 8.30 a sacred concert will be given by the 19th of St. Catharines in Victoria Park.

On Sunday morning divine service will be held at St. Paul's church and St. Peter's cathedral. The special preachers at St. Paul's will be Rev. Mr. Ker, chaplain of the 19th of St. Catharines, and he will be assisted by Rev. Mr. Ashton, chaplain of the 38th, Rev. Canon Davidson, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt and Rev. Dr. Talling.

The St. Catharines band will take the place of the choir at the services at St. Paul's.

At 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon the officers of all three regiments will be the guests at afternoon tea of Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., at his residence, "Moira Hall."

On Monday the 24th there will be a brigade parade and review by Officer Commanding Eastern Ontario at Riverside Park, also the "trooping of colors" by the 19th regiment.

At 11.30 the formal opening of the new Armouries by Hon. William Pugsley, Minister of Public Works, will take place. At 2 o'clock the steamers Stony Lake and Monarch will leave the Wolfe street wharf for trips over the lift lock.

A concert will be given by the 57th Regimental Band at 8 o'clock at Victoria Park and a banquet given by Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P., will be tendered the local and visiting officers on Monday evening at the Oriental, Hon. Wm. Pugsley and Col. Gordon, of Kingston, will be guests at the banquet.

The outside regiments will entrain at 10 p.m. on Monday, for their respective destinations.

Hon. Col. Major-General Frederick W. Benson, C.B., of the St. Catharines 19th regiment is a retired officer of the British Army. As Major of the famous 17th Lancers he enjoyed an enviable reputation. He is a native of St. Catharines and is a son of the late Senator Benson, of that city. He served for many years in India with great distinction. He is a cousin of his Honor Judge Benson, of Port Hope, and is a relative of the late John R. Benson, of Peterborough, whose residence was on the site of that now occupied by Mr. Richard Hall. Few of the large number of native Canadians who have been in the British service have had a more distinguished and creditable career.

AT TRAFALGAR

Nelson was admittedly the greatest admiral in history—the most skilful, the most far-seeing, and as brave and daring as any. And the British sailors who fought under him, officers and men, were probably as good sea-fighters as ever lived. But a single Dreadnought could annihilate the whole fleet that Nelson commanded at Trafalgar.—Montreal Gazette.

And yet there are people who would persuade us into building a lot of play things of our own when we can give something to an imperial navy that would have annihilated the great Nelson at Trafalgar.

THE FUTURE

It is a matter of wonder to English people that we in Canada are so demonstratively loyal. Loyalty never strikes them as necessary at home, for manifestly it is taken for granted that people will be loyal to themselves. With the colonies, however, it is, naturally, different. It is a case with them of being loyal to people other than their own particular selves. Then, too, there is always the dread of temptation and destiny. We balk at both. We wish to remain under the old flag. We delight in the thought of being a brick in the building of the British Empire. When that is accomplished we shall at one shrewd stroke have identified ourselves with the history of the British peoples. We will be no longer a young, although vigorous, lumberjack seeking our fortune in the back woods of the world. Who will be the first great leader over all the Britons, both at home and beyond seas, to guide them into the future of imperial unity for international purposes, while preserving their autonomy in their domestic affairs!

MEDICAL INSPECTION

It is beyond peradventure that a galaxy of school children is a choice breeding-ground for the microbe. One infected child may send hundreds to bed and tens to the grave. Inspection, by which we mean medical inspection of our school children, would remedy, or tend to remedy, defects at an age when they can be remedied. Decayed teeth are like swamps—the especial home and breeding-ground of disease germs. Distorted eyes may leave a child in ignorance and misery. Spinal defects, adenoids, etc., are commonly allowed at home to go till too late. In examining the pupils of a New York school, 67 per cent. were found with bad teeth, and a large percentage with other remediable, but dangerous defects. It is so easy to save teeth if taken in time, that it is a great pity to find tooth-decay allowed to flourish unchecked. It has been stated by a competent authority that fully 30 per cent. of efficiency in the pupils is lost for want of medical inspection. When the "complaint' a pronounced upon the family physician can do the most.

VICTORIA DAY

It requires no especial mark upon the sands of time to indicate the popular remembrance of Victoria, the Good, one of the best monarchs that ever sat upon a throne. Just, kindly, womanly and sincere she perpetuated in her reign the qualities most prized by her subjects the world over. The present generation grew up in the annual expectation of the Queen's birthday and in order to enable the people of the British empire still to celebrate the birthday of their queen of happy memory, King Edward waived the public celebration of his own royal birthday and gave us Victoria Day instead. While the love of the people not only of the empire but of the world is extended to her Majesty Queen Alexandra, in a remarkable manner, the reverence for the memory of the late Queen will never wane. God bless the Queen!

NAVAL MATTERS

The National Review has an able article by Mr D D Mann, in which he lays it down that the idea of the Times that we in Canada had better begin by being given a few old hulks of training ships to play with is not satisfactory. Obviously the Times takes little stock in our naval relations with Great Britain. We run a great risk of making these relations worse by having Sir Wilfrid give it out at the naval conference in London this year that we will look after our own navy. If this is not preparing for an independent national life in the future what is it. If our future is to be part and parcel of an empire the idea of a separate navy is not only absurd. It is impossible. Evidently in Great Britain they are "marking time" with respect to us. They do not know exactly what to make of us. Our "preference" is so deceiving. But it cannot deceive those here on the spot. If there is to be an imperial navy then we must contribute to it not to any navy of our own unless we think we can afford two as easily as one. The attack of the Courier on Mr Mann is in accordance with its general and indiscriminate support of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Mr. D. D. Mann is well aware of the fact that if a man does not realize his status and act up to it, he will fall back into childhood if not worse. It is a matter of great congratulation that so able and practical a man as Mr Mann has begun to concern himself with our national affairs.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Canon Cody says that the greatness of Canada as a nation lies in her future. That is very likely. It is so with

The triumph of the French Government over the strikers indicates a state of things that few believed to exist, viz., the stability of the Republic.

It used to be that there were no rats in Winnipeg. To say "Rats!" to that city was to speak in a foreign tongue. Now, however, that city is swarming with them. Rats are the greatest menace to health known.

Sir Wilfrid's scheme of letting us blow off our imperialism in a Canadian navy is a poor one. Most sensible people will decline the job. There is too much jiu jits about it. It looks like making us hold ourselves down.

The Review is indebted to Mr. Marvin Yerrington Calcutt, of Seattle, nephew of Mr. H. Calcutt, of Ashburnham, for a complimentary invitation to the Exposition. We thank him accordingly. It is likely that we will send a special correspondent.

We do not know Lt.-Col. Morrison, of Ottawa, personally, but his conduct in South Africa was such as was becoming both to an officer and a gentleman and we in company with all Canadians, extend our sincere and hearty congratulations to him upon this "auspicious occasion."

The Toronto University is the second in the world in point of attendance. The various colleges have erected residences for their students. The Knights of Columbus have undertaken that for St. Michael's, one of the colleges under the wing of Varsity. It is a great work and no doubt will be well done.

OF INTEREST

The Future of Japan by C. H. Hestis

We answer. "Certainly, for shall He not have the heathen for his inheritance and the uttermost parts of the earth for his possession!" The answer does credit to our Christian faith but we may support the answer of faith by the answer of reason. Hence the present article.

Three forces are working for the intellectual and spiritual redemption of Japan. The first of these is the old religion of Buddhism, which has of late taken a new lease of life; the second is modern science, which coming at a time when the mind of Japan was weary of the past, has exercised an immense influence over the intellectual life of the country; the third is Christianity. Each of these forces is contending for ascendency in the spiritual life of the Japanese, and each is making its contribution to the redemption of that life. But such are the natures of these forces that they cannot reign as a triumvirate; one of them must in the end attain the mastery and fulfil those splendid ideals already set in the old doctrine of Bushido, as Christianity has fulfilled the ideals of Moses and the prophets of Israel. Which shall it be? Is the answer of faith supported by that of reason?

Let us take science first. There are wise men in Japan, as elsewhere who say that religion is a thing of the past, that he who has art and science has a better thing than religion. I do not think we need spend much time over this assertion. Science appeals to the intelligence alone and man is not founded in the intellect, but in the heart and the will. The heart and the flesh of the Japanese crieth out after the living God as well as that of the Psalmist of Israel; and while the wise man will welcome science as a light to guide him in the midst of many of the perplexities of life, when he comes to face life's deepest problems he will seek that "kindly light" which alone can lead him home "in childlike faith, home to his God." This feeling after something better than scientific knowledge has been pathetically expressed by a brilliant young Japanese scholar speaking of his education, which was conducted apart from religion; "Whereas I asked for bread, my teachers gave me a stone; I sought after a fish, but they gave me a serpent; I longed for eggs, but they gave me scorpions." Modern Science will exercise an influence over the theology of Japan even more radical than it is doing in our own country but it will never take the place of religion in Japan or anywhere else.

The next great force is Buddhism; not the Buddhism of the past, for that has had its day and ceased to be, but the new Buddhism which is taking the form today of an eclectic religion, which seeks to combine in its cult all that is excellent in other religions, including Christianity. What is this Buddhism? If we divide religions into two classes, religions of culture and religions of redemption, we must place Buddhism with Christianity in the latter class. It also offers redemption to mankind. It offers peace and joy and the comfort of pardon to those who trust in the one eternal Buddha, who saves sinners by giving himself for them. It holds that man is sinful by nature that he has no power to save himself, and that only by the grace of Amida can he find salvation. So far it would be difficult to distinguish between Buddhism and Christianity; but here the likeness ends.

Buddhism says that salvation must be obtained by the extinction of desire; Christianity inspires and ennobles the desires of men; Buddhism would resolve all mankind into units living in blissful calm, in difference to one another; Christianity would make all mankind a brotherhood, linked to one another in a society of love and mutual service; Buddhism would undo the process of evolution, Christianity would quicken its movement. Buddha says, "Die that you may have peace," "Jesus says, "Live that you may live and work for others." There can be no doubt as to which of these forms of religion is in line with the goal to which humanity seems to be striving and which is destined to obtain the allegiance of human hearts in Japan, as in the rest of the world.

Now, what about Christianity in Japan. I write with a certain amount of diffidence here as one who has not had first-hand experience in the matter; but there are some things that to the student of the history of Christianity in Japan must be evident.

A number of things have worked against Christianity in its endeavor to gain the hearts of the Japanese. First and foremost was the old deep-rooted prejudice against Christianity as the "religion of devils," due to the unfortunate circumstances attending the introduction of Christianity in the sixteenth century by the Jesuits. This prejudice seriously handicaps the Christian missionary in Japan until he succeeds in convincing the people that the form of Christian faith which he has come to preach to them is not the cruel, intolerant Christianity which their fathers banished — and rightly—from their island empire.

Another thing that has hindered Christianity is the rationalistic spirit engendered by the study of modern science which became known to the Japanese chiefly through the works of Darwin, Spencer and other revolutionary writers. For this reason Christianity has not been readily adopted by the educated class. This is not to say that Christianity has not had its victories over minds of this class, for there are Christians in Japan of the highest culture. It means that Christianity, as it has been preached by the majority of missionaries, contains many scientific infelicities, which, while unquestioned by the missionaries themselves as a part of their life-long faith, seem unreasonable to minds which meet them for the first time, and, moreover, contradictory to science as they have learned it. Such teachings as the old conception of the Creation, the doctrine of the Trinity, the propitiatory death of Christ to appease the wrath of God, especially when preached in connection with the fatherhood of God, the second coming of Christ in the clouds of heaven, the orthodox teaching as to the origin of sin in the race—these and like doctrines the keen minds of the Japanese questioned and doubted. On the other hand, the doctrines of the Fatherhood of God, the brotherhood of man, faith in Jesus Christ as the one who can lead men to God and goodness, the presence of the Spirit of God in the human heart, have met with a ready and joyful response when intelligently and sympathetically presented.

The conclusion is obvious: Japan will become Christian, but the theology of Japanese Christianity will not be that of traditional orthodoxy. Harnack, in his brilliant lectures on "the Essence of Christianity," concludes that Christianity is Jesus Christ and His Gospel. What is the Gospel? It is, says Harnack, "eternal life in the midst of time, in the strength and before the eyes of God." It is "divine sonship spread out over the whole of life, an inner harmony with God's Kingdom, and a joyful certainty in the possession of eternal good, and in confidence of protection from evil." It is probable that Christian theology in Japan will emphasize those experimental truths of Christian faith to the exclusion of much of a more philosophical character which has been called orthodoxy in the past. At all events, we may be sure of this, that not Buddha, but Jesus, is the light of Asia, as of the world.

GOT TO THE ROOT OF HIS TROUBLE

And Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured W. Wright's Backache.

He Had Suffered for Several Years But the Old Reliable Kidney Remedy Gave Him Quick Relief.

Kelvington, Sask., May 21.—Special.—"Yes, Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me of backache, and I have recommended them to others who have also been cured!" These are the words of William Wright, a farmer well-known here. "I believe I inherited my trouble," Mr. Wright continues. "At times for several years it was very severe. I also suffered from Lumbago and in the morning I had a bitter taste in my mouth and was troubled with dizziness, and my skin was dry and harsh and there was a sediment in my urine.

"No treatment I could find gave me any permanent relief till finally believing that my kidneys were the root of my trouble, I determined to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. Four boxes cured me."

Mr. Wright went at his trouble sensibly. He examined his symptoms, and they showed him that Kidney Disease was his trouble. Do as much for yourself, and if your symptoms point to disordered or diseased kidneys, the cure is easy. Dodd's Kidney Pills will do the work. They never fail.

This room was lighter than the library, having a large transom window, through which the sickly moonlight forced its way, and possessed an additional advantage to the girls by reason of the billiard table, which could be kept between them and their visitor.

At Miss Renwyck's low call the man flashed his lantern twice across the library window and stepped into the billiard room, carefully closing the door behind him.

"Now," he began immediately, taking a packet from his pocket, "we can get down to business. But before I take the money which Miss Chittendon is kindly going to lend me for a month or two I want to make an explanation of my act."

"Sir," whispered Harriet, "I do not consider that at all necessary. You explained yourself in your letter, and neither Miss Chittendon nor I desire to go further into your motives. Please be good enough to bring your extraordinary business to an end."

"But, my dear Miss Renwyck," the visitor persisted, lowering his voice to match her own, "you must admit that something is due me. I present myself in a very bad light before both of you, and I want to clear myself before I go. Appearances are against me, I know, but"—

"What's that?" demanded Harriet, sharply starting at a slight noise which at first she fancied was in the hall.

"Nothing, I think," Mr. Fitzgeorge answered hurriedly after listening for an instant. "Ah, this is it!" he went on, swiftly stooping and apparently picking up something from the floor. "I stepped on a stray piece of billiard chalk. As I was saying just now, I've got to leave for the west immediately to join my regiment"—they could feel his mocking smile even if they could not see it—"and, to be absolutely truthful, which I prefer, some of my friends, the police, are on my trail. That's why I am obliged to come at night. I hope I haven't frightened you ladies, and I beg to assure you that I wouldn't harm a hair of your pretty heads for any price whatever," continued this extraordinarily loquacious rascal.

"Yes, yes," said Harriet impatiently, "we know all that. Give me the letters and go."

"Pardon me," said the specious Mr. Roderick Fitzgeorge, with a gallant bow, "but I haven't quite finished yet. I want you to understand my position clearly, so that you may know I'm dealing squarely, though a harsh world outside is dogging my innocent heels."

The much abused gentleman plunged into a rambling tale of his misfortunes, speaking so rapidly that neither of his auditors at times could follow him even if they had not been in a state bordering on collapse, although Harriet, the cooler of the two, wondered why the villain did not take the money and go.

Had a watcher been concealed in the library he might well have understood the motives of Mr. Roderick Fitzgeorge, or Mr. Jack Bibbs, for both names, among many others, chanced to appertain to the same attractive gentleman. No sooner had the door of the billiard room been closed when another form rose stealthily above the library window sill, stepped noiselessly inside, crossed the room and dropped on his knees before Mr. Renwyck's safe. The man was of medium height and slender build, wearing a mask over the upper portion of his face. But his chin and jaw appeared beneath the band of black, showing a pale, putty-like complexion.

In his work upon the safe this second nocturnal visitor did not resort to force or violence. He was far too old a hand to use such primitive means, nor did he wish to arouse the household by any sudden noise. He pressed a practiced ear against the iron safe door, then turned the dial slowly with a feather touch till at last he was rewarded by a faint metallic click as the delicate tumbler dropped into its slot. By the aid of his electric flash lamp he made a mental note of the number, indicating his starting point. Then he replaced his ear and reversed the dial as carefully as before. Again he heard the warning click.

"Left to sixty, right to thirty-five," he murmured to himself and bent to his work once more.

He tried four numbers, that being the usual combination of smaller safes, then confidently turned the dial to the right. He scored a blank. The work must now be done again, though not from the beginning, for three at least of the numbers were known to him. Twice more he tried and failed both times, but at the third attempt the dial locked and the outer door swung open when the nickel plated handle was softly turned.

The rest was simple. The burglar produced a bunch of skeleton keys and in less than two minutes had forced the lock of the inner door, which opened with a rasp of protest to the pilferer.

The man with the putty-like complexion overhauled the contents of the safe by the aid of his flash lamp, selected such valuables as seemed to be the least bulky, but most important, and stored them in several capacious pockets. This done, he carefully closed and locked the inner doors of the rifled safe, pressed upon the outer door, adjusted the nickel handle in its proper place and spun the dial of the combination lock.

For a moment the burglar listened to the low murmur of his confederate's voice in the adjoining room, smiled sardonically and slipped stealthily through the open window. Outside he crept to a point beneath the window of the billiard room, cried out in imitation of a vagrant cat, then, crouching, fled in the direction of the river, with the cases of the famous Renwyck diamonds tapping deliciously against his ribs.

CHAPTER XVIII.

UPSTAIRS the music of Mr. Renwyck's sonorous slumbers still oozed through the chinks of his bedroom door, while at the farther end of the hall another closed on the sleepless Mr. Richard Williams.

The young man had heard the clock strike 3 and was still pursuing his train of tangled thought when it occurred to him that perhaps if he read for half an hour his mind might become composed enough for sleep. He remembered a partly finished book which he had left in the billiard room and started downstairs to get it. With a natural disinclination to disturb the household, he tipped very cautiously through the hall, down the flight of carpeted steps and approached the billiard room, which, like the library, was separated from the lower hall by heavy curtains. These he was about to draw aside when his outstretched hand was suddenly arrested by the sound of a voice within. It was masculine and belonged to no inmate of the house that he could recognize; also it was subdued, as one who feared to be overheard. What he heard assured him that some rascality was afoot.

"It's money I'm in need of," the voice was saying, "and that's why I took the risk of coming here alone in the middle of the night."

Richard's hand slid instinctively to his hip before he remembered the absurdity of fashionable clothes. Clearly there was some one in the room who had no business there. Yet to whom was he talking? If a member of the household, why this secrecy? He must investigate, of course. But first he had better arm himself, as he did not know who or how many he might have to deal with.

His mind once made up, the Texan removed his slippers, crept softly up the stairs to his room, then down again, pausing once more outside the billiard room, but this time listening deliberately.

"Mr. Fitzgeorge," a woman's voice was saying, "my patience is exhausted. Why all this talk? Your scheme is blackmail—nothing else. Give me the letters, take your pay and go."

With a stab of pain the Texan recognized the voice as Miss Renwyck's, and it came with a double pang at the thought that she was meeting some unknown rascal in the dead of night—that she was buying letters from him.

"What letters?" his heart questioned jealously. He longed to rush in and kill the miscreant in his tracks, yet wisdom held his mad design in abeyance for the present. He peeped through the heavy portieres and spied two female figures on one side of the billiard table, while that of a man was on the other side, with his back toward the library door, but with his face half turned toward the spot where the Texan waited.

"Very well," whispered the man again. "I guess you are playing fair, all right." He took a package from his inner pocket. "Here are your letters. Have you got the money?"

"Yes," said Harriet softly; "I have. But wait. I must see that the letters are all here. Imogene, look over them as quickly as you can. I am afraid to turn on the light, but perhaps Mr. Fitzgeorge will be kind enough to lend us his lantern."

"Well, say," chuckled the visitor quietly, "you've got your nerve with you, all right! I'm sorry I didn't meet you before." Again he laughed noiselessly, produced his bullseye and threw a blaze of light on the pile of letters which he laid upon the table. "Look 'em over, Imogene, my dear," he continued, with unblushing familiarity. "That's every one you ever wrote me."

With a thrill of pleasure the Texan caught this last remark. The letters, then, were not Harriet's, after all, and she, brave girl, had dared to face this scoundrel in order to shield a friend. He could wing the fellow as he stood. But no. That would alarm the house and undo everything which this splendid woman had striven to hide. He could wait, and if the fellow offered no affront he would let him go rather than mortify Miss Renwyck by his own appearance on the scene. When the man was safely gone the Texan could then slip quietly to his room, and these two courageous girls would never know that a sentinel had stood guard outside the door.

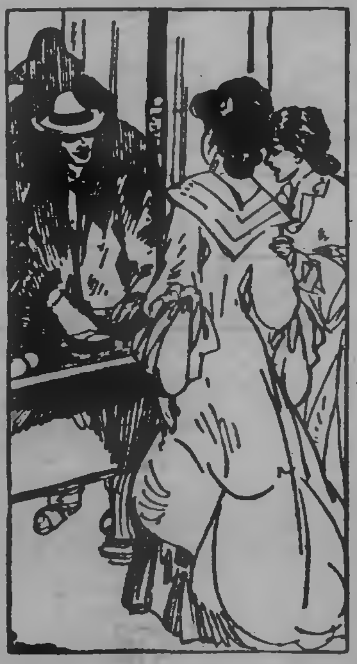
Miss Imogene opened each letter to make certain that it was there, counted the pile and looked up timidly.

"They—they are not all here," she faltered. "I—I wrote fourteen, and here are only twelve."

"That's all I got," said the burglar shortly. "You never wrote but twelve."

"But I did," protested the trembling Imogene. "You know I did, Rod—er—I mean Mr. Fitzgeorge. Oh, Harriet, won't you make him give me the other two?"

"Yes, I will," said Harriet firmly.



"Look 'em over, Imogene, my dear," he continued.

"Mr. Fitzgeorge, we have acted in good faith toward you and expect at least a fair return. You demanded $100. I have the money here in my hand, but I tell you once for all that I shall not pay you unless you surrender all the letters to this child."

"I haven't got any more," the burglar answered sullenly. "And, what's more, I"— He paused at the sound of a cat call from without and began fumbling in his pockets. "Why, here you are!" he exclaimed in well feigned astonishment, producing the missing letters. "I didn't know I had 'em, I swear I didn't. Take 'em, my dear. Pay up and we'll call it quits."

"And—and you won't publish the copies?" quavered Miss Imogene as though terrified at the sound of her own whispers.

"No," said the man; "I give you my word as a gentleman," with a singular misapprehension of the meaning of the term. "Hurry with the dough. It's getting late."

Assured that the letters completed Miss Imogene's indiscreet list, Miss Harriet tossed a roll of bills in the circle of light which was made by the bullseye lantern.

"You would better go now," she said in a tone of disgust which she made no attempt to disguise. "I will close the window after you."

The man counted the money hurriedly, slipped it into his vest pocket and closed the slide of the lantern.

"Thank you," he murmured, with a most elaborate bow. "I'm much obliged to both of you. Rich people like you won't ever miss a little sum like this, and it will make me remember you for many a day, even without the recollection of your pretty faces. You've been square by me, and I'll be square by you. And now one kiss all around, and we'll say good night."

"You scoundrel!" breathed Harriet, furious to her finger tips. "Go instantly or I will call for help."

"Oh, no, you won't, my beauty!" laughed the man. "I'll bet you've kissed uglier men than me before, and I'm going to take you down a peg. You holler once and I'll shoot the man that comes to help you."

Miss Renwyck, with the limp and whimpering Imogene clinging to her waist, moved slowly around the billiard table, while the burglar watched her, breathing hard and following with a catlike tread. He had taken perhaps six steps, and his back was now turned toward the door which led into the hall. Suddenly he felt a savage grip about his neck and found himself with outflung arms, his mouth and nose smashed flat against the table, while a tiny ring of cold steel was pushed behind his ear.

"Steady, you hound, or I'll give you a shot that you never saw in billiards!"

The tone was low, but masterful, and Mr. Jack Bibbs was far too prudent a gentleman to jeopard his health by futile disobedience. Therefore he made no immediate attempt to move.

On Harriet's brain, even in that dreadful instant, flashed a vivid, insistent memory. Again she was perched on the quivering broncho's back, pressed onward in a reeling, dizzy pool of death, while in her ears rang words of sweet encouragement. And as then she had exercised her force of will, so now she saved herself once more by clapping her hand over the mouth of fair Imogene. This time it was muscle combined with common sense, and a healthy shriek was throttled in its infancy.

Richard released his grip on the nape of his prisoner's neck.

"Stand up!" he ordered, and the man obeyed. "Hands up too! Ah, thank you! Perhaps you also have a gun. Allow me to relieve you of its weight." He ran his free hand over the person of Mr. Fitzgeorge and secured a short, ugly looking pistol and a pair of brass knuckles, both of which he promptly pocketed. "Good!" he chuckled. "And now, Miss Renwyck, will you please be good enough to throw some light upon this gentleman?"

"Yes," whispered Harriet; "I think I can explain in"—

"No, no!" the Texan interrupted. "I don't mean words. I refer to the bullseye lamp. Just turn it on him, please, and we'll look him over."

Miss Harriet complied. The light revealed the countenance of Roderick Fitzgeorge, alias Jack Bibbs, alias twenty other names which have no bearing on this comedy. His clear cut but dissipated features were distorted and sullen in his rage against the women whom he thought had laid a trap for him.

"My, what a prize package!" observed the Texan softly. "You have a bad eye, my friend; but, after all, I'm rather glad to know you. Miss Renwyck, do you think you could find me a rope or a piece of good, strong twine?"

"Oh, what is he going to do?" Miss Imogene began to whimper. "Oh please, Lord Croyland, won't you let him go? He's my friend. We let him in the library window, and if you tie him up everybody will know all about it. Oh, oh, oh!"

Once more sharp symptoms of hysterics threatened to develop, and Miss Harriet's most persuasive powers were taxed to avert an alarming outbreak.

"Hush, dear, hush!" she whispered soothingly, then turned to Richard. "Lord Croyland," she said, "there are circumstances connected with this strange affair which prevent me from explaining fully. Tomorrow, when Imogene and I are less nervous, perhaps we can make you acquainted with the reasons. For the present I beg you to let this man go quietly. We have nothing more to fear from him."

Richard hesitated, glancing from Miss Harriet to the prisoner.

"Of course, Miss Renwyck," he answered regretfully, "I must bow to your judgment, though in my opinion you would better allow me to turn this fellow over to the police. I imagine they would be inordinately glad to see him. But—just as you like. There is one more little matter, however, which I must insist upon." He turned to the prisoner. "This young lady," he said, quietly pointing to Miss Imogene, "has paid you a somewhat exorbitant price for her own rightful property. Oblige me by returning the amount."

"Oh, no, no; let him keep it!" begged the victim, but Richard was obdurate upon this point.

Mr. Roderick Fitzgeorge, having accomplished the real object of his visit, was glad to be released at any price, especially as the disposal of the letters was merely a device for entering the house and holding the ladies while his confederate rifled the safe. Without more ado he took the money from his pocket, tossed it upon the billiard table and turned to the library door.

"One moment," Richard demanded. "Miss Renwyck, turn this light upon him, please. Thank you. Now on me. I want this gentleman to know me if we chance to meet again."

After a moment's silent scrutiny the Texan spoke in a stern but level voice:

"My friend, I am forced to let you go this time, though sadly against my inclination. You owe your release to the kindness of the ladies. The next time the affair will be mine. If you ever molest them again in any way I'll settle with you in a way we make use of in Texas. You understand? You are marked, my friend. I'd know your bad eye in Jericho. Yes, and I'd follow you there, too, for the pleasure of wringing your worthless neck. Now apologize to these ladies, then git!"

In Richard's present tone there was no suspicion of an English drawl, and Harriet marked it joyously, though half unconsciously, for the strain of fear and anxiety was now beginning to tell upon her nerves. Miss Imogene was ready for complete collapse, and the two stood trembling in each other's arms.

THE STORY OF A SOCIETY GIRL

HOW THE FASCINATING MRS. DOLLY BROOKE SKY-ROCKETED INTO THE SMART SET

TOLD TO RITA WEIMAN

(Copyright, 1909, by the New York Herald Co. All Rights Reserved.)

AFTER the affair of the baron we went abroad and for a time I was spared the annoyance of meeting him. The day we left, however he was well represented by a cluster of roses which I flung overboard directly we had pulled into midstream. My mother, who caught a glimpse of the flowers shooting through the porthole, characterised my mild method of restoring self-respect as a vulgar exhibition worthy of a chorus girl.

I was pleased to death to find dear old Dick at the pier to see us off, though my mother's hand was extended to him as to a stranger, and she remarked that it was quite unnecessary for him to tear himself away from his office for so long. She never has been able to reconcile herself to the fact that her son, who could be such an attractive ornament to society, should prefer the law and semi-Bohemian set of intellectuals for companions.

More than once when my brother has graced our box during the performance of a Puccini or Verdi opera—the two composers he most enjoys—and girls have taken to visiting me in astonishing numbers, he has disgraced himself by rushing off for a word with some friend in the circle or gallery. And often as we've come in I've heard his hearty laugh of welcome, and looking back, have seen his broad, strong shoulders bending over a little foreigner—the kind that do things. Yes, certainly, Dick has always been too big in every way for the sphere into which he was born.

I can see him now, coming up to us that day on the pier, his gray eyes, with their peculiar black rims, snapping as he thrust into my arms a huge bunch of American Beauties that reached quite to my shoulders.

"To the only American Beauty in this world for me," he whispered laughing, "and by the way," he called as he hurried off before the vessel steamed "there's a surprise waiting for you below stairs, little man killer."

The surprise proved to be an ivory charm, a tiny bald Japanese boy, so finely carved that each feature was perfect. The card attached read mysteriously, "You have the scalp, so please accept the mutilated man." I, of course, labelled it one of Dick's little tricks to give my mind a lively game of hide and seek throughout the voyage, and immediately posted him a card—"You haven't succeeded in giving your sister brain fever, dear boy. She knows of only one man clever enough to think of sending her the darling Japanese she's going to wear constantly in memory of the jolliest luncheon party of her life."

I had paid a second visit to Dick's offices the day before and had luncheon with him and Mr. Stead and Harrison Keating, who joined us at the Lafayette Brevoort. We had a table framed in a French window overlooking the square, and the sun smiled in on us and the waiter suggested the plats du jour in caressing French, and altogether it was well worth the cross questioning I had to submit to on my return home.

We landed in England and motored to London, where we left my father. The wife of the American Ambassador was to present my mother, myself and Helena Penning at the third court, and Nella joined us in Paris, where all three gowns had been ordered. Not that a presentation gown is at all interesting; we had been supplied with a list of rules and regulations that would have made a tenement house landlord hide his face for shame. The only item, it would seem, in which one can go as far as one pleases is in the matter of price—and then one generally goes further.

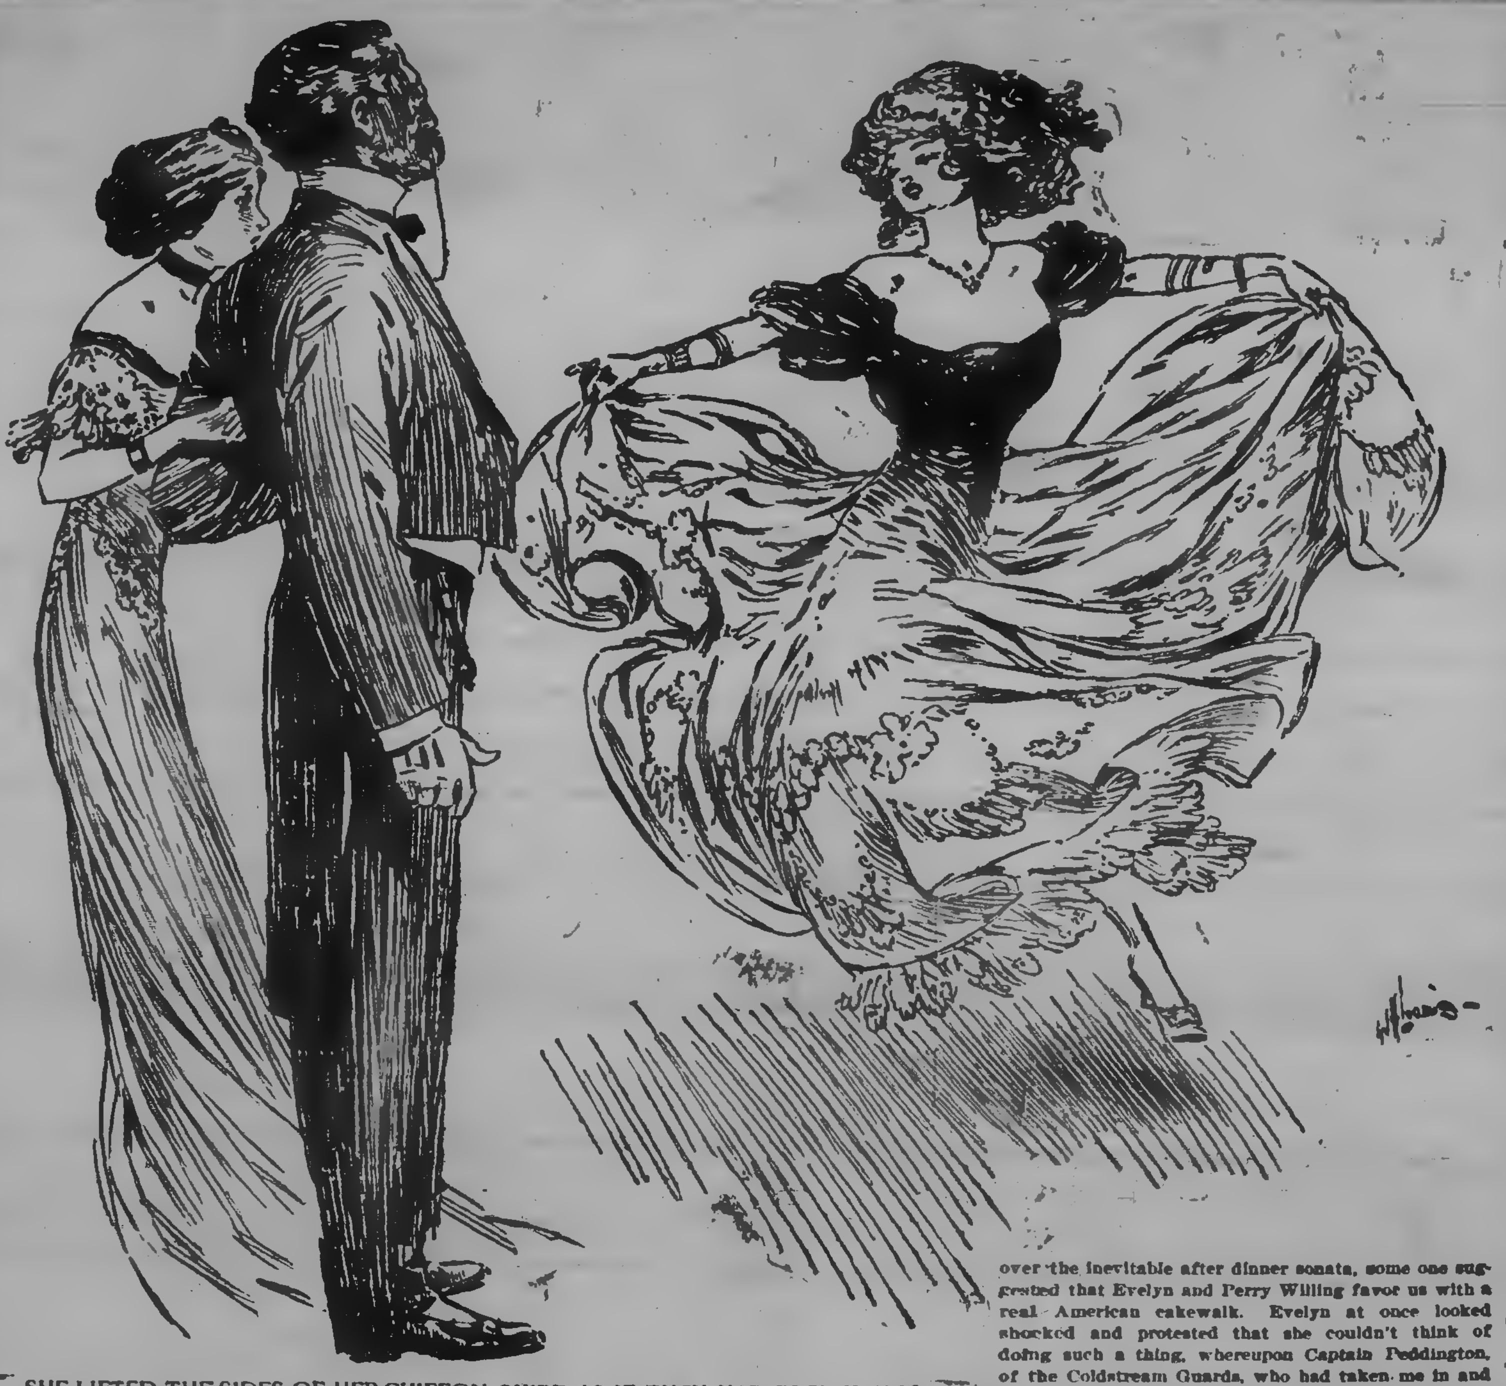
Nella arrived in Paris with her own father and a delightful widow from San Francisco. I say "own father" advisedly, for the arrangement of Nella's family formed rather an interesting combination Mr. and Mrs. Grant Haywood, whose daughter she was, had been divorced in Nella's infancy. Mr. Haywood had then married Mrs. George van Kirk, herself but recently divorced, and Nella had gone to live with her mother, who later carried out her designs on Rutherford Penning's confirmed bachelorhood and likewise appropriated his name for her daughter. It's all rather like a game of chess, I know, but like that, one gets used to playing it after a time. You'd imagine that with such a multiplicity of parentage poor Nella would scarcely have had to look into strange quarters for a chaperon. Nevertheless, when she reached Paris with Mr. Haywood—with whom she travelled so seldom that many did not even know he was her father—they had with them Mrs. Dorothy Brooke, the daintiest powder puff of an up to date marquise.

Mr. Haywood was most devoted and anxious that his daughter should be seen about a lot with her new companion. I couldn't help wondering whether he was contemplating a divorce from his present wife in favor of the mysterious little widow. For she was mysterious. Helena knew nothing about her save that Mr. Haywood had met her some time ago at Colorado Springs and later in New York and the quick enthusiasm that balanced Nella's moods of cynicism had at once been set aflame by the lady's charms.

Girl with Shining Eyes.

The first time I set eyes on Mrs. Dolly I had a strange feeling that somewhere, somehow, I had seen or met her before, but it was so fine a thread of memory that too much stress snapped it and ere long I was sure I had been mistaken. She was young and blond, so blond that her hair seemed a mingling of silver and gold. But the eyes in her flower face were black and lit like sparks, and her voice was bright and full of life like them, suggesting at times just the suspicion of a strange accent. I was as wild about her as Nella, and she realized our hopes by making a tremendous hit in London. In Paris she had taken us about with her, explaining that she knew the gay city well, having been educated at a convent close by. "Besides," she laughed, "San Francisco is the Paris of America, and like young Lochinvar, you know, I've come out of the West."

It was our great regret that she could not be presented with us, though Nella confessed to me she didn't think the presentation worth the price of her gown. She had felt, she said, as though she were going to her own funeral and no hope of heaven beyond, that she had been in mortal dread of tripping over her train, and that her knees got so mixed when she made her obeisance she was surprised she hadn't gone over head foremost. Her one consolation was that the court train would make a stunning evening cloak, providing her father—Rutherford Penning this time—could be persuaded to supply ermine enough to line it.



SHE LIFTED THE SIDES OF HER CHIFFON SKIRT AS IF THEY HAD BEEN WINGS.

As for myself, the brilliance of the scene went straight to my head, and Sir John Colburn told me afterward that the King wanted to know more of the "American girl with the shining eyes." Of course, the magazine of town talk had that in black and white two weeks later, and I'm rather suspicious the London representative got it direct from my own mother, with Sir John to vouch for its authenticity.

Evelyn Taghern-Steward, whom we met in London, had submitted to the latest Parisian treatment at which most of us had balked even though the little Frenchman who coiffed me for an affair at the Embassy had informed me pityingly that "black hair was not being worn this season." Evelyn's dark brown tresses had become a shining aureole and her large lips a danger signal, and Nella observed wickedly that if she smiled her habitual width her complexion would be sure to crack. It's a colossal undertaking, this making over of the hair to suit the fashion and the lips to suit the hair, and the face to combine with the lips—rather like the man who, having received the gift of a pair of andirons, began by doing over his fireplace to fit them and ended by rebuilding his entire house.

Mrs. Taghern-Steward had in tow a Parisian banker who, she informed me gleefully, had piloted her and her husband through the grimiest quarters of the French capital.

"Jimmy says," she laughed, "that when we get home he's going to have the billiard table covered with glazed flooring—he's sure that's the only place I'll want to dance."

It was at a dinner party at Lady Isabel Giddon's, and later, when the company had taken to yawning over the inevitable after dinner sonata, some one suggested that Evelyn and Perry Willing favor us with a real American cakewalk. Evelyn at once looked shocked and protested that she couldn't think of doing such a thing, whereupon Captain Peddington, of the Coldstream Guards, who had taken me in and overheard her remark, screwed his glass into his eye and observed that it was a pity Lady Giddon did not have a billiard room.

Mrs. Dolly Brooke, however, did dance that night, and it was the beginning of her London success. She lifted the sides of her chiffon skirt as if they had been wings and floated into the centre of the room like a golden butterfly. It was a revelation, the most delicious pas seul I've ever seen, and Nella's eyes glowed with delight. The effect on the men in the room was electric. The Hon. Cecil, Lord Giddon's son and hopeful, transferred his affections on the spot from an American show girl he'd about made up his mind to marry to the lithe, dainty creature swaying and lilting like an animated poem. Perry Willing predicted fireworks for her when she should land in Newport, and Captain Peddington said he wouldn't be surprised to discover that she was the natural daughter of Lola Montez.

The Haunting Belief.

There was something strangely haunting about the delicate figure in its shimmery draperies, and the feeling that I had seen her at some time or other recurred persistently. But I wasn't anxious to ask questions—the mystery of her was fascinating. My mother, I am sure, would have been more circumspect had not Mr. Haywood's and Nella's introduction of her been in itself an open sesame.

But, knowing with that and English approval as a background Newport would tumble head over heels in its efforts to entertain the new recruit, my mother hastened to lead the ranks and Mrs. Dolly made her initial bow in the ballroom of our villa, beautifully decorated—both Mrs. Dolly and ballroom—for the occasion.

Needless to say, fancy dancing became the rage that season and the following winter in New York, when women flitted about in everything from ballet to bedroom slippers.

Mrs. Dolly's first New York appearance was at a dance given for Nella by Mr. Heywood. It was a daring move on his part, and of course neither Mr. nor Mrs. Penning accepted an invitation. The present Mrs. Haywood never troubled herself about her husband's daughter, and so Mrs. Dolly graced the receiving line with Nella, Mr. Haywood and myself. She wore a gown like a jewel—all shaded, silvery green spangles bounded by masses of sea foam chiffon and topped by the glistening shoulders of a marble Venus. One sleeve was formed of interlaced strands of emeralds, the other was merely floating pale greenish gauze, apropos of which Perry Willing was heard to say that it was remarkable how much dress could be held up by so little, and Evelyn Taghern-Steward replied sotto voce that Nella probably would be "held up" for the entire affair. Nella wore white and silver and I white and gold, variations of the white, pale blue and pink to which girls seem to be limited. If I were to die a spinster at the age of sixty and wanted to retain my reputation of respectability I think my wardrobe of evening gowns would still have to contain only that maiden trio.

Captain Peddington was there and Jean Geraud, the French painter, who had come over on the same ship. Captain Peddington protested that he had followed me from London to meet and match swords with the bounder who had sent me the little ivory Japanese chap. M. Geraud asked almost at once whether he might paint my portrait, in the hope, no doubt, that my father could be persuaded to buy it when completed. When he had my promise for a few sittings, he glanced over to where Mrs. Dolly was gliding through a Strauss' waltz with Carleton Deane dreamily, rhythmically, as Strauss must have meant his music to be interrupted. He measured her curiously from tip to toe and turned to me a peculiar light in his eyes.

"Mademoiselle Haywood's"——he began.

"Penning, you mean," I corrected.

"Ah?" He lifted his eyebrows interrogatively, but was too thoroughly the French gentleman to question further. "Mademoiselle Haywood-Penning," he went on serenely, "has a most attractive friend. Mrs. Brooke is her name?"

I nodded.

"She—is—American,"

"Doesn't she look it?" I asked, hesitating to let him know how very little I could tell him about Dolly Brooke.

"I should say—not quite. But then," he laughed, "she looks more like a nymph who should be floating, hair all unbound, on the top of a wave. It is odd," he mused, "that is the way she comes to me, strangely familiar, a mermaid with hair floating on the green water."

"Never of Common Earth."

"When you see her really dance sometime," I laughed, "you'll swear she's a creature of the air."

"And is she never of the earth?" was his question which might have meant any of many things.

"Never of common earth," I responded, and changed the subject.

But later, when the final figure of the cotillon had left a carpet of rose leaves on the floor and the guests had scattered for a buffet of scrambled eggs, salad and coffee before leaving, I caught a glimpse of Dolly Brooke and M. Geraud wandering toward the conservatory strangely absorbed for that of mere acquaintances.

"Nella's picked a winner," said Carley Deane as we happened into an adjoining room, and Dolly's scintillating green gown shimmered through the leaves on the other side of the glass doors. "She can dance through life in my arms all right."

"She'd have plenty of chances to change partners if she did," I replied, "but get me some punch and I'll drink to your success."
